WINCHESTER FOR ALLEN AND BUTLER

Voted for Repeal of State Liquor Law and to Return Warren and Bateman to Congress

In the midst of the big Democratic tidal wave which swept Ely and Coolidge to victory, Winchester maintained its standing as a Republican town by casting a substantial majority vote in support of Governor Allen's candidacy to succeed himself, and by voting to send William M. Butler to the Senate; though in the second instance by less convincing figures. By the slim margin of nine votes Winchester voted for the repeal of the Baby Volstead Act, this being the first instance in the town history when local sentiment has been expressed in opposition to prohibition.

The town also supported the candidacy of its present representatives in the State Senate and General Court respectively, Charles C. Warren of Arlington and Thomas R. Bateman of Winchester. Senator Warren defeated Charles T. Daley in Winchester by more than two to one, while Mr. Bateman's majority was nearly three to one over his fellow townsman, Edward F. Maguire.

Winchester repudiated the candidacy of one Republican when it supported Charles F. Hurley, Democratic candidate for treasurer over the Republican, Fred Jefferson Burrell. The fact that Mr. Hurley polled 2213 to Mr. Burrell's 1872 in a Republican town like Winchester is significant.

The total vote cast here was 4618 out of 5861 voters. Two years ago in a Presidential year 4880 votes were cast, and four years ago 2878 votes were recorded. The town, however, did not have so many registered voters in 1926 so the difference in that instance is not surprising.

Local election officials believe Winchester's vote on Tuesday was a good one. The last returns were made to Town Clerk Mabel W. Stinson at 8:30 and at 9:20 the final tabulatin was completed. The polls closed at 6 p. m. and as usual Precinct 4 was the first to announce its results. The election officers were served dinner at noon at the Food Shop on Church street and in the evening sandwiches and coffee were served at the Town Hall.

In general it was a quiet election. There seemed fewer than usual about the polls, though the women were active during much of the day. Congressman Frederick W. Dallinger and Attorney General Joseph T. Warner polled the highest vote cast in Winchester, each receiving 3068. Governor Allen polled one vote less, getting 3067. The anti-steel trap law was overwhelmingly supported here, the affirmative vote of 2858 exceeding the opposition by about three to one.

Precinct 3 with 862 votes led in the number of ballots cast, the other precinct returns being: Precinct 1, 802; Precinct 2, 759; Precinct 4, 772; Precinct 5, 724; Precinct 6, 699.

The complete vote by precincts follows:

WURTH—SHULTIS

At a simple ceremony in the summer home of her parents at South Newbury, N. H. last Saturday afternoon, Nov. 1, Miss Ruth Van de Bogert Shultis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Shultis of Winthrop street, became the bride of Walter Albert Wurth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Wurth, of Maplewood, N. J. Rev. Benjamin Patterson Browne, pastor of the First Baptist Church, performed the marriage ceremony at 3:30 in the broad living room against a background of autumn foliage, yellow chrysanthemums and evergreen. Only members of the immediate families and a few intimate friends were present.

Miss Shultis was given in marriage by her father and attended by her sister, Miss Katherine Shultis of Winchester. Roland Cooke of Montclair, N. J., was best man.

The bride wore a formal afternoon gown of midnight blue, trimmed with cream lace, and carried a bouquet of Madonna roses. Her attendant wore a similar gown of rose beige and cream lace and carried Talisman roses and larkspur.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held and a buffet luncheon, served by the dining room which was effectively decorated with white chrysanthemums and white and silver ribbons. Upon their return from a wedding journey Mr. Wurth and his bride are to make their home in Orange, N. J.

The bride is a graduate of the Cambridge-Haskell School and of Connecticut College for Women. Mr. Wurth is a graduate of New York University.

HOME FOR AGED PEOPLE IN WINCHESTER

The officers and directors of the Home for Aged People in Winchester have chosen Thursday, Nov. 13 from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m. for the annual reception, sale, and donation day. Cake, candy, marmalade and an attractive collection of fancy work will be on sale.

The goal toward which the directors are working this year, is the painting of the Home. All cash donations and amounts realized from the sale will be used for this purpose.

The public is cordially invited to be present and enjoy a social hour. Tea will be served.

Donations of flour, sugar, vegetables and standard household supplies will be gratefully received.

Patricia Croughwell, Esther Loftus and June Pettinell gave a very successful Hallowe'en masquerade party last Thursday evening. The prizes for the best costumes were won by Jean Beach and Andrew Young.

JOIN THE RED CROSS NOV. 11-25

The Winchester Red Cross again appeals to every man, woman, and child to support the Red Cross in the coming annual membership drive, Nov. 11-25.

The demands upon the Red Cross this year have been heavy. While no major disaster has occurred, the national organization and the chapters have been on constant duty in various sections of the country.

Ninety catastrophes, including tornadoes, floods, fires, mine explosions, forest fires, etc., occurred in 38 states.

A fund amounting to $106,976 was expended for aid in winter floods in Arkansas, Illinois, Indiana and Missouri.

A relief fund of $135,000 was raised for victims of tornadoes in the Mid-West when 11 lives were lost.

Assistance afforded to service and ex-service men by home service workers in camps and hospitals cost on an average $13,271 monthly. Recreational and educational events in camps and hospitals numbered 29,381 and service and ex-service men or their families who were assisted by the Red Cross averaged each month 14,553.

Winchester has aided in a number of cases of human distress the details of which, for apparent reasons, cannot be published.

We could go on and on quoting figures like these but, needless to say, haven't the space.

No matter how little extra money you may feel you have this year, there are others much worse off than you. We hope you will do your utmost, therefore, to have every member of your household join the Red Cross in Winchester during the period Nov. 11-25.

Several Families Poisoned From Food

Several families in town, including nine nuns at St. Mary's Convent and the family of Rev. Benjamin Patterson Browne, pastor of the Baptist Church, were attacked by ptomaine poisoning early this week. While a full report has not yet been made it is supposed the attacks were caused by food.

The victims were in all instances extremely sick for a short period, and have all recovered at this time.

Physicians called, notified the Health Department and Inspector Dinneen in turn called in the State Board of Health, the food coming from an outside source. The department's report has not been made at this time.

The affair caused considerable comment about town and by yesterday the number of persons affected had been set at from 37 to 47, the cause being laid to the town water, owing to a short interruption in the high service supply necessary to replacing a pipe on Highland avenue.

It is stated that the town water was in no ways to blame, and as all of the victims ate one article of food, it is assumed this was the cause.

PASSION PLAY AT CRAWFORD MEMORIAL CHURCH

Dr. Harvey Hadlock brought the Passion play of Oberammergau to the Methodist Church on last Wednesday evening through a beautiful series of pictures. Dr. Hadlock has seen every presentation of this great religious drama since 1910. Included among the pictures of this year were several of the characters of the play as it was enacted in 1922. By showing those as well as the pictures of this year, he was enabled to point out not only the beauties of the play but the changes that are made from season to season. Though not fully decided as yet, there is a strong likelihood that the Passion play will be enacted during the year 1934, the 300th anniversary of the inauguration of the great religious drama.

FLORIDA JUBILEE SINGERS AT FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Wednesday Evening at 7:45

The Florida Jubilee Singers, under the leadership of Mr. N. W. Collier, will sing Plantation Melodies at the mid-week service on Wednesday evening in Ripley Chapel, First Congregational Church.

The Florida Jubilee Singers are probably the finest colored quartet in the country today and have delighted large audiences all over the eastern part of the United States.

They sang for Mayor and Mrs. Collis while they were in Winchester recently, and have also recently sung before Governor Allen.

The melodies which they are to sing on Wednesday evening have been specially chosen by Dr. Chidley as his favorites and include "The Gospel Train," specially arranged by the quartet. Other old, familiar melodies will be included.

The general public is invited. Mr. Wabeke will conduct the service and speak on "Self Realization."

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Announcement is made of the engagement of Alice A. Fenton of this town, and Albert Johnson of Joliet, Ill. Miss Fenton is Advertising Manager of the New England Laundries. Mr. Johnson is secretary-treasurer of the Laundryowners National Association, whose executive offices are at Joliet.

BAPTIST CHURCH WELCOMES MISSIONARY HOME

At a crowded service last Sunday evening, Miss Lydia Jennie Crawford, medical missionary at the Baptist station at Suifu, West China, was given a warm welcome on her return. She has been located at this same station for about 15 years, and is now home on her furlough, having taken over three months to make the trip.

Music was furnished by the Salvation Army Band under the direction of Brigadier Hargraves, and consisted of familiar hymns, in which the congregation joined in singing.

Owing to the sudden illness of the pastor, Rev. B. P. Browne and his whole family, as a result of poisoning, Mr. Browne was unable to attend and take charge of the service, much to the disappointment of all.

The welcome of the church was extended by the church moderator, D. C. Linscott, who first of all impressed on the members what a remarkable occasion it was, in that they were not only welcoming their fellow-member back from the mission field, but a fellow-member who had been in China with all its dangers from revolutions and bandits, and had remained at her post when all were ordered out of China, until the very last moment, and was the first to return when the ban was removed. In welcoming Miss Crawford he said in part, "We welcome you back from far-off China and are very grateful that you have not only been spared from all the dangers of bandits and warring factions, but also from religious persecution. We assure you that while you have been gone you have been remembered week by week at the services of the church, first by Mr. Walcott, who was pastor when you left Winchester the last time, then by Rev. Mr. Brougher who served as acting pastor after Mr. Walcott, and more recently by our present pastor, the Rev. Mr. Browne. We know that you have had many times of encouragement, and we also know that you have had times of disappointment, but we feel sure that you have always been supported by the feeling that you were serving under One who did not know defeat—One who would protect you and guide you."

"Men often times go to war even for a lofty ideal,—'to save the world for Democracy'—'to save the union' —'to prevent unjust taxation;' but they have to wade through rivers of blood and see awful devastation and wanton destruction among their foes as well as agonizing suffering and even death among their own comrades.

"While you, Miss Crawford, have engaged in the Christian warfare and have seen comfort come to those in need, relief to those in suffering, and light to those in darkness. I venture to say that there have been times when you have felt that you were in the presence of God himself when the miracles of salvation were taking place right before your eyes. We shall be glad to hear all about your experiences."

Miss Crawford related to the happenings that had occurred while she had been away; the going of some of the sainted members of the church, the rallying of the members resulting in the pledging of over $200,000 for the new church, and the construction of the beautiful house in which the service was held.

Then, with the congregation standing, Mr. Linscott formally extended the welcoming hand to Miss Crawford and presented her with a bouquet of roses in behalf of the church.

Mrs. Charles A. Burnham then extended the greeting from the women of the church and spoke as follows:

"It has been such a pleasure to listen to Deacon Linscott's words of welcome to you, Miss Crawford, first, because of their sincerity and second, because they voice the sentiments of each one of us, so truly. While we women are, of course, included in his welcome, we feel that we would like to say a word just for ourselves."

"Each week your name is printed on the front page of our calendar, as our missionary in China, but we hardly need this reminder, as you are almost constantly in our thoughts, and are by your consecration and devotion to the work of the Master, a source of inspiration and help to us who are trying to do His will here at home. We watch your progress with such keen interest, and our prayers for you and your work and your safety I am sure are answered. For have you not carried on in His name, in the face of great difficulties and disappointments, the work He has set before you?"

"We rejoice with you as we watch together the fruition of your labors, and we want you to know how glad we are that you are in the homeland once again, all safe and well, where we may look into your face, and feel the touch of your hand, and hear your voice; you, who so bravely replied in answer to His call, "Lord here am I, send me,' and turned your face towards that far distant land that 'His Kingdom might come and His will be done on earth as it is in heaven.'"

"We do welcome you home so sincerely and with loving hearts, Jennie Crawford."

Miss Crawofrd then responded, thanking the church and the women of the church for their warm welcome and assuring them that she had appreciated while being away all their kind thoughts and prayers. She felt sure that she would not have been able to accomplish as much as she had if it had not been for the moral support of her friends at home.

She then explained very clearly about conditions in China and gave her own opinions as to the future of China.

She said that we must give China a chance to find herself; that it took France many years to find itself and found a lasting republic. We must give the Chinese an equal chance and they will surely succeed. She said that on her return from Shanghai after her enforced absence, she was gratified to find how well the Christian Chinese had carried on in her absence. Most of them had been faithful in spite of much persecution through which she saw evidences of an encouraging future for the Chinese. She also spoke of the disruption caused by the Russian Reds.

At the close of the service Miss Crawford, assisted by Mrs. Burnham, held an informal reception, and many lingered until a late hour.

NEW CO-OPERATIVE BANK BUILDING

The proposed new building for the Winchester Co-operative Bank, a sketch of which appears in this issue, is to be erected on Vine street, just west of the location now occupied in the National Bank Building.

The proposed building will have an approximate width of 38 feet on Vine street and a depth of 70 feet.

The Vine street front will have a base of dark Quincy granite and above, buff Indiana limestone, with metal sash and actinic glass in the large panel. The building will be of fireproof construction. A somewhat conservative interpretation of so-called modernistic treatment has been adopted by the architect.

Entering the building through a vestibule on Vine street one steps into the main banking room, which is about 35 feet square and 25 feet high —amply lighted by large metail sash windows in both front and rear walls. The space for the public extends along the right side of the banking room and the Treasurer's office and the working space, which are located on the left, are separated from it by low counters. To the rear of the banking room and on the same floor level, is the bank vault, machine and filing room, director's room and attorney's room, with the usual provisions for toilet rooms, stairs to basement, etc.

The heating of the building will be provided for by a system in which concealed radiation and an automatically controlled oil-burning boiler will be used. Suitable provisions for ventilating and air-moistening have been included. Sound deadening will be employed on the walls of the machine room, and elsewhere as required. An incinerator for burning waste papers, etc., will be installed in connection with the boiler.

The Building Committee expects to arrange for night illumination of the building front by flood light. It is honed, in this way, to make a substantial artistic contribution to the interest of the Common and the adjacent streets.

The construction of the building is in charge of a building committee composed of John Challis, chairman; Raymond Merrill, James J. Fitzgerald, Curtis W. Nash, Ernest R. Eustis.

The architect selected by the committee is Edward R. Wait, whose work is already represented in Winchester by the building designed for the Winchester Trust Company and the Fire and Police Buildings.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

The regular meeting for November will be held next Thursday evening.

The regular semi-annual concert at the Holy Ghost Hospital will be held on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 23 at 2 p. m. The State Guild will conduct a matinee whist and bridge at the Copley Plaza Saturday afternoon, Nov. 15. Tables may be reserved by calling V. R. Anna DeCourcy, Win. 0075-M and Regent N. Ambrose, Win. 0565-W.

COMMUNITY RELIEF

On Monday, Nov. 3, in the Calumet Club house representatives of the following organizations met to consider Community Relief in Winchester:

Methodist Church
Unitarian Church
Baptist Church
St. Mary's Church
Congregational Church
Synod Church
Red Cross
Winchester Rotary Club
Winchester Lodge of Elks
Catholic Women's Guild
The Fortnightly
Public Welfare Board

It was voted to organize a permanent committee to be known as the Citizens' Community Relief Committee, whose duty would be to handle all relief work in Winchester and to check all cases so as to avoid duplication and prevent the overlooking of any worthy case.

Mr. Geo. T. Davidson was elected chairman and Mr. Nathaniel Nichols secretary for the ensuing year.

Efforts are to be made to have all churches and fraternal societies represented on committee.

CHAMBER ADVOCATES CLOSING ON ARMISTICE DAY

In an effort to learn whether local merchants are to observe Armistice Day by closing their establishments on Tuesday the STAR consulted President George F. Arnold and Secretary Ernest H. Butterworth of the Chamber of Commerce last evening.

Both advocated the closing of all stores on that day, and President Arnold stated that since Armistice Day is a national holiday the Chamber deemed it unnecessary to take an individual poll of the merchants in the matter of closing. He believed the stores should and would close on the holiday.

WINCHESTER POST HELD PRE-ARMISTICE DAY BANQUET

Legionnaires turned out in large numbers last evening for the Pre-Armistice Day banquet at the Post headquarters. G. Warren Johnston was in charge of the banquet which included turkey and "all the fixin's." A brief business meeting was presided over by the new Post Commander, Major Wade L. Grindle. Plans for Armistice Day and for the big night before dance to be held in the Town Hall were discussed, as were also the preparations for the big parade which is to be staged in Woburn on the holiday. Commander Grindle introduced the speaker of the evening, Col. Harry G. Chase, State Quartermaster, who gave a most interesting address.

Miss Eleanor Ives, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Manley Ives of Highland avenue, was among those elected to membership in the Vincent Club at the club election last week Thursday. Miss Ives is to make her debut on Dec. 8.

COMING EVENTS

Nov. 7, Friday, 3:30 p. m., Fortnightly Hall, Wellesley Parent-Teachers' Association will hold a tea.

In accordance with our usual custom, all new subscriptions to the STAR received up to the first of the year, will be given a January first dating. This offer applies only to new subscribers who have not previously taken this paper. Subscribe now and receive the remaining issues this year free.

WINCHESTER GIRLS' A. A. TO PLAY TWO GAMES

Winchester Girls' A. A. field hockey team will try to break into the win column tomorrow afternoon when it meets Lexington in a Boston F. H. A. match on Manchester Field at 3 o'clock. The locals lost a 1-0 verdict to Lexington in a previous game away from home and are out to even scores on Saturday.

Armistice Day at 10 o'clock, the Winchester girls meet the Motley Club in an association match on the playground, and this should turn out to be a good game. All Winchester needs is practice, and better combination play to hold its own with most of the Boston Association teams. Individually the girls have a good club, but lack of opportunity for practice has retarted its development. More and more interest however, is being shown and improvement is bound to come with better attendance at practice sessions.

It is hoped that a good crowd will turn out both for Saturday's game and on the holiday. The effort of the A. A. to provide sports for girls beyond school and college is commendable and worthy of support.

MESSAGE OF THANKS FROM CHARLES T. DALEY

I desire through the columns of the STAR to express my deep gratitude to all the Democratic and independent voters of Winchester who gave me their vote for State Senator at the election last Tuesday.

I also take this opportunity to express my warm personal appreciation of the loyal and generous support and assistance rendered to myself and the other Democratic candidates at the State election and during the hard campaign of the last few months by many hundreds of friends, personal and party workers. They have given unsparingly of their time ability and energy to promote my election to the State Senate from the Mystic Valley District.

The cause I represent and the principles I stand for are well worth fighting for, regardless of any personal victory.

I shall be at the service of that cause in the future as in the past.

Charles T. Daley,
Democratic Candidate for State Senator, 6th Middlesex District
55 Summit Road, Medford

WINCHESTER AT WATERTOWN SATURDAY

Winchester High School's foothall team will journey to Watertown Saturday afternoon for a Mystic Valley League game with Watertown High on Victory Field at 2 o'clock.

Watertown is not the usually strong aggregation that has represented the Arsenal town in former years and on paper at least are hardly good enough to win from the locals.

TOWN TEAM IN HOLIDAY ATTRACTION

Local football fans will have a second opportunity to see the undefeated Winchester Town Team in action on Armistice Day when "Archa" Amico's boys will take on the strong Minute Boys' elem of Lexington at 2:30 p. m. on Manchester Field. With the high school idle on the holiday it is expected that a big crowd will be on hand to see the "Townies" strut their stuff.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Newhall of Medford are the parents of a daughter, Nancy, born last week at the Cambridge Hospital. Mrs. Newhall was before her marriage Miss Ruth Winn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Winn of Swan road.

REV. CHARLES L. MITCHELL

Rev. Charles L. Mitchell of this town died Sunday morning after a brief illness at Deland, Fla., where he had gone for the winter season.

Rev. Mr. Mitchell was the only son of Dr. Chauncey Leeds Mitchell, one of the founders of the Long Island College Hospital, and of Caroline (Langdon) Mitchell. He was born in Brooklyn, N. Y. in 1845 and was graduated from Yale with the class of 1866. Following his graduation from Yale, he entered Andover Theological Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1870.

He was ordained into the ministry of the Congregational Church at Little Valley, N. Y., in 1871, and there held his first pastorate, holding but two more during his years of active service, in Wysox, Pa.; and at Sedalia, Mo.

In 1871, Rev. Mr. Mitchell married Miss Margaret B. Tenney of Methuen who died in 1905. Forty-one years ago he came to Winchester and had since made his home here, taking during the more active years of his life a prominent part in community affairs.

He is survived by a daughter, Miss Lillie C. Mitchell, and by a son, Chauncey L. Mitchell, both of Winchester.

The funeral will be held this Friday afternoon at the late residence, 4 Summit avenue, with the Rev. Howard J. Chidley, pastor of the First Congregational Church, officiating. Interment will be in Wildwood Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Crowley of this town sailed Sunday on the S.S. Scythia from Boston for Queenstown and Liverpool. Mr. Crowley, who represents A. Forbes & Co. Ltd., of Calcutta, exporters of hides and skins has made 27 Atlantic voyages, has been around the world twice and has gone through the Red Sea and Suez Canal 14 times.

HALLOWE'EN GENERALLY QUIET HERE

Hallowe'en slipped by very quietly so far as Winchester was concerned, inclement weather aiding the effective efforts of the police force in keeping the exhuberance of youthful celebrators well within bounds.

Many parties about town kept a large proportion of the youngsters off the streets, and those who were out and about found the patrolmen very vigilant in suppressing any mischief which threatened to become malicious.

To be sure there was damage done, but the complaints were not so numerous nor so urgent as in years past. Superintendent Harry W. Dotten notified Headquarters that two youngsters had broken the lanterns placed at a trench on Cambridge street, and at 9:40 Patrolman James E. Farrell discovered that a gang of boys had broken a window in the rear of a house on Water street.

Two panes of glass were broken in a garage on Dunster [illegible] after 6 o'clock the p[illegible] move a plank which ha[illegible] the road on Main st[illegible] street. About 7:30 [illegible] another trip to remove a plank from a roadway, this time at Brookside avenue, and it was necessary to send officers to the Old Chapin School and to Kelley & Hawes Company to put a curb on some boys' idea of a good time.

A complaint from a resident of Everett avenue who was being bothered by boys was followed by the report that a large pane of glass had been broken in a house on upper Main street. The mail box was broken off at a Ridge street home, and a gate was pulled from its foundation at a Yale street residence. A Highland avenue householder complained that her clothes reel had been pulled up and broken, and six pigeons were stolen from a residence in Rangeley. Some damage was done to a gate on Hillside avenue and a resident of Holland street complained about boys smashing the fence at his home.

There were no alarms of fire and no arrests recorded. Both police and fire officials stated that the night was one of the most peaceful on record, though there are probably citizens here and there about town who won't agree with them

Miss Katherine Shultis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Shultis of 14 Winthrop street, will act as an usher at the series of four concerts arranged by Connecticut College, at the Lyceum Theatre in New London. Miss Shultis is a member of the junior class.

FROST—MOUNTAIN

At a candle-light service in the Ripley Memorial Chapel of the First Congregational Church last Saturday afternoon Miss Dorothy Mountain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Ronald Mountain of Woodside road, became the bride of Lore Alford Frost, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lore E. Frost of Derry, N. H. The pastor of the church, Rev. Howard J. Chidley, D.D., performed the marriage ceremony in a simple setting of palms. Mr. J. Albert Wilson, church organist, played the wedding music.

Miss Mountain was given in marriage by her father and had as her honor attendant her sister, Miss Pauline E. Mountain of Winchester. Another sister, Miss Marjorie D. Mountain of Winchester, was bridesmaid with Miss Marion Garnett of Edgewood, N. J.

The best man was Joseph A. Frost of Derry, N. H., and the corps of ushers included John C. Weinbeck and Edward C. Bower of Lowell, Waldron G. Low of Derry, N. H., and Edwin L. Marsden of Spencer.

The bride wore a wedding gown of ivory satin with a long tulle veil and carried a white prayer hook in place of the conventional bouquet. Her honor attendant wore tangerine point d'esprit and carried an old fashioned bouquet. The bridesmaids carried the same flowers, and also wore frocks of point d'esprit, one yellow, and the other blue.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents who assisted in receiving with the mother of the bridegroom. The house decorations were autumn leaves, palms and evergreen. After a wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. Frost will live in Lebanon, N. H., where they will be at home after Dec. 1.

The bride is widely known in Winchester, having served for the past three years as secretary of the First Congregational Church. Mr. Frost is a graduate of the University of New Hampshire where he was a member of Phi Mu Delta, Phi Lambda Phi and Delta Chi. He is associated as assistant manager with the Grafton County Electric Light and Power Company of the New England Power Association at Lebanon, N. H.

THE AMERICAN RED CROSS

The quota for Winchester Red Cross this year is 2000 members. We secured this enrollment last year. Will the people of Winchester help us do it again? The Winchester Chapter has done and is still doing a great deal for the less fortunate citizens of the town. Considerable money and time has been spent for families needing temporary relief and this work must go on all winter.

Part of the $1 membership goes to the National Organization, but a gift of a larger sum so designated will be used to carry on our relief work and bring back a double blessing to our Town of Winchester. Thanksgiving is near and beyond that is Christmas —and please remember there are a great many empty coal bins right now.

Our Treasurer, Mr. Wm. Priest at the Winchester Savings Bank will be glad to receive donations. Won't you help your Red Cross Chapter go over the top and carry on?

CALUMET NOTES

Calumet teams defeated Towanda of Woburn in the Mystic Valley League last Monday evening 16—11, winning on the alleys and pool and billiard tables, and losing everything at cards. The two clubs were very evenly matched except for cards. Calumet first team divided honors in bowling, losing the second string by three points and winning the total by an equal number of pins. The second team won the first on a roll-off and lost the third by two pins. Priest was high roller with 135 and 344. Butters took the straight pool match, Hayden the cowboy and Reynolds the three-cushion contest. Towanda took straight billiards and cards.

The next match in the league will be here at home again, when Calumet will cross swords with the strong Middlesex Club of Arlington. This organization, the outgrowth of the old Arlington Boat Club, has good players in every department, and interesting contests are anticipated for this coming Monday evening.

Next Friday evening, (Nov. 14,) there is to be a dinner bridge at the club opeing at 6:30 p. m. sharp. As an added attraction there will be shown moving pictures of Winchester's big Tercentenary celebration and parade. With dinner, bridge and moving pictures, the evening's program should be such as to attract every member, and it is therefore important that all planning to go, send their reservation card to the committee by Wednesday. It is announced that absolutely no reservations will be granted Friday, and those who are inclined to wait until the last minute are going to be out of luck. The movies of the parade are very fine.

Owing to the election coming on Tuesday this week, the ladies' afternoon bowling was postponed until today (Friday). Bowling for the ladies takes place every Tuesday afternoon at 2:30, and already the number of ladies who are enjoying this healthy exercise and sport are growing rapidly in numbers. New bowlers are especially invited to take part. A special system of handicapping gives them every chance of winning the prizes. Guests are welcomed. The committee of ladies in charge of the bowling is composed of Mrs. Vernon H. Hall, Mrs. Forest L. Pitman and Mrs. Robert E. Lincoln.

DR. CHARLES E. TOZIER WILL GIVE TALK

Citizens Invited

Doctor Tozier will present the beautiful slides of his much talked about trip to Jamaica last summer, at the Baptist Church, Friday evening, Nov. 14 at 8 p. m. The occasion is the ladies' night of the Everyman's Class. All men of the town and their ladies are invited to be present and enjoy another of Dr. Tozier's rare treats. The subject is "The Land of Morgan the Pirate and Governor."

Harry C. Sanborn who was also on the trip with Mrs. Sanborn and his son, Frederick, will be a partner in the presentation and will add to the attractiveness of the evening.

Refreshments will be served at the close. This is an occasion that should not be missed. Dr. Tozier has had numerous requests to show these fascinating pictures.

Miss Joan Harding of Framingham formerly of this town, placed fifth in the children's horsemanship class at the Boston Horse Show last Saturday.

If the fight staged in connection with last Saturday's football game between Winchester and Melrose High Schools opens the eyes of the Mystic Valley League officials to the fact that the organization is badly in need of more competent officiating, the mixup may yet turn out to be a blessing in disguise. The need for better officials is not confined to the Mystic League by any means. There seems to be a general dearth of capable schoolboy arbiters, and this in the face of an ever increasing interest in the game. With his own better knowledge of football the average fan is becoming more and more impatient with loppy officiating and the schoolboys, better coached and grounded in the fundamentals of the game, know when the contests are not being handled according to regulation. Schoolboy football is being taken much more seriously by many more people than formerly, and so it is the more urgent to have important games between real rival teams handled by men not only well versed in rules as stated in the rule book, but also able to apply the rules instantly as occasion requires upon the field of play. Winchester and Melrose are great rivals, and last Saturday's game was one of the objective battles of the current Mystic League season. The officials should have known this, and also that feeling between the clubs was at high pitch. Matters should never have been permitted to go so far between the individual players as to precipitate the fight in the third quarter which narrowly escaped being a riot. "Dun" Smith, local tackle, was the goat of this particular fracas and from the sidelines throughout the game previous to the scrap, it was apparent that he was taking plenty from the visiting players. He has taken plenty in most of the games this season, and we don't deny that there have been times when he has returned as good as he received. On such occasions the officials have never been backward about slapping on penalties, yet they have been singularly unobserving in the many instances when the Winchester boy has been on the receiving end of unnecessarily rough handling. No player likes to think he isn't getting a square deal, and no player of Smith's ability and strength is going to stand roughing indefinitely. The Winchester tackle was doing his best to stay clean, hard football last Saturday. Every Mansfield coached boy has to do that if he wants to stay in there. He had not drawn a penalty in two quarters and during the entire previous game had not been penalized. If, as claimed by Melrose, he had been guilty of unnecessary roughness, and if, as stated in some press reports of the game, he had been repeatedly warned by the officials for illegal playing, then those same officials were lax in failing to impose suitable penalties. No player should be repeatedly warned for unnecessarily rough playing. Penalties should follow the first warning, and must if the game is to be kept within bounds. We, of course, have the Winchester version of how last Saturday's fight started. Personally we believe it is the correct one. We saw two Melrose boys battling with Smith, yet neither of them was sent from the game. A visiting player was ordered from the field to be sure and presumably he was connected with the fracas somehow. If three officials, close to play on the field can see only one of three boys involved in a fight, with another, then they haven't the grip they should have on an important football game. Winchester fans did not resent Smith's being ordered from last Saturday's game, but they did resent deeply the fact that two Melrose culprits should have accompanied him to the sidelines were permitted to remain in action. The fact that one of the visitors claimed to be trying to stop the fight should have been disregarded. It isn't up to officials to hold court on a football field. Any one taking a punch at a player, even in the interests of peace, should be removed from the game, and if this had been done last Saturday, an ugly hangover would have been averted. Mystic League football has been singularly free from trouble in past years, but last Saturday's blowup is an indication that it is by no means trouble proof. It's up to the officials to guard against the recurrence of such trouble by giving every player in the league on every field around the circuit a square deal, and no more. And it's up to the heads of the league to see to it that those hired to officiate the games are as capable as can be procured of doing the job they're hired for.

WELL KNOWN ARTIST IN WINCHESTER FOR THE WINTER

Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit A. Beneker and family of Truro, are occupying the Poinier house, 15 Calumet road, until next June.

Mr. Beneker, an artist of national reputation, spent last winter in Philadelphia where the owner of a chemical plant commissioned him to paint a series of portraits of some of the older employees who had served so long in building up that business. These portraits are now hanging in the clubhouse for the employees as a recognition of service.

Technology Review for October featured an article by Mr. Beneker on "Art as an Aid to Industry."

WINCHESTER HARRIERS WON AT HARVARD

Took Class B High School Title with "Bob" Winchester Individual Star

Led by its unbeaten ace, "Bob" Winchester, the Winchester High School Cross Country team closed a most successful season last Saturday by winning the Class B High School championship in the annual Harvard fall interscholastic cross country racing at Soldiers' Field, Cambridge.

The local team won from Beverly, Concord, Braintree, Cranston, Somerville, Stoneham and other high schools, having the impressive total of 62 to 86 for Beverly, its nearest rival.

"Bob" Winchester, unbeaten this fall and the holder of several course records, took the lead in the Class B race at the gun and was never headed. The race was over a 2½ mile course around the Stadium and Winchester's winning time was 13 min. 59 secs. The local youngster was not extended to win, finishing a good 50 yards in front of Lawrence of Concord who was second.

The contest for individual honors during most of the race was between Winchester and Gilbert of Somerville who was literally run into the ground by the local boy and fell exhausted ten yards from the finish. Lawrence of Concord passed Gilbert before he could pick himself up and he had to be content with third place.

Stalker of Winchester placed fifth and right behind him came the local entrant, George McCormack. Corby of Winchester was 19th, Kenneth West, 31st, Bowler, 32nd and little "Dick" Pettingell, 35th.

The announcement that the Winchester team had won was made between the halves of the Winchester—Melrose game and was loudly applauded, all appreciating the fine work done by Coach "Mel" Wenner and his boys during the entire season.

CONGREGATIONAL WOMEN HELD ANNUAL BAZAAR

The annual fall bazaar of the Woman's Guild, Mission Union and Western Missionary Society of the First Congregational Church was held Wednesday from 10 a. m. until 8 p. m. in the parish house under the direction of Mrs. Walter H. Blacke, Mrs. Frank H. Knight and Mrs. Harold A. Smith, general chairmen.

As usual the small individual rooms of the parish house were trans-formed into intriguing little shops with the orientals displayed in the spacious ladies' parlor. Most of the booths were arranged in the form of a square in the upper hall, and were unique little summer houses with black and white striped tops and latticed ends, gaily decorated with colorful paper flowers.

There were movies for the children during the afternoon under the direction of Miss Barcarra Fernald and from 3 to 5 there was afternoon tea in the tea room with Mrs. Percy Bugbee in charge.

At 6 o'clock the Church Deacons and Prudential Committee were hosts at an informal supper for Dr. and Mrs. Howard J. Cudley, in honor of the 15 years' successful pastorate of Dr. Chidley at the church.

Following the reception 385 guests sat down to the annual parish supper, served in the large hall of the parish house by a caterer and after doing full justice to a tempting menu those present were entertained with the presentation of three one-act plays under the direction of Mr. Clifford Cunningham.

The plays were interesting and very well done, the casts being as follows:

Rose Windows (by Stark Young) Mrs. Ronnis Nickerson Hawkins, Miss Margery Mellen, John H. Irish, Gilbert Potter.

Taxi Miss Bertha Kelley, Basil Barwell.

Shall We Join the Ladies (James M. Barrie) Miss Margaret Wyman, Miss Doris Lawson, Miss Joy Adriance, Miss Jennette Smith, Miss Nina Richardson, Mrs. Dorothy Wills, Gilbert Potter, Basil Barwell, Maurice Dolbier, Kenneth Hutchinson, Clifford Cunningham, P. Milne Blanchard.

Following is the complete list of chairmen for the bazaar:

Advertising Mrs. George F. S. Bartlett
Books, White Elephants Mrs. George Hamilton, Mrs. Alonzo Woodside.
Candy Mrs. C. Harold Smith
Children Mrs. J. W. Worthen
Christmas Wrappings Mrs. Wendall Pray, Mrs. R. A. Hull.

Tickets for Supper—Mrs. Fred Scales, Mrs. Maurice Brown.

POLICE CHIEF WILLIAM H. ROGERS FETED

Police Chief William H. Rogers was guest of honor at a complimentary banquet and reception, tendered him last evening in the Hotel Manger, Boston, by 100 of his close friends.

Chief Rogers has as his personal escort Chief Charles McCauley of the Woburn Police Department, and after a reception commencing at 6:30 o'clock dinner was served at 7. The invited guests were Supt. Michael H. Crowley of the Boston Police Department, his son, Arthur Crowley, an officer in the Superior Court; George B. Rogers, brother of Chief Rogers; Judge Jesse W. Morton of the Woburn District Court, Clerk of Court Charles G. Loring of Woburn, Probation Officer John Walsh of Woburn, Senator Gaspar G. Bacon, Capt. Daniel J. Canty, U. S. A., retired, of Woburn; and J. Paul Canty.

Captain Canty served as toastmaster and those who responded were Judge Morton, Senator Bacon, Rep. Bateman of Winchester, Clerk of Court Loring, Probation Officer Walsh, Chief McCauley of Woburn, Capt. Timothy Leahy of the Cambridge Police Department, George C. Gavin of Brookline, Edward H. Kenerson of Winchester, Whitfield L. Tuck of Winchester, George W. Perkins of Boston, William H. Cullinane of Boston, William E. Ramsdell of Winchester, former Selectman George M. Bryne of Winchester, William H. McMullen of Winchester, Patrolman John E. Hanlon of the Winchester Police and Arthur T. O'Leary of Winchester.

A solid gold chief's badge was presented to Chief Rogers by Superintendent Crowley, on behalf of the gathering and Lieut. Robert L. Douglas of the Cambridge Police, Station 3, presented the chief with a gold pen and pencil set. A framed photograph of the Police Department under the late Chief William H. McIntosh and a souvenir program book with a hand painted picture of Chief Rogers on the title page was presented to the latter by Mr. O'Leary.

Chief Rogers briefly thanked his friends for their gifts and expressed his appreciation of the spirit which had prompted the holding of the banquet and reception.

During the evening there was an entertainment program, featuring the "Hum and Strum Boys," radio artists, with Max Zices, Bennie McLaughlin and Tom Currier. Piano selections were played by Arthur Crowley and as a special feature Superintendent Crowley sang several Irish songs in his own inimitable manner.

The committee in charge of the banquet and reception had as chairman Arthur T. O'Leary and included George M. Bryne, William E. Ramsdell, William H. McMullen and John E. Hanlon.

SALVATION ARMY DRIVE

Publicly expressed fear that the winter will witness unprecedented scenes of suffering and disaster unless help is enlisted to meet the unemployment crisis lends importance to the appeal which the Salvation Army is now making to the people of Winchester for a contribution of $2000. This is the annual appeal of the Army for funds to help meet the expenses of its works of mercy for the coming year.

This year, however, the need is extremely urgent. At the 24 institutions and departments the Army operates in Greater Boston for the benefit of stricken humanity the Army has had steadily increasing demands for relief during the past year. The industrial depression and widespread unemployment have imposed a serious strain on its resources.

It is feared that the winter will be well through before the peak of unemployment will have been reached and that unprecedented suffering and disaster will be witnessed unless steps are taken to enlist immediate support. Governor Allen's unemployment committee has made it known that every agency will be worked to the limit to prevent distress. This will mean a steadily increasing strain on the resources of the Salvation Army until the crisis is passed, because of the Army's close touch with the poor and suffering and its knowledge of their needs.

Generous contributions at an early date are earnestly requested so that expense and effort may be saved in raising the fund. The appeal is sponsored by a strong local committee headed by Lieut.-Col. Paul B. Moulton as chairman and with Charles E. Barrett, of the Winchester Trust Co. as treasurer. The other members of the committee are:

George F. Arnold
H. M. Bell
Dr. Arthur L. Brown
Rev. Benjamin P. Browne
Vincent P. Clarke
David H. DeCourcy
John F. Dunphy
Wade L. Grindle
Judge Charles N. Harris
Rev. Truman Hemenway
George H. Lochman
Howard F. Lunt
Mrs. Christine E. Hayden
Judge Curtis W. Nash
Rev. William S. Packer

Rev. George H. Reed
William H. Rogers
Harry C. Sanborn
Mabel W. Stinson
Rev. J. West Thompson
Hilda M. Torrop
Rev. John E. Whitney

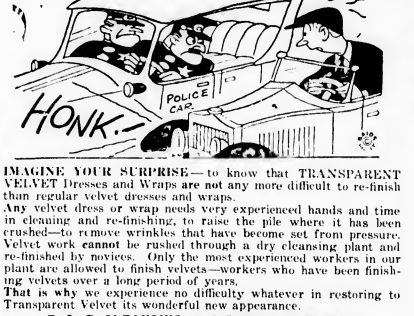
Imagine your embarrassment

WHEN YOU GET YOUR FIRST GLIMPSE OF THE OCCUPANTS OF THE FLIVVER YOU'RE PASSING AT "50"



IMAGINE YOUR SURPRISE—to know that TRANSPARENT VELVET Dresses and Wraps are not any more difficult to re-finish than regular velvet dresses and wraps.

Any velvet dress or wrap needs very experienced hands and time in cleaning and re-finishing, to raise the pile where it has been crushed—to remove wrinkles that have become set from pressure. Velvet work cannot be rushed through a dry cleansing plant and re-finished by novices. Only the most experienced workers in our plant are allowed to finish velvets—workers who have been finishing velvets over a long period of years.

That is why we experience no difficulty whatever in restoring to Transparent Velvet its wonderful new appearance.

ABOUT

Co-Operative Banks

While the size of a financial institution is not the most important factor that might be cited, yet it is interesting to note that there are eighty-nine institutions of our type in the United States with individual assets exceeding ten million dollars.

Of this group of eighty-nine institutions, six are Co-operative Banks located in Massachusetts.

Current reports show that each and every Co-operative Bank in Massachusetts is sound and strong,—a worthy depository for the investment of savings.

GLENWOOD CONTICALLY BRINGING OUT NEW COOKING HELPS

For many years the name Glenwood has stood for the highest quality in gas ranges, and the latest product of which Glenwood is justly proud is the new deluxe insulated Glenwood gas range. This fine gas range was designed especially to make the tiresome task of cooking one meal after another ever so much easier. In the first place the insulated oven is more economical—it makes less gas do more with greater comfort. It assures an exactness of oven heat impossible to obtain by other methods. It makes gas the "better" cooking fuel. Then there's the Automati-Cook, which is in reality an automoatic temperature control. This device maintains at all times the temperature at which you set it.

Top cooking has been perfected by a new Glenwood invention, the Ourway Patened enclosed cooking top that gives a smooth table-like surface, increasing the cooking area and concealing the gas flames so you'd hardly know that they were burning.

The latest development is the automatic gas time control, a very ingenious device which removes the element of chance in cooking. If you want a certain dish cooked a certain number of minutes, then, the gas time control will shut off the gas at the predetermined time, should you forget all about it, or should you be off enjoying yourself elsewhere.

These fine ranges of today are tremendously improved in construction. Even the interior unseen over parts are entirely enameled to make "De-Luxe" Glenwoods rust-proof and long-lasting.

The modern woman has discovered that to make her kitchen attractive and up-to-date, first, it is necessary to replace her old-fashioned range with one more pleasing in design; one that will harmonize with the decorative scheme she has planed. Insulated Glenw ' DeLuxe gas ranges are finished in grey and white, green and ivory or entire ivory enamel. When you see these new colors, it's easy to visualize which will look best in your kitchen.

It's certainly worthwhile to know about all these modern cooking advantages that are now featured at the Arlington Gas Light Company.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Beginning Sunday, Nov. 2, children between the ages of 5 and 12 years may ride all over the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway system for 50 cents on tickets that will be good only on day of issue. For more than two years the street railway has had in effect a $1 Ride All Day Ticket and has permitted children under 12 years of age to ride for 50 cents when accompanied by an adult. This restriction has now been removed.

Among those who went on from Winchester to South Newbury, N. H. for the wedding of Miss Ruth Shultis to Walter Wurth on last Saturday afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. John A. Finger, their daughter, Miss Marjorie, and son, John. Mrs. Dr. Lowell and Captain and Mrs. Lorenzo Crowell.

Along with the State politics discussed at the Town Hall during election Tuesday there was an occasional dash of gossip from the local political arena which came to the ears of the STAR. It was rumored about the hall that former Selectman Dr. J. Harper Blaisdell will be a candidate for the Board in March and that former Commander W. E. Ramsdell of Winchester Legion will also be a candidate. It is also said that all the present Selectmen are to run again and such being the case, we may expect lively times in March.

Miss Anne Simpson, who is attending school at "House-in- the-Pines," Norton, spent the past week-end with her parents on Wedgemere avenue.

Miss Mildred Ghirardini of Wedgemere avenue entertained 15 friends at a birthday party last week, and the week previous the Misses Alice and Helen Ghirardini had 50 guests for dancing and bridge with a buffet supper.

Clifton "Buz" McNeil, ex-tackle on the high school eleven, has a former opponent, Ralph Field of Watertown, playing with him at the tackle berths on the New Hampton Prep football team this fall. Ralph Simonds of Arlington, Jerry Lord of Melrose, Harry Sawyer of Watertown and Jim Haley of Winchester are other former Mystic Leaguers on the team.

Miss Lois Gibson, high school librarian, has started a group of assistants in order to give the pupils experience in library work. These assistants are to have charge of the desk during their free periods and check the books in and out besides doing many of the librarian's other duties.

Miss Helen-Bidwell of Scarsdale, N. Y., is now making her home with Miss Mary Cutter in Winchester. Both girls are attending Sargeant School.

Janet and Carolyn Nichols have been called back for the final tryouts of the All Boston Public School Honorary Field Hockey Team.

Mr. Edward Berg-trom returned to Winchester last week after spending a year in Sweden. He found business conditions there the same as in this country with many unemployed.

Mr. Edward A. McKenzie of New York City has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward McKenzie of Hemingway street.

Miss Ruth Kingsbury of this town is chairman of Radcliffe Night, which will be put on by Radcliffe College at the meeting of the Friday evening student club in Union Congregational Church this evening. A miscellaneous program of features and stunts such as college girls are capable of will be put on for the enjoyment of more than 200 students.

The Fire Department was called at 1:42 yesterday afternoon to put out a pile of burning leaves on the Skillings estate at Mt. Vernon and Washington streets.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McGill of Oxford street left Tuesday to spend a few weeks at Mrs. McGill's former home in North Dakota.

The Fire Department was called at 10:29 Monday morning by an alarm from Box 25 to put out a fire in a Chevrolet truck on Main street at Mt. Pleasant street. The truck, owned by the South End Hardware Company of Boston, was not badly damaged. Tuesday morning at 10:24 the men were called by telephone to put out a fire in the boiler room of the Winchester Buick Company on upper Main street. The fire was confined to the front of the coal bins and did little damage.

WINCHESTER HOSPITAL

The Winchester Hospital during the six months from April 1 to October 1 has been a very busy place many times.

907 patients cared for.
117 babies born
199 major operations performed
372 minor operations
8285 days of hospital care given.

During these six months, this means an average of 45 patients a day.

4617 days of this hospital care were given to patients in the wards. The charge for a day for a ward patient really pays only one half the cost of caring for that patient and is about $3 a day.

It costs the hospital $6 a day to care for a ward patient.

The difference between the cost and the charge for 4617 ward days represents the charity work done by the Winchester Hospital in the past six months.

The expense of this work, nearly $14,000, must be met by the private contributions from the sustaining members and income from the endowment fund.

Office of the BOARD OF SELECTMEN Winchester, Mass.

You are hereby required on or before Dec. 1, 1930 to destroy the gypsy and brown-tail moths on your property in this town.

This notification is in accordance with Chapter 132, Section 18, General Laws, which requires cities and towns to destroy the eggs, caterpillars, pupae and nests of the gypsy and brown-tail moths, under heavy penalty for failure to comply with the provisions of the law.

If a property owner fails to destroy such eggs, caterpillars, pupae and nests, then the city or town is required to destroy the same, and the cost of the work, in whole or in part, according to the value of the land, is assessed upon and becomes a lien on the land. (See Section 18, Chapter 132, General Laws, on reverse).

The Selectmen ask owners and tenants to co-operate with the town in its work on highways and other public grounds by doing effective work on their premises. Citizens, who have cleaned their premises of the moths but find their trees endangered by the neglect of owners of adjoining estates, should make complaint to the Selectmen. The infestation of a residential neighborhood by the neglect of a few will not be tolerated.

The eggs of the gypsy moths should be destroyed at once with creosote. They should never be scraped off the object on which they are laid. Careful search should be made for gypsy moth egg clusters, not only on trees, but also on house walls, stone walls, fences and in rubbish heaps, etc. (Trees in which cavities occur and which it is not desirable to cut should have the cavities tinned or cemented. This is important.) The present and future cost of combating this insect can be greatly reduced by cutting and burning worthless brush, hollow trees, etc. A few trees well cared for are more valuable to the property owner and the community than a large number of neglected trees.

The nests of the brown-tail moths should be cut off the trees, carefully collected and burned in stove or furnace.

THE CLOSING CHAPTER

To the Editor of the Star:

I received on Friday the 31st—just too late for inclusion in last week's Star, a cable from the Mayor and Mayoress of Winchester, England.

I am quite sure that your readers will all be glad to see it and learn how pleased the Mayor and Mayoress were at their reception in this country. I will, therefore, ask you to be kind enough to print the following cable in this week's Star:

Winchester, England
Oct. 30, 1930

Honorable Lewis Parkhurst:

Selectmen's Office, Winchester, Massachusetts. Safely home again. Heartiest greetings to you and townspeople of Winchester. Warmest thanks to you all for wonderful reception and most generous hospitality and delightful time you gave us. Both feeling worlds better for the trip.

Mayor and Mayoress of Winchester, England

Winchester is very fortunate in having a local paper that opens its columns so readily to all that is of interest to the town, and I personally, as a citizen, want to thank you for all you have done to make our Tercentenary week so pleasant and so successful. I wish to especially commend your cartoonist on the result of his skill as depicted in your issue of Oct. 4. It seemed to me that everyone of the sketches was most excellent.

Sincerely yours,
Lewis Parkhurst

TOWN TEAM BEATS ST. JOHN'S OF CAMBRIDGE

13—0 Win Keeps Record Intact

By virtue of its 13—0 win over St. John's C. C. eleven of Cambridge last Sunday afternoon at Rindge Field in the University City, the Winchester Town Team remained in the undefeated and unscored upon ranks of independent football clubs in Greater Boston.

Last Sunday's contest was a cleanly played, interesting football game which was witnessed by a good sized crowd, including many who followed the Town Team from Winchester.

St. John's put a good eleven on the field and gave the locals a good game, Winchester, however, scored early and was never in any real danger of defeat during the entire mutinee. The Cantabridgians started several second stringers against Winchester and the locals showed their appreciation by rushing to a quick score.

With the ball in his possession at midfield, quarterback Gnazio Amico shot off a beauty pass to "Maynie" MacDonnell who ran 20 yards to the 15-yard stripe before he was downed. Haley was stopped at tackle but on a spinner play Amico got away around right end for the touchdown. Haley rushed over for the extra point.

In the second quarter with St. John's holding the ball at its 40-yard line, the Cambridge eleven was forced to kick and "Goose" Fleming was in to block the punt. The ball bounded along to the 20-yard line where it was gathered in by McDonnell, Winchester end, who stopped the remainder of the distance to the Cambridge goal line for a second touchdown. Winchester tried to rush for the extra point, but failed.

Just before the ending of the half St. John's took to the air and with a flock of successful passes quickly took the ball down the field. The whistle cut short the march and thereafter the home club never threatened.

In the third period after an exchange of punts a couple of pretty passes from Amico, first to "Jimma" Flaherty and then to "Sam" Horn, coupled with some effective line bucking by Chefalo and Haley, took the ball to the St. John's one-yard line. Here a bad pass from center hit Amico in the face and the fumble was recovered by Cambridge. St. John's kicked out of danger and during the entire last quarter of the game play remained in midfield with neither club enjoying any particular advantage.

REV. J. GRESHAM MACHEN, D.D. COMING

At special services on Sunday, a well known leader in Presbyterianism, Rev. J. Gresham Machen, D.D., formerly Professor at Princeton and now of Westminster will be the preacher morning and evening at the First Baptist Church.

Dr. Machen is known in church circles both here and abroad as a scholar of the first rank as well as a gifted writer and preacher. Some of his recent books include, "The Origin of Paul's Religion, 1921;" "Christianity and Liberalism, 1923;" "New Testament Greek 1923;" "What Is Faith, 1925;" "The Virgin Birth of Christ, 1930."

A genial personality together with vigorous convictions combine in Dr. Machen to make an attractive and compelling speaker. His trenchant style and rich scholarship accord him the deepest respect of even those who may not entirely agree with him. Whatever he is, Professor Machen is not colorless, for he is very pronounced in his views on the trends of present day religion. Those who want an understanding of what religious leaders are thinking should not miss the opportunity to hear this notable scholar.

BURNHAM—CURRIER

Miss Arline Jewell Currier of 7 Dix terrace, a teacher in the Wyman School, and Robert W. Burnham of Gloucester were married at 9 o'clock last Friday morning at Jamaica Plain by Dr. Charles H. Williams, formerly of Trinity Congregational Church, Gloucester.

Miss Currier was attended by Miss Esther A. Curtis of Medford and Ralph S. Burnham of Quincy was his brother's best man. Mr. Burnham and his bride left after the ceremony for a wedding journey through the Adirondacks and Canada. Upon their return they are to make their home in Medford.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. R. Leslie Currier, is a graduate of Bridgewater Normal School and was appointed a teacher in the Winchester schools in 1928. Mr. Burnham, the son of Dr. Allen S. Burnham, attended Lowell Textile School and Boston University before becoming associated as teller with the New England Trust Company.

Alvah J. Luxford of 12 Vernon street, Woburn, reported to the police that while his Chrysler coach was parked on Stone avenue last Saturday afternoon the brakes released and the machine rolled down hill, breaking off the hydrant in front of the residence of Mr. William D. MacDonald.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

In the Town Hall, next Monday, Nov. 10, at 2:30 p. m. at the regular meeting of the Fortnightly, there will be a delightful opportunity for each and everyone of the members of the club to become, not fashion "conscious," for everyone is surely that, but fashion "wise." A review of the mode, sponsored by Chandler & Co., arranged by their own stylist, Miss Dorothy Derr, and "modeled" by ladies of the Fortnightly, will show costumes for every occasion which may arise in the year 1930-31. Mrs. Grace B. Asseltine, Mrs. Helen T. Bowe, Mrs. Sarah W. deRochemont, Mrs. Mabel H. Gage, Mrs. Carolyn D. Gilpatric, Mrs. Martha W. Kelley, Mrs. Winifrede S. Meyer, Mrs. Edmund F. Miller, Mrs. Anne I. Sargent, and Mrs. Gretchen H. West will act as models.

There will be a card party at Fortnightly Hall on Tuesday, Nov. 18 at 2 p. m. Mrs. Mary F. Cass, chairman, Winchester 0681-R.

The Parliamentary Law Class, held on Wednesday mornings is increasing in membership and in interest. Those who have not been able to take the entire course may enroll for the remaining sessions, or if preferred, single lessons may be taken. Wednesday mornings at 10 o'clock, until Dec. 8; Mrs. George Hutchins, instructor.

Everyone who attended the first Literature meeting of the year on Monday, Nov. 3, felt that she formed a new friendship, or strengthened an old one. The life, the spirit and character of Emily Dickinson, as well as her poetry, were most clearly and charmingly presented by Mrs. Florence I. Cross, and her assistants, Mrs. Beatrice T. Hatch and Mrs. Winifred H. Nicholas. Mrs. Hatch gave fascinating pictures of the life and mind of the poet of Amherst as portrayed in the recent book written by Miss Genevieve Taggert. These glimpses revealed the influence of father, family, friends and surroundings upon the rare and sensitive nature of Emily as a child and young woman. With this background the audience appreciated more keenly the beauty and spirit of the terse and illusive lyrics read by Mrs. Cross, and the more striking selections given with inimitable sympathy and understanding by Mrs. Nicholas.

At the close of the meeting, Miss Amy Bridgeman, our own poet, who was born in Amherst, brought an especially intimate touch by relating stories connected with Emily Dickinson and her cousin, our fellow townsmen, Mr. and Mrs. Hunt. Through Mrs. Hunt's kindness a photograph and a quaint white dress were shown which had belonged to her whose 100th birthday anniversary is being celebrated throughout the land this year. Mrs. Anna M. Swanson, Chairman of Literature, led the informal discussion and impressed her audience with the sense of thankfulness and of inspiration which has come to us all from intimate study of one of our great American poets.

It was urged that all who possibly can shall read "Coronet" by Manuel Komroff before the meeting on Dec. 1.

In spite of the many interesting events here in Winchester yesterday, 18 art lovers made the trip to the Harvard Museums. They were thoroughly repaid in the novel and beautiful objects they saw and the information they gleaned. The Arnessiz Museum, the Forg Collection, and the Germanic Museum were visited.

W. C. D. S. NOTES

W. C. D. S. 6—Fessenden Juniors 0

Thursday afternoon, Oct. 30 the W. C. D. S. football team took a closely fought contest from the Fessenden Juniors at Newton.

The only score of the game came in the first quarter when Captain Rogers tossed a 15-yard pass, to "Chatie" Reed who stepped across the goal line without hindrance. In the second and third periods, the Fessenden team threatened to score, but twice lost the ball on downs or had to punt. During the fourth period, neither team was able to push the ball beyond the opponents' 40-yard line. The line-up follows:

MELROSE HIGH WON FROM WINCHESTER

Near Riot in Second Half Nearly Halted Game

Melrose High School's contender for the Mystic Valley championship moved a long step nearer the title last Saturday afternoon when its eleven defeated Winchester High, 20—0 on Manchester Field. All the scoring was done during the first half of the contest when the visitors completely outclassed the local team.

Winchester showed a complete reversal of the form displayed against Wakefield and Belmont, failing to carry out its assignments and blocking and tackling wretchedly. Melrose brought a fine team to Winchester and looked like a sure enough world beater during the first half. Later on when the locals became aroused and played the football they are capable of the visitors did not by any means look so potent. Melrose has a great all around football player in its quarterback, "Rex" Kidd and also showed a sweet running back in Robinson and a fine lineman in Capt. "Art" Hannigan. Winchester's two Smiths, Wilmer and "Dan" were the only players who played consistent ball for the Red and Black.

The game was a pretty rugged affair, and shortly after the resumption of play, following the intermission, trouble developed that for a time threatened to be serious. "Dan" Smith, Winchester's great tackle, had been taking plenty all afternoon and before the third quarter was far along he and three Melrose boys became mixed up in a battle which for a few minutes looked like a free-for-all.

Just how the fracas started we can't say. We did however, see Smith and two Melrose boys mixing it out in the open, and one of the Melrose belligerents was certainly Kidd. The other looked like Fuller, big halfback of the visitors. Smith was wrestled and knocked down by the two Melrose players, and once on his feet again, was seized from behind by a third. By that time quite a little delegation of excited fans had poured from the sidelines onto the field and had surrounded the players. The police charged in, and order was restored. Smith's version of the rumpus was that he was struck on two successive plays by a Melrose player, and that when he retaliated he was pitched upon by Kidd and another Melrose boy, and punched several times. Kidd claimed to have been attempting to stop the fight. If so, he took a strange way to do it. The other participant's part in the melee was obvious. Smith naturally fought back and Winchester followers felt that under the circumstances he couldn't be blamed for defending himself.

When the smoke of battle cleared away, the officials sent Smith and Harold McKenzie out of the game. Coach Mansfield protested that Kidd and the boy who was working with him on Smith be sent along too. The officials, however, refused to remove the Melrose ace, saying that they had not seen him in any infraction of the rules. It was strange that the three men hired to see what was going on on the field of play, shouldn't have seen what everyone on the Winchester side saw plainly enough, and for a time Coach Mansfield considered withdrawing his club from the game. Finally he decided to do what was the best thing all around, and permitted the game to continue. The Winchester fans were in an ugly mood and made no bones of expressing the opinion that the ruling had been manifestly unfair.

The game went along, and was a slam-bang parte from then until the final whistle. Winchester offered the stubbornest sort of opposition to the Melrose offense and the visitors were unable to cross the goal line during the remaining two quarters.

The going was very rugged and toward the end of the game, Wilmer Smith, Winchester's right halfback, sustained a broken nose that didn't aid in making the local supporters any more pleased. Melrose drew penalties aggregating 115 yards to 25 for Winchester. Smith, who was the target for the visiting attack, did not have a penalty inflicted upon him previous to the riot.

After the game a small crowd of fans surrounded the Melrose players, but the police at the game, aided by reserves from Headquarters prevented any real trouble. Patrolmen Henry Dempsey and Clarence Dunbury nipped a couple of mixups in the bud, and the Melrose boys got away without any casualties.

As the teams lined up for the opening kickoff it was apparent that Melrose had a decided weight advantage behind the line and on the ends. The visitors kicked, and aided by a couple of offside penalties, Winchester rushed to a couple of first downs, and then committed an error of judgment. With a yard to go on fourth down, Quarterback Tofuri tried to get the distance at center instead of kicking to the Melrose end of the field. The visitors held, took the ball on downs, and after rushing for two first downs, Kidd shot off a beauty pass which was grabbed by Hoekel who was downed on Winchester's 15-yard line. Kidd and McKenzie slid off the tackles for a first down on the 5-yard line, and then Harland Robinson, swift running back, skirted right end for the touchdown. Emery blocked the try for goal, but Winchester was offside and the point counted.

Soon after the opening of the second quarter with the ball at Winchester's 43-yard line, Kidd dropped back to pass and fumbled. With two Winchester men on top of him, the Melrose ace bounced the ball along until he could pick it up on his own 47-yard line. There he calmly shot off a beautiful pass out to the left to Robinson who was all alone in exactly the right place to catch the leather and scamper for a touchdown. It was a beautiful example of heads-up football. Winchester spoiled the attempt to run for the extra point, but the unexpected result of the fumble plainly took a lot of fight out of the locals, and before the end of the quarter Melrose had tallied again.

Soon after Melrose had kicked off Winchester attempted a forward pass which hit three men and was finally grabbed by Kidd who galloped to the locals' 25-yard line. The Winchester boys were trying to stop Rexford by grabbing him about the shoulders which was about like trying to halt a steam roller with a piece of string. Five yards Kidd made and then 10, before Robinson got away at end to score. A pass for the extra point failed, but the officials ruled Winchester had been using its hands illegally and awarded the point to Melrose.

Following the intermission Winchester looked like an entirely different team and Melrose was unable to work the ball across the goal line during the last two periods of the battle. After the riot, Quarterback Hickey tore his game wide open and with Wilmer Smith doing some nice passing the locals actually bothered Melrose.

The fans were still grumbling when Emery intercepted a Kidd forward at the Winchester 30-yard line, and on the second play thereafter Smith sent a long beauty pass down the sidelines which "Bob" Lee just failed to reach. It was Winchester's nearest scoring threat, though it looked a bit later as if Robinson might get clear for a long jaunt.

As the quarter wore along Melrose was forced to kick, and its short effort was downed on the Winchester 44-yard line. A pass from Smith to Lee made a first down on the Melrose 44-yard line. Another pass failed and then a short pass behind the line was intercepted by Reeves who started all alone for the Winchester goal line. Lee took up the chase and hurled the Melrose boy to earth at the 15-yard line. On the first play Melrose fumbled and Flaherty recovered for Winchester. Then Lee tossed a short pass to Robinson who just missed getting clear for a long run, if not a touchdown. Two 15-yard penalties against Melrose for unnecessary roughness and holding took the ball to midfield where a Winchester pass was intercepted. Melrose fumbled and Winchester recovered. Here a long pass was intercepted by Kidd who ran to Winchester's 35-yard line before he was tackled by Robinson.

Melrose kept sending in new men in an effort to work the ball across, and succeeded in getting to within the shadow of the local goal when a penalty for communicating set the visitors back 15 yards as the game ended.

FREEBOOTERS WON FROM GIRLS' A. A.

Strong Visiting Club Took 3—1 Verdict in Good Game

The Freebooters of the morning division of the Boston Field Hockey Association defeated the Winchester Girls' A. A. on Manchester Field last Saturday afternoon, 3—1. The visitors were a strong club, including in their line-up one all-American player, two junior all-American girls and an English player.

Against such experienced opposition the Winchester eleven made a good showing and with a bit more practice to perfect their team play the locals will be a hard club to beat.

A big crowd saw last Saturday's game, many of those at the football battle spending a part of their time watching the hockey contest. Between the halves of the high school game the sidelines were crowded with people.

Tyson, visiting right inner, put the Freebooters out in front during the first half when she caged the ball from a spirited scrimmage in front of the Winchester goal. After play had been resumed, following half time, the same player scored again, also from scrimmage. The visitors made little effort to dribble the ball, being content to hit it hard and trusting to this method to advance the ball.

Facing a score of 2 to 0, Winchester's attack got going, and after rushing the ball to the Freebooters' end of the field, "Giny" Merrill scored from scrimmage. The visitors scored their final goal after a scrimmage in front of the local sticks.

Your Bills—and Ours

LIKE everyone else working for a living, the Telephone Company wants to get paid for its services with reasonable promptness. Sixty cents of every dollar it takes in is paid out in wages. This means a cash outlay during each month.

The Company's only source of revenue to meet this and other service costs is the bills rendered to telephone customers. Also, the margin of profit is so close that the loss of one-half a cent per telephone per day would put red figures in the profit and loss column.

If the Post Office sold stamps at retail and rendered monthly bills therefor, it would be doing business on a basis comparable in that respect with ours. Telephone calls are sold one at a time, and except at pay stations, are sold on a charge account. An operator notes the charge, but another employee does the billing.

Even with careful "check and double check" there are possibilities of occasional error. We want to correct them. We do not want any money we haven't earned.

Our Service Representatives at 17 Thompson Street have charge of billing records; hence they can assist in verifying or correcting any questioned account. This local office is also a convenience for customers with no checking accounts or who prefer to pay cash.

Service Representatives also take orders for putting in, taking out, or moving telephones, and for installing extension telephones or other accessories; in short, are the Company's representatives for the handling of its business details with local customers.

If your telephone number is between WINchester 0001 and 1099 your Service Representative is Mrs. McLeod; if it is WINchester 1100 or higher, she is Miss Babcock. You can telephone them by asking your operator for "Business Office."

C. D. OF A. INSTALLATION

D. D. Frances Ahearn of Arlington, with an assisting suite, installed the officers of the local Court on Thursday evening of last week.

Following the ceremony, D. D. Elizabeth C. McDonald presented to the Grand Regent, Mrs. Frances T. Conlon a string of crystal exquisitely cut, with ear-drops to match. G. R. Conlon then presented flowers to the District Deputy and her assisting Monitor. An attractive buffet luncheon was served by the following members: Lecturer Katharine Rowen, Sentinel Nora O'Melia, Prophetess Mary Ryan and past lecturer Anna Swymer.

Readings and songs were contributed by G. R. Conlon and D.D. Frances Ahearn. Dancing followed.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

Reports from the state committee in charge of the matinee whist and bridge to be held on Saturday, Nov. 15 at Boston, indicate a large attendance from the various branches.

Sunday, Nov. 23 is Guild Day at the Holy Ghost Hospital at which time talent from the branches will contribute to a concert program for the patients.

The business meeting for November was held last evening at the home of Mrs. John Harrold, followed by a social hour.

The social meeting for this month will be held at a time and place to be announced later in the Star.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Miss Mary Carr of Highland avenue, president of last year's graduating class at Radcliffe College, has been elected to the executive board of the Radcliffe Club of Boston.

At the installation of officers of Middlesex Chapter, Order of De Molay, held last Saturday evening in Reading, Mr. William F. Locke of Winchester presented the retiring master councilor, Horace C. Ford, with a master councilor's jewel. William E. Miller of Winchester was installed as treasurer of the chapter.

The annual donation and reception was held yesterday at the Home for Aged People on Mt. Vernon street and as usual attracted a large gathering of visitors and friends of the family at the home.

There has been some complaining of the big trucks which have been going through Winchester, hauling gravel from Montvale to the construction job in progress at South Border road.

Adolph Gravel of 99 Norway street, Boston, was arrested at 9:30 last night by Sergt. Thomas F. Cassidy of the Police Department after the Chevrolet coach he was driving north on Cambridge street was in collision with a Ford roadster, headed south on Cambridge street and driven by Helen K. Roche of Lowell. The accident occurred south on Wildwood street and both cars were damaged, it being necessary to tow Gravel's machine to the Central Garage. Officer Hutchins of the Metropolitan Police was at the scene of the accident when Sergeant Cassidy arrived. Gravel was censured with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. He appeared in the District Court this morning.

A lead-off from a water main in the center between the police box and the car tracks burst yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock. Water began to bubble up through the roadway and Sunt. Harry W. Dotten of the Water Department was notified. Superintendent Dotten judged the position of the break correctly and his men had the damage repaired at 5:30.

"Bob" Guild, old Harvard coach and linesman was one of the officials at the St. Mark's—Groton game at Southboro on Wednesday and is to work in the big schoolboy classic, the Andover—Essex game at Andover on Saturday. Another who is likely to be at Andover is "Charlie" Newell, who claims he hasn't missed an Andover—Exeter game in 30 years. After watching "Charlie" push the crowd back at the Watertown game last Saturday we just can't believe he's such an old timer.

The condition of Motorcycle Officer John F. Hogan of the Police Department who has been seriously ill is reported as much improved. It will be some time, however, before he is able to return to duty. In his absence the motorcycle detail is being filled by Officer Edward W. O'Connell.

Mrs. Harry S. Griffin, Mrs. William K. Denison, Mrs. Frank H. Knight, Mrs. Reginald Bradlee, Mrs. Alfred White, Mrs. William I. Palmer, Mrs. J. F. Ryan, Mrs. William E. Clark, Mrs. Roy D. Wentworth and Mrs. Frederick Y. Stephens are patronesses for the first Boston appearance at the Hotel Copley Plaza, Friday morning, Nov. 21, of the Grand Duchess Marie of Russia. This function is under the auspices of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters, the Grand Duchess speaking at 11 o'clock on "My Escape from Russia —and Since."

MURRAY—CALLAHAN

The marriage of Miss Margaret Callahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Callahan of 188 Washington street, to Daniel A. Murray of Stoneham took place Wednesday evening in St. Mary's Rectory with the pastor of St. Mury's Church, Rev. Nathaniel J. Merritt, officiating.

Miss Callahan was attended by Miss Mildred Hargrove of Arlington and Mr. Murray had for his best man the bride's brother, Christopher L. Callahan of Winchester.

The bride wore a gown of robin's egg blue chiffon with hat and slippers to match, and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Hargrove wore pale pink chiffon with matching hat and slippers, and carried an arm bouquet of Talisman roses.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, fall foliage and tall vases of chrysanthemums being artistically arranged as decorations. A catered wedding supper was served, and Mr. Murray and his bride left to spend their honeymoon in Bermuda. Upon their return they will make their home in Winchester.

The bride, who is widely known in Winchester, has been employed as a private secretary by Sands Furber & Co. Inc. of Boston. Mr. Murray is associated as salesman with the Boston firm of W. L. Lerne & Sons.

MOTHERS AND FATHERS

How well you must remember that awkward, self-conscious period in High School when you had a horror of doing anything before the opposite sex.

Are you providing any means of recreation which will help your boys and girls overcome his embarrassment? If not, why not send them to Mrs. Page's Wednesday evening class in tap dancing which she has especially arranged to accommodate boys and girls of High School age?

Tap dancing is at present one of the most popular types of recreation. Its fascinating, lively rhythm performed to the latest popular music provides exercises that are exhilarating to both mind and body. The work also encourages the group spirit among students.

If you are interested to have your children join the class for an hour of clean, wholesome fun on Wednesday evenings from 7:30 to 8:30, call Pearl Bates Morton, Win. 0993, for further information.

Older people are also accepted for this work.

MRS. ROSE FLANDERS

Mrs. Rose Flanders, widow of Joseph A. Flanders and mother of Lyman A. Flanders of 13 Winthrop street, died early Wednesday morning, Nov. 13 at her home, 211 Highland avenue. Mrs. Flanders was 80 years of age and was born in Pawtucket, R. I. She spent much of her life in Somerville and had been a resident of Winchester only for the past three weeks.

Besides Mrs. Flanders, she is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Marion F. McKay, Mrs. Charlotte Albertini, Miss Rose Flanders, all of Winchester; Mrs. Jane Moen of Somerville and Mrs. Sadie Spofford of Boston. Another son, Joseph Flanders of New York City, also survives.

The funeral will be held from the late residence Saturday morning with a solemn requiem high mass in St. Mary's Church at 9 o'clock. Interment will be in Mt. Auburn Cemetery.

WHAT DARTMOUTH THINKS OF TANSEY

(From "The Dartmouth," the College Daily)

One of the closest followers of Dartmouth football this year has been "Joe" Tansey, who was captain of the Norwich team of last fall. Tansey now is an adopted son of Hanover, as he is head coach of the Clark School foothall team, which has lost only one game this year and that to the Dartmouth freshmen.

This Saturday there will be a game between the Clark School and Troy Conference Academy which should be well worth watching for the people who do not make the trip to Ithaca, and the game will start sufficiently early to allow any spectators to also take in the Gridgranh account of the Cornell—Dartmouth affair. There has been a renaissance of Clark School football this year under Tansey and what little we have seen of the squad impresses as very likely looking material, reinforced by some smart running backs.—[Phil Sherman in "X-Ray on Sports."

WINCHESTER GIRL CHOSEN ON ALL BOSTON TEAM

Janet Nichols, star left wing on the Winchester High School field hockey team for the past two seasons, was chosen for that position on the honorary all-Boston public school eleven at the final tryouts yesterday on Newton High field.

Janet is the third Winchester girl to win this honor, Dorothea MacKenzie and Carolyn Mercer having been previously chosen. The first named is one of the stars of the present high school team and is also captain and forward on the basketball club. She is popular with her classmates and serves as cheer leader at the football games.

The Board of Selectmen will meet with the County Commissioners on Dec. 12 to relocate parts of Main street and High street, as the result of a petition to that effect made by the Board. The relocation of Main street is from its junction with Highland avenue through Symmes corner to its junction with Madison avenue.

MRS. LIZZIE WHITCOMB ADRIANCE

Mrs. Lizzie Whitcomb Adriance, wife of the Rev. S. Winchester Adriance and a well known resident of Winchester, died at midnight on Wednesday, Nov. 12, at her home, 9 Mt. Pleasant street, after a six weeks' illness. She suffered a broken hip in a fall at her home last May and underwent treatment at the Winchester Hospital until July when she returned to her home. Since that time she had been unable to get about, and her health grew gradually worse until the end.

Mrs. Adriance was 74 years old and a native of Southbridge, the daughter of Rev. William C., and Harriet (Wheder) Whitcomb. Her father entered the service as an Army Chaplain during the Civil War, and died in the great struggle to preserve the Union.

During her early years Mrs. Adriance led the usual life of a preacher's daughter, moving about from place to place as her father became identified with various parishes. Her education was received in the schools of Concord and at Abbott Academy in Andover.

Oct. 16, 1877, she was married to Rev. S. Winchester Adriance, and in 1890 came to Winchester where she had since made her home. She had a wide circle of acquaintances and friends among the older residents of the town and was active in the work of the First Congregational Church, of which she was a member. She also held membership in the Woman's Fortnightly Club and in the Winchester Woman's Republican Club.

Surviving, besides her husband, are a daughter, Mrs. Frederic B. Withington of Honolulu, Hawaii, and a son, Robert I. Adriance of East Orange, N. J. A brother, Albert W. Whitcomb of Webster, N. Y., and a sister, Mrs. Ripley Bartlett of Concord, also survive with six grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held on this Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the late residence with the Rev. Howard J. Chidley, pastor of the First Congregational Church, officiating. Interment will be in Sleepy Hollow Cemetery, Concord.

MUSIC GARDEN

The first fall meeting of the Music Garden was held at the Home for the Aged People on Mt. Vernon street on Monday evening, Nov. 10, and took the form of an entertainment for the inmates.

The program was as follows:

Selection by Orchestra—Serenade
Soprano Solo—"Last Rose of Summer"
Miss MacLellan

Trio—"Thou Mighty Ocean" Richardson
Mr. and Mrs. Frederick and Mrs. Lochman

Duet "The Singing Lesson"
Mrs. Morrison and Mr. Lochman
Mrs. Lochman at the piano

Violin Solos—
(a) "Hercules"
(b) "Old Oaken Bucket" with variations
Miss Littlefield
Mrs. Andrews at the piano

Soprano Solos—
(a) "The Wood Pigeon"
(b) "The Banjo Song"
Mrs. Hughes
Miss Wilcox at the piano

Trumpet Solo—"The Honeysuckle Polka"
Mr. Talone
Mrs. Lochman at the piano

Tenor Solo—"Nigger and the Coon"
Mr. Lochman
Mrs. Lochman at the piano

Soprano Solo—"All Joy be Thine"
Mrs. Morrison
Mrs. Lochman at the piano

Medley of Patriotic Airs
Orchestra

The whole program was of a very pleasing nature, but probably the numbers most enjoyable, were the humorous numbers, "The Singing Lesson" and the "Nigger and the Coon." During the latter number Mr. Lochman temporarily dropped the mantle of dignity from his shoulders and gave a rollicking illustration of a colored gentleman during a successful "coon" hunt with the "jubilee" following.

Mention should also be made of the trumpet solo by Mr. Talone, which was rendered in a masterful manner.

MORE ACCIDENTS

Frank Reego of 398 Washington street reported to the police that as he was backing his Ford truck from the driveway at his home at 1:25 on Armistice afternoon, he was obliged to stop to permit an electric car to pass. A Pontiac sedan, registered to Pearson Brothers, Inc., of 73 Watson street, Boston, tried to go between the electric and his truck, colliding with the latter and scratching the side of the sedan.

Joseph P. Haggerty of 161 Swanton street reported to the police that as he was getting out of his Ford car which was standing on upper Main street in front of the "Roma" drug store at 8:40 Wednesday evening a Dodge sedan, headed south, struck the open door of his car and damaged it. Haggerty followed the driver of the Dodge, Walter N. Pudsey of 58 Russell street, Medford, and overtook him in front of the Gulf Filling Station. Both operators went to Police Headquarters.

At 9:30 yesterday morning a Buick coach, owned by Mrs. Frances M. Symmes of 22 Chisholm road and driven by her son, Richard M. Symmes, was in collision with a Dodge sedan, owned by Katherine Goggin of 22 Highland avenue and operated by Edmund A. Goggin of the same address. The accident occurred on Forest street at Forest circle, and according to the police took place when the Buick attempted to pass another car when the Dodge was making a left turn into Forest circle. The Dodge was injured in the rear and the Buick about the front and rear. Mrs. Symmes, who was riding with her son, complained of injuries to her back, and was taken to her home by a nearby householder in his car.

LEGION OBSERVED ARMISTICE DAY

Winchester Post, 97, American Legion's observance of Armistice Day began Monday evening with the big Pre-Armistice Day Ball in the Town Hall. This proved to be a most enjoyable party, and was attended by many Legionnaires in uniform.

Music was furnished by "Jack" Hennessy's orchestra, and the hall was attractively decorated with flags and palms. At 11 o'clock Comdr. Wade L. Grindle called for a two-minute pause in the merrymaking as a tribute to those who gave their lives for the cause of Democracy in the World War. The Legionnaires stood rigidly at attention while taps and "Reveille" by trumpeter. Refreshments were served during the evening by members of the Post Auxiliary.

Vice Comdr. P. T. Foley served as chairman of the ball committee and was assisted by Kingman P. Cass, Harry Goodwin, G. Warren Johnston and Richard Parkhurst.

Fifty uniformed members of the Post went to Woburn Armistice Day forenoon to march in the big parade in that city. The delegation was headed by Commander Grindle with Vice Comdr. P. T. Foley and Adjt. Harry Goodwin as aids. The Legion detachment was led by George F. LeDuc. George Donaghey and Whitelaw Wright were color bearers and the Post firing squad under Harry Bennett served as color guard.

The Legionnaires fell out of the parade at the Woburn Armory, and returned to Winchester for their own Armistice Day exercises at the War Memorial. These exercises followed the same impressively simple form as those of last year. A wreath was placed at the base of the statue by Commander Grindle, three volleys were fired by the firing squad and taps was blown by two Boy Scout buglers, Henry Fitts and Paul Wentworth. Charles Main and William McGann were drummers.

Following the exercises at the memorial, ranks were reformed and the Legionnaires returned to their headquarters where they fell out, the day's program being ended.

COULD YOU BUY INSURANCE LIKE THIS FOR $1 A YEAR

Isn't it a comforting thing to know that in case of disaster we have an organized society ready to help us, and that membership in this society, with all the benefits it entails, costs us but $1 a year.

We Americans expect the Red Cross to step in at once in any and all disasters, but are we doing our full share in helping to support this splendid organization? Every single one of us is asked to become a member, and we should look upon the invitation as a privilege.

How many of the dollars we own are spent for such noble work as that done by the Red Cross?

We should remember, too, that it is not the other fellow's dollar that is going to insure us against disaster, but our own.

Let us make up our minds to help this year, when there is so much human distress, by joining the Red Cross during the annual roll call, Nov. 11-25.

Have your dollar ready when it is called off, or send it to Mr. William Priest at the Winchester Savings Bank.

WINCHESTER GIRLS TIED WINTHROP

Winchester High School girls' field hockey team played a scoreless tie with the Winthrop High girls in an interscholastic league match at Winthrop Wednesday afternoon. As a result of this tie Winchester will have to meet the winner of the Melrose—Winthrop game to determine the championship of the Northern Division of the league. Between the halves of the varsity game the Winchester seconds won a 2—0 game from the Winthrop seconds, Hession scoring both goals for Winchester.

WINCHESTER AT MAYNARD

Winchester High journeys to Maynard tomorrow afternoon for a football game with Maynard High School. A year ago Maynard brought a smart, hustling little eleven to Winchester, and an interesting game was the result.

The locals do not expect anything easy at Maynard tomorrow, especially in view of the fact that Maynard held the strong Stoneham High team to a 13—7 victory. Neither "Patsy" Tofuri nor "Eddie" Hitchborn was able to play at Watertown last Saturday because of injuries, but Coach Mansfield hopes to have both ready for the whistle tomorrow. Kickoff at 2:30 p. m.

Dr. F. W. Hill sailed Sunday on the motorship Britannic from Boston for his home in Gloucestershire, England, after a visit in Winchester with his sister, Caroline Hill of Winthrop street.

ROTARY CLUB

Twenty-four members and eight visitors comprised the attendance list at the meeting of Nov. 13. As three of our members had previously made up for their absence at this meeting, there is but one stalwart to be heard from. Clarence Brown of the Rotary Club of Conway, N. H., held the long distance record for visitors.

President Lorthe announced that no formal entertainment had been provided for the day and suggested that the meeting be given over to the discussion of various problems before the club which await solution, and possibly to the relation of narratives of mild flavor and doubtful antiquity.

As a result our meeting was of great interest, certainly to ourselves and we hope to our visitors also, because of the fact that we considered several matters which come before nearly all Rotary Clubs sooner or later, and further, because several of our visitors entered into the discussion and gave us the benefit of their experience. We are convinced that an occasional hour of this sort is most helpful both to the club itself and to its individual members

President Lorthe appointed a special committee to provide entertainment during the month of December. Harry Wood, George Welsch and George Davidson will serve. Judging from the make-up of this committee none of us will care to miss a single one of the December gatherings.

There will be only one more meeting in November as the club has voted to omit the meeting which falls on Thanksgiving. We have an excellent opportunity to secure a month of 100 per cent meetings. What say you?

Attendance for Nov. 6—100 per cent.

TOWN TEAM TO PLAY ST. PATRICK'S

The Winchester Town Team is undertaking an ambitious program this Sunday afternoon when it will meet the strong St. Patrick's Catholic Club eleven of Cambridge at 2:30 at Cambridge Park.

St. Patrick's is one of the best teams the locals have faced this season, having won from the Lincoln Town Team and played such teams as the Roche Club and the Waltham Alumni. The Cambridge Club has a record of four wins in six starts, and will test Winchester to the limit.

Cambridge Park may be reached by taking Cambridge street from Lechmere Square or from Massachusetts avenue out of Harvard square. Kickoff at 2:30.

HAS PETITIONED FOR HEARING

Fireman J. Edward Noonan, driver of Engine 3 of the Fire Department, which figured in a collision with an automobile at Church and Bacon streets last Sunday afternoon, has petitioned Chief David H. DeCourey for a hearing upon the accident which resulted in injury to Mrs. Emily N. Lathremore of 11 Lawrence street who was driving the pleasure car involved.

Driver Noonan was relieved of duty, following the accident, and suspended Monday morning by Chief DeCourey, pending the result of the hearing which will probably be held in the near future. The exact date has not been announced. Mrs. Latremore, who was at first thought to have been badly injured in the accident was discharged from the Winchester Hospital on Monday.

AN AIRPLANE VACATION

Alaska and back by airplane is to be the subject of an after-dinner talk by Mr. Lawrence Lombard on Thursday evening the 20th of November when he is to be the guest speaker for the annual dinner of the Men's Club of the First Congregational Church.

Mr. Lombard who is a resident of Winchester spent a most interesting and thrilling vacation during the past summer when he traveled in his own airplane across the states and northward into Alaska. Polar bear hunting added excitement to his stay in the north. He chose the southern air route for the return trip.

Interesting moving pictures taken on this journey will be shown during his talk at the Men's Club.

OBSERVED FIFTY-FIFTH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel B. Badger of 12 Prospect street quietly observed the 55th anniversary of their marriage on Monday, Nov. 10, members of their immediate family being present to offer congratulations and best wishes for continued happiness. Both Mr. and Mrs. Badger enjoy fairly good health, and Mr. Badger is still active in the business, in which he started work 64 years ago.

The Police Department has a new Ford touring car purchased from Bonnell Motors Co.

It is now planned to hold a series of dances at the club, the first in the list to take place next Friday evening, Nov. 21, at 8:30 o'clock. The committee will run these dances every other week, that of next week being under the auspices of the Winchester Boat Club. A snappy orchestra will be engaged and the nominal sum of 50 cents will be charged. Kenneth Pratt is chairman of the committee.

FLORENCE CRITTENTON NOTES

The big annual bazaar of the Florence Crittenton League, which is to be held in the Copley Plaza Hotel, Boston, on Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 19 and 20, is to combine many features which promise to be of unusual interest.

Winchester Circle, with Mrs. Arthur S. Kelley as chairman, is to be in charge of the handkerchief table which is to offer for sale both domestic and imported handkerchiefs and sachets, much in demand as holiday gifts.

On Wednesday there is to be a fashion show at 3 o'clock for which tickets can be obtained from Mrs. William Little, Win. 1405. The show is to be repeated in the evening at 8:30. On Thursday there is to be a bridge. Tickets and further information can be obtained from Mrs. Harris S. Richardson, Win. 0637. A delicious luncheon and supper will be served on both days of the bazaar.

SEVERAL FIRES MONDAY AND TUESDAY

The Fire Department was called at 12:31 Monday afternoon to put out a grass fire at the rear of the residence of Mr. C. J. Canong, 416 Washington street. At 12:35 p. m. there was a grass fire on High street near the residence of Mr. Harry Locke, and at 5:03 p. m. there was another grass fire along the railroad tracks near the freight house.

The first run of the holiday came at 11:59 a. m. Tuesday when a fire in an incinerator on Manchester road. At 1:13 in the afternoon the men were called to the home of R. A. Hull at 7 Glengarry to put out a fire caused by an over-heated electric iron. A brush fire in the rear of the New Hope Baptist Church was reported by Mr. John Russell at 5:58 p. m., and at 9:38 p. m. Mr. J. F. Colprit reported burning rubbish at a vacant house on Lebanon street.

CHARITY BALL THURSDAY EVENING

WINCHESTER GIRLS BEAT WATERTOWN

Watertown was defeated by the Winchester High School hockey team at Watertown Monday afternoon, 2—0. Janet Nichols, fast left wing did all the scoring for the team. She played a very fine game carrying the ball down the field innumerable times. The Winchester goal-keepers had little chance to show what they could do, because of the cleverness of the Winchester defensive players in keeping the ball out of the danger zone.

DRAMATIC READING

Miss Sylvia Parker presented a program of dramatic readings at the Unitarian Parish House on Wednesday, Nov. 12 at 2:30 p. m. Her selections included two one-act plays, several monologues and dramatic poems, each one being presented with skill and a fine sense of its dramatic values.

Miss Parker has a delightful manner and gave her audience great pleasure.

Mrs. George Hale Reed sang two groups of songs most delightfully. Tea was served at the close of the program. The Activities Committee of the Ladies' Friendly Society sponsored the program, proceeds being for the benefit of the Parish House fund.

Vice-President John W. Smith of the Boston & Maine Railroad, whose home is on Sheffield road, has been elected a director of the Traffic Club of New England.

PIANOFORTE PUPILS OF ANNIE SOULE LEWIS IN AUTUMN RECITAL AND SOCIAL

The Autumn Recital and Social, given last Friday evening in Fortnightly Hall by Mrs. Annie Soule Lewis and her pianoforte pupils, was one of the most enjoyable events of its kind given by Mrs. Lewis in her years of local teaching.

Present and former pupils appeared upon the program, the quality of which was most favorably commented upon by the enthusiastic audience, composed for the most part of fellow pupils, their relatives and friends.

The whole affair seemed like a big family gathering, older pupils who were not playing acting as ushers and adding to the enjoyment of the occasion. Visiting pupils came from Reading, Vt., Reading, Medford, Woburn and Medford Hillside.

Several of those who played are the possessors of unique records as pupils of Mrs. Lewis. Dorothy Harrington of Medford Hillside studied for eight seasons without missing a lesson while Priscilla Frost Pease of Reading, Vt., and Dorothy Collins of Medford played in 12 consecutive summer recitals. Evelyn Snow Neilson of Reading and Freda Walker Wileox of Woburn have been favorites at Lewis recitals for many seasons.

Adding balance to the program were readings by Sylvia Parker and violin and cello selections by Josephine and Anna Smith, accompanied by Priscilla Richardson. Mrs. Lewis assisted her pupils in the presentation of several numbers and also spoke in her usual gracious manner. The social, following the program, gave opportunity for the renewal of former friendships and the exchange of happy memories of past associations.

Those who appeared upon the program were Margaret Corrigan, Evelyn Wheaton, Martha Goldstein, Norma Trout, Milton Heald, Doris Heald, Lorraine Hamm, Josephine Smith, Anna Smith, Priscilla Richardson, Dorothy Harrington, Sylvia Parker, Evelyn Snow Neilson, Priscilla Frost Pease, Dorothy Collins and Howard Collins.

WINCHESTER HOSPITAL CHILDREN'S WARD

Everyone is interested in sick children. Everyone wants to be sure that the children in their community are adequately provided for in sickness. This makes the recent addition to the children's ward at the Winchester Hospital especially appealing in its interest.

Several kind friends of the hospital have made possible the enlarging of this ward. Plans for this improvement began to take form last spring and the work was completed early this fall.

The children's ward now provides for accommodation of eight patients —six in the ward and two in a semi-private room across the corridor.

The equipment is absolutely up-to-date. There are cubicle walls of metal, and glass separates one bed from another, thus reducing cross infection to the minimum. Each bed has a headrest and adjustable sides. By the use of the headrest the children can be made as comfortable as the grown-up patients.

Sun parlor windows afford plenty of sun and ventilation, while Venetian blinds lessen the glare. High-low electric lights give a brilliant or subdued illumination as desired.

An open air porch with awnings adjoins the ward and makes possible and easy the obtaining of direct sun treatment for the children. A specially equipped utility room services this unit, completing the equipment.

The new ward is a delightful and airy apartment, gay with bright hangings, and fills a long felt need in the hospital. The directors and staff appreciate very much the benefit that the children who use the hospital will derive from the improvement.

LADIES' FRIENDLY SOCIETY

The Ladies' Friendly Society will meet Tuesday, Nov. 18 in the Unitarian Parish House. The Executive Board meets at 1:30 p. m. and at 2:30 p. m. there will be a Neighborhood meeting to which members of Alliances about Winchester have been invited.

Mrs. Frank S. Elliott, chairman of the General Alliance Social Service Committee, will speak on, "Our Church and Social Service."

Mrs. Juliet Tracy Shaw, soprano, will be the soloist for the afternoon.

Members and guests will be served tea at the conclusion of the program.

The Evening Branch of the Epiphany Church will hold a Rummage Sale, Wednesday, Nov. 19 at 2 p. m. in the Parish House.

On Direct Examination
THE WITNESS TESTIFIED
As Follows:

Mr. Roe McDanolds is a representative Hood Grade "A" Milk producer. He tells the story of Grade "A" production clearly and effectively. Our production manager gives him a rating of 99 per cent on this testimony. With men of this type making Hood's Grade "A" Milk you have one reason it has reached its tremendous popular favor.

1. Name? Age? Roe McDanolds. 26 years.
2. Address? North Haverhill, N. H.
3. Occupation? Dairy Farmer.
4. How many acres of land? 240.
5. Are all the cows in your herd tuberculin tested? Yes.
6. How much milk produced daily? 530 lbs.
7. How many cows are in your milking herd? 16.
8. Who does the milking? My mother and myself.
9. What time does milking begin in the morning? 5:30 A. M.
10. How are the cows cleaned? Brushed carefully daily and udders and flanks cleaned before each milking.
11. What is used for bedding on the floor of the cow stable? Clean shavings.
12. Is your stable whitewashed? How do you do it? Yes; with a whitewash sprayer.
13. What kind of milk pails do you use? Covered pails.
14. Do you wash your hands before you milk? Yes.
15. What kind of a strainer do you use? Sterile pad sanitary strainer; and a new sterile pad is used each milking.
16. What is the object of cooling milk? Preventing the growth of bacteria.
17. How is your milk cooled? In an ice water tank.
18. What makes milk go sour? Bacteria.
19. Who washes the milking pails? My wife.
20. Are they scalded? Yes.
21. Why not rinse them in cold water instead of scalding water? Cold water would have little or no value in final cleaning of pails.
22. What does the scalding water do to them? Sterilizes the pails.
23. Where do you take the milk? To the separate milk house 40 feet from the barn.
24. What does the man who received your milk at the Hood station do with the milk? He inspects and weighs it.
25. Does he take any samples? Yes.
26. What does he take samples for? Bacteria, butterfat, and sediment.
27. What does he do with the jugs or cans after they are emptied? Places them into a washer.
28. Are they hot when you get them back? Yes, very hot.
29. In your opinion are they clean? Dry? Clean and practically dry.
30. Where do you keep the pails and cans after they are washed? On a rack in the sunshine.
31. Do you receive any reports of laboratory tests for bacteria? Yes.
32. How low are your tests? My lowest count this year is 300.
33. Why does the company test your milk for bacteria? To determine its cleanliness.
34. What is the Grade A Bonus? A cash premium paid by the Hood Company for extra clean milk that complies with the Hood standard for Grade A Milk.

SEVERAL MOTOR ACCIDENTS OVER WEEK-END

Fire Truck Collided With Sedan at Bacon and Church Streets

The most serious of several motor accidents reported over the past week-end took place shortly before 5 o'clock last Sunday afternoon when Engine 3, on the way to a fire in the hill district, collided with a Chandler sedan at the junction of Church and Bacon streets.

Engine 3 was answering an alarm from Box 144, which had been sounded for an inconsequential grass fire at the corner of Ridge street and Dunster lane. As the fire truck approach the junction of Bacon and Church streets the Chandler sedan, which is owned by Mrs. Emily N. Latremore of 11 Lawrence street and which was being driven by Mrs. Latremore at the time of the accident, came out of Bacon street to cross Church street and enter Fletcher street. Driver J. Edward Noonan of the fire truck was unable to avoid the sedan which was damaged as a result of the collision, and had to be towed to the Central Garage. Only the bumper of Engine 3 was broken in the smash.

Mrs. Latremore was injured in the collision and removed to the Winchester Hospital by Patrolmen John J. Regan and John H. Noonan of the Police Department and Fireman Alexander W. Mackenzie of the Fire Department. She was treated by Dr. Milton J. Quinn for injuries to her head, face and neck, and detained at the hospital over night. Driver Noonan was suspended by Chief David H. DeCourcy of the Fire Department, pending the result of the hearing to be held in connection with the accident.

While traffic was still more or less congested as the result of the above accident, at 5:40 p. m., two Ford sedans, one driven by Romolo Ferrari of 198 Holland street, West Somerville, and the other operated by Florence M. Wild of 28 Badger road, Medford, were in collision at the junction of Fletcher and Church streets. Mr. Ferrari's car was leaving Fletcher street to cross Church street into Bacon street while Mrs. Wild was headed north on Bacon street to enter Church street. Both cars were damaged and Theresa Ferrari, who was a passenger in the Ferrari car, complained of injuries to her head which was bumped against the windshield by the impact of the collision.

The first of the week-end accidents occurred last Friday when a Ford sedan, driven by Robert R. Persons of 37 Orange street, Woburn, and a Chevrolet coupe, operated by Leonidas E. Sophios of 11A High street, Medford, were in collision on Main street at the traffic beacon in the square. The machines were only slightly damaged and no one was injured.

Shortly after 7 o'clock Saturday evening a Chrysler sedan, driven by Lillian A. M. Anderson of 569 Washington street, while headed south on Washington street, collided with a Ford coupe, parked on Washington street at the corner of Swanton street and the property of Harry G. Kempton of 46 Forest street. Both cars were damaged, but no injuries were reported.

At 4:20 Sunday morning Fred Davis a driver in the employ of H. P. Hood & Sons, had a narrow escape from serious injury when the milk wagon he was driving south on Main street was struck by an automobile at the junction of Main street and Mystic Valley Parkway. The driver of the machine did not stop. The shaft of the wagon was broken and the windshield of the car was smashed. Mr. Davis and the horse escaped injury.

A Ford sedan, driven by Walter J. Love of 242 Ocean avenue, New London, Conn., while going north on Main street at 2:20 last Sunday afternoon was in collision at the railroad crossing in the center with a second Ford sedan, also going north and driven by Francis A. Sullivan of 26 Marian street, Charlestown. Sullivan claimed that his father, who was riding with him, was injured as a result of the collision.

LAUNDRY EMPLOYEES HEAR NATIONALLY KNOWN SPEAKER

There is a certain fascination about the laundry business, as evidenced in organizations such as the Winchester Laundries, where there are a number of workers who have been in the employ of the company for over 25 years. Anything concerning the laundry industry is of interest to them.

At a special meeting held at their plant in Winchester this week, the Sales and Service Personnel had the pleasure of listening to one of the industry's best known speakers, Mrs. May Laing Grady, perhaps better known nationally as Mrs. Martha Lang. In the past months the name of Mrs. Martha Lang has appeared in the magazines all over the country in connection with her work as Consultant on Approved Methods at the American Institute of Laundering at Joliet, Ill. The Institute is known as the million dollar proving plant of the laundry industry and is also the home of the national association.

Mrs. Grady was one of the principal speaker at the Massachusetts convention held last week at the Copley Plaza, and those who listened to her message to the laundryowners of New England found her a most delightful personality. In her talk she paid highest tribute to the homemakers of today, and stressed the importance of modern and improved methods, courteous attention and prompt service.

Arrangement for the special talk at the Winchester plant of the New England Laundries, were made through Mr. A. T. Downer, president of the company, who is also vice-president of the American Institute of Laundering at Joliet.

MISS AVERY'S CURRENT EVENTS' LECTURES

The first of the 1930-31 series of Miss Avery's lectures was held at the Wyman School hall on Wednesday, Oct. 29. The Smith College Club of Winchester sponsors the lectures for the benefit of the Scholarship fund which gives annual aid of $400 to a Winchester girl attending Smith College. Mrs. Henry K. Spencer, president of the Club, presented Miss Avery to an enthusiastic group which has grown steadily in size through the eight seasons of her lecturing in Winchester, and practically fills the Wyman School hall.

Miss Avery visited especially England, Germany, Russia, France and Poland during the spring and summer, lecturing four times in England, once to undergraduate students of Oxford College, and to each of these audiences she has been invited to lecture again next year.

She found that the chief problems of these countries are identical, the two horns of the dilemma are everywhere haunting—war and jobs.

And upon returning to the United States she found the three chief topics of conversation to be still the 18th amendment, the drug problem and the young generation!

Here, where in New York City alone there are more Jews, more Irish, more Italians and more colored than in any one city in the world, where the incoming racial strains are often inherently lawless and nonconforming, we are gradually gaining a national cohesion through the understanding of our common problems and a common industrial outlook. In spite of our racial and geographic diversities we are being knit into a national code.

Among the handicaps of understanding between England and America is the fact that England speaks English and America speaks American.

Every nation is made up of two incoherent parts, those who are sincere-minded in their outlook and those of larger perspective. Towards America the feeling in England is better than at any time since the war and definitely better than two years ago. This opinion came from both sides in England.

Quoting from Viscount Chelmwood and others the opinion expressed was that war in five to seven years is unthinkable. The feeling among the little powers is very much better, their small differences have been adjusted with enough fairness to make them permanent. The feeling between England and France is not so kindly and there is no surety of the situation on the Continent with this feeling. Germany is taking advantage of this and is tending to pull away. But between France and Italy the strain is the greatest.

No war was ever born of a given incident. War is born of a decade of events and feeling. In the last ten years it was said in England, "Eighteen times we might have gone to war and didn't!"

Europe is anxious to know what we might do in case of war on the point of freedom of the seas. In joining the Pact of Paris we say "No nation has any right to use war as a means to an end." The nations are asking if we would be willing to say or to imply that we would not trade with the nation who started war in Europe.

Miss Avery's remedy for war is for one day at a time for a decade, keeping the national temper and sense of justice, and keeping national self control.

Germany is worried about the Empire dollars which are being paid on reparations and the national debt. It is a significant sign that business men are supplanting politicians in German affairs.

The psychological tension is very great in Germany. Communism and Fascism are on the right and the left the same. Men in the factories are producing less than a year ago. Mussolini is making a definite bid for German support and the Fascist party is gaining there.

An anecdote of Miss Avery's landing at Plymouth was the appearance of the officials of the town, the Mayor bearing the keys and the vice-Mayor with chains and with several others all clad in robes of crimson and purple, bearing a manuscript. From this the Mayor read an address of welcome to the Hampton Choir of Hampton Institute, Va., recalling the journey of Sir Walter Raleigh and a large group to Virginia. The leader of the colored choir expressed the gratitude of the choir for the honor paid them, for the pleasure of the reception and for the link between England and America, between Plymouth and Virginia.

A recent book on Russia which is strongly recommended is "Ten Years of Soviet Russia. A living history and a record" by William H. Chamberlin.

In closing she spoke of the Rotary Club, born in Chicago in 1905 and now grown to 3000 clubs in 50 different nations. The slogan is "He profiteth most who serveth best."

C. D. OF A. NOTES

The next meeting of Santa Maria Court, 150, C. D. of A. will be held on Monday evening, Nov. 17 in Lyceum Hall. The date has been changed from Thursday, Nov. 20, because of the Elks' Ball to be held on that night. Lecturer Catherine Rowen has arranged a delightful program for the Nov. 17 meeting, which is to be a social, the entertainment provided entirely by children.

Plans are already under way for an old timers' night on Thursday, Dec. 18 in aid of the charitable committee of the Court. There will be dancing and entertainment, modern and old-fashioned. Mrs. Hannah Stygles, chairman, announces that no one under 25 will be admitted without guardian or escort and anyone over 70 will be admitted free.

Miss Eleanor Ives is to be an usher at the Lawrence Tibbett song recital, to be held Nov. 24 in the Hotel Statler ballroom under the auspices of the Boston Home and Social Visitors' Association.

MOTLEY CLUB DEFEATED WINCHESTER

The strong Motley Club eleven won a Boston Association field hockey match from the Winchester girls A. A. Armistice Day forenoon on Manchester Field, 3—1.

Motley brought an experienced team to Winchester and included such athletic stars in its lineup as Rena McDonald, women's champion shot-putter and javelin thrower; Olive Hasenfus, Olympic sprinter and swim star and Mae Magrill, Olympic weight thrower and swimmer. The visitors attack was built around sturdy Rena McDonald, who is fast, a good stick handler and who possesses a wicked shot. Motley's defense was too good for Winchester, the Misses Magrill and Phillips permitting few shots to get as far as the goal uprights.

Winchester did not field its strongest eleven, being without the services of Virginia and Marie Merrill and "Betty" Hendrick, who were attending college classes. The locals' played a good game against their more experienced opponents, and at full strength would have made things interesting for the Motley Club.

"Puggy" Mercer was Winchester's star, and especially during the first half, made several spectacular saves, one a hard driven angle shot from the stick of Rena McDonald which was a gem. "Puggy" was prevented from stopping the third of the Motley goals because of the muddy condition of the ground between the sticks. The shot was a soft one, but the former high school goaler just couldn't cross over fast enough to make the save.

"Dot" MacKenzie and Capt. "Lou" Skilling were Winchester's most consistent offensive threats and the former made several nice carries up the field. Twice Winchester might have scored on passes in from MacKenzie and "Kay" Carlisle, but the passes were not covered and the Motley fullbacks quickly brushed the ball out of danger.

The sole score of the first half came shortly before the whistle, a high angle shot from Rena McDonald's stick. Mercer partially blocked the ball, which struck the upright and obligingly dropped in.

The big Motley center forward also scored the second goal of the game, a hard shot from scrimmage which the Winchester goaler just failed to kick aside. Midway through the half Olive Hasenfus carried from midfield to the striking circle and shot into a fierce scrimmage. From the flying mass of sticks Motley's right inner, Bushnell, shot an easy one past Mercer who was unable to shift to meet the ball because of the slippery footing.

Winchester kept fighting and two minutes before the final whistle, "Dot" MacKenzie rushed to the striking circle and shot. The Motley fullback thrust aside the ball, but "Lou" Skilling came up very fast and caged the rebound. Elsie Morrow played well on defense for Winchester. The summary:

WINCHESTER GIRLS AND MELROSE IN SCORELESS TIE

Winchester High School girls' field hockey team maintained its place at the top of the northern division of the Interscholastic League as the result of its scoreless tie with the Melrose girls' eleven on Manchester Field last Friday afternoon.

The locals failed to show the form of previous games and were slow to take advantage of several scoring opportunities which presented themselves during the first half. Only Capt. Caroline Nichols and Mabel Tompkins were hustling for the ball.

Melrose on the other hand put up a stubborn fight, and hustled all the time. Winchester was without the services of Olive Boutillier, regular center forward, who has left the squad.

Between the halves of the varsity game the Winchester seconds won a 2—0 victory from the Melrose jayvees, Edna Haulon, left wing, scoring both goals after pretty carries up the field.

The summary of the first team game follows:

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS DANCED

The A. A. dance given by the members of the Athletic Association at the High School last Saturday evening proved to be a huge success. The gymnasium was decorated very appropriatedely and picturesquely. The patrons, Principal Wade L. Grindle and Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Mansfield, were seated in one corner of the gym surrounded by a white picket fence. Around the wall were corn stalks and pumpkins. Entwined streamers of many colors were used to hide the ceiling and made a pretty effect over the dancers. The orchestra of George Varney was exceptionally good and many pronounced it to be one of the best ever heard in Winchester.

The committee in charge of the dance comprised Janet Nichols, chairman; Mabel Tompkins, Olive Boutillier, Paul Welburn, William Stalker, Charles Main.

To WOMEN who do their own Housework

HAS your telephone bell rung this morning?

If so, may we ask how far away from it you were? Whether at work in the kitchen? Or making beds? Or sweeping, dusting, or doing any of the numerous chores that come under the head of "Housekeeping?"

We are not asking out of idle curiosity. We, as Service Representatives, are assigned a definite number of customers. They are our clients, so to speak. It is our duty to see that they are well served in every respect.

We know that a great many women do their own housework, and are proud to do it, because housekeeping is a business in itself. They're interested in what science has done to relieve that business of its tedium or drudgery, and likewise in anything that saves their time or energy.

Now, when we suggest the saving of time and steps that a second telephone in your home would bring about, please do not jump to the conclusion that we mean another telephone line. We mean just another instrument, connected to your present line, but located perhaps in the kitchen or the bedroom. Then you could answer calls from either telephone and make them, too. It practically doubles the value of the service at only a small fraction of the first cost.

We would be glad to have you call us and let us tell you how an extension telephone could be adapted to your particular needs.

WINCHESTER PUBLIC LIBRARY

From Nov. 10-29 there will be an exhibition of photographs loaned by the Library Art Club on "St. Francis of Assisi" after water-colors by Pedro Subereaseaux Errazuriz, of Chili.

St. Francis of Assisi, a famous Italian monk and preacher, was born in 1182 and died Oct. 4, 1226. In his youth he was rich and conspicuous for prodigality, but a severe illness turned his thoughts to religion, and he devoted himself henceforth to a life of ascetic devotion, founding in 1210 the order of the Franciscans. His blameless, gentle life has been peculiarly adapted to illustration, and a visit to Assisi by Subereaseaux awakened a strong desire to give pictorial expression to the feelings these legends aroused in him.

Another Winchester boy jumped into the semi-pro football ranks last week-end when Roger "Ty" Sherman, ex-Norwich quarterback and captain, appeared in the lineup of the Millstreams. "Ty" was one of the best backs to play at Norwich in recent years and was the first of three Winchester boys to lead the Cadets in successive years on the gridiron.

BOWDOIN SQUARE THEATRE

At the Bowdoin Square Theatre beginning Sunday for the first half of the week the management offers a most enjoyable talking picture bill and vaudeville of the selected type. That thrilling talking hit, "The Sea Wolf" from the pen of "Jack" London will introduce in the cast such well known screen stars as Milton Sills, Jane Keith and Raymond Hackett. Another top-line feature will present, "Those Three French Girls" a story of Parisian life where three flappers take a party of ex-doughboys for a ride. It is well supplied with wholesome comedy and the cast will introduce, Fifi Dorsay, Reginald Denny, Cliff Edwards and others of screen value. Other features will make up the bill and on Wednesday night cabaret features are offered in addition to the regular show. On Thursday the entire program is changed including vaudeville and high grade pictures.

Mrs. Holbrook Ayer of Oxford street and son, Holbrook Ayer, Jr., left Winchester last week to spend the winter at Coral Gables in Florida. Holbrook, Jr., is to attend the Coral Gables elementary schools during his sojourn in the south.

SALVATION ARMY ANNUAL DRIVE IN WINCHESTER ASKS FOR $2000

The annual Salvation Army drive for the Winchester district for $2000 has now begun. Lt.-Col. Paul B. Moulton, the local chairman, Charles E. Barrett, the local treasurer, of the Winchester Trust Co., together with the campaign organizer, Leland H. Cady and his committee have the campaign well underway now.

The need is even greater this year than ever, on account of the unemployment situation, so everyone is urged to contribute as generous as possible. Send your contribution to Charles E. Barrett at the Winchester Trust Company or hand it to a Salvation Army solicitor when he calls as the solicitor will have proper credentials signed by Mr. Moulton, the local chairman.

The chairman and treasurer and committee of the Winchester district made the following statement today:

The Salvation Army stands ready at all times to feed the hungry, to clothe the naked, to give succor to those suffering from either mental or physical distress, in other words, to render the most vital service at the most crucial periods.

If all who are employed, who have steady incomes, will aid even more generously this year than in the past the Army can carry on its humatarian work unimpaired.

Help the Salvation Army to help others. We all know the good work of the Army, so let us all help them carry it still on further.

ADRIANOPLE: CITY OF TURKEY'S WEST

The destructive wind which recently left Adrianople's windows without glass, leveled building and toppled lofty minarets, adds another, if minor, disaster to the history of the venerable city, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Since Hadrian rebuilt the city in the second century, Adrianople has risen to envious heights among Turkish cities in commercial importance. It also has been engulfed in periods of distress.

A City of the East

The city lies on the banks of the Maritsa and Tunja Rivers, 137 miles northwest of Constantinople on the railroad which connects the famous old Turkish capital with Belgrade, Sofia and Salonika. Commerce that passed between the Balkans and other portions of Europe, and Turkey, made Adrianople a great market and distributing point. Tariff barriers set up by the Balkan states and emigration of the city's population—the Turks eastward and the Greeks westward—have been charged with the more recent depression of the city's commercial importance.

If visitors to Adrianople were unaware of its location on the map, a tour of the city would lead them to believe that they were east of the Bosporus, for a marked Oriental atmosphere prevails. Caravans arrive as they do in Damascus; dusty, ruddy-skinned camel men mingle with the street crowds, peering into windows where a colorful array of Oriental carpets, shawls, bric-a-brac and other eastern merchandise predominates; lofty cypress trees poke their uppermost limbs above the conglomeration of red roofs, and mosque domes dominate the irregular skyline much as they do in Brusa, while muezzins call the faithful Moslems to prayer from tall white minarets which point fingerlike to the sky.

Commercial Glamor Gone

As one peers into Adrianople shops, guides decry the fact that their city is not what it once was. Before the World War, they will tell the visitor, Adrianople shops displayed handsome pieces of Austrian crockery, artistic German iron pieces fancy French jewelry, and English textiles. And during a shopping tour, the tones of an American phonograph competed with the loud bickering of shop keepers and purchasers, and the boistrous calls of street vendors.

Although the city now is quieter, its population has diminished. from 85,000 to 56,000 since 1905, and things Turkish appear to be moving eastward, Adrianople continues to hang on to a certain commercial prestige. Raw silk from near-by mulberry tree plantations, cotton, opium, rosewater, attar of roses, wax, and Turkey red dye are exported; and the city still has a pride in fine wines produced from grapes from neighboring vineyards.

Adrianople came into its own in 1361 when Murad II took residence there and for a century it remained the seat of Turkish Sultans. Then Constantinople fell and Adrianople was shorn of its political importance. Bulgarians, Turks, and Greeks have all had a hand in governing the city from time to time since 1913, but in 1922 it was returned to Turkey.

RARATONGA, NEAR SCENE OF PACIFIC RESCUE

Raratonga, remote island of the South Seas, nearest land to the passenger steamer that recently sank in the Pacific, is the subject of the following bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. But for the rescue by another liner, the 251 men, women, and children who were on the disabled ship would have had to make for Raratonga in open boats.

Typical South Sea Island

Raratonga is the most fertile and most valuable of the Cook Islands, says the bulletin. It might be considered the typical South Sea island of the volcanic kind—the sort of island that a connoisseur of islands would most like to see rising above his horizon. And it has the added attraction of possessing one of the finest tropical climates in the world. During the warm season (November to June) the temperature ranges from 74 to 84 degrees Fahrenheit, and during the cool months, from 66 to 72. The abundant but not excessive rains fall mostly during the warm season and the island is well watered. A unique feature of the island is a spring that gushes from the top of a peak nearly 2000 feet high, giving rise to the principal stream.

The striking beauty of Raratonga arises from its sharp mountain pinnacles, the tallest of which reach 2100 feet above the sea, and the luxuriant tropical verdure that blankets them to the top. These stage-scenery-like peaks rise in the center of the island and from them the land slopes more gently to the sea, leaving a slightly elevated shelf. The houses of the villages are built of coral whitewashed, with thatched roofs. Peeping from the rich green foliage, they add greatly to picturesqueness of the island as the observer steams along the coast.

Plantations Rim Mountains

The island is six miles in length and slightly less in breadth. The level belt of land between the mountains and the sea is from one to three miles wide. This strip is very fertile and on it flourish coconut palms, coffee trees, and a variety of tropical fruits.

Raratonga is on a direct line between New Zealand and Lower California, about 1600 miles from the former. Since 1900 the island has been a possession of New Zealand along with the other Cook Islands and adjoining islets. Raratonga is about the same distance south of the Equator as central Cuba and Honolulu are north of it. Some 9000 people live on the Cook Islands, including 300 Europeans. About a third of the entire population lives on Raratonga. Its chief settlement, Avaruna, is the seat of government for the islands within a radius of 250 miles.

The natives of Raratonga became Christianized in 1821. Avaruna now has a training school for missionaries maintained by the London Missionary Society. In this little town of 875 people is a hospital, a wireless station, and even a telephone system.

REPORT OF DR. CHIDLEY'S TRIP TO CANADIAN ROCKIES

Northwest Farm Problems Discussed

Last July I sat with a North Dakota farmer on the piazza of his farmhouse. As we looked out over his fields he said, "I ought to have a fine crop this year if nothing happens, the first in four years. Farming is one of the greatest gambles in the world. I planted $1200 worth of seed out of my granaries this spring, which is about the average cost of the seed-grain each year on this farm, and if I get a crop this year it will be, as I said, one crop out of four. Add to the cost of the seed, the investment in land, tools, machinery and buildings, plus the cost of preparing the soil and putting in the crop, and it totals up into thousands of dollars. "In the township across the road there," he continued, "there are only three farmers who were there before the war who have been able to hold their land. The rest have been sold out."

This dismal story I heard repeated again and again in substantially the same language as I swung round a 1600 mile circle recently through our own and the Canadian Northwest.

What are the principal elements in this gamble which the farmer faces? They are weather and economic conditions. Consider the weather hazards the Northwest farmer faces, hazards which the Eastern farmer knows nothing about. What Eastern farmer, for instance, considers it necessary to carry hail insurance? Yet hail is the bete noir of the Northwest farmer. The majority of them carry hail insurance if they can afford it. And when I say "hail," I mean hail. Our small hail-stones here in the East have been known to ruin crops, but when the hail-stones are frequently as large as hen's eggs, and sometimes as large as goose-eggs their destructiveness is immeasurably increased. These hail-storms kill chickens and pigs, dent the sides of buildings, smash windows, and mow down crops as clean as if cut with a reaper. We saw one field of wheat in Saskatchewan where the farmer had made three rounds with his binder before a hail storm struck, and after the storm was over one could scarcely tell the difference between that cut by the binder and that cut by the hail, excepting for the sheaves lying on the ground where the binder had been. While I was in Saskatchewan another hail storm cut a swath 15 miles wide and 60 miles long, wiping out practically every crop within its range. It was so violent that all the windows on the west side of a train passing though it were smashed. After every hot spell the Northwest farmer lives in dread of hail.

Or take, again, the matter of wind. What Eastern farmer worries about having his crop "blown out"? Yet this is a constant menace in the Northwest. The violent winds, born somewhere East of the Rockies, sweep across the flat country unobstructed and blow the pulverized soil before it, piling it up along the railroad tracks and the roadways like sand drifts. The roots of the crops are left exposed to the scorching sun, and the crop wilts. I saw one half-section of wheat, 320 acres, completely "blown out," with the exception of a sheltered little tract of 30 acres. The wise farmer in the Northwest should also carry wind insurance.

Added to these he has the ordinary hazards of the Eastern farmer, drought too much rain, and frost. If his crop is wheat, which is the staple crop of the Northwest, he must also face the hazards of rust and smut. The latter falls as a silent blight some hot, dewy morning upon a promising field of wheat, and the market value of the crop collapses.

There is furthermore, the extraordinarily difficult situation of weeds to contend with. Dirty and lazy farmers have done inestimable harm in the Northwest. When land was to be had for the asking, they and their sons homesteaded large sections, and proceeded to crop it in the most slip-shod manner. Some of the land will not stand much cultivating, that is true, for it is not the heavy, clay land of the East, which must be pulverized in order to sow a crop, but is mellow soil that needs little cultivation as far as its texture is concerned. The land must be cultivated nevertheless, in order to kill the weeds. Some of these early farmers took unfair advantage of the soil and merely ran over it hastily, before sowing their crops in the spring, with a disc harrow, instead of ploughing it in the fall. The result was that they were forced, in time, to abandon their homesteads because the soil became so overrun with weeds that it did not pay to crop it longer. They moved on and took up land elsewhere. But the clean farmer is at the mercy of the dirty farmer whose land is near his, for seeds travel on the wind and affect the clean farmer's land no matter how painstaking he may be. The result is that vast tracts of the Northwest have become infested with mustard, wild oats and sow-thistle. The latter is unusually pestiferous, for it grows from the root, and will sprout from every node, like witch-grass, and will stay in the ground indefinitely awaiting its opportunity to smother out the crop. Not only that, it seems to make the soil sour, so that a crop will not thrive where it has grown. Besides the lessened yield, the farmer suffers a tremendous economic loss on account of these weeds for, in order to kill them, he must summer-fallow a large proportion of his farm each year. By summer-fallow I mean he must not sow a crop, but must cultivate this land all summer long in order to keep the weeds smothered beneath the surface of the ground. Some of these Northwest farmers summer-fallow one third of their farm each year. Think of the economic loss entailed by having one-third of one's land lying idle each year! This process, it is true, gives the land a rest, and in some sections farmers deliberately allow certain fields to rest a year in rotation, but this is not done in the proportion or with the economic loss with which it is done in the Northwest.

Of course there is still free land in the Canadian Northwest. Homesteads are being taken as a free gift from the Canadian Government. But here, again, one faces a new factor in Northwest farming. It costs more to break up the raw prairie than it did in the old days. The cost per acre of breaking up new land ranges from $10 to $15. Add to this the cost of equipment, and the fact that the first crop must be flax, which is at best a precarious crop, for wheat will not grow profitably on newly broken prairie, and the land is not so cheap as the first glance would lead one to assume. As one travels through Saskatchewan, for instance, he sees abandoned farms which were once homesteaded by hopeful farmers from the United States or Eastern Canada. There was nothing the matter with the soil, but under modern conditions of farming it was not economically profitable.

That the Northwest farmer is in hard straits needs no proof. I talked with dozens of these farmers, and there was not one who would not gladly quit if he could get out with a whole skin. Those who bought land during the war boom are hopelessly sunk. Their farms will not pay the interest on their investments at the present price of wheat. But even those who homesteaded or bought land before the war cannot make farming pay.

The remedies suggested, both by the farmers themselves, and others, are legion. Some say it must be more mixed farming. By that they mean that the farmer must grow less wheat and grow more of other grains, and feed those to livestock, thus getting their main income out of livestock. The situation in the wheat-market of the Northwest today is parallel to that which the Ontario farmers were facing 30 years ago. The Ontario farmer could not survive at the prices paid in those days if he shipped his grain to market as grain. He therefore fed his grain to hogs and cattle and sold it as livestock. He went so far as to combine and ship his cattle to the English markets direct, without paying the middleman's profit a commission. On that basis he survived and made money.

One North Dakota farmer, at least, has learned that lesson. On his farm I saw over 100 hogs last July that will be ready for the market this fall. He has also 30 head of cattle to which he will feed this grain. These hogs and cattle will furnish an economic buttress against bankruptcy if the bottom drops out of the grain market this year, as it seems reasonably certain to do. What will become of the farmers who have gambled solely on wheat is hard to conjecture. Perhaps, if they survive, they will learn not to put all their eggs in one basket again.

Others are convinced that the Northwest farmer is trying to handle too much land. Farms of 800 to 1000 acres are too large to be handled efficiently, they say. On the contrary, there are those who are convinced that, with modern farm-machinery and modern methods the solution lies in still larger farms. One farmer, with a tractor and "combine," that is a machine which cuts and threshes the grain in one operation, can farm 800 acres with no hired labor excepting two extra men at harvest time. My own observation leads me to the conviction that there are two things fundamentally wrong with the Northwest farmer. In the first place he has too much land to handle efficiently. In the second place, he has an obsession on wheat.

As to the first, a large-scale North Dakota farmer said, "I have always been told that you couldn't go wrong on land, so I bought more and more of it. I am convinced I was wrong. I have spread out so far that my holdings are gradually eating up the original homestead." We are familiar with the phrase "land poor." A great number of Northwest farmers are just that. But let me explain how this has come about. There are increasing tax-rates, for instance. Roads are being built, forced on the country by the automobile. More land means more aggregate taxes, and if the land is not paying, the more land one has the worse off he is. In addition to the taxes there is the cost of equipment. There is a certain point in a business or farming beyond which neither can be done economically without greatly increased capital. If, for instance, a farm of 800 acres can be handled efficiently by one man, a tractor and a "combine," working at maximum speed, it is evident that a 1200 acre farm, necessitating an extra tractor, an extra combine and extra help will not be economically productive. Labor costs and supervision are another item of expense which large-scale farming requires. Machinery is another.

Machinery is the bane of the Northwest farmer. In the first place there is the cost. If the farmer buys on credit, he must pay nine per cent interest on his notes. One has the suspicion, also, that the price of farm machinery is extravagantly high, so high that one ventures a shrewd guess that if the farmer makes a 50 per cent initial payment, the machinery company who sold it to him does not stand to lose much if he defaults on the other payments. If, however, the farmer has, say two bad years, as they have been known to have in the Northwest, and cannot make his payments, there is 45 per cent gone in interest charges. More than that if reckoned at compound interest, which is what happens. Add to this the fact that the farmers have no facilities for housing their machinery, due to the high cost of lumber, and it therefore deteriorates rapidly and needs replacing or is out of date by the time it is paid for in many cases, and it needs little imagination to see how machinery eats up the farmer's profits.

There are others who maintain that the solution of the Northwest farmer's troubles lies in consolidation in marketing. Two factors militate against this. The farmer is an individualist. He finds it difficult to combine with other farmers, and when he does, to withstand the temptation to sell outside the organization if his own personal advantage is to be served. To illustrate, there was a meeting of farmers in North Dakota a year ago at which the government farm-representative in the district urged the farmers to diversify their crops to the extent at least that of growing ten per cent less wheat the next year. All the farmers at the meeting agreed to sow ten per cent less wheat the following year. The farm agent happened to overhear on the train that evening two German farmers who entered the agreement, talking in their native tongue. One of them said to the other, "now that the other farmers are going to grow less wheat next year, we'd better grow more." The other assented!

But even when the Northwest farmer has been able and willing to combine, as in the various wheat and grain pools, his inexperience as a business man has frequently led to unfortunate results. While I was in a certain North Dakota village this summer there was quite a furor arose because it was discovered that some of the farmer-directors of the local grain pool had been using the surplus funds of the organization to buy wheat futures. These futures had collapsed and the $15,000 gambled was gone, thus wiping out the entire reserve fund. A meeting of the stockholders was called, and from reports it was a highly exciting meeting. But what was done with the defaulting directors? Nothing. The directors and stockholders were neighbors. Nobody wanted to cause ill-feeling by making accusations or pressing demands for refunding the cash. The result was that although each of the miscreant directors were property-owners, none of them was obliged to give any security whatsoever that the money would be refunded. The meeting broke up with merely vague promises on the part of the directors. Such a fiasco could not have occurred in an organization where the stockholders were accustomed to the first principles of valid business methods. As another illustration of the hazy ideas many of these Northwest farmers have as to business procedure, I listened to a Saskatchewan farmer singing the praises of the wheat pool. He told how he had got higher prices for his grain since he had joined the pool and a higher grading for his wheat. When I asked him, however, what cash reserves the pool had in case it could not later sell its wheat at the initial price paid him and other farmers, he did not know. He had not thought that far.

As a matter of fact this is the crux of the entire financial structure of the wheat pool, and vitally affects the farmer, as I shall show. Take the situation which the Canadian wheat pool faces today. The Canadian wheat pool held onto the 1929 crop because of reports of a shortage in the Argentine and United States wheat crops last year, expecting that prices would rise above the September quotations. The pool executives failed to reckon on the immense carry-over of the 1928 wheat crop in Argentine, which was dumped on the European markets at less than the pool price paid the farmers. The pool held on, in the meanwhile paying in some cases storage of one and one-half cents per bushel per month, and still the price of wheat dropped! Carrying charges in the past have run as high as 34 cents per bushel on Canadian pool wheat. The pool advanced $1 per bushel to its farmer patrons for September 1929 wheat. When the price of wheat declined below $1 the banks which were supporting the pool pressed for security. At least three Northwest provincial governments came to the rescue of the banks. But these governments are not in private business. Even though the Canadian wheat pool does include nearly 140,000 farmers, the entire population cannot fairly be taxed for the benefit of the farmer. Someone will have to pay the governments involved. The logic is plain. The farmers in the pool will have to make up the deficit. This involves a great strain on the loyalty of the farmer, individualist by nature as he is, as I have already pointed out. Of course he has signed a contract with the pool. Heretofore the pool has been known to sue members who have broken their contract by selling to outside markets. They have won their suits. Will fear of legal proceedings make the farmer stick by a sinking ship? Nobody knows. My hazard is, from what I have seen of American farmers under like conditions, that he will not. Should such be the case, what will happen to the pool? Evidently an effort is being made, as I write, to force all farmers into the pool. Such an effort will, however, be as ineffective as an attempt to call a universal strike.

Buy New England Coke from your local dealer. J. F. Winn & Co.

One cannot help feeling sorry that the pool is in such straits. There is no doubt that in the past it has been of great benefit to the farmer, both financially and as a lesson in combination marketing. Should the pool fail, the psychological effect will be felt for a century. The farmer does not easily forget. He is slow to trust others, and failure here, in his first venture, will burn deeply into his memory and make him and his descendants doubly timid in the face of any new venture.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude G. Fleming, and Miss Myrtle Fleming of 8 Glen road, this town, have left for their winter home in St. Petersburg, Fla. Mr. Claude H. Fleming is very much interested in the game of Shuffleboard. He has been captain of the Massachusetts team for the past two years.

Select your Christmas cards now while our stock is complete. There are some most attractive new cards for your approval at the Star Office.

Mr. Richard Parkhurst, secretary of the Boston Port Authority, was one of those making the trip about Boston Harbor last Friday on the tug Nathaniel P. Doane as the first step toward ridding the harbor of rotting hulks and floating debris which have long constituted a menace to shipping and health. On the east side of Chelsea creek were counted 125 hulks that have rested submerged from 20 to 40 years, and at the intersection of Border and Condor streets were found 18 hulks. While the investigating committee were stuoying rubbish conditions off the New Haven docks, South Boston, a submerged object fouled the tug's propellor, forcing her into drydock for repairs estimated to cost about $250.

We have the "Beacon Scotch" imported Coal in Egg, Stove and Nut sizes. Parker & Lane Co.

Mr. H. D. Likins of Glen road was one of those who reported the loss of coats from automobiles parked in the vicinity of Harvard square during the Harvard-Michigan football game last Saturday afternoon. A top coat was taken from Mr. Likins' machine which was parked at Harvard and Quincy streets.

Don't forget the Christmas Bazaar and Food Sale by Victoria Rebekah Lodge, Thursday, Nov. 20, from 4 to 10 p. m. at Association Building, 34 Vine street. Old-fashioned bean supper served at 6:30. Tickets 35c. Bridge and whist in the evening.

Patrolman John H. Noonan of the Police Department reported a wire down at the corner of Harvard and Washington streets on Armistice Day. The Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway repair crew was notified and repaired the damage.

Corner Stone of Republic

Though the meek may inherit the earth, agitation has a place in life. The theory that something ought to be done about something is the corner stone of our republic. Constructive criticism inspired the saga of faultfinding, which gave George III a pain in the neck.—Toledo Blade.

Classes of Diplomats

The terms career and non-career in reference to the United States foreign service refer respectively to men who have taken up the foreign service as their profession and to men who are appointed from private life to diplomatic positions.

World's First Settlements

So far as history and archeology tell, the first cities or towns in the world were built by the Sumerians in the Tigris-Euphrates valley perhaps as early as 4500 B. C. Towns and villages exist today on some of these sites, but none can be poluted to as existing continously.—National Geographic Society Bulletin.

New York Prisons

Sing Sing was first called the Mount Pleasant prison and is historically the third in order of New York state prisons. The first is Newgate prison, built in 1761, in New York city, and the second is Auburn prison, built in 1816. The Sing Sing cell block was built entirely by prisoners with stones taken from the prison quarry. It was started in May, 1825, and was completed in 1828.

Sheffield Plate

Articles of Sheffield plate are made of copper and coated with silver by a process of fusion. About 1742 Thomas Boulsover discovered accidentally that an application of heat would fuse the two materials so that they could be worked as one. Joseph Hancock, a relative of the inventor, soon applied it to the making of candlesticks and other articles for domestic use. The first factory for production on an extensive scale was founded in 1760 by Tudor and Leader.

Fish That Walk

Several specimens of the walking fish were demonstrated at an outdoor life show held in Chicago. This species has its breathing apparatus adapted to life out of the water. By means of its fins and gills it can travel overland from one body of water to another. It is found in Asiatic waters.—Pathfinder Magazine.

TO CALL MERCHANTS TOGETER ON CLOSING

President George E. Arnold of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce announced yesterday that the Chamber is planning to invite all merchants of the town to a get-together discussion of the holiday closing problem. A more definite announcement will be made in the near future, and will be welcomed by local business men who are tired of the haphazard conditions which have prevailed in the past.

AIR TRAVEL CREATES NEW TIES BETWEEN THE TWO AMERICAS

Hew airplanes are blazing new travel paths between the Americas, rescuing many places from long-time obscurity, and giving a cosmopolitan touch to others, is told in the following bulletin by Frederick Simpich, National Geographic Society correspondent with the party making an aerial survey from New York to Buenos Aires:

From New York to Buenos Aires is strung a line of American boys in overalls. Some are seaplane pilots; some are mechanics, with grease guns and wrenches; some are radio operators. There also are agents and ticket sellers, stationed at various ports. For now an air line for mail and passengers ties the two Americans together, and a small army of highly trained men is required to fly and care for the airplanes which operate this long-distance service.

Hotel Registers Tell Story

At our hotel in Para, 27 guests from the United States were registered. All were seaplane employees or air passengers. Already, seaplane patrons and crews have increased business enough in some remote parts off the main steamship lanes, so that new or remodeled hotels are discussed.

Flying has brought new types to cities all the way from Havana and San Juan de Porto Rico to Para and Pernambuco. Guests at hotels are accustomed now to seeing a crowd of sun-burned, khaki-clad flying Yankees come in from or to lunch, just in from a long flight, too hungry to stop to change clothes. In a day the mail-plane pilots make anywhere from 1200 to 1500 miles, eating breakfast in Miami and dinner in Haiti, or sleeping one night in Para, Brazil, and the next in Port of Spain, Trinidad. Passengers who ride these planes are up at dawn, and into the air before sunrise. Agents supply each with a lunch, and reading matter is put on the ships. Baggage is limited, but careful choice of light wash clothes and quick work by seaport laundry women afford comfort to travelers.

Many "Point-to-Point" Passengers

Mail flies from Buenos Aires to Miami in 6½ days, and passengers may make this same rapid cruise, though most of them are "point-to-point" riders.

Exotic scenes mark many stops. At Fortaleza, Brazil, men, women, nude children, with parrots, monkeys and dogs, cluttered the docks and beaches as we stopped for gas. Circling for pictures, before we landed, we saw pigs and goats run into the houses, as people ran out. Here and there we stopped, for three or four days, to make side trips, for we were not flying on regular schedule. To get maps, aerial photos of islands, lakes, river mouths, light-houses and harbors, we halted, gathering such landmark and other data useful to seaplane pilots along this great air path. While working out from Para, for example, the Geographic Society's party, flown by pilot Hawkins, explored the islands of Marajao and Mexiana in the Amazon delta. From terrain and lakes observed and photographed, it now appears that the Cayenne-Para leg of this long route may be much shortened by flying over these islands, safely, instead of around them as heretofore.

Wherever we stopped, the pilots are known, just as engineers and brakemen were in the early days of western railroading.

Besides being skilled flyers, many of these pilots are good linguists, as are also the airplane agents at many ports; for confusion of tongues is met from Havana to the Argentine. We have had Spanish, French, English, Dutch and Portuguese to deal with! And money! Some say it has no home—that it wanders where it can earn the best return. But along this line, jumping from flag to flag, we've found in use dollars, pesos, francs, shillings, Danish money in the Virgin Islands, guilders in Dutch Guiana, francs again in Cayenne, milreis in Brazil.

CROWD SPOILED TOWN TEAM—LEXINGTON GAME

Visitors Forfeited Game After Fight in Final Quarter

The Lexington Minutemen forfeited their game with the Winchester town team, 1—0, after a fight had halted play during the final quarter of the contest at Manchester field on Armistice Day afternoon. The crowd streamed onto the gridiron after two of the players became mixed up in a squabble, and with darkness rapidly approaching, the Lexington manager decided that his boys had had enough.

Perhaps his decision was a wise one. The rabid element of the crowd seemed intent upon precipitating trouble, and so spoiled for the big percentage of spectators what had previous to the scrap bred a nice football game. The trouble between the players could have been quickly ironed out if the crowd had stayed where it belonged—in the stands and along the sidelines. A scrap between players in a football game is not unusual, and if the boys are left to themselves, is quickly over. It's entirely a different story when a hundred or so rabid fans swarm around the combatants, urging them to "knock 'is block off." By far the larger part of the crowds at football games detest a brawl. They go to the fields to see football games, not gang fights, and it is too bad that a small minority can spoil a good time by starting a fight at any pretext.

Several of the Town Team's games have been marred by battles, and the players on the club should put a curb upon their pugilistic supporters, lest the latter spoil the splendid reputation which the team is winning for itself by its fine football playing.

The holiday scrap might have been avoided entirely, had a few 15-yard penalties been inflicted at the first signs of roughness early in the game. From the sidelines, at least, the game did not seem to be dirty, though it was a ragged bruising battle with both teams playing a hard game.

The elevens were very evenly matched, and the battle was a corker through the three and a half periods the boys were left to themselves. Winchester had the edge through its better passing game which finally resulted in the only touchdown of the battle just before the half time whistle.

Lexington threatened to score through the air shortly after the start of hostilities. With Watt doing the passing the Minutemen advanced to Winchester's 15-yard line where a pass was intercepted by the locals. On a spinner play the Lexington eleven was completely fooled and "Nutsy" Amico got away, running almost to midfield. Chefalo, "Sam" Horn and Amico crashed into Lexington territory as the first period came to a close.

Winchester soon found that it could do little or nothing with the Minutemen's frontier, and took to the air in an attempt to score. With Amico doing the passing to McNeil and Chefalo the ball was plugged along until Chefalo caught a long pass and was hauled down 10 yards from the Lexington goal.

Winchester plugged the line for four yards, and an off-side penalty placed the ball on the one-yard line. The locals then engaged in a joint debate which lost them five yards for stalling. Lexington took the ball on downs and rushed and kicked out of danger.

The locals would not be denied, and still keeping pretty much to the air they began to work the ball up the field. Amico was forced out of the game with injuries, and his place was taken by "Jocko" Prue. Lexington was failing to hurry the passer and Prue was doing some very accurate hurling of the pigskin.

Two long passes, the first to "Livin" McNeil and the second to "Punk" Cummings, again worked the ball into scoring position, and after a short pass to McNeil had gone almost to the goal line Prue dropped back and shot off a pretty heave out to the right which was gathered in by Chefalo, the latter going over for the score. The try for goal failed, and the half closed soon after.

During much of the third quarter the teams fought on even terms, though the ball was always in Lexington territory, due to some nice open field running by "Five Yards" Flaherty of the locals.

Shortly after the beginning of the final period, Lexington held for downs near its goal line and with Watt and Porter doing some pretty running, worked the ball up to its 40-yard line.

Amico had returned to the game and at this point he and Watt became involved in a mixup. The crowd ran onto the field, and anything approaching football was impossible from then on.

SIX MINUTES IN BUENOS AIRES

Buenos Aires, wonder city of Argentina, and metropolis of the southern hemisphere, is the subject of the following bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society. The bulletin is a communication to the Society from Frederick Simpich who recently conducted an aerial survey party from New York to the Argentine capital.

Fly 8500 miles south from New York, along new blazed seaplane paths that hug the Western Hemisphere, writes Mr. Simpich. Turn into the vast, muddy mouth of the River Plate—in South America—and fly 150 miles upstream. There is glittering Buenos Aires, one of the most remarkable cities ever built.

No city in the United States is so important to us as Buenos Aires is to Argentina. It handles four-fifths of all Argentina's trade, and houses 20 per cent of all the nation's 10,000,000 inhabitants. All its 2,000,000 people are either Europeans, or of European descent. This is true of only one other Latin American city—Montevideo.

Three times as big as Spain's largest city, modern Buenos Aires has expanded and rebuilt in the last 30 years—is conspicuous in all the world for its magic growth.

Focus of Argentine Life

The whole 25,000-mile railway system of Argentina has its focus here—the finest railroads in South America. No great motor highways radiate from the city, because the vast pampas afford no road-making materials. But by rail and river Buenos Aires handles more than half as much freight as the port of New York, and the net tonnage of ships calling each year is equal to all that passes through the Panama Canal.

Not trade alone makes it great. Its social, artistic and political attractions rank it among the world's most dazzling capitals. To it flock the rich, the influential, the intelligentsia of all Argentina. Our country as a whole would develop faster, said one prominent banker, if more of our best brains would stay in the provinces.

Yet, although so many land owners live in the city, the swift, prodigious growth of herds and farming on the vast campos is an economic phenomena in this comparatively new country. In Europe the Argentine visitor is noted among hotels, resorts and shop keepers for the freedom with which he spends money. These immense incomes are mostly from the soil. I visited one Estancia in Sante Fe Province that runs 50,000 cattle, and bursts of prize bulls costing $10,000 each and upwards. There were 25,000 hogs, 1200 horses, a creamery making 4000 pounds of butter daily for export to England; a private telephone system, a rambling chalet set in an artificial forest of imported trees, swimming pools, tennis courts—a princely estate that would make even a Texas cattle king dumb with astonishment. Similar ranches lie near Buenos Aires; others are far away, on the pampas. Their number, size, and money-making organization amazes the tourist—with schoolbook memories of woodcuts showing a hard-riding gaucho swinging a three-balled lasso over his head and chasing a longhorn steer—or an ostrich.

South America's Beauties in Reach

Nature is kind to Buenos Aires. Up the Parana are the majestic falls of Iguazu—and Guayra, solemn and stupendous, ranking with Niagara and Victoria in Africa. Up the Andes and under the shadow of Aconcagua—highest mountain in the Western World—runs a cogwheel railway that lifts you in a few hours from green plains to Alpine heights and snowdrifts 20 feet deep—where Argentine soldiers train on skis. Winter hotels are here now—a new St. Moritz. And there is ancient Cordoba, historic Tucuman, the famous baths of Rosario.

And as melons and oranges rush to our East from California and Florida, so Argentina's fruits flow into Buenos Aires. It lives well. Whole trainloads of fresh grapes come from the famed vineyards of Mendoza—and many reach our own markets. New York is at one end—Buenos Aires at the other—of a busy trade route. Now both sea and sky ships serve it. And ships are "Ceaseless shuttles weaving the fabric of international commerce and good will." Mutual trade has brought American investments to Buenos Aires—notably in packing houses, public utilities and banks. Two Yankee concerns alone control more than 100 light and power units in Argentina. Here too you see the new policy of great American corporations applied by which new their Argentine employees are encouraged to become stockholders.

Youth, vitality, sheer enjoyment of living, they are the attributes of Buenos Aires. Shiny new motor cars; fascinating, Paris-like shop windows; arc lights glaring on well-dressed midnight crowds in brilliant Calle Florida; cafes, casinos, highpriced restaurants and hotels, all packed with chattering, laughing people . . . Endless places of amusement, including the great Grecian Colon theater; and, on billboards, many names familiar to Broadway: Titta Schipa, Chaliapin, Spinelli, Mistinguette, "Pelloulus Parisiantes," they call the "talkies."

Immigrants Swarm to Argentina

And still it grows. Here lands the immigrant stream. Bearded men in boots, carrying bundles; wondering boys and girls, chattering in strange Slav or Latin tongues; bewildered mothers, their heads wrapped in shawls, hard-handed women bent from work, carrying babies and still more bundles—you see them all come slowly down gangplanks from European ships to stand a bit on the busy wharf and stare at Buenos Aires. Argentina needs these. She has one-third as much land as the United States; but only as many people as live in and about New York City. Or about one and one-third per square mile, as against 490 in the British Isles.

Can Booze be Regulated?

If it is so desirable that booze should have sanction of the law—if it is all right and can be controlled and regulated as some profess to believe—why has it been the target of so many prohibitions? For instance in the saloon days, why did the Government place so many restrictions on it? Why was the sale of liquor forbidden to young men under 21 years of age? Why were women forbidden to enter a saloon where men had free access to the bar? Why were saloons required to be located certain distances from schools and churches? Why did the railroad companies forbid their employees to drink liquor on duty or off? Why is it now a crime for a person to drive an automobile while under the influence of booze? Obviously there is only one answer to these questions. Liquor, personified is a crook.

Contrast conditions now with those prevailing formerly under the licensed, so-called "controlled" and "regulated" liquor systems when drunkenness was rampant. At that time intoxicated men were frequently seen staggering along the streets. They were also much in evidence on excursion trains, at picnics and other public gatherings, creating disorderly scenes and eventually causing a revulsion of sentiment that resulted in the 18th Amendment.

The Evening Branch of the Epiphany Church will hold a Rummage Sale, Wednesday, Nov. 19 at 2 p. m. in the Parish House.

BUSY WEEK-END FOR FIREMEN

The past week-end proved one of the busiest that the local firemen have experienced since early fall.

Their activity commenced at 12:35 last Friday afternoon when a telephone call came in for a brush fire in the rear of Cross street off Washington street. Box 521 sounded at 12:51 p. m. for a grass and hedge fire at the residence of Mr. Harry G. Davy at 23 Everett avenue. At 12:40 p. m. there was a grass fire at the corner of Washington street and Governor's avenue.

At 2:05 in the afternoon a telephone message called the firemen to put out a brush fire on town land opposite Lebanon street. Mr. L. B. Slocum of 337 Highland avenue notified the Central Station at 3:35 p. m. that a LaSalle coupe was afire at his home.

Saturday's first run came at 7:41 in the morning for the most serious fire of the week-end. The fire was discovered in the basement of the house at 760-762 Main street, owned by Mrs. C. Murray and occupied by Edward F. Maguire and J. A Cline. The fire apparently began in the cellar and had gotten a good start before it was discovered. Box 41 was pulled in by a passer-by who saw the smoke pouring from the basement of the house. The fire worked up into the partitions and through a closet into the back part of the house. The cellar timbers were badly burned and there was considerable damage done to the side of the dwelling occupied by Mr. Maguire. Most of the damage done the main part of the house was the result of the heavy smoke. The firemen had a stiff two hour fight before the fire was finally extinguished. The police were given a busy time handling the heavy Saturday morning traffic which had to be detoured to give the fire fighters a chance to work.

While the men were busy at the above fire they were notified that there was a second fire in progress at a near-by tailoring establishment. This proved to be only a pile of rugs in the cellar and was quickly extinguished.

At 11:23 Saturday morning there was a grass fire on Thornton road and at 3:16 in the afternoon burning brush called the men to Harvard street.

A grass fire was reported on the Shore road at 6:27 p. m. and an hour later a hay stack on fire took the department to Loring avenue.

Sunday's first call came at 3:01 in the afternoon for burning grass in the rear of 69 Cambridge street. Tel. Box 43 was sounded at 3:21 p. m. for a dump fire at the rear of Clark street.

At 4:55 p. m., Box 141 came in for a grass fire at Dunster lane and Ridge street and it was while enroute to this fire that Engine 3 collided with the automobile driven by Mrs. Emily N. Latremore of Lawrence street. Box 53 was sounded at 4:59 during the excitement occasioned by the collision at the corner of Bacon and Church streets and at 6 o'clock the final run of the week-end was made in response to an alarm from Box 35 for a grass fire in the rear of Puffer's factory off Swanton street.

WINCHESTER GIRLS A. A. WON FROM LEXINGTON

Winchester Girls A. A. field hockey team reversed its previous defeat at the hands of Lexington by winning its Boston Association match, 4—1, from the Lexington eleven last Saturday afternoon on Manchester Field.

The locals made their best showing of the season, and were never in any danger of defeat. "Kay" Vallely, Winchester's center forward scored the first goal of the afternoon from scrimmage midway through the first half, to be followed by a second goal from the stick of "Kay" Carlisle, also shot from scrimmage shortly before the half time whistle.

Capt. "Lou" Skilling of Winchester scored the third goal of the game, after a long carry up the field. Following the bully, Lexington worked the ball up and into a fierce scrimmage in front of the Winchester sticks. Left wing Park of the visitors finally got the ball past "Puggy" Mercer for the only Lexington goal of the game.

"Dot" MacKenzie, speedy little right wing, gave Winchester its final goal as the second half was drawing to a close, scoring her goal from a scrimmage in the Lexington striking circle.

W. EDWARD LAFFERTY

W. Edward Lafferty of 783 Main street died Saturday, Nov. 8 at his home after a long illness.

Mr. Lafferty was 29 years old and was born in Woburn, which city he made his home until 1921 when he came to Winchester. Until forced to retire because of ill health he had been employed as a tile worker in a factory at North Woburn. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Ellen McKee of Winchester; by two sisters, Miss Margaret F. Lafferty of Woburn and Miss M. Catherine Lafferty of Medford; and by a brother, John M. Lafferty of Chicago, Ill.

The funeral was held from the late residence Tuesday morning with a high mass of requiem celebrated in St. Mary's Church by Rev. Fr. William J. Clarke. Bearers were William Lagerty of Medford, Robert McKee and Arthur Johnson of Winchester, Owen Murphy of Woburn, John Quinn of Arlington and Theodore McCarthy of Medford. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery.

Sergt. Thomas F. Cassidy with Patrolmen Edward W. O'Connell, Henry P. Dempsey, Joseph J. Derro, John H. Boyle, John E. Hanlon and Charles J. Harrold went to Woburn on the holiday forenoon to assist in handling the big crowd in the Tanning City for the parade.

WINCHESTER WON FROM WATERTOWN

Emery Scored First Touchdown on Blocked Kick—Lundblad Ran for Second

A greatly improved Watertown High School football team put up a great fight against Winchester last Saturday afternoon, holding the locals to a pair of touchdowns in the Mystic Valley League engagement between the two schools on Victory Field, Watertown.

The game was pretty much an even thing. Winchester, wholly lacking in fight, couldn't make its offense click at all against the hard charging Watertown boys, and seemed very content to take things easily after the first touchdown. The locals had the "we-can-do-it-any-time-we-want-to" attitude against Watertown, despite the fact that during much of the game they were actually outplayed by the scrappy Crimson team.

Toward the end of the game Watertown put on an offense of its own, and had the ball inches from the Winchester goal when the final whistle sounded. The Arsenal boys showed a corking halfback in Lane and a good tackle in Rattigan. The whole Crimson line played well and had the jump on the half-hearted Winchester players, time and again sifting through to stop the local backs in their tracks. Captain Emery and Wilmer Smith with Lundblad, DiMinico and Mobbs kept the Winchester team from dying altogether.

Watertown kicked off to start the game, and Winchester's running attack was stopped dead by the combination of muddy ground and charging Watertown tacklers. Lee kicked to the Watertown 30-yard line and on the first play Lane got away at end for a first down on the 40-yard marker. Winchester braced and Watertown was forced to kick. Emery was through very fast to block the punt and picking up the leather, ran 25 yards for the score, aided by some very effective cleaning out by "Stutz" DiMinico.

Lee kicked the goal from placement, and from then until the end of the quarter it was even Stephen, neither club being able to gain consistently. Just before the whistle Lane grabbed a 32 yard pass on Winchester's 40 yard line, but Winchester braced again and Watertown kicked to Hickey at Winchester's 10-yard line.

The second quarter was only a minute or so old at this point and Winchester started an offensive drive that took the ball to midfield. Watertown stopped three attempts to advance the ball and Lee kicked to the Watertown 20-yard line. Watertown, on some effective running by Lane, advanced the ball to its 34-yard line, and there an offside penalty against Winchester placed the ball on the 39-yard marker. On the next rush Watertown fumbled and Winchester recovered at the 35-yard stripe. Lee got 5 yards at tackle and Wilmer Smith ran to a first down on the 20-yard line around right end as the half ended.

Starting the second half, Watertown kicked to "Dan" Smith who ran the ball to the 38-yard line. With Lee, Lundblad and Smith alternating in carrying the ball, Winchester rushed to the Watertown 15-yard line where on fourth down a pass was partially blocked and Watertown took the ball at its own 23-yard marker. Shortly before the beginning of the last quarter Watertown completed a long forward pass on Winchester's 40-yard line. Two rushes and the recovery of a fumble gave the Crimson the ball on Winchester's 30-yard line.

Here the locals hurried a pass which went awry and "Stutz" DiMinico was in fast to nail the passer on a second attempt at the Winchester 40-yard line, giving the locals the ball. Smith and Lundblad advanced the ball to midfield as the quarter ended.

Smith passed to Lee for 22 yards to start the final period, but a short pass lost a foot. Lundblad passed to Smith for 9 yards and Wilmer made it first down on Watertown's 15-yard line. On the next rush Lundblad got away off his own right tackle, and running behind nice interference went to the goal line where he dove over for the score. A pass for the extra point failed.

Soon after the kickoff "Dan" Smith intercepted a Watertown pass at the Crimson's 48-yard line, but Winchester fumbled and Watertown recovered at Watertown's 42-yard mark. Then with the assistance of a couple of penalties Watertown worked the ball along to Winchester's 28-yard line. Here McNamara crashed tackle for a first down on the 18-yard line and on the next play, a clever lateral, Lane reached the 5-yard marker.

The Watertown stands were imploring the team to score, and when Lane got two yards at center the crowd went wild. Gough added two yards at tackle but the Watertown boys wasted precious time in talking things over in the huddle and the whistle blew before another play could be run.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

At the regular meeting of the club on Monday, Nov. 3, Mrs. Idabelle H. Winship, first vice-president, was in the chair, owing to the very serious illness of the sister of the president, Mrs. Christine E. Hayden.

The American Home Committee, Mrs. Amy G. Grant, chairman, gave a very pleasing program to the members of the Fortnightly and their friends. It consisted of a Fashion Show put on by Miss Dorothy Dorr of Chandler & Co., of Boston, in which the places of mannequins were most efficiently and delightfully taken by ladies belonging to the club.

Miss Dorr called our attention to the length of gowns, saying that the regulation distance from the ground for a sport dress is 14 inches, a formal afternoon gown, five or six inches, an informal evening gown or dinner dress three inches, and a formal dinner or evening gown not used in dancing should sweep the ground. Although these are safe and general rules, she advised our being sufficiently individual to wear a length that is becoming to our figures.

Over 30 gowns were then displayed, being in each case shown with appropriate accessories such as hats, fur neckpieces, jewelry, gloves, bags, umbrellas, and of course, proper coats or wraps. Among these latter Persian lamb, lapin, broadtail, and squirrel were prominent as trimming. The gorgeous new tweeds for sport, and broadcloth, either black or in colors, for more formal day wear were favored. Evening wraps may be short or long, provided they are in keeping with the lines of the dress and may be in matching or contrasting colors. One most interesting detail shown was in the use of large patch pockets wholly of Persian lamb.

Among the gowns, the most outstanding points were those of fullness, sometimes in pleats and sometimes in circular flounces and godets, but always placed low, and the refreshing variety of sleeves and sleeve trimmings. There were long and short sleeves, trimmed above the elbow and below it, tight sleeves and large gracefully draped ones, embroidered and frilled, cuffed and open. It seems that this year one can have sleeves to suit them no matter how temperamental one may be.

The soft new tweeds for sport wear were most appealing, especially when trimmed with fur, and here it must be known that the fur on all pieces of the same costume must be the same variety to be really smart. Sunray treatment in nailhead decoration was most striking, and cowl necks may appear either in back or front. The Russian influence was plainly seen in the frequent use of the three-quarter length tunic in all daytime costumes. Lounging robes and pajamas were in very lovely colors and combinations, one particularly good looking pair in the new color, Bittersweet. Beauty of material and intricacy of line made the pageant of evening gowns a gorgeous and fitting ending.

Mrs. Nancy D. Alexander furnished the soft and pleasant music for the parade of the models, Mrs. Grace B. Aseltine, Mrs. Helen T. Bowe, Mrs. Sarah de Rochemont, Mrs. Mabel H. Gage, Mrs. Carolyn D. Gilpatric, Mrs. Martha W. Kelley, Mrs. Winifrede S. Meyer, Mrs. Ednah F. Miller, Mrs. Anne I. Sargent and Mrs. Gretchen H. West.

ALBERT EUGENE AYER

Albert Eugene Ayer, a resident of Winchester for nearly three-quarters of a century, died Friday morning, Nov. 7, in the Winchester Hospital after a week's illness. He was 78 years old.

Mr. Ayer was the son of Albert and Caroline (Stiles) Ayer, and was born in Charlestown. When seven years of age he came with his parents to Winchester, and had since made his home here, attending the Winchester schools and taking an active interest in community affairs.

As a young man he entered the express business and later was engaged in the fish business in Winchester. He was for many years a member of the Fire Department, having been a member of the Board of Engineers, clerk, and chief of the department in 1895. He numbered among the oldest members of William Parkman Lodge of Masons.

In 1875 he married Miss Addie Whitney of Winchester, who died in 1923. Surviving are five daughters, Mrs. Norman Schadt of Tujunga, Cal.; Mrs. William Hyde of Arlington, Mrs. Walter Senior of Medway, Mrs. Lester Lane of Hingham and Miss Rachel Ayer of Hull. A son, Luther Ayer of Plainfield, N. J., also survives with 12 grandchildren.

Representatives of William Parkman Lodge attended the funeral services which were held on last Sunday afternoon at the late residence, 11 Sanborn street, with the Rev. George Hale Reed, minister of the Unitarian Church officiating.

Bearers were Samuel S. Symmes, Chester Butterworth, Edward H. Kenerson, all of Winchester, and Amasa Harrington of Arlington. During the services Kenneth McLeod sang two favorite hymns, "Abide With Me" and "Rock of Ages." Interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

CALUMET CLUB NOTES

The winners of the ladies' afternoon bowling party last Friday were as follows:

Highest single string—Mrs. Glen Browning, 101.

Highest single string with handicap—Mrs. Albert Allen, 85 and 20, 105.

Highest total—Mrs. Warren Cox, 177.

Highest total with handicap—Mrs. Barker, 145 and 38, 183.

The next ladies' afternoon of bowling will take place on Tuesday, Nov. 18, beginning at 2:30 o'clock.

The annual Thanksgiving turkey roll is to be held at the club next Saturday afternoon and evening. Members are urged to visit the club and take their bird home with them.

Calumet now is in first place in the Mystic Valley League. On Monday evening it took the Middlesex Club of Arlington into camp 9 to 6, winning seven of the eight bowling points and two of the three card points. The billiards and pool went to Middlesex.

The scores were as follows:

Calumet will meet the Malden Club next Tuesday evening, Nov. 18, and a good turn-out is requested of members and friends, as these matches promise to be particularly interesting.

This Saturday evening, Nov. 15, there will be moving pictures at the club. The usual Saturday night lunch will be served after the entertainment.

Calumet will hold its customary New Year's party this season. Members and their friends should make no plans for this date until they learn of the plans made for this furiously full evening of fun and frolic for all. Reservations can be made now.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

Through an arrangement with the Calumet Club it is to be possible to run dances there, under the auspices of the Winchester Boat Club, but jointly with the Calumet Club.

It has always seemed unfortunate that the dance season at the Boat Club was so short, and now the opportunity has arisen for a continuation of those dances right through the winter.

The success of these dances will of course depend on the support accorded them. It is planned to run them twice a month. The charge is very reasonable. A suggestion is for members to bring other couples with them who are not necessarily members, thus making it more sociable for everyone. Young and old are all welcome and our aim is to give everyone a pleasant evening.

The first dance is scheduled for Friday evening, Nov. 21. Let us try to make these sort of community affairs and something to be looked forward to.

Now for a good turnout the first night, Nov. 21.

MYSTIC THEATRE

"All Quiet on the Western Front," a stupendous, graphic and truthful presentation on the screen of Eric Remarque's sensational book, will open a seven day engagement at the Mystic Theater in Malden on Saturday and also Sunday. Remarque's book, regarded as the greatest human document of the war, has broken all publishing records and has been translated into almost every language. No story ever pictured has had as many readers. The battle scenes of "All Quiet," in which more than 2000 soldiers, war veterans of all nationalities, participated are the most spectacular and yet the most genuine ever pictured. The cast is headed by Lew Ayers, Louis Wolheim, Slim Summerville, Yola D'Avril, Russell Gleason, and Raymond Griffith.

"The King of Jazz" with Paul Whiteman and his famous band heads the double bill which closes its run at the Mystic on Friday. This all-color picture is a feast of mirth and melody. Rin-Tin-Tin in "The Man Hunter is the second attraction on the current bill.

True Delight

The most fascinating thing in the world is a winding road. It forever holds a hint of mystery, a promise of adventure, a sense of freedom.—American Magazine.

Busy International Bridge

More than 2,000,000 persons pass over the bridge between Eagle Pass, Texas, and Piedras Negras, Mexico, each year.

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

"Her Wedding Night," revealing the amusing and romantic adventures of a red-haired movie star who tries to escape the men, is Clara Bow's new laugh and love hit which will head the double feature program the big Granada Theater in Malden will be for seven days starting next Saturday. "Her Wedding Night,' is an Avery Hopwood farce, with a succession of comedy situations that bubble and frothy in rapid crescendo to an exciting and thrilling climax. It is a new type of vehicle for the "it" girl, being altogether farce with little if any serious drama. Ralph Forbes plays the romantic lead with Charles Ruggles and "Skeets" Gallagher heading the comedy business.

Richard Arlen in his new picture, "The Santa Fe Trail" will be the second attraction on the program which opens at the Granada on Saturday. This picture is an adaption of Hal C. Evarts widely read novel "Spanish Acres." Rosita Moreno, former musical comedy favorite and vaudeville headliner, is Mr. Arlen's leading lady in this stirring story.

"Monte Carlo," with beautiful Jeanette MacDonald and "Jack" Buchanan as the featured players, heads the program which concludes its run at the Granada on Friday.

TO COMBAT YOUTHFUL "REDS"

Mrs. Archibald Jordan of Winchester, State chairman of the national defense of the D. A. R., was the principal speaker at a meeting of the State Director of the Children of the American Revolution and the presidents of the C. A. R., held Monday morning in the committee room of the Old Colony Trust Company in Boston. The meeting was called with a view of combatting the activities of the "Young Pioneers of America," alleged to be a youthful "Red" organization, through the incerased activity of the Children of the American Revolution which was founded 35 years ago and which has 26 societies in Massachusetts. Mrs. Jordan stated that everywhere the activity of Communists and Reds is being carried on under the very eyes of patriotic parents who seem supremely indifferent to the danger to which their progeny is being exposed. It has been so difficult to arouse parents to a realization that the danger is existing in their own neighborhoods and schools that it has been deemed wise to organize the youngsters through the C. A. R. to combat the activities of the "Young Pioneers of America."

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

Among the featured players in "Her Man" which comes to the University for four days starting Sunday, are Helen Twelvetrees, Marjorie Rambeau, Phillips Holmes, James Gleason, Ricardo Cortez, Franklyn Pangborn and Thelma Todd. The scenes of the pictures are located on the waterfront and gilded dens of vice in Havana. There is drama and swift-moving action, with an enjoyable mixture of relishable comedy.

"Queen High," the companion feature, was originally a Schwab and Mandel musicomedy smash-hit in New York. In its audible form it retains all the sure-fire laughs and all the original wit of the basic piece, "A Pair of Sixes." Its cast includes Charles Ruggles, Ginger Rogers, Stanley Smith and Frank Morgan.

One of the world's greatest romances is the basis for the action in Norma Talmadge's newest picture, "Du Barry, Woman of Passion" which comes Thursday for the last three days of the week. The plot concerns the heart adventures of the siren who risked power and a king's patronage for the love of a common soldier. A brilliant cast appears in the picture with Miss Talmadge.

The largest group of comedy players gathered into the cast of a musical talkie appear in "Bright Lights" the all-technicolor companion feature. It includes such able laugh getters as Frank Fay, Daphne Pollard, "Tom" Dugan, Frank McHugh and "Eddie" Nugent. Dorothy Mackaill, erstwhile comedienne, but in a dramatic role in "Bright Lights." Noah Beery, James Murray and Philip Strange, hold up the melodramatic side of this unusual picture.

BUILDING PERMITS GRANTED

The Building Commissioner has issued permits for week ending Thursday, Nov. 6, as follows:

Francis MacNeil, Somerville—new dwelling on lot at 39A Wildwood street.

A. E. Northrop, Arlington — new dwelling on lot at 19 Ledyard road.

J. Waldo Bond, Winchester — new garage on lot at 14 Mason street.

Herbert Petrie, Winchester—recover roof and make alterations to store building corner Main and Thompson streets.

Charles O. Anderson, Winchester—replace front piazza on dwelling at 36 Grove place.

Something Wrong

A new system of memory training was being taught in a village school, and the teacher was becoming enthusiastic.

"For instance," he said, "supposing you want to remember the name of a poet—Bobby Burns. Fix in your mind's eye a picture of a policeman in flames. See—Bobby Burns?"

"Yes, I see," said a bright pupil. "But how is anyone to know it does not represent Robert Browning?"

Anti-Jewish Outbreaks

"Pogrom" is a Russian word meaning devastation and was applied to anti-Jewish riots in Russia. The first pogroms took place in 1881 and were the direct cause of the first wave of Russian-Jewish emigration to America.

Thinking and Speaking

"To think quickly," said Ill Ho, the sage of Chinatown, "is valuable. To speak slowly is more so."—Washington Star.

ON OCEAN VOYAGES

Of late there seems to have been a regular epidemic of "almost" ocean voyages. We say almost because their chief object seems to be to get some old "crate" of a boat or some "trick" rig, tie up at some prominent municipal wharf and then invite the newspapers and their attendant photographers to come and interview the intrepid sailors. Tall statements are made about the long days at sea to come, the terrific storms to be encountered and finally the strange lands to be visited. The result is, as usual, a lot of newspaper twaddle, a few pictures and the mariners find themselves famous—or almost so.

The next move is to find that the alleged boat is not suited for the ocean voyage or that something has gone wrong with the financing and then—oblivion. Another "ocean" voyage has gone wrong.

Of course, there are those who have really done the trick. Dating back to the days of "The Old Man" and his voyages in Detroit and in Sea Bird down through countless others, Slocum, Gerbault, Pidgeon and other deep sea sailors who really sailed the seas. These men we give credit to, but we can't abide those publicity seekers who want all their press notices first and then do nothing. There have been too many of them lately and they have hurt the real sailors and have caused many of us to lose faith in legitimate enterprises.

Probably one of the most outstanding examples of a man who has really done something is our young friend William Albert Robinson and his husky little ketch, the Svaap.

Here is a totally un-press-agented affair, the story of which has been going on quietly in this magazine for something around two years. Robinson has really done things and at present is some 14,000 miles from his starting point and so far as we can ascertain, he is still going strong with a stout little ship, a good crew, consisting of one man, a camera and his trusty typewriter. Robinson has gone at his job in a leisurely and thorough manner. He has visited the isles that are usually skipped entirely by yachtsmen-voyagers. He takes pains to point out the navigational difficulties, the troubles with the pilot books and local dangers that will be of great value to those who follow his courses. He is truly making a real job of his voyage and his story is easily the most fascinating 'round the world cruise that has ever appeared in print. He is not prone to exaggerate, yet he tells of the interesting ports and islands in a simple, straightforward manner that contains considerable charm. His stories are well written and concise and are well worth reading, with their wealth of detail and interest.

We suppose that by the time the Svaap gets around to the Atlantic Ocean again, the newspapers will begin to take notice of her and by the time Robinson gets to New York the Mayor's Welcoming Committee will be on the job. It's quite true that some fuss and feathers should be made over this rather bashful and unassuming young man.—[The Rudder.

LIFE IN THE CACAO COUNTRY OF BRAZIL

In the mouth of a crocodile-infested river we anchored our seaplane and went ashore in the palm-fringed little town of Ilheos, Brazil, writes Frederick Simpich, National Geographic Society correspondent with the seaplane party which is surveying routes from Washington to Buenos Aires. Ilheos lives on chocolate beans, or cacao. One-seventh of the world's crop moves from here, and five men managed the giant industry.

Riding in a gasoline speed car, with the railway manager, we rattled out over the 50-mile toy line which wanders into the jungle.

From the forest whizzed a stinging bug, and bit our driver on the nose. If we weren't here, he would probably take a crocodile tooth from his pocket and rub his nose with it, said our host. That is the popular cure here for snake bites and other poisons. We passed a new-made grave with flowers on it. A man killed by a crocodile had just been buried.

Dogs are the crocodiles' favorite dish. When a village dog ventures near the river bank at night and barks, the crocodiles gather.

In the state of Bahia are about 80,000,000 cacao trees; this fruit has been grown here for about 150 years, and the tiny railway serves the heart of the great cacao region. It hauls more tons of freight per mile than any other line in South America.

Leaving the coastal plain and entering the foothills, one sees the cacao plantations. We walked in the shaded groves. Among bigger, protecting trees the small cacao trees are planted thus sheltered from sun and wind. I twisted off a green fruit, broke it open and tasted the whitish seeds; the flavor was like watermelon. Barefoot men and women split the pods, empty the seeds on a wide platform, and tread them free of pulp and pith. They call this "Dancing the Cacao."

The seeds are dried by stirring them in a big flat bin. A wide roof, set on wheels, is at hand, to be hastily hauled over the bin if it rains. Turning a dark brown when dried, and tasting plainly of unsweetened chocolate when ripe, the beans are packed in bags and sent to Europe and the United States. In 30 years Bahia's export has risen from 150,000 to 1,200,000 bags a year. Brazil herself drinks very little chocolate—but much coffee.

Near a station named "Lava Pes," or "Wash Your Feet," we stopped to watch a long file of umbrella ants. Each carried a leaf, as if it were an umbrella. Many ants were up in a tree, biting off bits of leaf and dropping them to other ants waiting on the ground. This line of marching ants is often a mile or more long. The ants carry the leaves to their underground home, and store them. On the leaves a fungus forms, and this the insects eat.

Under a shed nearby we saw four men, with machetes, scraping a wild pig they had shot.

Farther up the line we crossed a small stream running among cacao-covered hills. Long chutes made of boards ran down the hillsides to the water's edge. Down these chutes natives were sliding fresh cacao beans, which emptied into waiting dugout canoes. Although cacao has been grown here for so long, the methods of harvesting it are still primitive; for labor is cheap.

White men find life here hard, because of so many insects, and malaria. Bugs are a plague. I saw a horned tumble-bug more than seven inches long—larger than many kinds of birds. And there were snails that must have weighed half a pound, and there was the fer de lance, and other bad snakes.

For days I see only native workmen, an English superintendent told me. The natives' language is quickly learned—they use only about 400 words, a blend of Portuguese, Indian, and African words imported by slaves.

MILK CHART FOR MONTH OF SEPTEMBER 1930

Published by the Winchester Board of Health

The bacteria count in this chart gives the number of bacteria found in one c. c. taken from the center of the sample after it had been well shaken. It should be remembered that another c. c. taken from the same sample might give a somewhat different count, but the difference would rarely, if ever, exceed 10 per cent.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE

By virtue and in execution of the Power of Sale contained in a certain mortgage given by Dorothy A. Brine to the Wildey Savings Bank, dated June 5, 1905 and recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds in Book 3173, Page 456, of which mortgage the undersigned is the present holder, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same will be sold at public auction on the premises on Monday, the twenty-fourth day of November, 1930 at ten-thirty o'clock in the forenoon, all and singular the premises which are described in said mortgage substantially as follows:

"A certain parcel of land with all the buildings thereon * * * * * * * situated in said Winchester on the Southwesterly corner of Washington and Webster Streets, bounded and described as follows, to wit: Northwesterly by said Washington Street about one hundred and twenty three feet; Northeasterly by said Webster Street about one hundred and sixty five feet, Southeasterly by land of Caroline A. Payne by a line passing through the centre of a hedge and the centre of two red cedar stakes therein about one hundred and twenty three feet; and Southwesterly by land of Amelia C. Greenlaw by a line passing through the centre of a hedge and the centre of a red cedar stake at the corner of the hedge about one hundred and seventy feet. Said premises are conveyed together with and subject to all rights contained in deed of Joseph Shattuck to Dorothy A. Brine dated April 30, 1892 and recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds, Book 2116, page 28, or however otherwise said premises may be bounded or described."

The premises will be sold subject to all unpaid taxes, tax titles, sewer assessments and municipal liens if any there are.

A deposit of five hundred dollars ($500.) in cash will be required to be paid by the purchaser at the time and place of sale, the balance to be paid in ten (10) days from date of sale.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given Harry T. Elliott to the Winchester Co-operative Bank, dated October 8, 1929, being Document No. 101,282 noted on Certificate of Title No. 29,851 filed in the South Registry District for Middlesex County, Registration Book 200, Page 205, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same will be sold at public auction on the premises hereinafter described on Monday, November 24, 1930 at nine o'clock in the forenoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, and therein substantially described as follows:

"A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon situated in Winchester, Middlesex County, on Grayson Road, and being shown as Lot 33 on a plan hereinafter referred to, said lot being more fully bounded and described as follows: Southwesterly by Grayson Road sixty-six and 32/100 (66.32) feet, Southeasterly by Lot 12, one hundred six and 95/100 (106.95) feet; Northeasterly by land now or formerly of George R. Nugent, sixty-six and 50/100 (66.50) feet; Northwesterly by Lot 31, one hundred two and 07/100 (102.07) feet. All of said boundaries are determined to be located as shown on a plan drawn by Parker Holbrook, Engineer, dated July 21, 1929, and filed in the Middlesex South District Deeds, as plan numbered 3535-1, and filed with Certificate of Title No. 29,398. The above premises are subject to restrictions of record so far as the same may now be in force and applicable. Hereby conveying the same premises conveyed to Harry T Elliott by the Winchester Realty Company, by deed dated Oct. 7, 1929, and duly recorded with said Deeds."

Said premises will be sold subject to all unpaid taxes, tax titles, assessments or other municipal liens. $200.00 in cash will be required to be paid at the time of the sale and the balance to be paid within ten (10) days from the date of sale at Room 810, 10 State Street, Boston, Mass. Office of the BOARD OF SELECTMEN Winchester, Mass.

You are hereby required on or before Dec. 1, 1930 to destroy the gypsy and brown-tail moths on your property in this town.

This notification is in accordance with Chapter 132, Section 18, General Laws, which requires cities and towns to destroy the eggs, caterpillars, pupae and nests of the gypsy and brown-tail moths, under heavy penalty for failure to comply with the provisions of the law.

If a property owner fails to destroy such eggs, caterpillars, pupae and nests, then the city or town is required to destroy the same, and the cost of the work, in whole or in part, according to the value of the land, is assessed upon and becomes a lien on the land. (See Section 18, Chapter 132, General Laws, on reverse).

The Selectmen ask owners and tenants to co-operate with the town in its work on highways and other public grounds by doing effective work on their premises. Citizens, who have cleaned their premises of the moths but find their trees endangered by the neglect of owners of adjoining estates, should make complaint to the Selectmen. The infestation of a residential neighborhood by the neglect of a few will not be tolerated.

The eggs of the gypsy moths should be destroyed at once with creosote. They should never be scraped off the object on which they are laid. Careful search should be made for gypsy moth egg clusters, not only on trees, but also on house walls, stone walls, fences and in rubbish heaps, etc. (Trees in which cavities occur and which it is not desirable to cut should have the cavities tinned or cemented. This is important.) The present and future cost of combating this insect can be greatly reduced by cutting and burning worthless brush, hollow trees, etc. A few trees well cared for are more valuable to the property owner and the community than a large number of neglected trees.

The nests of the brown-tail moths should be cut off the trees, carefully collected and burned in stove or furnace.

QUITO: EQUATORIAL CITY OF SPRINGLIKE CLIMATE

With Ecuador's Cabinet reinstated and its Congress voting confidence in its President, Quito, the country's unique capital, settles down to its normal status.

Quito's suburbs nearly touch the Equator but its 100,000 inhabitants enjoy perpetual springtime, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. The city nestles in a bowl-shaped depression nearly two miles high among the Andean peaks. Snow-capped mountains are visible from the streets.

Railroad Makes City Accessible

Before the completion of the Quito-Guayaquil railroad, connecting the capital with Ecuador's principal gateway and port, Quito was isolated. The few travelers that visited the city trekked for two weeks over difficult trails to reach Quito. Now, by rail, they may alight at the Quito depot the evening of the second day out of Guayaquil. The night is spent at a hotel in Riobamba, a picturesque Andean town near the base of Mt. Chimborazo, Ecuador's loftiest mountain peak.

Shop windows of Quito reveal what the freight car has done for the city. They might have been lifted from Fifth Avenue and set down in the streets of the capital. Behind large plate glass windows are displayed American radios, bolts of English cloth, French perfumery and cosmetics, and chinaware from Germany.

Motor Cars and Caravans

At the curb purr motors of smart, red, green and yellow automobiles from Detroit that have just discharged wealthy Quitans dressed in the latest fashions from New York, London and Paris.

But Quito retains remnants even of pre-Spanish days. The smart motor cars must dodge straggling, dust-covered, donkeys and llamas with cargoes of lumber, bags of cacao beans and vegetables, and bundles of Panama hats lashed to their backs. If the traveler knows his Ecuador Indians, he can identify their origin by the cut of the merchants' orange ponchos and their glossy black hair.

Ten Dollar Panama Hats are Popular Headgear

Many Indians make Quito their permanent residence; many come and go from the rural districts with the Quito sun. In the market place the bright shawls and ponchos of the natives add color to the piles of fruit and vegetables, homemade cloth and dyed cloth. Some of the bronze-skinned visitors particularly those who specialize in selling blankets, prefer the streets to dispose of their merchandise. Nearly all of them wear Panama hats because Ecuador is the home of "Panama" hats.

In nearly three centuries that the Spanish ruled Ecuador they saturated the capital city with their customs. The principal square, Plaza Mayor, is laid out in Spanish style, with a Spanish government building facing it. Here and there, throughout the city, ornate facades of Spanish churches rise above the roof tops. The narrow cobbled streets flanked by white, red-roofed houses with balconied upper stories recall streets of cities in Spain.

Many of these Spanish-appearing houses are occupied by pure blooded Spanish families. Frequently, however, a sort of native variety shop occupies the first floor where sacks of grain and vegetables, reels of rope and piles of blankets block the doorway, while the sides and tops of the openings are ornamented with clusters of rat traps, tin cups and cheap trinkets, donkey belly bands, and woven leather belts.

MISS CAROLYN D. SMILEY

TO SPEAK AT FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH SUNDAY MORNING AT 10:30

"The Orient in Revolution"

Miss Carolyn D. Smiley, associate editorial secretary of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, has just returned from a 11 months' tour of mission stations around the world, during which she has studied at first hand the educational phases of missions. Interviews with Mahatma Gandai, whom she terms the "Prophet of India;" Toyohiko Kagawa, internationally known Japanese Socialist, laobr leader and novelist; outstanding Christian nationals in India, China, Japan and Turkey; and Kumiai Church leaders in Japan, have given Miss Smiley an intimate knowledge of international foreign mission and a well-informed world outlook. This wealth of information she will interpret to American audiences from lecture platforms and through church publications.

Miss Smiley first left American soil in 1916 to serve an eight year term as a missionary teacher in American Board Girls' School at Ahmednagar, India. Before returning to America she completed a seven months' tour of Burma, Malay, Java, Ceylon, Egypt, Constantinople and Europe, during which she studied schools, colleges, and student life. The tour just finished included France, Turkey India, Ceylon, China, Japan and the Philippine Islands.

From India, where she attended a National Congress meeting at Lahore, Miss Smiley brings many beautiful hangings and costumes which she will use in lecture work. She has made 7000 feet of moving picture film portraying every phase of Indian life, as well as scenes from China, Turkey, Japan, Ceylon and the Philippine Islands. "My object is to bring to America a knowledge of the beautiful things of India," says Miss Smiley. "We have heard far too much of the dark side of the country and few people realize its marvelous beauty."

Miss Smiley is the daughter of Mrs. James H. Smiley of Symmes road, Winchester. She was born in Riverside, R. I., where her father was a Congregational minister. After one year in Middlebury College, she transferred to Mt. Holyoke, where she was graduated in 1912, and she then taught in Marion and Williamstown for a year and a half. After a special course of study at the Theological School in Berkeley, Calif., she sailed to the foreign field.

The public is invited. Dr. Chidley will conduct the worship.

A CORRECTION

An error occurred in the Star's report of the selection of Janet Nichols as left wing on the All Boston public school honorary field hockey team last week. In our article we stated that Janet is captain of the girls' basketball team at high school, and this we learn is incorrect. Loretta Carleton, one of the few girls to win varsity letters in three sports, is basketball captain, and we regret the mistake which witheld from her recognition of the distinction which is hers. We got our information from a source which we thought was authentic, and we are sorry that we were misinformed. Loretta has made an enviable athletic record at high school and the Star would be the last to deprive her of any credit which is her due.

TO PREACH AT CHURCH OF THE EPIPHANY

It will be of interest to many to know that Dr. John W. Wood, executive secretary of the Department of Missions under the National Council of the Episcopal Church will preach at the Church of the Epiphany, Sunday, Nov. 23 at 11 o'clock.

Dr. Wood is a layman who has given his life to this work and has held the position for many years. He adjusts difficulties in our Mission stations, specializing in foreign lands. Over and over again he has been sent to China and lately has returned from Liberia. Naturally under the conditions, he knows his subject well and it will be to the benefit of all who hear him on Sunday.

"Johnnie" Morton of Winchester, who has starred at fullback for the undefeated Rivers School football team this fall, won the punting, passing and dash events Wednesday at the Rivers qualification meet for the private school football meet, held today. Morton, a big rugged boy, who gave promise last year while playing with Winchester High of developing into quite an end, has been the big offensive threat of the first undefeated eleven in Rivers' history.

FIREMAN SUSPENDED FOR TWO WEEKS

Was Driver of Apparatus Which Collided with Winchester Woman's Sedan Sunday

Fireman J. Edward Noonan of the Winchester Fire Department was notified yesterday by Chief David H. DeCourcy of his suspension for two weeks without pay and the loss of liberty days for the remainder of the year for violation of an order forbidding drivers of local fire apparatus to drive through a red traffic light. Fireman Noonan was found by Chief DeCourcy to have driven through a red traffic light at the junction of Church and Bacon streets Sunday afternoon, Nov. 9, when Engine 3, which he was driving, was in collision with a Chandler sedan, drven by Mrs. Emily Latremore of 11 Lawrence street. Mrs. Latremore was injured and was taken to the Winchester Hospital from which she was subsequently discharged.

Fireman Noonan was relieved from duty after the accident and suspended the following morning by Chief DeCourcy. The former petitioned for a hearing, and one was granted last Monday evening by Chief DeCourcy, the hearing being held in the Selectmen's rooms. Fireman Noonan was represented by Attorney William E. Ramsdell. Chief DeCourcy, who was the complaining officer, was represented by Town Counsel Addison R. Pike.

Fireman Noonan testified that he failed to see a red light, but did see that the light changed from green to amber. He claimed that Mrs. Latremore's sedan came out of Bacon street and slowed down near the middle of the road and then started again. He stated that he did everything possible to avoid an accident. Other witnesses, Fireman Alexander W. MacKenzie and Harry Brown, corroborated Noonan's statement that he did his best to avoid an accident, but differed with him on the lights on the traffic beacon.

Mrs. Latremore did not testify, nor did anyone speak at the meeting in her behalf. Chief DeCourcey, who heard the case, reserved his decision after the hearing, but in accordance with civil service regulations notified Fireman Noonan of his decision yesterday. The two weeks date from the original suspension following the accident.

The order, which Chief DeCourcey found Fireman Noonan guilty of violating, was issued Nov. 6, 1929, and relates to the Traffic Beacon at Bacon and Church streets. In substance it orders drivers to come to a full stop, if red light shows and then to proceed with caution.

As a result of the recent accident Chief DeCourcey has issued a new order which is as follows:

"Drivers of Fire Apparatus shall not drive the apparatus past a signal light in the center of the town, if showing amber or red, unless a police officer on foot is near the light to signal the driver to proceed through.

"Drivers shall not pass to the left of an electric car at the junction of Mt. Vernon and Main streets if street is blocked on the right side unless signalled to do so by an officer."

HIGH SCHOOL IN FINAL GRID GAMES

Plays Saugus Tomorrow and Woburn on Thanksgiving

Winchester High School closes its current football season with two games, meeting Saugus High on Manchester Field tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, and playing Woburn High at Woburn at 10:15 on Thanksgiving forenoon.

For several years the locals have been meeting Saugus and have generally proved too good for the boys down Lynn way. Stoneham won from Saugus by 19 to 0 so on paper at least the locals are favored to win.

The Woburn game on the holiday is something else again, and the fact that the Tanners lost at Watertown makes the Star view the battle as pretty much of an even thing. If Woburn had won last Saturday we would unhesitatingly pick Winchester, for its record for the season is the better of the two schools'.

Winchester, however, will have to guard against over confidence at Woburn on the holiday, for it is a safe bet that the Tanners will play their best game of the year against Winchester, and at their best the Woburn boys are no setup for any ball club.

The Tanners and Winchester are not so far apart on comparative scores. Both played scoreless ties with Arlington, and Woburn scored a single point more against Wakefield than did the locals. Melrose ran up 32 points on Woburn to 20 against Winchester, but the Tanners were able to score on the Red and Gray. Winchester, however defeated Watertown which in turn won from Woburn. Playing at Woburn gives the Tanners a big advantage, and so the dope is all scrambled again. At all events, the game looms as a real battle. Winchester-Woburn meetings are always like that. Each school considers a win over the other as indicative of a successful season, and both will give everything they have to bring that win back home. The Woburn field is behind the high school building and may be reached by Montvale avenue out of the square. Kick-off at 10:15.

Rev. Fr. Clarence A. Macksey of St. Teresa's Church, North Everett, will preach at the devotions to St. Rita, to be held this evening in St. Rita's Church, Lowell. Father Macksey is a Winchester boy and sung his first mass in St. Mary's Church three years ago.

WINCHESTER HOSPITAL

Work of the Winton Club

The Winton Club was started in Winchester over 17 years ago to work for the Winchester Hospital. It has attended to sewing and mending for the hospital and has in all these years contributed generously toward the purchase of new linen. There are 60 active members and 59 associate members.

The contribution of the club during the past year has been a noteworthy one. The members have given the hospital $3500 during their last fiscal year. They raised this amount from their dues and from the most successful cabaret that they presented in Winchester last January. In addition to this contribution, many pieces of linen, that the superintendent reports as needed for hospital use, are made at the meetings, all of which are sewing meetings.

Last year the $1000 that the club gave the hospital provided for the supply of linen. The $2500 additional was spent by the directors for improvements that would distinctly benefit the patients who use the hospital. Five hundred dollars fitted up a premature room that could accommodate and care for three babies. This room has been in constant use since it was equipped.

One thousand dollars furnished the new dietitic laboratory. This new equipment will improve the training and teaching given the students in their study of food preparation. One thousand dollars went toward the expense of the addition to the children's ward, recently completed, making it a delightful and sunny ward for its little patients.

The Winton Club is arranging a masquerade dance to be given on the evening after Thanksgiving and plans are underway for a cabaret later in the year. The directors of the hospital appreciate very much the generous contributions of time and money from the club.

ROTARY CLUB

We shall most assuredly miss our meeting which is regularly scheduled for next week, but which the club voted to omit on account of the fact that it falls on Thanksgiving Day. On that day we will reflect that one of the big reasons for giving thanks is the fact that we are privileged to serve as Rotarians.

"Fred" took good care that the club should not lack the cheer that is traditional at this season. The excellent lunch which he served was a welcome foretaste of what we expect next Thursday in different surroundings.

The club maintains its splendid attendance record. Twenty-six of our members were present last Thursday. We feel certain that the two absentees will not allow our entire month's record to fall below 100 per cent, where it now stands.

We were again delighted to entertain a large delegation from Reading. It would surely be pleasing to have this as a regular feature at our meetings.

The club is in receipt of an invitation from The Rotary Club of Framingham to the effect that our members are requested to attend a concert to be given by The Boys' Band, sponsored by The Framingham Club. This concert will be given Monday evening, Nov. 24 and no admission will be charged.

Principal Wade L. Grindle of the Winchester High School addressed the club after luncheon. Mr. Grindle explained for us the duties and responsibilities of a school executive. Long before he finished we were able to understand why he is so successful in the conduct of our High School. A thorough knowledge of his work and the ability to utilize that knowledge for the upbuilding of his department have made Mr. Grindle a most valuable link in the chain of the Winchester school system.

The Rotary Club of Winchester is convinced that the great majority of our townspeople will find countless reasons for giving thanks on the coming holiday. To those of our citizens, and indeed to all citizens, who have been well nigh crushed by sorrow and misfortune we express the fervent hope that "Dame Fortune" and their own staunch souls will lead the way to better days "just around the corner."

Attendance for Nov. 13—100 per cent.

STATE FEDERATION CONFERENCE

Mrs. Harold P. Johnson will preside at the eighth district conference of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Carl L. Schrader, president, when it is held in Medford on Tuesday, Dec. 2 at 10:30 a. m. The Medford Women's Club, Mrs. Frank W. Pete, president, will welcome the conference to their clubhouse on Governors avenue.

The morning session will be given over to short talks by the State chairmen of the departments and divisions, who will conduct round table discussions from 12.25 until 1 o'clock. Luncheon will then be served in the lower hall, tickets for which may be secured from Mrs. Cora B. Grant, 21 Traincroft, Medford; phone Mystic 5627-M.

The afternoon session will open at 2 o'clock with greetings from Mrs. Schrader, and choral singing by the Isabel Arnold Dame Music Club. Past president, Mrs. Azel A. Packard will bring greetings from the General Federation; vice-president, Mrs. John H. Kimball, will speak about headquarters and Mrs. Herman A. Harding, vice-president, will talk on Federation extension and international relations.

A musical program will be given by Miss Elizabeth Norcroff Allen, harpist; Miss Ruth Abbott, violinist; and Miss Blanche Page, pianist.

HARRINGTON REPORTS ACTIVITY IN WINCHESTER REAL ESTATE

Edward T. Harrington, Inc., reports that in spite of the much-talked-of business depression, there is a continual demand for Winchester real estate by those who appreciate the advantages of living in such a town, and although this activity is somewhat confined to modern, low-priced homes, they believe Winchester real estate is still a sound investment and that purchasers or tenants will be found for the residences now offered for sale or for rent in the near future.

For Elizabeth K. Abbott, they have sold her 9-room residence at 7 Symmes road. The purchaser was Herbert E. Marston, formerly of Scituate, who is now occupying the premises as a home.

They have sold to Robert M. Keeney the new Dutch Colonial residence at 3 Chesterford road for Kenneth G. Pierce. Mr. Kenney is a teacher in our Winchester schools and is now making his home at the above address.

Mrs. Frank Barnard, formerly of 22 Fletcher street, is now occupying the new Cape Cod style residence on Salisbury road, which purchase was arranged through the Harrington office.

They have also sold to Wallace K. Graves, formerly of Brookline, the attractive residence of early New England Colonial type at 34 Salisbury road, who is now occupying the property as a home.

They report the sale for Mabel E. Jones of lot No. 51 Euclid avenue on which another of the attractive Cape Cod houses has already been started, and the sale for Daniel W. Kimball of the large piece of vacant land on Palmer street adjoining the playground of the Country Day School whereon plans are being made for the erection of a group of attractive houses, all of which will be reproductions of the most attractive of early New England types of architecture. A number of Winchester families have already arranged for the purchase of land in this section or the purchase of one of the attractive homes.

For the George McQuesten Company, they have sold lot at 12 Indian Hill road, off High street, to Charles L. Giffin of Medford, who has already commenced the erection thereon of an attractive Colonial house in anticipation of having it finished for the early spring demand.

They report the sale of the property known as 9 Winthrop street to Lawrence M. Sibley who intends to occupy the premises as a home. Freeland E. Hovey was the grantor.

The new Cape Cod style home at 11 Euclid avenue has been sold through this office to Dr. Emerson C. C. Priest, who has purchased for immediate occupancy.

For Lillian E. Campbell, they have rented the half-duplex house at 14 Fletcher street to E. R. Glidden.

For Emma B. Parshley, they have rented her attractive bungalow at 5 Marshall road to William E. Clark.

B. O. Mauldin of Baltimore, Md., has rented through this office one-half the duplex house at 8 Mason street of Esther P. Lovett.

They have rented the upper apartment at 16 Park road, Winchester for Richard W. Wyman to T. E. Chilcott.

They report the rental to Jose Serrano of Chile, South America of Miss Louisa F. Parkhurst's residence at 142 Forest street.

They report they have rented for D. C. Brown his residence at 22 Symmes road to Ernest F. Gray of Boston.

For Amy P. Wild, they have rented her residence at 5 Sheffield road, Winchester to William M. Brownlee, formerly of Atlanta, Ga., who is now occupying the premises as a home.

They report they have rented for Edward Sharp & Son, suite 1, at 1 Lewis road to Eva L. Boyd and suite 2 at 1 Lewis road to Dr. John E. Herlihy.

COLLEGE CLUB STUDY GROUPS

The Winchester College Club offers two study courses, with meetings to begin in January. Miriam Wood Haseltine of Belmont, a Smith graduate who has done advanced work at Harvard and Boston Universities, will lead a group in "Modern Developments in the Theory and Application of Psychology." Mrs. Haseltine is the mother of several children and worked for some years with the Judge Baker Foundation in Boston.

An evening group for husbands and wives will study "Russia." Both these groups are open to persons interested who are not members of the College Club. For furthr information write or telephone Mrs. Wm. E. Spaulding, 379 Main street, Win. 0025-W. Although meetings will not begin until January, the programs and membership are now being arranged.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

The following are co-operating with the Winchester M. C. W. G. for their semi-annual concert at Holy Ghost Hospital, Sunday. J. A. Mahoney, entertainer, assisted by Frank Donahue; Miss Helen Mahler, prima donna, Rosena Grossi, soloist; A. J. Farina, comedian; A. Guarina, comedian, assisted by T. F. Barrett. Lillian Tarskiss, topical songs; Jesse Kelley, magician.

Mr. C. L. Morton of 446 Massachusetts avenue, Boston, well known about town as a hosiery salesman, was taken suddenly ill yesterday noontime while eating his luncheon in B. F. Callahan's Ice Cream parlor. He was removed to the Winchester Hospital by E. P. Sullivan, Thomas Murphy and Traffic Officer John H. Noonan. He was attended by Dr. Richard W. Sheehy and found to be suffering from a shock.

ELKS HELD CHARITY BALL

Usual Big Crowd Attracted to Town Hall

Winchester Lodge of Elks with their ladies and friends gathered in large numbers last evening in the Town Hall for their ninth annual Charity Ball, always one of the big events of the late fall season.

Last evening's affair was fully in keeping with the high standards set in past years, and followed closely the usual program of events.

An excellent vaudeville program opened the evening, the acts being in charge of "Joe" Barry of Arlington, widely known in Elks' circles as a member of Everett Lodge. Barry, a member of the famous radio team of Barry and Keane promised a top notch entertainment and fully lived up to his word. Arthur Fields served as master of ceremonies. The complete program included:

I
Ginger Gordon Cabaret Blues Singer

II
Silent Mora Musician Extraordinary

III
Barry and Keane Harmony as you like it

IV
Arthur Fields Monologist

V
Plunkett, Archer and Ray Head line dance team in first Boston appearance after New York engagement

Following the entertainment program, the hall was cleared by Janitor "Ed" Callahan and his assistants for the dancing which continued until 1 o'clock this morning. Fred Strachan's Elks' Orchestra, which has so often pleased Winchester audiences furnished the best in dance music, and the hall was covered with dancers until well after the midnight hour. The grand march, always a colorful feature of Elks' parties in Winchester, was led this year by Exalted Ruler John F. Donaghey and his sister, Miss Mary F. Donaghey. Following came the officers of the lodge with their ladies and a long line of merrymakers.

At the stroke of 11 there was a pause in the dancing for the impressive "11 o'clock toast" always proposed at Elks' gatherings throughout the world in honor of "the absent brothers." The toast this year in Winchester was delivered by John McNally, P. E. R. of Winchester Lodge.

Exalted Ruler John F. Donaghey was in general charge of arrangements for the hall with E. L. K. Charles A. Farrar serving as chairman of the committee, the members of which were as follows:

John McNally, P. E. R
Fred D. Clement, P. E. R.

WINCHESTER CHORAL SOCIETY IN CAMPAIGN FOR ASSOCIATE MEMBERS

The Winchester Choral Society, now busily engaged under the direction of J. Albert Wilson in preparing for the first concert of its second season, to be given during January, began its annual campaign for associate members this week.

President Carolyn Draper Gilpatric announced that letters were being sent to all those now holding associate membership in the society and to many prospective members.

These associate memberships are vital to the continuation of the society since they provide the chief financial backing for the chorus. The directors of the society hope that all those who are interested in fostering good vocal music in Winchester will become associate members and interest their friends in becoming members too.

The dues are four dollars a year and entitle the member to two tickets for each of the society's two concerts given in Winchester. The society feels that it is offering its associate members something really worth while in return for their money and anticipates an increased enrollment this year. The names of all associate members appear in the concert programs. Send checks to the society's treasurer, Miss Margaret E. Randall, 19 Everell road, or any member of the society will receive your application.

Miss Katherine J. Donnelly of this town is one of 16 registered nurses, recently appointed to fill vacancies on the staff of the Community Health Association, Boston's organization of visiting nurses.

TOWNIES AT DEDHAM

Winchester Town Team will play with the Dedham Town Team this Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at Dedham. There will be no game here on Thanksgiving with Woburn, the local management being unwilling to meet the financial demands of the Tanners who have been organized for about three weeks. Manager Amico expects to book a good attraction for the holiday and the kickoff will be at 2:30.

WINCHESTER GIRLS MEET MELROSE FOR DIVISION TITLE

Winchester High School girls' field hockey team plays Melrose High this afternoon at 2:30 on Lasell Field, Newton, to decide the championship of the Northern Division of the Interscholastic Field Hockey League. A previous game between the two schools resulted in a scoreless tie. The winner of this afternoon's game will meet Arlington, winner of the Southern Division title, for the interscholastic championship.

MRS. CATHERINE M. KEAN

Mrs. Catherine M. Kean, wife of Thomas J. Kean of Linden street and a widely known resident of Winchester for the past 30 years, died early yesterday morning at her home after a long illness.

Mrs. Kean was born in St. John, New Foundland, but as a girl came to the United States and settled in Winchester, which town she had since made her home. She was actively identified with the work of St. Mary's Parish and was a member of St. Mary's Married Ladies' Sodality. She was a member and past officer of the Winchester Court, C. D. of A., and was also a member of the L. C. B. A. of South Boston.

Surviving are her husband, five daughters, Mrs. Wallace Eason, Mrs. Albert Lawton, both of Winchester; Mrs. H. F. Royal living in Pennsylvania; and the Misses Frances and Dorothy Kean of Winchester; and two sons, Daniel J. Kean of Woburn and Lawrence R. Kean of Winchester.

The funeral will be held Saturday morning at 8:15 from the late residence, 11 Linden street, with a solemn requiem high mass in St. Mary's Church at 9 o'clock. Interment will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Dr. George A. Barron is reported as having been confined to his home on Winthrop street for the past two weeks. It will be another week before he is able to be about again.

LADIES' AID SOCIETY SPONSORED FALL BAZAAR

Featuring a pee-wee golf course and an interesting tea-cup reader, the annual fall bazaar of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Crawford Memorial M. E. Church, held last Friday in the Ladies' Parlor and upper hall, turned out to be one of the most successful yet sponsored by this resourceful organization.

The usual booths and tables were arranged about the parlor and in the hall with a most attractive tea room, in which the decorations were worked out in evergreen.

Among the particularly interesting features were indoor golf in the primary room, under the direction of Mrs. Vincent P. Clarke; the tea-cup reading of Madame Jeannette, the surprise table containing many gifts from prominent people, including Mrs. Herbert Hoover and Mrs. Frank G. Allen; the grab with a real old-fashioned oaken bucket, in charge of Mrs. Andrew MacDonald; and the sample table in the form of a huge hat box, in charge of the Misses Jeanne Thompson, Ruth LeRoy, Marjorie Brownell and Margaret Thompson. Mr. W. A. Snow had an interesting exhibit of "Torrid Heat" oil burners.

A delicious turkey supper was served in the evening under the direction of Mrs. G. Raymond Bancroft. Mrs. A. B. Bent served as general chairman of the bazaar with Miss Edna M. Johnson as treasurer.

The table chairmen were:
Aprons, Mrs. Fred Wildberger, Mrs. Norman Hitchcock.
Surprise, Mrs. J. West Thompson, Mrs. Charles B. Swain.
Gifts, Mrs. A. P. Welburn, Mrs. Norman Osborne.
25c and 50c, Mrs. Benjamin Miner, Mrs. Roland R. Carter.

GRADE CROSSING NOTES

The center crossing was torn up Sunday, a broken rail at the northerly end being the attraction. The traffic jam was etc., etc., etc.

On Wednesday afternoon a broken rail near the electric car cross-over was the cause of digging up the center crossing. A piece of rail about a foot long could be lifted out and put back in place by anyone able to lift a 50-lb. weight. The traffic jam was etc., etc., etc.

NOTE—There are many people who think that the lady who imagines she can turn her car around the traffic sign at the crossing should take 25 seconds more and drive around the Common.

The center crossing was dug up again yesterday forenoon, it being decided in view of the broken rails recently found there to replace another rail in front of the gate-tenders' shanty.

MRS. KATHERINE WELSH

Mrs. Katherine Welsh of Medford, formerly of this town, died Sunday evening, Nov. 16, in a Boston Hospital where she had been ill for the past six weeks.

Mrs. Welsh was born in Winchester in 1893, the daughter of Katherine and the late John Clark. She was educated in the Winchester schools and made her home here until 1920 when she removed to Medford. She leaves her husband, Francis H. Welsh, six children, her mother, Mrs. Katherine Clark of Winchester, and two brothers, Gordon Clark of Medford and Philip Clark of New York City.

The funeral was held Wednesday morning from the late residence 31a Albion street, Medford, and a high mass of requiem was celebrated in St. Clement's Church in that city.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester McNeill and Frances Pettingell spent last week-end at Plymouth, N. H. They attended the New Hampton-Tilton game.

LEGION TO STAGE WRESTLING CARNIVAL

Sport fans will be glad to learn that Winchester Post, American Legion, is again to sponsor the indoor wrestling carnivals which have been so popular in past seasons. The first of this winter's shows is to be staged on Friday evening, Dec. 5, in the Town Hall and the committee is at work upon plans which will ensure patrons a card of high class grappling by the best amateur and professional talent available.

The complete card will appear in next week's issue of the Star, the committee being unwilling to announce the names of several top notchers until it is absolutely certain that they will appear in Winchester.

A regulation ring has been secured and will be pitched somewhat lower than previously for better vision. A licensed referee has been secured, and a show comparable to the best in Boston is in the making. Don't miss it.

CALUMET CLUB NOTES

Announcement was made this week of the opening of a men's bridge tournament at the club. Straight bridge is to be played and no two of the better bridge players of the club are to be paired together. The tournament will be held on Wednesday nights, but if the contestants are unable to play on that night they may play any other week night except Saturday.

A player who is unable to attend on a scheduled night may have a substitute play for him, his score to count on the team. If a substitute plays he will be entitled to participate in the weekly prize.

The tournament will open Dec. 3 and will continue through December, January and February. L. Harold Smith, Charles S. Barry and Forest L. Pitman are the committee in charge.

There is to be a dance at the club this Friday evening, "Ed's" Harmony Boys will furnish the music. The affair is informal and members and their friends are urged to attend.

The first ladies' afternoon bridge is to be held at the club on Tuesday, Dec. 2. The ladies are asked to make up their tables now and plan to attend the coming series. Mrs. Harris S. Richardson is in charge.

Mrs. Vernon Hall was in charge of the afternoon bowling for the ladies on Tuesday. The prize winners were as follows:

High Single Mrs. Lincoln.
High Single with Handicap Mrs. Pitman.
High Total Mrs. Cox.
High Total with Handicap Mrs. Donsmore.

Another afternoon of bowling for the ladies will be held next Tuesday at 2 o'clock.

W. L. Caldwell won the Thanksgiving turkey roll. His score was 106, 129, 138—373. He received a fine bird, which he will enjoy next Thursday.

In this week's Mystic Valley games Calumet took Malden into camp to the tune of 10 to 5. The next match in the league is to be held on Monday, Dec. 1, the Medford club visiting Calumet.

PUBLIC HEARING ON WATER TOWER

The committee in charge of beautifying the water tower at Symmes Park, at the southern end of Highland avenue, has announced a public hearing to be held on Monday evening, Dec. 1 at 8 o'clock in the small Town Hall. J. Harper Blaisdell is chairman of the committee.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY AFTER THEFT OF CAR

Two young men and two girls are awaiting trial by the Grand Jury after their arrest in Wilmington with an automobile which the Winchester police say was stolen from this town early Sunday morning. The events which led up to their capture by Special Officer Fields of the Wilmington Police are interesting.

At 1:42 o'clock Sunday morning, Thomas F. Regan of 578 East Eighth street, South Boston, reported at Police Headquarters that as he was driving his Buick sedan down Highland avenue into Main street, a Nash sedan crashed into his car at the junction of the two roadways. The Nash did not stop, but its registration was secured and given to the authorities. A young lady riding with Regan sustained an injury to her arm and was treated by Dr. Milton J. Quinn.

Sergt. Thomas F. Cassidy and Patrolman Charles Harrold started out to comb the neighborhood and soon came upon the Nash abandoned on Highland avenue near Euclid avenue. The machine was registered to Max Kertzman of 99 Park avenue, Medford, who reported to the Somerville police that his sedan had been stolen from Otis street in that city.

Meanwhile a telephone message was received at Headquarters, stating that a Chrysler convertible coupe, the property of A. M. Lyman of 359 Highland avenue, had been stolen from in front of the residence of W. R. Lord at 27 Park avenue. The police quickly connected this theft with the party or parties figuring in the previously reported accident and lost no time in broadcasting a description of Mr. Lyman's machine.

About 8 o'clock Sunday morning, Police Chief William H. Rogers was notified that the Chrysler had been recovered in Wilmington and that the Wilmington authorities were holding two young men and two girls whom they had found with the car.

Chief Rogers went at once to Wilmington and brought the quartet to Winchester where they were locked up at Headquarters. The men gave their names as Thomas E. Wallace, 20, of 3 Lexington avenue, Charlestown, and Frank Carpenter, 19, of 21 Main street, Charlestown. The girls gave their names as Rita Mahoney, 18, of 78 Fulda street, Roxbury and Margaret Gallagher, 17, of 17 Sprague street, Charlestown.

At first the authorities were unable to get much of anything out of the young people, but finally Chief Rogers succeeded in getting a coherent account of the quartette's adventures.

According to the police the young men and girls had met at Broadway, Somerville, both having previously been members of other parties. They had lacked a car, so had stolen a Chevrolet coupe for a ride. Later they had left the Chevrolet and had taken a Nash sedan which they found on Otis street in Somerville, the same sedan which Max Kertzman reported stolen to the Somerville police.

On their way north through Winchester the Nash had figured in collision with Regan's Buick at Highland avenue and Main streets. Abandoning the Nash, the quartet had gotten into Mr. Lyman's car at Park avenue, and had driven to Wilmington where the police say they entered a dwelling house and a camp in the Silver Lake district.

About 8 o'clock Sunday morning they pulled into the yard of a dwelling and the Chrysler became stuck in the sandy soil. Going into a nearby store, run by Special Officer Fields of the Wilmington Police, the quartet sought assistance to get their car out of the mud. A machine was procured but proved unequal to the task of extricating the coupe.

A crowd gathered and while the attempt was being made to move the stranded machine the men and girls were identified as having recently left one of the Silver Lake camps. A check-up was made and the registration of the Chrysler quickly was identified as that of the car reported stolen by the Winchester Police.

Chief Rogers was notified and quickly went to Wilmington where he took the young people into custody. They spent the day and night in the local lockup and appeared in the District Court at Woburn, Monday morning. The young men were charged with the larceny of the Chrysler and Wallace, who the police say was driving the Nash car when it crashed into the Buick at Highland avenue and Main street, was charged with leaving the scene of an accident without making himself known. In addition, both young men were charged with breaking and entering in the night time with intent to commit larceny.

The girls were charged with breaking and entering in the night time with intent to commit larceny. They were held in bonds of $2000 each for appearance before the Grand Jury. The young men's bonds were fixed at $2500 each, the extra $500 being for the larceny of the car. It is likely that the Somerville Police will also present charges on the theft of the Nash sedan from that city. None of the four could raise the bail demanded and were locked up at East Cambridge to await trial.

TO BANQUET WINCHESTER TOWN TEAM

Arrangements are nearly completed for a banquet and dancing party to be held on Thursday evening, Dec. 11 in Lyceum Hall in honor of the Winchester Town football team. Manager "Archa" Amico's boys have hung up an enviable record in the semi-pro ranks this fall, prompting their followers to stage the Dec. 11 affair as a reward for their fine showing. The committee in charge of arrangements for the banquet include J. Albert Horn, chairman; Frank Collins, Gordo Horn and James Farrell.

50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Parkhurst of this town celebrated on Tuesday, Nov. 18, the 50th anniversary of their wedding. Two hundred friends attended a reception from 8 until 10 in the evening at Oak Knoll, the Parkhurst home in this town.

Mr. Parkhurst is the treasurer of Ginn & Co. and has been a trustee of Dartmouth College for nearly 25 years.

The guests included college and business friends as well as neighbors and old citizens of Winchester.

Among the guests were President Ernest M. Hopkins of Dartmouth College and Mrs. Hopkins; President Franklin W. Johnson of Colby College and Mrs. Johnson; Judge and Mrs. John R. MacLane of Manchester, N. H., and Mr. Thomas W. Proctor of Boston.

Other guests were Hon. A. O. Brown, formerly governor of New Hampshire, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. D. Parkinson of Fitchburg and Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Sawyer of Lowell. Mr. Brown, Mr. Parkinson and Mr. Sawyer belonged to the class of Dartmouth '78 of which Mr. Parkhurst was a member.

Many of Mr. Parkhurst's business associates were present with their wives including Mr. George Plimpton of Tuxedo Park, a trustee of Amherst, and Mrs. Plimpton; Mr. H. H. Hilton of Chicago, a trustee of Colby; Dr. C. H. Thurber of Boston, a trustee of Clark University, and Mrs. Thurber; Mr. Selden Smith of California, a trustee of Mills College at Berkeley; Mr. Frederick C. Hodgdon of New York City, a trustee of Tufts College, and Mrs. Hodgdon; Mr. N. C. Miller of Atlanta, Ga., a trustee of Emery College; and Mr. M. H. Jencks of Montclair, N. J., a trustee of St. Lawrence University, and Mrs. Jencks.

Among those who assisted Mr. and Mrs. Parkhurst at the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Parkhurst of this town, Miss Helen Thomas of Boston and Mr. and Mrs. E. Benj. Armstrong of Concord.

The youngest guest was master John Wilder Parkhurst, aged 5, the first Parkhurst grandson.

MISS MOLLIE MULRENAN OBSERVES BIRTHDAY

Friday evening, Nov. 14, Mollie Mulrenan, 26 Oak street, was very pleasantly surprised on the occasion of her birthday anniversary. Upon returning from a visit, Miss Mulrenan was completely overwhelmed to find her classmates and a large number of friends gathered at her home to extend best birthday wishes. Miss Bertha McCarron presented the surprised young lady with a gold piece in behalf of the entire gathering. Miss Mulrenan responded and thanked her guests in a congenial manner.

Games were played and dancing was enjoyed. Refreshments were served. The guests at a late hour departed after a most enjoyable evening, once more expressing their best wishes for many happy returns of the day to Miss Mulrenan.

Mr. and Mrs. James Haley of Symmes road and their son, Frank, visited their son, James, at New Hampton and attended the annual New Hampton-Tilton game.

The latest addition to the Cape highway, a beautiful stretch of road from Bridgewater to Fall Brook below Middleborough, was opened Saturday, and we shall not need that pass we expected from Arthur Dean. This stretch has been under construction since early spring and cuts about 15 minutes off the running time between Bridgewater and Wareham, making one of the finest additions to the main highway since the reconstruction work was commenced several years ago. It eliminates the dangerous road through the State Farm and the equally dangerous hills each side of Middleborough. Cape autoists have a welcome surprise in store for them next season. With the construction of a short stretch between Bridgewater and West Bridgewater, Boston will be connected with the Cape by the finest roads in the State.

Considering the numerous accidents fire apparatus is constantly meeting with in surrounding places, Winchester has been very fortunate, and that our recent accident was not more serious may be attributed along with our immunity to the careful driving of our firemen. There is hardly an alarm rings in but what some negligent or willful infringment of every rule of safety is indulged in by autoists. Within but a short time a lady driver turned around at the crossing directly in front of approaching apparatus and another operator drove across the tracks directly in front of the Chief's car. In each case the skillful driving of the firemen was the only redeeming factor and in neither case were the obvious offenders stopped, although they were vigorously criticised by witnesses. With sirens shrieking and gongs sounding, autoists drive around as carefree as on a Sunday. That Winchester has escaped accidents thus far is a point of congratulation. The book may tell of "60 miles an hour to Salem," but the firemen driving at 20 miles an hour between cars parked from the curb to the middle of the street has his hands full without dodging carelessly driven cars in motion.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Endicott and Hayden Estey of Winchester were among those awarded varsity football letters at Middlesex School this week. The Concord eleven won the private school gridiron championship this fall, enjoying one of its most successful seasons.

The dance which Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Manley Ives of Highland avenue are to give for their debutante daughter, Miss Eleanor Ives, will take place at the Algonquin Club on Dec. 8. Miss Ives is a member of the Vincent Club and a provisional member of the Junior League.

J. Edward Downes of Winchester has been elected to the Society of Illini at Country Day School. Membership in the Illini is open only to pupils who have shown proficiency in executing all sorts of school duties, and election to its ranks at Country Day is a much coveted honor.

It is reported that a record number of applicants took the recent police examinations, including many from Winchester. With unemployment rife it should be relatively easy to get particularly capable men for police duty at present.

Omnibus, the dramatic society at Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs, N. Y., will present this week-end a melodrama, "Maria Marten, or the Murder in the Red Barn." This is the first full length production to be given in the new Little Theatre at the college. Miss Florence Watters of this town, is chairman of the Properties Committee of Omnibus.

I had an appointment with a man for this morning, arranged for less than a week ago. I telephoned his office to see if he'd arrived. They answered he died last night.

OUR RESERVOIRS

The writer was honored by election to the Winchester Water and Sewer Board in the year 1916, and having resided in Winchester all his life, naturally became much interested in the details of the Water Department. Mr. William T. Dotten, the superintendent of the Winchester Highlands Water System, rendered great and valuable information in many ways.

The writer will never forget the surprise occasioned by the following statement of Mr. Dotten. He said that when the Metropolitan Commissioners bought the water rights of Medford, Malden and Melrose, paying therefor $1,750,000, they at once began the cleansing of the bottom of Spot Pond, then raising the shores to such an extent that the water level of Spot Pond Reservoir is exactly on the same level with the water of our South Reservoir, when full the water in Spot Pond was raised nine feet.

Mr. Dotten stated that a Mr. Dwyer, a member of the Metropolitan Water Commission at that time, told him that the State would some time need and take over the Winchester Reservoirs for the storage of water for the Metropolitan District. Spot Pond covers at present 300 acres and our reservoirs 208 acres of water surface. Mr. Dwyer stated that there would be a connection by an open or a closed ditch eventually between the Winchester South Reservoir and Spot Pond. This statement was a great surprise to the writer, and so with much caution the writer sought information from the State Department of Health.

An eminent engineer of the Department of Health is a most dependable friend of the reforestation work of our Town, and we are greatly indebted to him for the great interest that he has taken in the work. We are also indebted to Mr. H. C. Cook of the State Department of Forestry and to Mr. Perry of the State Department of Agriculture, for their timely assistance on several occasions.

This engineer has given the subject matter a great deal of thought and attention, having visited the reservoirs several times, and has pronounced them to be among the best of water sheds in the State. The writer is greatly indebted to him for his education in forestry work, and sanitary matters connected therewith.

This engineer stated that it was only a question of time when the State would need a larger storage for water as the Metropolitan District grows in number of inhabitants. The increase is stated to be about 25,000 per year.

There is now (or was at that time) only 18 days' supply of water in storage for the Metropolitan District; 15 days' supply at Spot Pond and three days' supply at Chestnut Hill, Lake Cochituate, Framingham and the Weston Reservoirs. Wachusett Reservoir is located in Clinton and is 35 miles from Boston, and if an accident should happen to the pipe lines or there should be a convulsion of nature, the Metropolitan District would be in a serious condition for want of an adequate supply of water.

When the Metropolitan District shall have 2,000,000 of inhabitants there should be, according to their statement, 30 days' supply of water in storage as a safety measure. The only elevated location near Boston is the Winchester Reservoirs which have the most perfect sanitary watersheds without, and which never can have, a human habitation located upon them.

It was stated to the writer that because of elevation and proximity to the Metropolitan District, our Reservoirs would readily be worth $1,000,000 and that if the Town would push to completion the reforestation work, that when the State needed an extra storage capacity and should take over the property, settlement probably would be made by a commission appointed by the State, and the value would be a very large one, not less than three or three and a half millions of money.

We have a water supply sufficiently large to furnish water when we shall have 16,000 inhabitants previous to the work of reforestation. The work of reforestation will conserve enough water to supply us when we shall have 20,000 people in our town, with the enlargment of the present water shed and other means of conservation by enlargement of the Middle Reservoir.

If necessary, we can enlarge the North Reservoir by placing a new dam outside of the present one and increase the watershed by the purchase of the Fallon Farm. This could increase the depth of the North Reservoir by 15 feet.

When the State completes the Swift and Ware River project, their next move will be to increase their storage capacity, and our Reservoirs are their first choice. It will be a money-making scheme for the town to sit tight and let them do the planning. We hold the trump cards and can afford to let them do the managing. Our town has a right at any time in the future, whenever we need water for domestic uses, to ask the State for an increase in supply and they cannot refuse us, for all cities and towns located within 10 miles of Boston have that right at any time. If we play the game sharp they will need our Reservoirs before we need their water supply. There is a vast difference between paying them a large bonus for water and their having to take our Reservoirs and pay us for them.

The chairman of the Metropolitan District Commission in 1916, Mr. DeLaCases, stated to the writer in an excited frame of mind, that we ought to be forced to take water from the Metropolitan water supply and deed over to the State our Reservoirs to be used by them for recreation purposes; that our water (at that time) was not fit to use, and we ought to be forced to take water from them.

We had other thoughts in mind besides our health conditions. The elevations of our Reservoirs are approximately as follows when full of water as above the meen low tide.

South Reservoir 161 feet same as Spot Pond.
Middle Reservoir 164 feet.
North Reservoir 149 feet.

The writer has in mind that the above statements may be of service to the people of our town within the next 10 or 15 years, giving a general idea of what some of the State authorities have in mind in taking our Reservoirs for their own use for storage only.

The 950,000,000 gallons of water that our reservors contain when full is of little or no value to the State. The real value consists of sanitary conditions, elevation, the possibility of enlargement of the reservoirs and the non-seepage from our ledge formed catchment basin.

The state owns all of the land surrounding our town property at the watershed, which means much to us and of more value to them.

Our town by actual measurement lost approximately 200,000,000 gallons of water that ran to waste during the winter of 1928 and 1929 over the wasteways at North and South Reservoirs. This great loss of water would furnish us with 200 days' supply at the rate of 1,000,000 per day, without reckoning the loss of evaporation. What ought we to do voters?

"Johnnie" Murphy of Mystic avenue, end on the past two Winchester High School football teams and a three letter man at that school last year, was at end for Exeter in the annual Exeter-Andover game at Andover last Saturday. Participating against Andover gives the Winchester boy his coveted "E," and those who saw the game report that his playing was all that could be desired.

Another former Winchester star who has been going well on the college gridiron is "Skin" Kendrick who has been just about the best all around back on the Bates College freshman team this fall. "Skin" has been playing halfback and has aroused the interest of the varsity coaches at Bates as possible material for the college eleven another year.

APPEAL TO THE CITIZENS OF WINCHESTER

The Winchester Community Relief Committee has investigated and found that there are 120 families that should be taken care of at Thanksgiving.

Many of these families have from four to eight children and unless this committee is able to furnish these families with Thanksgiving baskets, the holiday will pass as another hungry day in their lives.

The churches and the Benevolent Order of Elks have agreed to do all in their power to help relieve those in need, but in order to make this Thanksgiving a real 100 per cent day of relief in Winchester it will be necessary for those of us who have been blessed with more than our actual needs to donate some of our surplus to these needy ones.

You will enjoy your Thanksgiving with a greater degree of happiness if you have helped bring a little sunshine into the lives of those unfortunates at this holiday season.

The Winchester Community Relief Committee appeals to you to send to the Winchester Congregational vestry on Wednesday, Nov. 26, anything that you may be able to give in the line of things to eat. Groceries, vegetables, canned goods or preserves are especially desired. If you cannot send them to the church, but would like to have some one call for them please call Mr. G. T. Davidson, tel. 0375 or Mr. N. M. Nichols, tel. 0763-W and a messenger will be sent to receive your donation.

Although this year is one of business depression, yet the need is so great, that it is necessary that all do their part to make this Thanksgiving in Winchester a real season of thanks to Him who said, "Give and it shall be given unto you."

FROM MAYOR COLLIS

The following letter from Mayor Harry Collis of Winchester, England, to the Star's Mr. Penaligan is reproduced because it expresses so clearly the Mayor's reaction to his recent visit here.—Ed.

The Abbey House, Winchester,
9th November 1930

Dear Mr. Penaligan:

Many thanks for your kind and colonial letter, for the copies of the "Star" which are of course most interesting to us, and for the copy of your Cartoon which is most amusing and which I shall keep always as a memento of our visit to Winchester, Mass.

We were ever so pleased to have the opportunity of visiting Winchester and of making so many friends among your charming townspeople, and I can heartily assure you that the Mayoress and I enjoyed our stay with you every bit as much as you liked having us, and to us it will remain the most wonderful week we have ever spent in our lives, for the warm reception we received at the hands of the Citizens of Winchester, Mass. can never be forgotten by us. We shall hope to have the pleasure of meeting many of you again in our own Winchester.

With very kindest regards,
Yours most sincerely,
Harry Collis, Mayor

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

A Dodge sedan, driven by Pasquale Calicchia of 61 Pearl street, Everett, while going north on Washington street at 1 o'clock Sunday morning was in collision with a DeSoto sedan, driven by a man who gave his name as T. G. Tracey of 35 Glendale street, Worcester. The collision took place at the corner of Washington street and the Parkway.

Amedeo Garbino of 122 Sylvester avenue reported to the police at 5:40 Sunday afternoon that while he was driving his Ford coupe along Main street the machine was damaged in the rear by a Reo truck which came out of Lake street and followed his car down Main street. The operator of the Reo gave his name as Carl Backman of 124 Fletcher street.

An extensive line of diaries, engagement books and calendar pads is at the Star Office.

C. D. OF A. NOTES

On Monday night in Lyceum Hall the Court conducted its annual guest night for the children of the members. Although the weather was forbidding, those who attended were amply repaid by the following excellent program:

Billy Conlon, Master of Ceremonies
"Vagabond Minstrels" ..... Brother King
Dorothy and Elinor Rowen
Reading ..... Helen Swymer
Dance ..... Brother King
Mechanical Doll Impersonation
"Bobby" Conlon
Reading—"Sister's Best Feller" ..... Mary Donovan

Mrs. Mollie Maguire
Acrobatic Dance ..... Rosa Todd
Finale of Popular Songs
Dorothy and Elinor Rowen
Miss Mabel M. Coty and Miss Bernice Connell, a well-known piano teacher of Stoneham, accompanied the musical numbers. Mrs. Mollie Maguire and Miss Coty contributed vocal solos and Grand Regent Conlon's reading, "The Three Boy Scouts" completed the entertainment.

Refreshments were served in the form of fancy ices for the children, with coffee and cakes for the adults. Lecturer Katharine Rowen has received many compliments for this most successful social.

The next social event will be the old timers' social concert and dance on the evening of Dec. 17. The concert will comprise songs and readings of 25 years ago, and an old-fashioned skit is written and directed by Grand Regent Frances T. Conlon.

Following the concert there will be refreshments and dancing, modern and old-time numbers. Prizes will be awarded for the best couple in the glide waltz.

New Christmas cards, individual and box assortments, are now on display at the Star Office.

NEWST PARAGRAPHS

Many residents of Winchester find that banking in Boston with the Atlantic National is really very convenient. Some prefer the office at 98 Canal street because of its close proximity to the North Station. Others, especially the women, have chosen the Atlantic's new office at 144 Tremont street, because of its exceptionally central location in the downtown shopping district. Both offices are modern in every respect and offer all the facilities of one of the foremost banks in New England. The Atlantic National Bank of Boston will be glad to serve other Winchester people at whichever office is more convenient and cordially invites the use of its checking, savings and safe deposit facilities. WORKMAN INJURED IN FALL

Anthony Carroll of 116 Sylvester avenue was painfully injured shortly before 9:45 Monday morning when he fell through the floor of the Kelley & Hawes Co. stable and dropped 15 feet to the floor of the new garage which is in process of construction there.

Carroll was rendered unconscious and was at first thought to be badly hurt. He was removed to the Winchester Hospital in the Kelley & Hawes ambulance by William H. McMullin, Patrolman James P. Donaghey and Contractor James J. Fitzgerald, the injured man's employer. At the hospital Carroll was attended by Dr. Richard W. Sheehy and was for a time held for observation. He was not found to be seriously injured and was later removed to his home.

BIGGER AND BETTER

PRESENTING
THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX

Today the Chevrolet Motor Company presents the Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six, a new model of the six-cylinder car which has enjoyed such wide popularity. In both the chassis and body, you will find expressed, as never before, Chevrolet's well-known policy of progress through constant improvement.

The new Chevrolet is longer, lower and strikingly smart. The radiator has been deepened and its appearance enhanced by a curving tie-bar and chrome-plated parabolic headlamps. The long hood sweeps back gracefully into the new body lines. And never was Fisher's fine craftsmanship more evident than in the bodies of the new Chevrolet Six! They are roomier, more comfortable, and throughout exhibit that attention to detail which is the basis of true quality.

Mechanically, too, the new Chevrolet Six is better. The wheelbase is longer. The frame stronger. The steering easier. The clutch more durable. There is a smoother, quieter transmission. Wherever finer materials and more advanced design could increase Chevrolet quality and economy—improvement has been made. The new Chevrolet Six is an outstanding achievement—it is the Great American Value!

WINCHESTER HIGH HARRIERS MADE GREAT RECORD

Won Six Out of Seven Meets Including Harvard Interscholastics

For the first time in the history of the school Winchester High won an interscholastic cross country title Oct. 31 when the Red and Black won the Class B school-boy championship at the Harvard games on Soldiers' Field. The triumph came as a fitting climax to a most successful season which saw the locals lose but one meet in seven starts.

The Arlington High harriers, with years of background in the hill and dale game, succeeded in defeating Winchester in its second meet of the fall. The score was close, and it is by no means certain that Arlington could have repeated in a second meet in later in the season.

Winchester added cross country to its list of sports three years ago with the arrival in Winchester of Meldon Wenner, a Springfield graduate, who has carried the coaching responsibility of the squad.

Coach Wenner has done a really fine job with a faithful, hard working group of boys, winning a big majority of the meets in which his teams have engaged, and developing in "Bob" Winchester a runner good enough to go through a season undefeated in competition with the best schoolboy runners in this district.

"Bob" finished first in each of the locals' seven meets this fall, and running in the Arlington meet, not only finished in front of the Arlington star, O'Neil, but covered the 2½-mile Middlesex Fells course in the record breaking time of 13 min. 14 sec., clipping 17 seconds off the previous mark.

In the Harvard interscholastics Winchester was clocked in 13 min. 59 sec., but he was chock full of running, and finished about 30 yards in front of Lawrence of Concord and Gilbert of Somerville. He could have been seconds faster in a close race.

Capt. George McCormack, William Staulker, Kenneth West, Salvatore Corby, Edward Bowler, Richard Pettingell and Kenneth Campbell are the boys who as team mates of Winchester have provided the balance to make victory in six of seven meets possible. All have run well and all have shown consistent improvement under Coach Wenner. Cross country is not a spectacular sport and competitors do not have the advantage of big crowds and enthusiastic cheering sections to spur them on. Each boy is pretty much on his own, and must do a whole lot of consistent plugging during the season to show to advantage in the races. Properly supervised there is nothing better as an all around developer than cross country, and Winchester's success in recent seasons is most gratifying.

The past three years have marked a resumption of the sport in high school, and not as many suppose, the introduction of cross country running to Winchester. The high school sponsored a team in 1913, and in that season competed in a Mystic Valley Cross Country Meet, held here, with Arlington, Woburn, Stoneham, Wakefield, Melrose and other schools in this district. For two or three years after 1913 Winchester had a team, but interest in the sport waned and cross country went into the discard along with track. Wray Rohrman, "Dick" Favor, "Phil" Waite, "Doug" Case and "Johnnie" Caldwell were among those prominent in the sport in the old days. It is of interest to note that Arlington's "Doc" McCarthy was handling cross country at that time and is still coaching the Red and Gray after 17 years.

Probably none of the old Winchester teams could compare with those of the past two seasons at high school. The old timers were pretty much on their own when it came to training and had little or no coaching. Coach Wenner has changed all this and has handled his boys splendidly, both from the standpoint of training and coaching. He deserves much credit for the team's fine showing, and the boys themselves have followed his instructions to the letter. Winthrop Andrews has served as manager of the team.

The season's record follows:

Winchester	19	Stoneham	38
Winchester	31	Arlington	24
Winchester	27	Beverly	29
Winchester	25	Concord	30
Winchester	17	Weymouth	50
Winchester	28	Braintree	29
Winchester	62	Interscholastics	86

PAINFULLY INJURED AS AUTOMOBILES COLLIDE

Miss Katherine M. Foley of 778 Main street, clerk in the Assessors' office, and Mrs. Mary Dooley of 46 Middlesex street were injured shortly after 12 o'clock Monday when the automobiles in which they were riding were in collision at the junction of Water and Rumford streets.

According to the police Miss Foley was driving a Ford coupe north on Rumford street and Mrs. Dooley was riding in a Ford sedan, driven by James H. Dooley of 46 Middlesex street, the latter heading west on Water street. The coupe was jammed between the sedan and a pole, and was badly smashed. The sedan was also damaged.

Miss Foley was removed from the machine and taken to her home where she was treated by Dr. Richard W. Sheehy for two broken ribs and cuts about the legs. Mrs. Dooley was also taken to her home and treated for back and leg injuries by Dr. Milton J. Quinn.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

Tonight at the Calumet Club we are holding the first of a series of joint dances with the Calumet Club. Whether or not these are to be continued will be determined by the turn-out at this initial party. It is hoped that members of both clubs and any friends will take advantage of these dances. We promise you a good time at moderate cost.

Miss Muriel Carr, former high school field hockey star, played at right wing for Radcliffe last Saturday when the Cambridge team defeated Wheaton College.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

To those who heard Dr. Albert H. Gage, either at the Youth conference of the Massachusetts State Federation or at the Waldorf Parent-Teacher Association meeting, or who have heard their friends speak of him only the brief notice that he will address the members of the Fortnightly at the next meeting on Monday, Nov. 24 at 2:30 p. m. in the Town Hall will be necessary to ensure their attendance. Dr. Gage will explain "The New Fashioned Home," a topic which should be of absorbing interest to all members of the club. At the close of this lecture, a pleasant social hour will follow while tea is being served by the social committee, Mrs. Estelle R. Little, chairman.

Mrs. Doris E. Hills, chairman of the Community Service Committee, has a list of several families among which many of the mothers are trying to find work by the day for the support of their families. Men are anxious to earn money by doing any kind of work around the house or yard. If club members having such work to be done would get in touch with Mrs. Hills, the service rendered to the individual, the club, and the community would be most valuable. Among these same names are many that need clothing as well as work. Bring to the next meeting of the Fortnightly on Monday any clothing you may have available for children from 2 to 14 years of age, men or women. If you have no clothing to bring, remember that any canned food brought to this committee will bring relief to those who are in need.

On Thursday afternoon, Dec. 4 the Co-operation with War Veterans' Committee will hold open house at Fortnightly Hall from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m. to which every member of the Fortnightly is not only cordially invited but even urged to come. There will be a delightful entertainment and there will be the opportunity to leave in the hands of Mrs. Valerie T. O'Connor and her committee those little gifts with which we all like to remember the disabled service men at Christmas. In case there should be any who are at a loss as to the kind of gifts which are very welcome, the following list may serve as guide: checkerboards, playing cards, pinochle cards, books of stamps, pencils and pens, socks size 11 or 11½, ties, bedside bags of cretonne, shaving sets, small standing mirrors, picture frames, men's toilet articles, toilet water, tooth paste, sweaters, garters, shirts size 14½ to 16, cuff links, collar buttons, cigarettes, tobacco. The notice is presented this early that you may be forewarned.

In spite of the persistent drizzle, a gay and numerous group played bridge in Fortnightly Hall on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 18. All were reminded of the club's jubilee year by the clever decorations of golden bells on yellow and white covers and the gold ribbon which tied the pencils. At the close of the playing, a most delicious and satisfying tea was served. The very dainty luster tea sets which were enjoyed for the first time were the gift of the Dramatics Committee of last year, of which Mrs. Elizabeth S. Hall was chairman. The gift is and will be appreciated by the club members. The success of the afternoon's party was assured by the work of Mrs. Mary Cass and her committee.

MR. PRIEST WILL WELCOME YOUR DOLLARS

Even if the Winchester Chapter of the American Red Cross has a perfect soliciting organization, it couldn't possibly reach all the people in Winchester who ought to be members and who undoubtedly are not only willing but eager to contribute their dollar in this great annual Roll Call campaign.

If no one calls upon you at your home, won't you please send your dollar, together with a dollar for each member of your family, to Mr. William Priest, Winchester Savings Bank.

During the coming year, the Red Cross may render you no personal service. A company that carries insurance on your house renders you no annual service; yet you pay your premiums gratefully and hope that the insurance company never will be called upon to pay back your money. It's the protection you desire.

The same is true of the Red Cross. This, too, is a great protective organization. Those who are fortunate enough not to require its aid should express their gratitude by contributing a few dollars now and then so that it may continue its glorious work of helping the hungry, the sick, and the cold.

Right now, in Winchester, there are dozens of families where the children are hungry. There are people who have to wrap themselves up in old rags in an effort to protect themselves against the cold.

The Winchester Red Cross, without indulging in unnecessary publicity, has quietly and effectively helped many of those in need.

Undoubtedly, in spite of all that the optimists tell us, the demands upon the treasury of the local Red Cross will be greater this winter than ever.

Your dollar, therefore, is needed more than it ever was needed before.

So won't you please send your check today to Mr. William Priest at the Winchester Savings Bank?

A Pontiac coach, driven by Rose M. Mahoney of 8 Spring street, Woburn, while going south on Wildwood street last Saturday afternoon and in making a right turn into Fletcher street struck a hydrant at the corner of the latter roadway. The front end of the Pontiac was badly damaged, but the hydrant was apparently all right. No injuries were reported.

WINCHESTER NOSED OUT MAYNARD

Local Team Slowed Up by Injuries to Emery, Smith and Procopio

Winchester High School nosed out Maynard High at football, 13 to 12, in an interesting game at Maynard last Saturday afternoon. The locals' early game offensive drive stalled badly after Captain "Don" Emery, "Kingfish" Smith and "Hokie" Procopio were forced out of play with injuries in a short space of time. The loss of Emery seemed to hurt the local cause the most for the Winchester leader is a great defensive player. Coach Mansfield's boys looked great during the first half of the game, scoring once in each quarter and narrowly missing a third score.

After half time Maynard came back full of fight while Winchester, without its sparkplug, Emery, didn't go so well. Maynard need not have scored its second touchdown, had the locals played smart football, while hard tackling would have prevented the first score.

Procopio kicked off to start the game and Maynard returned the ball to its 28-yard line. Two line bucks made 8 yards and on a fake kick Maynard hit the local right tackle to take the ball to Winchester's 45-yard marker.

Here the locals braced and took the ball on downs. On a series of running plays off the Maynard tackles Knowlton, Smith and Lundblad took the ball to 2-yard line where Smith plunged over. Wilmer also rushed for the extra point after touchdown which finally meant the ball game.

Procopio kicked off and Maynard rushed to 3 first downs on its 45-yard line. Here Winchester held sharply and Maynard was forced to punt. Emery was through very fast to block the kick, and several Winchester players and one Maynard boy scrambled about for the leather. Instead of taking out the sole Maynard representative, and permitting a team mate to pick up the ball and run for a touchdown, the local player dove for the pigskin which he recovered on the 19-yard line as the quarter ended.

Winchester fumbled and Maynard recovered, this time punting to the locals' 36-yard line. Robinson ran back the punt to the Maynard 45-yard marker and Winchester crashed off tackle for a first down. On the last play of the sequence Emery sustained a badly broken nose and had to be taken from the game, Ambrose going in to play his center berth. The same running offense off the tackles made another first down and then Smith dropped back to shoot off a pass to Robinson who was tackled on the 1-yard line. As he threw the pass Smith was tackled and hit the ground hard, rebreaking his nose which was first broken in the Melrose game. LeRoy took over his halfback duties, and Hal Knowlton hit inside tackle for the score behind "Dan" Smith. Procopio hurt his leg in the scrimmage and "Buck" Daley was rushed into the fray. LeRoy tried a drop kick for the extra point, but was slow in getting his offering away, and Maynard blocked the try.

The ball was in Maynard's territory until half time, but following intermission the home team scored quickly. Winchester received and LeRoy ran the kickoff to Winchester's 28-yard line. A pass from Lundblad was intercepted, and Maynard pulled off a pretty lateral forward which resulted in a touchdown.

Robinson narrowly missed intercepting the ball with a clear field for a score, but the ball slid through his fingers into the arms of O'Leary who was hit by Lundblad but wasn't stopped, and ran 30 yards for the touchdown. The locals stormed through to block the try for goal.

Winchester received and "Dan" Smith ran 15 yards from his 20 to the 35-yard line. The locals slashed along off the tackles to the Maynard 28-yard line where the defense stiffened and Lundblad kicked outside at the 5-yard mark.

Maynard rushed to one first down and then Maynard tried a long pass which was incomplete. The officials ruled interference on Robinson when the Maynard receiver fell down while "Robbie" was chasing him and the pass was called complete for a gain of 22 yards. Winchester held and Maynard kicked to Winchester's 40-yard line.

A single first down ended the period and as the final quarter opened the locals rushed to Maynard's 6-yard line where Knowlton passed to Tofuri for the touchdown. Winchester was ruled offside and Maynard recovered a fumble, then completing a 30-yard pass on the 42-yard line.

Here Tofuri intercepted a pass but Winchester was called for unnecessary roughness and the penalty gave Maynard a first down on Winchester's 44-yard line. A couple of long end runs and some effective line bucking took the ball to Winchester's 8-yard line where the locals held for downs. On the first play a double pass was fumbled behind the line and recovered by Maynard on Winchester's 4-yard line. The first rush was stopped but on the second O'Leary plunged over at right tackle. Maynard tried to rush for the extra point but Lundblad ran the carrier out of bounds.

Winchester received and Ambrose ran 22 yards to his 42-yard line as the game ended. The game was very cleanly played despite the injuries and was featured by some fine work by Robinson, Knowlton and Wilmer Smith for Winchester:

4-H WINNERS

Members of the Winchester 4-H Canning Club have recently completed work for the season. The following, who have finished all requirements including the submitting of records on their work, have been awarded pins:

Certificate—Elizabeth Edmunds

Gold Pin—Josephine Scaturo, Christine Russo.

Silver Pin—Richard Elliott, Catherine Paovintano, Camille Delngrass, Rose Russo, Norma Benton, Betty Giacolone.

Bronze Pin—Jennie Marabella, Elizabeth Marabella, Antonette Rania, Catherine Gallelo, Natalie Bilyea, Frances O'Brien, Mary Malloy, Marjorie Stevenson, Annie Colucci, Viola Lanzago, Julia Luongo, Rosatta Pento, Virginia Buzzota, Elizabeth Mistutti.

Pins are in the form of the 4-H symbol, a four-leaf clover. Bronze is awarded for completion of first year work, silver for second, gold for third. There is a certificate for fourth year and a gold seal for every additional year, with an attractive enamel pin—the so-called "national pin"—for sixth year of work. To receive a bronze pin, club members must can at least 24 jars of fruits and vegetables, at least two kinds of fruit and three kinds of vegetables including greens or tomatoes. Quantity to be canned is increased gradually from year to year for more advanced club members. Second year girls learn to make jam and jelly and third year year members put up pickles, soup, and some fruit product other than jam or jelly, as well as can fruits and vegetables. Girls doing fourth year, or more advanced work, plan ways to use their products in menus, work out canning budgets for their families, etc.

TUBERCULOSIS CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE

As Nov. 27 draws near, the date for the sale of the Tuberculosis Christmas Seals, the Winchester committee feels it is a fitting time to thank all our townspeople who so generously supported the work last year.

Owing to this help we were able to send 13 children to our Health Camp at Sharon and to supply food and clothing when necessary during the winter. All our children gained in weight. The largest gain for one child being 12 pounds, the smallest five pounds, the total gain 128 pounds.

Beside the daily healthful games, sewing, etc., rug making, basket weaving and other handicraft work was taught the children.

Please buy your Christmas Seals in Winchester as it is only from the sales in our own home town that we obtain the money toward the amount needed for the Tuberculosis work.

DELIVERED INTERESTING LECTURE ON CAPE COD

At the close of the regular meeting of William Parkman Lodge of Masons, held Tuesday evening, Nov. 11, an enthusiastic audience listened to a most interesting lecture on "Cape Cod, It's Past, Present and Future," by Edwin A. Freeman of Belmont who was the guest of the lodge.

Mr. Freeman was introduced by the Master of William Parkman, Wor. John Hart Taylor, and held the attention of his listeners through an address of some length. The address was profusely illustrated with both still and motion pictures, many of which were intensely interesting.

He showed scenes from the old days on the Cape when ship building was a major industry at Welfleet, along the North River and at Pembroke; and spoke interestingly of this era in the Cape's development. He then sketched the Cape as it is today, a playground for summer people, and prophesied that its future development will be more and more along the lines of a vacation pleasure resort. A collation was served.

Social Telephone Calls at a SMALL COST

BUSINESS men make out-of-town calls as a matter of course. It saves time and money. Many women, however, hesitate to make social calls to distant points because they think such calls are terribly expensive.

When they ask about rates for calls to daughters, sisters or other relatives, they usually are pleasantly surprised at the answer, especially evening and night rates.

The day rate period on out-of-town calls by number is from 4:30 A. M. to 7 P. M.; the evening rate period, from 7 P. M. to 8:30 P. M.; the night rate period, from 8:30 P. M. to 4:30 A. M.

The day rate for a 3 minute station-to-station call (by number) to Baltimore, for example, is $1.65. The evening rate is $1.40; and the night rate is only 95 cents. In other words, the evening rate on such a call is about 25 per cent less than the day rate, and the night rate is about 50 per cent less.

Much can be said in 3 minutes, but greater than the number of words is the satisfaction of hearing a loved one's voice.

We would like to have our women clients do this: call up and give us the names of distant friends. We will list them in an attractive personal directory, put down their telephone numbers and also the day, evening and night rates for a 3-minute call, and then mail this little directory back to you without charge.

Then, when you wish to call, just give the number wanted to your local operator and hold the receiver at your ear—exactly as you would make a local call—and presto! you'll be connected almost as quickly.

WHEREAS, at a meeting of the County Commissioners for said County, at Lowell on the first Tuesday of September A. D. 1930.

ON THE PETITION of the Selectmen of Winchester, praying for the relocation of High Street, beginning at a point nearly opposite its junction with Arlington Street, thence westerly for a distance of about 1000 feet; also for the relocation of Main Street from its junction with Highland Avenue northwesterly of the Medford line; thence northwesterly past its junction with Bacon and Grove Streets to its junction with Madison Avenue, it was adjudged that said relocation of Main Street is of common convenience and necessity:

Said Commissinners therefore give notice that they will meet at Commissioners' Office, Court House, in Cambridge on the twelfth day of December A. D. 1930, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to relocate accordingly.

THE WINCHESTER SAFETY COMMITTEE

The Winchester Safety Committee met on Wednesday evening of last week and transacted much business of importance locally.

The work of this committee has to do with all hazards and danger spots within the boundaries of Winchester. Few of our citizens realize the many hours spent by the members of the committee in discussing safety measures and visiting so-called hazards that have been reported by the subcommittee on "Dangerous Places" of which James J. Fitzgerald is chairman. Just now this sub-committee is very much interested in the dangerous situation at the junction of Cross and Holton streets where the crown of the road is so high that any speeding on this curve is most hazardous.

Just below this point, at the junction of Forest street and Brookside road, the curb stones are to be painted white and black to obviate the danger of the corner. This has been done at the corner of White and Swanton streets and has earned warm praise from those who use these streets.

The committee has under consideration conditions at three dangerous corners, Main and Mystic Valley Parkway, Swanton and Washington, and Main and Swanton. Safety helps of some kind are to be recommended for all three. Conditions at Symmes corner are being studied, also.

Mrs. McDonald has asked the committee to recommend to the Selectmen an all-day police officer in Precinct 6 as a means of safe guarding the school children four times a day and also as a means of slowing up traffic.

The Publicity Committee of which Mrs. McDonald is chairman, has distributed some splendid safety posters to the various stores, shops and garages in town. The committee has had many more demands for these attractive posters and is sorry that the supply has been exhausted. In the work of distributing the posters, the publicity committee received splendid cooperation from two members of the Main Safety Committee, Chief David H. DeCourcy, and Chief William H. Rogers.

The next meeting will not be called for the first Wednesday in December but will take place subject to the call of the chairman, Selectman Vincent P. Clarke.

LEGION NOTES

Winchester Post, 97, American Legion, played a prominent part in the annual entertainment staged last Sunday evening in the Veterans' Hospital at Bedford, under the auspices of the Fifth District of the Middlesex County Council, A. L.

"Sonny" Beaudette of Arlington was in charge of the program which included vaudeville numbers and an hour's concert by the Winchester Post Band. This organization has been making rapid strides of late, and presented a splendid program. The veterans at Bedford, who hear many bands, were unanimous in their praise and rated the band as the best heard at the hospital for quite some time. Many members of the local post made the trip to Bedford to assist in putting on the entertainment.

The Post is to stage another of its big wrestling carnivals on Friday evening, Dec. 5, in the Town Hall. It is planned to run several of these shows through the winter and the committee, comprising Conrad Larson, Harry Bennett and W. Allan Wilde, promise to make each show exceed its predecessor in all around class. Don't forget the date of the curtain raiser, Dec. 5.

The Post's recently organized drill team started with a membership of 19. Weekly drills are to be held on Wednesday evening under the direction of Harry Bennett.

We are privileged to offer for long term lease the unusually-attractive estate created and formerly occupied by Herman Dudley Murphy. The house, undoubtedly one of the most artistic in Winchester, commanding a perfect panorama of the West Side hills is of English half timber and stucco style and is being entirely renovated by the owner. It contains a commodious living room with massive fireplace, entrance hall and dining room finished in dark beamed oak, kitchen, two servants' chambers and dining room; also children's playroom and den on the first floor; there are 6 family chambers, two tiled baths and upper living room with fireplace on the second floor; the third floor contains one large chamber and ample storage space. The grounds, a veritable park in themselves, comprise nearly three acres of land and include many unusual shrubs and plants, a gravel driveway and garage for two cars. A very advantageous lease will be given to a responsible family.

Christian Science: The Angelic Message
by
Miss M. Ethel Whitcomb, C. S. B. of Boston, Massachusetts

Member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts

The lecturer was introduced by Dr. Hubert N. Bernard, First Reader in First Church of Christ, Scientist, Winchester, who said:

Friends:

On behalf of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Winchester, I welcome you here this evening. Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, showed great spiritual discernment in all the steps she took for the promulgation of the divine truths that had been revealed to her. These steps included the establishment of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

UNION THANKSGIVING SERVICE HELD

The annual Union Thanksgiving service, under the auspices of the Interchurch Council, was held last Sunday afternoon in the Church of the Epiphany. Rev. Howard J. Chidley, pastor of the First Congregational Church, read the Governor's Thanksgiving Proclamation, and the Scripture lesson was read by Rev. Benjamin Patterson Browne, pastor of the First Baptist Church. The Thanksgiving sermon was preached by the Rev. J. West Thompson, pastor of the Crawford Memorial M. E. Church. Rev. John H. Whitley, pastor of the Second Congregational Church and Rev. George Hale Reed, minister of the Unitarian Church, sat in the chancel with the Rector of the Epiphany, Rev. Truman Heminway. There was congregational singing, with the organist of the Epiphany, Rev. John H. Yates at the organ.

BAPTIST WOMEN HELD RECEPTION FOR MISS CRAWFORD

The Women's League and the E. P. H. and Philathea Classes, representing the women of the First Baptist Church, held a reception last Friday evening in the church social hall in honor of Miss Lydia Jennie Crawford, newly returned missionary to China, at home for a year's leave of absence. Women's missionary societies from the other churches of the town attended the reception. The social hall was simply, but effectively decorated with cut flowers and crepe paper.

In the receiving line with Miss Crawford were Mrs. Benjamin P. Browne, Mrs. Charles A. Burnham, Miss Lizzie Johnson and Mrs. Leon Leavitt. Members of the Women's League and the E. P. H. Class served as ushers.

The evening was delightfully informal, the entertainment being provided by Mrs. Deering who told intriguing little Japanese fairy stories which were much enjoyed. Dainty refreshments were served.

Traveling from Santo Domingo to Miami on his way home, Mr. E. A. Ekern of Highland avenue, chief engineer for the firm of Chase & Gilbert, Inc., made the stretch aboard one of the fine new 12-passenger airliners of the Pan American Airways, Inc.

ALEXANDER MACDONALD

Alexander Macdonald, Superintendent of Winchester's park and playground system and a widely known resident of the town for more than half a century, died Sunday afternoon, Nov. 23, at his home, 141 Washington street, after a three weeks' illness. He was 81 years old.

Mr. Macdonald was the son of Peter and Jessie (Ferguson) Macdonald and was born in Charlottetown, P. E. I. He attended the public schools and grew to manhood in Charlottetown, coming to Boston when 21 years of age.

For a time he lived in Woburn where he learned the leather business in the Loring Tannery, but at the time of his marriage to Miss Louisa Dupee of this town, 52 years ago, he came to Winchester and had since made his home here.

For more than 30 years Mr. Macdonald conducted a market in the center and was at the time of his death one of the few old line merchants remaining in Winchester. Retiring from the provision business, he was employed by the Metropolitan District Commission for a time and 14 years ago entered the service of the town as Superintendent of the Park Department, which position he held until his death.

Genuinely fond of flowers and the care of shrubbery and lawns, Mr. Macdonald labored faithfully and happily in the interest of the town, and the beautifully kept park system bore eloquent testimony to his ability and care. He was especially interested in the care of the common and grounds about the War Memorial and few visitors came to Winchester who did not remark upon their splendid appearance.

His position in the town brought him in constant contact with many, and he enjoyed a wide circle of friends among citizens in all walks of life. His tall figure could be seen about the center in all weathers and there was little sign of his advanced years in his erect, vigorous bearing.

Mr. Macdonald was an active worker in the First Baptist Church, serving for many years as Superintendent of the Sunday School and later as a member of the Deacons' Board. He was an Odd Fellow, and a member of William Parkman Lodge of Masons.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. John J. Winchester and Mrs. Alfred O. Weld, both of Winchester; and Mrs. Laurence Nutting of Waterman, Cal. Four grandchildren, Katherine Tufts Weld and Elizabeth, Robert Macdonald, and Jean Winchester, all of this town, also survive.

The funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon in the First Baptist Church with the Pastor, Rev. Benjamin Patterson Browne, officiating. Town officials and representatives of both William Parkman Lodge of Masons and Waterfield Lodge of Odd Fellows attended the services. Three favorite hymns, "Faith of Our Fathers," "The Old Rugged Cross" and "The Strife Is O'er," were sung by the Church Quartette. Bearers were Daniel C. Linscott, Charles A. Burnham, Harry C. Sanborn, Harry T. Winn, William A. Snow, J. Albert Hersey, members of the Deacons' Board of the church, and Everard L. Walker. Interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

C. D. OF A. NOTES

An atmosphere of sadness permeated the Court members last week when the death of our past treasurer, Mrs. Katharine Kean, was announced.

On Friday night the entire membership of the Court visited the home of our late sister on Linden street, where, led by G. R. Frances T. Conlon, the rosary was said and the sympathy of the Court was extended to the bereaved family.

On Saturday morning when impressive services were held at St. Mary's Church, the following officers acted as honorary bearers: G. R. Frances T. Conlon; treasurer, Elizabeth C. McDonald; Historian, Katharine F. O'Connor; V. R., Mary E. Martin. Trustee Mary McKenzie; Sentinel, Nora O'Media.

A Tribute to Mrs. Katharine Kean

When one would write a kindly word of a sister member of the type that Mrs. Kean was, words seem empty and futile. Her sterling worth and splendid character are so well-known to her host of friends that mere descriptive words seem tasteless.

The place that past treasurer Kean has left vacant in the hearts of the C. D. of A. will always remain unfilled. Her love of right made of her a dauntless soldier, with a courage that was an inspiration to her fellow members.

Her humor, her ready sympathy, her warm, kindly charity are bywords with those who knew and loved her. Memories of her will make us carry on, working always that not only we, but those in need, may be the better for having known one with a character that was made truly beautiful through the divine gift of faith.

Six times during the past ten months God has summoned from our membership splendid women—splendid workers; and each blow has seemed heavier than the last.

Only the knowledge of the fine membership standard of those who have answered that divine summons and the beautiful memory of the help and fellowship that they have left us will enable us to carry on in the great work of unity and charity.

E. C. McD

Francis Hooper, Henry Brown, Henry Newman, Bradford Hill, Russell Davis, Frederick Sanborn, Gordon Hindes and Frank Carleton were in Winchester to enjoy their Thanksgiving vacation from Dartmouth.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

On Monday, Dec. 1, at 2:30 o'clock all members of the Fortnightly who are interested in literature are invited to enjoy the study of Manuel Komroff's "Coronet." Mrs. Helen H. Murray and Miss Mary L. Hodge will review and analyse the book, after which there will be an open discussion.

It is urged that all who can attend the Eighth District Conference at the Medford Women's Club on Dec. 2 at 10:30 a. m.

The Art Committee invite all club members to go with them to Mrs. Jack Gardner's on Tuesday, Dec. 2, on the train leaving Winchester Station at 1 p. m. For further information, call Mrs. Blanche Barnard, Win. 1924.

Thursday, Dec. 4, is Veteran's afternoon. The Co-operation with War Veterans Committee will have open house and tea at Fortnightly Hall. There will be an entertainment consisting of solos by Mrs. Hollie Maguire, readings by Miss Frances Conlon, and dancing by the Goodhue sisters. Articles made by the boys at the Bedford Hospital will be on sale. The purpose of this entertainment and tea is to finance the Christmas gifts for the needy veterans of Winchester and their families. Hutchinson's Market is co-operating with this committee; they will remind their customers of the Fortnightly Veteran's Day and offer to deliver direct to the committee anything one may wish to donate. To those whom this service may not reach and who are at a loss as to what form their donations may take, the committee suggest gifts of money or toys as well as seasonal supplies.

The third regular meeting of the Fortnightly was held on Monday, Nov. 24, with the president, Mrs. Christine E. Hayden, in the chair. At the close of the business meeting, Mrs. Hayden graciously introduced Dr. Albert H. Gage, pastor, author, and widely known lecturer. His personality was as genial as his subject, "The New Fashioned Home" was interesting. "Everybody is interested in some home," he said, "and everybody can learn new things to improve home continually." As a minister for 25 years, Dr. Gage has visited many homes and finds that though conditions may seem to differ over a period of years, yet at all times the number of successes in home-making far outnumber the failures.

Antiques, considered of little value in olden days, are priceless today, so too are many of the rugged characteristics, without which we should be poor indeed. They are always up-to-date and should be brought into the new home where they will be as the old pieces of priceless furniture. As in Gothic architecture with its deep perpendicular walls held together by buttresses and arches, so in home life do we need the same buttresses, inside and outside strength, with spirituality at the top to perfect the "New Fashioned Home." According to Dr. Gage, the four qualities needed for the home to survive; first, love, which suffereth long, is kind, and sees the spirit; second, religion, without which one of even homes is wrecked; third, a sound physical basis, the art of living together in harmony; and fourth, a trained intellect to grasp the problems presented. There is coming a time when daughters will specialize on courses in home-making. Trained brains are necessary. To bring up a child requires much study and all successive stages of life must be understood by the parents. A child has three different stages through which to pass: a physical crisis at 12 to 14 years, a social awakening at 15 or 16 years, and an intellectual crisis at 18 or 19. Have faith in them, give them much love and sympathetic understanding, for home life is really the life of the children in the home. At the close of the lecture, tea was served and a social half hour enjoyed.

ST. MARY'S DRAMATIC SOCIETY PRESENTED "OH, KAY!"

St. Mary's Dramatic Circle presented the three-act farce comedy, "Oh, Kay!" Wednesday evening, Nov. 26 in the Town Hall. A matinee was held for the children, Saturday afternoon at 2:30. The performances were under the direction of Miss Ann Matilda Carney.

The capable actors were warmly applauded for their skill and talent in portraying the different parts. There was something doing every minute in the way of thrills, surprises and laughs. "Granny" with his flivver and its never-ending accessories and "Gram" with her habit of trying every patent medicine on the market were a couple of comedy roles which kept the audience in constant laughter. "Kay" Millis, the girl detective, was a strong part well acted. "Art" and Edith both appealed to the audience by the simplicity of their part. The "Black Terror" who is the cause of all the trouble kept the audience guessing all the time.

Dancing was enjoyed after Wednesday night's performance, music being furnished by Joyce's Orchestra.

The cast and summary follow:

Edith Whitman ..... Mary DeLaurier
Evelyn Whitman, her mother ..... Gertrude O'Connell
Arthur Whitman, her brother. Thomas Travers
Capt. George Whitman, her father ..... Thomas Dolan
"Gram" Pembroke ..... Loretta Donnelly
Alice Borden ..... Helen Doherty
The "Black Terror" ..... Joseph Cullen
"Gramp" Pembroke ..... Roy McGrath
"Jim" Hayes ..... William Callahan
Kay Millis, of the Millis Detective Agency ..... Susan McPartland
Fred Alden ..... Vincent Ambrose

The entire action of the play takes place in the living room of the Whitman family in the course of one evening

A few moments elapse between Acts 1 and 2

Acts 2 and 3 are continuous.

Ushers—Howard Ambrose, Thomas Fahey, Charles McCormack, Walter Drohan, John Flaherty, Irving Reardon.

KILLED WHEN PINNED BETWEEN TWO CARS

Alva E. Burke, 61, of 120 Summer street, Malden, lost his life about 5:30 Thanksgiving Day afternoon when he was pinned between two cars on Main street about 30 feet this side of the Medford line.

According to the police account of the accident Burke's car, which was being driven by his wife, Mrs. M. Alice Burke, was in collision with a Chrysler sedan, driven by Wayne B. Thompson of 3 Crescent road.

The latter told the police he was driving his car south on Main street which was icy from the snow storm. As he approached the Medford line he saw Burke's car parked at a 45 degree angle at the side of the road. He applied the brakes to his own machine, but was unable to stop. Pulling into the gutter, his machine skidded along into the Burke car, a Buick sedan, which was damaged by the collision as was Thompson's car.

Burke was taken by Mr. Thompson and passing motorists to the Winchester Hospital where he was pronounced dead upon arrival. Medical Examiner Vernon Stewart of Woburn, who viewed the body, stated that death had been caused by a punctured left lung, 5 fractured ribs and injuries to the head, hip and chest.

The icy condition of the roads, covered with snow which fell during the mid-afternoon blizzard, made motoring treacherous, and numerous minor accidents were reported to the police during the afternoon and evening, none however, involving serious consequences.

Supt. of Streets Parker Holbrook got onto the job right away and had the men and trucks of the Highway Department out during the late afternoon and evening sanding the streets about town.

DAVID D. COATES

David D. Coates, 72, landscape gardner for the Boston & Maine Railroad for 42 years, died Tuesday at his home in Lowell. He had been in failing health since last August, when he retired because of illness.

Mr. Coates had been a resident of Lowell for 43 years, but in past years had his offices in Winchester where he was knon to many residents, especially in the Wedgemere section of the town. His landscape gardening achievements were many and during his career with the Boston & Maine he won innumerable prizes for his work.

He was a member of St. John's Episcopal Church in Lowell and the Massachusetts Grand Court of the Forresters of America. Besides his wife, Martha Coates he leaves four brothers, John, Frank, William and Richard Coates all of England.

Funeral services were held this Friday afternoon at 2:30 p. m.

The new funeral service of John Bryant Sons, in Woburn, has opened its office at 15 Montvale avenue, and presents a very attractive appearance. The firm of John Bryant Sons has been established since 1852, in Winter Hill, Somerville, with a branch in Charlestown and now a new branch in Woburn. Mr. Bryant is giving his personal service.

MANY THANKSGIVING BASKETS DISTRIBUTED

More than 125 Thanksgiving baskets, brimming with good things, were delivered during the afternoon and evening of Wednesday to the less fortunate families of Winchester who for one reason or another found themselves unable to secure provisions for the holiday independently.

The baskets were delivered under the direction of the Citizens' Community Welfare Committee with the personal supervision of George T. Davidson, Nathaniel M. Nichols, Mr. Bowen Tufts, Mrs. Edward H. Kenerson and Miss Nellie Sullivan. A flying squadron of Elks under the direction of George H. Lochman, chairman of the Elks' Welfare Committee, did much of the work of delivery.

About 80 of the baskets were provided by the Elks, with the Red Cross Chapter, Girl Scouts and various churches of the community providing the others. The baskets were secured through the kindness of Charles W. Meek of the Atlantic & Pacific Co. and Carter & Young's Fells Market. The Sunday School of the First Congregational Church contributed a large sum of money for the purchase of turkeys, and it was possible to put either a turkey or chicken in each of the baskets delivered this year.

Never before have the school children given so bountifully to this worth while project. A partial list of the provisions donated by the schools includes, 9 bushels of potatoes, 13 bushels of apples, 2 bushel of carrots, 2 bushels of onions, 6 bushels of oranges and grapefruit, 50 large squash, 20 cabbages, 75 pounds of turnips, one dozen bunches of celery, one-half bushel of cranberries, 25 pounds of nuts, 20 pounds of grapes, 4 dozen bananas, and 35 pounds of sugar, besides numerous packages of jello and figs, 16 packages of raisins, 8 packages of prunes, with coffee, milk, bread, cookies, cakes, 300 cans of vegetables, 150 cans of fruit, 225 jars of jelly, 4 plum puddings together with sardines and mince meat.

The assembled provisions gathered together in the old vestry of the First Congregational Church was a really unusual sight, and to the uninitiated a source of wonder as to how it would ever be portioned out and delivered.

Chief among the workers were Mrs. N. M. Nichols, Mrs. Harry Sanborn, Mrs. Bowen Tufts, Mrs. D. C. Dennett, Mrs. G. H. Lochman, Mrs. George T. Davidson and Miss Nellie Sullivan. Sunday School boys from the Congregational Church and Girl Scouts assisted the Elks with the work of sorting and delivering.

MRS. ELIZABETH A. RUSSELL

Mrs. Elizabeth H. Russell, wife of William Russell and a former resident of Winchester, died Monday, Nov. 24, at her home in Marlboro, after a long illness. Mrs. Russell was 73 years of age and besides her husband leaves two sons, one now chief of police in Bridgewater. The funeral was held Thanksgiving afternoon at the late residence with the Rev. P. G. Beatty of the Marlboro Baptist Church officiating. Interment was in Maplewood Cemetery, Malden.

DR. ASHLEY DAY LEAVITT
Organ Recital

The special preacher Sunday evening at the First Baptist Church in the series of notable preachers being heard under the topic "If I Had Only One Sermon to Preach" will be the Rev. Ashley Day Leavitt, D.D. of the Harvard Congregational Church of Brookline. Dr. Leavitt is so well known everywhere as to need no introduction to Winchester. A rare treat is in store for those who are present on Sunday evening.

An organ recital will be given by Mr. Sargeant of Lexington as an introduction to the service and the popular soloist, Miss Lillian Evans will sing. The musical features of the service are by the courtesy of Mr. Harry Sanborn.

Norman von Rosenvinge, Gordon Gillette, Donald Bates, Gordon Bennett and Bartlett Godfrey are at home for the Thanksgiving vacation from Bowdoin College.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY DANCE

The informal dance held at the Congregational Church under the direction of the Young People's Society last Friday was the first of the season and most successful.

The young people acquired the services of George Varney's peppy orchestra which added greatly to the success of the dance. The chaperons were: Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Nichols, and Mr. and Mrs. George S. Tompkins.

The committee in charge included Olive Boutillier, Mabel Tompkins, Katherine Chamberlin, Lucy Fowle, Elizabeth Packer, Madeline Little, Daniel West, Kenneth West.

The Clarence A. Henrys of Highland avenue were members of a party of 18 who dined on the holiday in the Boston Athletic Association clubhouse on Exeter street.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

The engagement is announced of Miss May Lees, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Cooper Lees, formerly of Leominster and now of Pass-a-Grille Beach, Fla., to Mr. Ralph Emerson Stevens, son of Mrs. Ralph E. Stevens of Marlboro and the late Dr. Stevens of Marlboro. Mr. Stevens was graduated from the Loomis School and from Harvard in 1923. The announcement was made from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Bruce Lees of Winchester last week.

The Medford and Middlesex Chapter members of the DeMolay are opposing the Alumni in football Saturday on the Fulton street grounds at Medford. Both teams have been working hard all season and from all accounts it promises to be a great game. Part of the proceeds are to go to the Shriners' Hospital for crippled children in Springfield.

WILLIAM CALDWELL

William Caldwell, a former resident of Winchester, passed away at his home in Andover, Thursda, Nov. 20, after a long illness.

He came of an old Scotch family and was born in Elgin Province of Quebec, Canada in 1842. He came to this country while a young man and entered the employ of what is now the United Shoe Machinery Company at Worcester. He moved with this company from Worcester to Lawrence, then Winchester and Beverly. He was an inventor and at the time of his retirement at Beverly, he was considered the world's authority in his special line of work.

He was an earnest Christian and an active member of the Baptist churches in his various home towns. He officiated as deacon for over 35 years. He made friends wherever he went and was loved and admired for his bright cheery disposition.

In 1867 he married Miss Mary Lucinda Ross of Worcester who passed away at Winchester in 1900. Their two sons and a daughter survive them Charles H. Caldwell of Southbridge, Frederick W. Caldwell of Montreal, Canada and Mrs. H. Earl Richardson of Kenwin road, Winchester. He leaves two sisters, Miss Margaret Caldwell of Andover and Mrs. Peter Ferguson of Dundee, Canada.

In 1903 he married Miss Martha Nichols of Lawrence who died in 1916.

Services were held at the First Baptist Church in Andover on Sunday, Nov. 23 at 1:30 p. m. Dr. Norman Bartlett, pastor of the church, officiated, assisted by Rev. Cary Chamberlain of Beverly.

The committal service at the family lot in Bellvue Cemetery, Lawrence, was conducted by the Lawrence Lodge of Odd Fellows, of which the deceased had been a member for many years.

COUNT ZARYNOFF TO FEATURE LEGION WRESTLING SHOW

The Legion announces a spectacular card for the first wrestling show of the season to be held in the Town Hall, Friday evening, Dec. 5, which sparkles with stars of the mat game. The committee has arranged for three amateur bouts starting at 8 p. m. bringing together some of the best-known amateur wrestlers in greater Boston, all capable exponents of their chosen art. They have arranged a card of professional bouts equal to many of the shows at the Boston Arena which will bring together Paddy Mack, the beau-brummel of wrestling circles of Philadelphia vs Stuart Spears, an aspiring Lithuanian of Albany, N. Y., who will wrestle for one fall with half hour limit; for the second bout, Sailor Arnold of Cleveland, Ohio, who was recently thrown by Sonnenberg after a hard spectacular bout, vs Nick Scotus, a veritable Grecian Apollo of Boston who will wrestle for 45 minutes or one fall. These boys have met on two occasions before, each taking one fall and a sparkling bout seems assured.

The Post has been fortunate in securing as the feature bout of the evening, a match which will go to a finish between the well-known jumping Count Zarynoff who has featured many shows in Boston and who, last year, drew the largest house in his match with Sonnenberg ever known in a wrestling match at Boston Garden for which bout the tickets brought from $2 to $5, who will meet on the mat, Jack Albright of Chicago, known in wrestling circles as "The man of a Thousand Holds."

The tickets for this wrestling carnival are going rapidly, but may be obtained from any member of the Post, Hevey's Pharmacy, Winchester News, and Frank Zaffina's barber shop on Main street. Reservations may be made also by telephoning Winchester Legion Headquarters any evening.

Popular prices will prevail—ringside seats at $1 with many good seats available at 50c. The proceeds from this wrestling carnival are to be used by the Post to assist in their welfare work, for which there is much more demand this year than in any year since the existence of the Legion Post.

The sporting fans of Winchester will not only see a good show but the money made from this entertainment will go towards a worthy and necessary cause.

Do not forget the date, Friday, Dec. 5 at the Town Hall.

THANKSGIVING DAY AT CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

The Thanksgiving service held at First Church of Christ, Scientist was well attended.

The service opened with the singing of Hymn No. 86, which was followed by the reading by the First Reader of the Thanksgiving Proclamation of the President of the United States. The Scriptural selection was taken from Psalms.

The congregation was then requested to join in a few moments of silent devotion followed by the audible repetition of the Lord's prayer with its spiritual interpretation as given in the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy.

Hymn 161 followed.

The subject of the lesson-sermon, which followed the singing of hymn 161, was "Thanksgiving," and the Golden Text was from the 97th Psalm: "Rejoice in the Lord, ye righteous; and give thanks at the remembrance of his holiness." The responsive reading from Psalms 95:1-7; 147:1-5, 7 was read alternately by the First Reader and the congregation. One of the Scriptural passages contained in the lesson-sermon was from Malachi 3:10: "Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it."

One of the correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook was as follows, from page 78: "Spirit blesses man, but man cannot 'tell whence it cometh.' By it the sick are healed, the sorrowing are comforted, and the sinning are reformed. These are the effects of one universal God, the invisible good dwelling in eternal Science."

Brief testimonies expressing gratitude for fruits of healing, progress, and regeneration following the application of Christian Science were given.

The closing hymn was 130, after which the First Reader read the Scientific Statement of Being from the Christian Science textbook, and the correlative Scripture according to 1 John 3:1-3. The benediction from Col. 4:2 concluded the service.

Bradford Hill, who is attending Dartmouth returned home for the holidays.

HOOD'S GRADE A MILK

is surely best for your baby

INSPECTORS select the dairies. Veterinaries test the cows. Inspectors supervise farm conditions and methods. Veterinaries regularly examine the cows. Milk is inspected and tested at the country receiving stations. Milk is checked again at the city pasteurizing plants. The Hood laboratories make more than 250,000 scientific tests yearly. Then when the bottles are filled, they pass before the trained eye of an expert.

Eight times in the production of this fine milk direct supervisional contact is made. Nothing is left to chance or guess. Every factor relating to the quality, safety and cleanliness of Hood's Grade A is built on scientific precision. The result is uniformity, dependability, unvarying fine quality, with a delightful natural flavor that babies and children love.

BARN AND LIVE STOCK DESTROYED IN TWO ALARM FIRE

A two alarm fire destroyed a small barn and shed at the home of William Irwin, 18 Ridge street, last Sunday afternoon, burning to death two cows, eight breeding pigs and a number of small pigs, besides destroying ten ton of hay and a quantity of farming implements. The estimated damage is $2000.

The fire had gotten a good start before it was discovered and the firemen upon arrival had no chance to save the building. The first alarm was sounded at 1:40 and was quickly followed by another, bringing all the local apparatus to the scene of the fire.

Chief DeCourcy stated that the local apparatus was bothered very little by traffic while on the way to the fire, and attributed this good fortune to the fact that none of those who feel it their duty to drive automobiles to every fire which occurs in Winchester knew where Box 222 is located.

The run to Irwin's is a hard one, due to the winding nature of the road and the stiff upgrade experienced from Cambridge street up High street. The Arlington apparatus, which has a shorter run from its Massachusetts avenue house, preceded the Winchester Department to the fire and had a line of hose laid before the arrival of the local firemen.

Upon their arrival the local Department laid two 1000 foot lines of hose, making three lines with that of the Arlington Department. Four pumps were available for duty at the fire. The water pressure from the hydrant was very poor, placing another obstacle in the path of the firemen. The fire had gotten too good a start to make the saving of the building possible, and most of the live stock in the barn perished in the flames.

Eleven year old Norman Irwin made a plucky attempt to rescue one of the cows from the burning building, but was unsuccessful and in turn had to be pulled from the barn by his mother. The dense smoke from the burning hay made the work of the firemen doubly difficult and it was 5:45 in the afternoon before the all out whistle was sounded.

Meanwhile at 1:50 p. m. Box 43 came in for a grass and brush fire in the rear of the Eastern Felt Company on Canal street. Under the old inter-communicating system between Winchester and Woburn the latter department would have answered this box immediately. As it was with the entire Winchester Department at the Irwin fire the Woburn department had to be sent for. Fortunately the brush fire was inconsequential and was extinguished without damage by the Woburn piece which then proceeded to the Central Station to "cover in" until the arrival back at quarters of Engine 1.

WINTER WILL COME

(Written for The Winchester Star)

Meek Autumn's sullen foe imsatiently stands
On the horizon near of Nature's view.
At the sad sight the sweetly colored lands
Filled with the fading woodland's hectic hue,
For Winter's darkening reign prepare the way.
Of Him at whose command the sun stands still,
Nor dares to send to earth his gladdening ray
Filled with the feeling of the coming doom
Of Nature's gracious deeds, the heavenly kill
Hides its sad, shuddering face in cloudy gloom
A whispering silence overhangs the scene
As if awaiting the dark Winter's storm.

DAY AND NIGHT

Day and night in 83 different countries and colonies around the world you will find the Salvationists ever engaged in their work, actually serving the interests of humanity.

No doubt, the nearest place of interest to you will be Winchester.

Because the pains of your feet are laid upon the highways and not down in the shadows, you may not be altogether aware of the work the Salvation Army is carrying forward. To the less fortunate, however, we are well known.

Here in Winchester, we have an excellent example of the Army's ability to develop to meet every emergency.

Our work is a many-sided affair. Our offices are kept busy with the many requests, which come to them each day.

There is the spiritual side. There are many agencies that can afford advice, but could not offer the religious help that is needed; they can clear up the bodies, but not the souls, of the derelicts of the city. The Salvation Army itself is helped by those who can help them.

We have now reached over the $1000 mark. Just about one-half of our quota of $2000 reached for the Salvation Army drive of Winchester's annual appeal.

Send in your checks now, please to Charles E. Barrett, Winchester Trust Company, as the Salvation Army is now overwhelmed with requests for aid, due to unemployment, etc.

Signed by Lieut.-Col. Paul B. Moulton, chairman; Charles E. Barrett, treasurer and members of Winchester Salvation Army Advisory Board.

Diet Experiment

Experiments undertaken to study the effect of diet on monks in the vegetarian monasteries of the Trappist, Carmelite and Carthusian orders and on meat-eating monks attached to Benedictine and Franciscan monasteries show that vegetarian monks, even in old age, have a normally low blood pressure, while their meat-eating brethren, in spite of monastic life, have as high blood pressure as the ordinary man of the world.

Many Varieties of Ants

There are said to be more than 3,500 species of ants.

WINCHESTER DEFEATED SAUGUS 13 TO 3

Winchester High won its last football game before the Woburn classic last Saturday afternoon, defeating Saugus High, 13 to 3, on Manchester Field.

The game was on the whole well played and interesting. The locals were given just the right sort of opposition by Saugus which brought a big hard fighting club to Winchester, backed by a small but vociferous cheering section led by five of the niftiest cheer leaders seen at the playground in quite some time.

Saugus kicked off and Knowlton and Wilmer Smith crashed merrily off the tackles for a couple of first downs which took the ball to the Saugus 45-yard line. Here Lundblad got away for a 20-yard jaunt, and two line bucks by Smith and Knowlton took the ball to the Saugus 15-yard line where the visitors held for downs.

After an exchange of kicks Winchester was called for interfering with a Saugus forward, giving the visitors a first down at midfield. Saugus was forced to kick, and when Tofuri fumbled the visitors recovered on Winchester's 8-yard line.

Two tries at the Winchester line lost 1 yards and on the next play, the second of the new quarter, Templeman dropped back and shot off a pretty drop kick from an angle for the first 3 points of the game.

Lee and Hickey went in for Lundblad and Tofuri and Saugus kicked to Colpas who plowed straight down the field to the Winchester 38-yard line. After a couple of ineffective linebucks Lee ran to a first down at midfield. On a pass play a Saugus secondary intercepted but dropped the ball when he was hit hard by Procopio. Winchester was called for unnecessary roughness and the ball went back to the 35-yard line. Knowlton quick-kicked outside at the Saugus 5-yard line and on the next play the break came.

Templeman dropped back to kick and the Winchester line was through very fast. The Saugus boy never kicked the ball at all though he apparently dropped the leather for the boot.

"Stutz" DiMinico recovered the ball for Winchester on the 1-yard line and Wilmer Smith hit behind "Dan" Smith for the score. Lee failed to kick the goal.

Shortly before the half ended Winchester staged an offensive drive which came to nothing when the locals were penalized five yards for stalling on the Saugus 20-yard line.

Starting the new half both clubs were forced to kick twice and the Saugus second boot rolled across the Winchester goal line. Knowlton and Lee made it first down, but once again Saugus braced and Lee kicked to the Saugus 40-yard line. On the next play Winchester lost 15 yards for piling on after Mobbs had made a pretty tackle and two plays later Templeman got loose for a jaunt to Winchester's 33-yard line. Four yards were reeled off through the line before Saugus fumbled and Winchester recovered to end the third quarter.

With the ball at the Winchester 26-yard line Knowlton failed to gain. A pass, Smith to Lee made 9 yards and Wilmer crashed through the line for a first down on the 45-yard line. Here Knowlton, running behind pretty interference got away cleanly and ran to the 20-yard line before he was tackled from behind.

Knowlton got one and Lee, seven yards, but Hickey fumbled, recovering however to save the ball. On the next play Lee dropped back and zipped through a pretty pass right down the center to Knowlton who sidestepped a couple of would-be tacklers and ran for the score. Lee booted over a pretty goal from placement, and Coach Mansfield began to send second and third string players into the game.

Following the kick-off two penalties for offside against Winchester helped Saugus to a first down on the locals' 45-yard line. Here the visitors tossed off a short pass which was intercepted by Colpas who was downed on the Saugus 40-yard line. On the first play Lundblad reeled off 21 yards, going to the 25-yard line. Saugus braced and took the ball on downs. DiAppela was hurt on the last play of the sequence, and was helped off the field with a broken jaw. Saugus got a 15-yard penalty for roughing "Dan" Smith, the first instance of a team getting penalized for manhandling the big Winchester tackle all season.

The visitors had to kick, and after Knowlton and Tofuri had made a first down the visitors braced and took the ball at midfield. On the next play Saugus tried a long forward which was intercepted at Winchester's 25-yard line by Capt. "Don" Emery as the game ended.

Christians Divided

"Visible church" is an ecclesiastical term meaning the church as seen by man, not as it appears to God. It includes the whole body of professing Christians, while the invisible church consists only of those who are worthy in the sight of God to be members of his church.—Washington Star.

THE MAYOR AND MAYORESS IN AMERICA

Impressions of Winchester, Mass.

An Almost Royal Reception

The Hampshire Observer welcomed the Mayor home again after his American visit, and when his Worship and the Mayoress (Mrs. Collis) alighted from the train on Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock, looking in the best of health, he assured our representative that they had had almost a royal reception in Massachusetts, a 16-cylinder, 110 h. p. car being placed at their disposal, with a police escort of three motor-cyclists. Hurry and bustle everywhere, but with it all a courteous and considerate welcome to the representatives of Winchester, England.

Extracts From the Mayor's Diary

Perhaps there is no better way of giving an account of the doings of Councillor and Mrs. Collis in America than by quotations from the Mayor's diary, which commences with a description of "Massachusetts as we saw it."

Arriving at Boston City (writes the Mayor) I find it a very large and busy place, a large port with many industries; a go-ahead city.

Next an impression of Boston's Mayor James M. Curley, records the writer, is an Irishman and a very clever fellow, "and gets a good salary with a good many extras." (The quotation is ours.) At least, so I am told.

Winchester is eight miles northwest of Boston, and touches the western side of the Fells. It is one of the most picturesque towns in the metropolitan region. Its natural beauty in wooded hill and vale, rivers and lakes: (the Mystic Lakes) is unsurpassed, and this beauty has been worthily preserved in the building up of the town. In fact, I have never seen such a natural lay-out. There seems to be a beautiful mound to build each house upon. Everywhere is beautifully wooded, and they are very fine trees too. The colouring also, is very wonderful. The red and yellow maples, and all the other autumn tints, accentuate the beauty of Winchester, and I have never seen anything to equal it in our country. Most of the houses have a large piece of well-wooded land. The roads are good. There are some nice flower gardens, but these are not too plentiful. Winchester is part of the land originally granted to Charlestown by the General Court in 1633 and 1640. Three hundred acres of land were granted to the Rev. Zechariah Symmes, the first minister of Charlestown, in 1643, and a portion of this land is still owned and occupied by his descendants in the eighth generation. It is interesting to note that the book given to me to be presented to the school-children of Winchester, England, was presented by a descendant of the original Symmes. The area of Winchester, Mass., is 6¼ square miles.

Monday

The "Laconia" was due to arrive at Boston on Sunday, Oct. 12th, but she was many hours late. The Mayor's diary records:—

Arrived at Boston Harbour 8 p. m. Remained on board "Laconia" until early morning breakfast, 6 a. m., and then awaited arrival of U. S. Revenue Cutter with reception committee, comprising Selectman Harris S. Richardson (chairman of the Tercentenary Committee) and Mrs. Richardson, Chairman Harry W. Stevens (of the Board of Selectmen) and Mrs. Stevens, Commander Richard Parkhurst (Port Commandant), and other representatives. The cutter arrived about 7 a. m., and through the efforts of Commander Parkhurst, a member of the Boston Port Commission, the usual port formalities were waived, and we were taken up the harbour on the cutter, while two fire-boats gave exhibition drills and sounded their sirens in honour of our arrival.

We had made many friends during our outward passage on the "Laconia," and had a rousing send-off by hundreds of passengers and officials, and bouquets were presented to the Mayoress.

Having arrived at the docks, motor cars were waiting, and with Motor Cycle Officer J. F. Hogan leading the way, took us to the residence of the Hon. Lewis Parkhurst, on Oak Knoll, as their guests, our first stopping place in Winchester, Mass. We were met by our hosts immediately the car pulled up at Oak Knoll, and a very warm welcome was extended to us in these words: "Walk right in," and the invitation came from their hearts. We certainly walked into a delightful home in its truest form. Many distinguished Winchester residents called with cordial greetings, and with invitations to their various homes. Refreshments had greeted us overhead, and lovely bouquets were presented.

After an early lunch, we were taken in a 16-cylinder 110-h. p. car (which had only been used once to convey Gen. Pershing during the American Legion parade) to take part in the procession. Mrs. Parkhurst accompanied the Mayoress, and with me was my "aide," Capt. Hills. Our host, the Hon. Lewis Parkhurst, drove in the procession, using a chaise which was driven by his grandfather in 1830.

The procession was wonderful. The line of march took nearly two hours to pass a given point. By request I wore my robe and official chain (which was much admired) and we received a rousing reception all along the line of route.

[The grand procession included troops of all arms (engineers, militia, coloured soldiery and artillery), the American Legion (eight drum and bugle corps with detachments), veterans of foreign wars, selectmen and visiting officials, Fire Department, detachments, a "fraternal" division, educational and national societies, Scouts and Guides and nursing organizations, and a division made up entirely of "floats." The Winchester Post Band and sons of veterans and British war veterans served as the Mayor and Mayoress's escort.]

Following the parade at 5 p. m., we were driven from the reviewing platform at full speed to Manchester Field, where the Aleppo Temple Band of well over 100 performers played a concert programme under the direction of Noble Walter Smith, who himself played two brilliant cornet solos.

As the dusk fell on Manchester Field the visiting Shriners staged one of their spectacular drills. Three squads went through manoeuvres. The work of the Musical Bell Group was extremely good. We were then driven post haste to our hosts' residence, where early dinner was served in order that we might attend the Canoe Parade on the Aberjona River, where hundreds of decorated canoes were competing. It really was a wonderful sight, and very amusing. Over 60,000 people had assembled, and it was requested that they might hear the voices of the Mayor and Mayoress of Winchester, England. We were escorted to the microphone and we addressed the crowds, and received hearty cheers and cordial greetings.

The weather was beautiful, and after a full and wonderful day we were driven at full speed, led by three motor cycle police officers, who cleared the way, to Oak Knoll. And then to bed!

Tuesday

By car visited many places of interest. Lexington, Concord, also Concord Bridge. Saw the graves of two Britishers. Through Middlesex Fells, a lovely wooded forest, returning to Boston to a delightful lunch at our host's club. After lunch did a good bit of Boston by car, seeing many places of interest, including one of Henry Ford's assembling factories. Returned to Oak Knoll for early dinner, and then arrived at Town Hall at 7:15. Introduced to the Hon. Frederick Cook, Secretary of State for Massachusetts; the Hon. P. F. Sayers, representing Mayor James M. Curley of Boston; also Mayors from Woburn, Cambridge and Medford. The Hon. Lewis Parkhurst presided, and carried out the duties in a charming manner. The Hon. Frederick Cook brought the greetings of Governor Allen to the gathering. The Hon. Lewis Parkhurst introduced Mrs. Irving Haydon, president of the Women's Fortnightly Club, who extended a cordial welcome to the Mayoress on behalf of the women of Winchester, Mass., and presented Mrs. Collis with a beautiful etching, "Midwinter in Winchester," by W. W. Bicknell of that town. Mr. William Lewis Parsons delivered the address of welcome to the Mayoress and myself. He spoke of the warmth of international relations which such visits as that of the Mayor and Mayoress of Winchester, England, brought about, and welcomed the opportunity of placing the Union Jack, together with the Stars and Stripes, upon the Town Hall platform. I was then presented, on behalf of Winchester, England, with a handsome silver Paul Revere bowl, the gift of the town, and also with a gold gift, a handsomely bound Guide Book of Boston in a leather case, presented in the hope that it might assist me to find my way, at an early date, to Winchester, Mass. On my rising to address the assembly the band played "God save the King," everyone standing to attention. It was then my pleasure and privilege to say a few words to them all for the wonderful reception they had extended to the Mayoress and myself. Having concluded the formal programme, a reception was held in the hall. Many hundreds lined up, and with a hearty handshake extended greetings to the Mayoress and myself. It was really a wonderful reception: one I shall never forget. It was now 11 p. m., so made tracks back to Oak Knoll to get some sleep.

Wednesday

9 a. m.—Dr. and Mrs. Howard J. Chidley fetched us in their car and took us to their delightful home, Myopia Hill, which overlooks the beautiful Mystic Lakes and Boston. From here we all motored through lovely scenery and visited Hoods Farm and inspected the cattle, and then to Wayside Inn, now the property of Mr. Henry Ford, where Longfellow wrote many of his poems. A most interesting old house. We visited many other places on our way to Andover, Mass., where Dr. Stearns, Principal of Phillips Academy, received us, and we were his guests at luncheon. He conducted us over his extensive schools, and after another circular tour we returned to Dr. Chidley's house, where they held a Thanksgiving Dinner. There were many distinguished guests, including Prof. and Mrs. L. J. Johnson, of Cambridge; Prof. and Mrs. Arthur Holcombe. . . . . Several beautiful negro spirituals were sung by the Florida Jubilee Quartet, who, having heard that we were in residence, volunteered their services to entertain us. Retired to bed about 1 a. m., after having spent another full and delightful day.

Thursday

Breakfast at 8:30 a. m. At 9:30 Miss Elizabeth Downs, a very prominent lady in Winchester, arrived with her car to take us to her beautiful home, and received us on the same hospitable New England manner, taking us in her delightful car to many places of interest, including Wellesley College.

On our return my aide, Capt. Hills, was waiting to escort us to the Rotary Club luncheon, where I had a most cordial reception. I was presented with a piece of Winchester oak with the seal of Winchester, Mass., carved on it, and also with a scroll to present to the Rotary Club, Winchester, England. I also received a lovely basket of flowers to take back to the Mayoress with their cordial greetings.

During this period Miss Downs was entertaining the Mayoress at luncheon at the Ladies' Club. At 2:30 Miss Downs took the Mayoress and myself to the Winchester Circle of the Florence Crittenton Meeting, where hundreds of guests awaited us. The president, Mrs. Harold Mayne, presented the Mayoress with a lovely silver vase, also with a bouquet of roses from herself, and another from the members. I was asked to say a few words and when leaving we received the usual ovations.

After tea attended meeting of the Winchester Post of the American Legion, there meeting Commander Parkhurst and many other officers of the Legion. After various speeches I was asked to speak, being introduced by Commander Parkhurst. It was a very entertaining meeting, and at the close I was presented with a lovely silken flag of America, with staff surmounted by the golden eagle. During this period the Mayoress was taken to a Boston theatre. Not to bed very early to-night!

Friday

9:30 a. m.—After breakfast we started by car for a coastal drive, which was most interesting. The scenes were delightful. After visiting many more places of interest we arrived at Marblehead, where we had a noted lunch, consisting of many samples of shell fish, including clams. Finished circular drive at 2:30. Reception lasted till 6 p. m., when we dressed and accompanied our host and hostess, with other friends, to the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, Boston, for dinner, after which (having accepted the Mayor of Boston's invitation to attend their Tercentenary Colonial Costume Ball) we, with Commander and Mrs. Parkhurst, and Capt. and Mrs. Hills, drove to the Boston Garden, where the Mayor's box was at our disposal. The Stadium there seats 20,000. We enjoyed the various parades of fancy dresses, also the Police and Fire Brigade bands, each numbering well over 150 performers. After several announcements had been made—speeches by Russell Codman and Traffic Commissary J. A. Coury, it was announced that the Mayor of Winchester, England, was present, and I was asked to speak over the radio, but being at a very late hour I very much doubt if my voice was heard in my city. We were all loth to leave such a brilliant spectacle, but at 1 a. m. we made tracks for our hotel close by.

Saturday

Ritz-Carlton Hotel.—Rose and took breakfast early. Picked up by car—Mrs. Chidley and Miss Downs—who took us to see many interesting places in Boston, including a wonderful museum, the gift of a prominent citizen. We were invited to the State House to meet Governor Allen, of Massachusetts, who received us in a very kindly manner, and after a chat he arranged that a photograph be taken with him in his state room. He then presented me with a bronze tablet as a souvenir of the Tercentenary, and the Mayoress with a gold replica of the Commonwealth Seal. We were then shown the original Charter of King Charles I which accompanied the Pilgrim Fathers in 1620, and we were presented with photographic reproductions, and a copy of the history of the old Boston State House signed by Governor Allen. Our hostesses then took us to the Ritz-Carlton Hotel of early luncheon, and at 12:30 we were picked up by Selectman H. P. Richardson and others and motored to Harvard College Stadium, where we witnessed a grand march past of some 2,000 Army Cadets, and later saw the wonderful Rugby match between Harvard and Army. 75,000 spectators were seated, and it was a very close and even match, the Army winning, 6 points to nil. My aide, Capt. G. Hills, escorted us with motor-cycle police officers, who cleared the traffic. We had a special pass to drive direct to the Stadium 6 p. m. returned to hotel and spent a quiet evening writing letters and packing.

Sunday

Morning.—Received many telephone inquiries from our Winchester, Mass., friends, many of whom made personal calls. From 11 o'clock onwards our rooms were like gardens of flowers, the gifts of our many friends. Commander Parkhurst and Capt. Hills lunched with us, with a special car for our luggage, straight on board to our state rooms on the "Laconia." Arriving on board, photographers and reporters were awaiting us. After being photographed and interviewed we went to our state room, which we found packed with lovely baskets of flowers and many presents. Our Winchester friends remained on board to the last moment and actually remained in a prominent position on the dock-head until we were out of sight, the time being about 3 p. m. We then had a very busy time examining our many presents.

The Voyage

The voyage out was by no means uneventful, for the Mayoress records that after leaving Liverpool at 1:30 p. m. the "Laconia" ran into very heavy seas off Ireland. After taking on passengers at Queenstown and Galway, rough weather was experienced till Wednesday. The heavy seas compelled the boat to be slowed down 80 much that she lost practically a whole day, which meant a late arrival at Boston, though some of time was made up. On Friday a whale was sighted. The Mayor and Mayoress took part in all the social activities during the voyage and in a bridge tournament we believe that his Worship won a consolation prize—a donkey—which caused much fun. The return voyage was less eventful, and the "Laconia" docked at Liverpool on Monday. Councillor and Mrs. Collis spent a day visiting friends in the Liverpool district before returning to Winchester on Wednesday to keep official engagements on Thursday.—[Hampshire Observer, Winchester, England, Saturday, Nov. 1, 1930.

SALVATION ARMY GENERAL MAINTENANCE APPEAL FOR $2000

The annual Salvation Army appeal for $2000 for Winchester is now in full swing. About $750 has now already been given to this appeal.

A Salvation Army solicitor with proper credentials will be canvassing the town in a few days, with a thorough house to house canvass; also contributions can be sent to Mr. Charles E. Barrett, Winchester Trust Company, Winchester.

The many institutions that the Salvation Army serves the public as well as other means, is as follows:

1. Evangeline Booth Home for Girls.
2. Day Nurseries.
3. Free Employment Bureaus.
4. General Relief Work.
5. Maternity Hospital.
6. Missing Persons' Bureau.
7. Fire and Emergency Patrol.
8. Workingmens' Hotels.
9. Christmas and Thanksgiving Dinners.
10. Boys and Girls Organizations.
11. General Hospitals.
12. Dispensaries.
13. Fresh Air Camps.
14. Americanization Bureau.
15. Prison Department.

Also many other agencies by which this organization does its great and noble work.

In past years the employees in our larger factories have been most generous, but with the short hours during the past few months, we fear that their ability to help us will be seriously affected.

As a further result of this unemployment situation, many people have been out of work and their families are suffering and the Salvation Army has had many appeals for assistance in saving lives and has responded to these appeals. This condition has also called for unusual expenditures.

Help us at this crucial moment, so that the Salvation Army may not turn down a case that comes to its doors.

By the local Committee of this Winchester Salvation Army Appeal.

MONDAY MORN

By Jeanne Phelps and Cynthia Corthell

Monday morn at the break of dawn,
We spread the clothes upon the lawn,
We wipe the dishes, we make the beds,
We set the table, we wash the spreads,
We feed the chickens that run like the dickens.
We water the hens in their dinky pens,
We eat the grass, we mow the lawn,
We weed the garden and hoe the corn,
We groom our horses and grind them grain,
We sons each saddle, each bridle, each rein,
And while we are working we whistle a tune,
It may not come true, but we finish by noon.
And from noon until night and from day to day,
We have our work and we have our play.

RADIO RECEIVER PRODUCED BY EDISON LABORATORIES

The latest product of the Edison laboratories is the Edison light-o-matic radio, a distinctly new development in the field of radio. It is the result of continued research for greater perfection in reproducing sound, since Edison invented the phonograph and bears the signature of Thomas A. Edison, the world famous inventor.

The light-o-matic feature consists of an arrangement to facilitate station selection by means of a light flashing through a miniature window when stations are picked up as the dial is turned. Of six models, two are screen grid with three others presenting the Edison neutrodyne circuit. Another model is a combination Edison radio and electric phonograph.

Attractive cabinet work lends charm and dignity to all of the models one or more of which are on display at the Edison district office, 346 Main street, Winchester. Each set is equped with a built-in full dynamic type loud speaker. The sets are sold complete with tubes, installed, ready to use. Free antenna erection and free service over a six months' period is included.

The Home Worker

Gosh, have you ever stepped to think what electricity does in the home? It runs the washer, heats the iron, turns the fans, toasts the bread, cooks the meal, perks the coffee, curls the hair, runs the radio, warms the bath water, sweeps the carpets, runs the sewing machine and lights the house. Truly Aladdin's lamp is not a myth.—Florida Times-Union.

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

"Moby Dick" starring John Barrymore comes to the University Theatre next Sunday for four days. Based on the famous novel of the same name by Herman Melville, the story of mad Captain Ahab and his long hunt for the great white whale, is the most spectacular drama ever transferred to the talking screen. The most difficult voice-recording ever attempted, taken during a furious storm at sea while the whaling ship, rebuilt for the purpose, was being tossed about in almost helpless fashion, is heard in this version of "Moby Dick." Joan Bennett plays the feminine lead opposite the star and Lloyd Hughes, Noble Johnson, Walter Long and Jack Curtis are in the cast.

Laughs will be plentiful when Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, favorite film comedy team, are seen in their latest production, "Half Shot at Sunrise" the companion feature. This show, a wartime comedy, is said to be one of the most amusing features of the year.

"The Spoilers," the Rex Beach story starts Thursday for three days. Gary Cooper is featured at the head of an important cast, the supporting players including Kay Johnson, Betty Compson, Harry Green, William Boyd, Slim Somerville and James Kirkwood.

"Maybe It's Love," a comedy romance of college days, with a cast headed by Joan Bennett, Joe E. Brown and James Hall is the companion feature. A fast-moving story of campus life it presents one of the most authentic pictures of undergraduate days. Miss Bennett portrays a lovely collegiate belle who succeeds in gathering an all-American football team to fight on the gridiron for her Alma Mater. Joe E. Brown has the funniest role of his career as a "has been" football star pushed into the background by the arrival of the "all-Americans." James Hall has the role of a pigskin star opposite Miss Bennett in the leading male role. Laura Lee provides many amusing moments as the campus cutie and sweetheart of Brown.

Clifton McNeil and James Haley returned home on Wednesday for the Thanksgiving holidays from New Hampton.

MALDEN MYSTIC THEATRE

"Billy the Kid," with John Mack Brown, and "Scotland Yard," in which Edmund Lowe and Joan Bennett enact the leading roles, will be the special program the Mystic Theatre in Malden will offer for seven days starting Saturday. "Billy the Kid," before his death at the age of 21, gained the reputation of being the West's most dangerous man. John Mack Brown is a fine selection for the role of the "kid." Kay Johnson supplies the romance, Wallace Beery an excellent performance as the sheriff, while Karl Dane is seen to advantage as a funny Swedish cowboy.

"Scotland Yard," the second attraction on the Mystic program which starts on Saturday, is the intensely human story of an underworld character who attempts to resume his place in decent society. Through the mistake of a plastic surgeon who rebuilds his face after it has been mangled in battle, Barroles, the criminal, is made to appear exactly like, Sir John Lasher, English nobleman. He returns to England and is taken in as the English lord, fooling even the latter's wife who was separated from her husband on the day of their wedding. Edmund Lowe performs the dual role in fine style, while Joan Bennett is well cast as the wife.

"Outside the Law," a thrilling crook drama, with Mary Nolan and Owen Moore as the stars, is the main attraction on the Mystic program which concludes its run on Friday. "Shadow Ranch," is the second attraction on the current program.

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

"The Playboy of Paris," starring popular Maurice Chevalier, and "Her Man," with Helen Twelvetrees heading the cast, will make up the double feature program the big Granada Theater in Malden will offer for seven days starting Saturday. Maurice Chevalier, is cast as a millionaire waiter in "The Playboy of Paris." All day long he waits on the rich people of Paris, longing to take his place with them in the glamorous life of the world's fashion center. At night, transformed, he joins the throng of merry-makers in the brilliant cafes, and, with his bewitching singing, his melting love-making, becomes a favorite with all the women. His chief difficulty is in keeping his identity as a waiter secret, for he is under contract to continue waiting on tables for 20 years. "Her Man," a picture that has won high praise from critics all over the country is a tremendous story of the slums of Havana and the regeneration of a young woman through the power of love with Miss Twelvetrees giving a remarkable portrayal as Frankie. The girl, Frankie, is a dance hall habitue, who until she meets "her man" is the pliant tool of "Johnnie" a rascally knife-throwing bounder who is portrayed by Ricardo Cortez. "Dan" a sailor who salvages the soul of "Frankie" and wins her love is artistically presented by Phillips Holmes.

"Heads Up," starring Charles (Buddy) Rogers, is the main attraction on the program which concludes its run at the Granada on Friday.

American State Poets

While the office of poet laureate in England is largely an honorary one, there is a small salary attached to it, amounting at present to about $495 a year. Formerly it was $360 a year, plus a cask of wine. Some of the states of this country, such as Nebraska, Oklahoma, etc., have appointed state poets or poets laureate, usually purely honorary positions.

WINCHESTER GIRLS LOST HOCKEY CROWN TO ARLINGTON

Arlington High School girls' field hockey team won the Greater Boston Interscholastic championship Monday afternoon when it defeated the Winchester High team at Concord, 1—0. Winchester replaced Melrose in the final when it was discovered Monday morning that Capt. Elizabeth Davidson of that school had been unknowingly ineligible all season because of failure to fulfill certain specific Melrose scholastic requirements.

As the score would indicate Monday's match was a close one, but Arlington's better teaming on the forward line gave it the edge. The locals played a better game than that of the previous Friday against Melrose, and during much of the first half had the ball in Arlington's territory.

Winchester had several good scoring chances and only some fine defensive work on the part of the Arlington goaler prevented Coach Centervall's charges from tallying.

"Kayo" Keepers, guarding the Winchester net during the first half, also turned in a couple of fine stops, once kicking out a shot which seemed almost certain to evade her.

After the half Arlington forged to the front by virtue of its superior team work, and soon had Winchester almost entirely on the defensive. What few offensive spurts the locals made were due almost entirely to the individual ability of Janet Nichols, and as was the case in the Melrose game, the remainder of the club seemed to depend upon her to do the scoring.

Arlington with its superior pass work kept continually working the ball up the field, and only some strong defensive playing by Capt. Carolyn Nichols, Mabel Thompkins, Loretta Carleton and Jean King held the Spy Ponders in check.

Finally midway through the half the ball was taken into a brisk scrimmage in the striking circle in front of the Winchester sticks and a hard shot was taken at goaler "Joe" Fowle. The latter stopped the shot, but followed the ball out of the goal to make the clear. As she did so, Capt. Barbara Carr of Arlington took the rebound and rolled it into the goal. It was not a hard shot, and had goaler Fowle been in her usual position, it would have been an easy one to save.

It proved however, to be the winning tally, for though Winchester kept trying, its individual game got nowhere against the combination play of the Arlington girls who were winning their third title in eight years.

Winchester was disappointed in its failure to win, but the loss of the title was considerably tempered by the knowledge that Melrose really deserved the shot at the big crown. The local girls reacted to the situation like good sportswomen and while welcoming the chance to play for the championship were heartily sorry for the Melrose girls' hard luck.

WINCHESTER BOY HAS FINE FOOTBALL SOUVENIR

"Billy" McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. McDonald, Jr. of Hill street, is the proud possessor of a football souvenir any fan in the East might well envy.

As a member of the Noonan School football team, "Billy" has the normal boy's interest in the gridiron game, and so it was with real delight that he received this week a football, autographed by 40 members of the big Green varsity team and coaching staff at Dartmouth. The football is the gift of "Joe" Tansey, former captain and star tackle of the Norwich University eleven, and this year coach of the Clark School team at Hanover, N. H.

ENGLISH CLASS HAD THANKSGIVING PARTY

Because of the Thanksgiving holidays, Mr. Robert M. Keeney, English instructor at high school and his class staged a most enjoyable party Wednesday morning. Miss Olive Boutillier had charge of the entertainment and Miss Harriet Keepers took care of the refreshments. Norman Hill, the master of ceremonies, acted his part very well and introduced the various participants in the program cleverly.

Robert Lampee gave a very dramatic address as a potential candidate for the position of dog catcher in Winchester while his rival for the honor, Clifford O'Brien, opposed him very effectively. Jean King drew caricatures of every one in the class that were very amusing. Elizabeth Mead played a medley of college songs and Norman Hill and "Kay" Chamberlin played a duet while Robert Lampee played the trumpet. Grace Dunne, to end the entertainment, did a very clever tap dance.

The Star is sorry that it can not see eye to eye with those whose misguided idea of a good time led them to smear the Woburn High School goal posts with Winchester colors some time previous to the holiday game. We do not believe any high school pupils were responsible for the job which was anything but sportsmanlike. It is to be hoped that the Woburn supporters will on their part be sportsmen enough to ignore the whole business.

The present "business depression" should provide an opportunity to revise some of the labor laws of this State. When parents of boys 15 and 16 years of age, who are receiving town aid, desire to have their boys at work to aid in the family income and to keep them off the street, it would appear that the present laws prosecuting employers of these boys should be amended. A boy between 15 and 20, who desires to work and whose family needs his assistance, should be allowed to do so. It is an absurd situation when a boy of this age is confronted by the knowledge that he is not allowed to work and is to look to the community to support him.

MRS. MARILLA J. ARMSTRONG

Mrs. Marilla Jane Armstrong, for 57 years a resident of this town and the widow of the late Robert M. Armstrong, who was prominently identified with Y. M. C. A. work throughout the state, died at her home 124 Highland avenue on Wednesday noon. She was 72 years of age.

Mrs. Armstrong was a native of Vassalboro, Me. and the daughter of Benjamin and Elizabeth Weeks. She came to Winchester with her parents when a young girl, attended the local high school and was married here. Her husband died five years ago. She leaves six children—Mrs. Arthur Peabody Pratt of Greenfield, Robert W., Russell B. and Dorothy of this town, F. Douglass of Beach Bluff and Mrs. Clement C. Rinehart of New York City. Twelve grandchildren also survive her. She was widely known among the older residents of the town and was an early member of the Methodist Church. While her health had not been of the best during recent years, her sudden death was most unexpected and a great shock to her family and friends.

The funeral services are to be held on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at the Crawford Memorial Church, Rev. J. West Thompson, pastor of the church, officiating. The interment will be in the family lot in Wildwood Cemetery.

APPRECIATION TO CITIZENS OF WINCHESTER

The Guildhall,
Winchester
Nov. 6, 1930

Harry Stevens, Esq.,
Chairman of Selectmen,
Town Hall,
Winchester, Mass., U. S. A.

Dear Sir:

At a meeting of the Town Council of the City of Winchester held today, the Right Worshipful The Mayor reported that on his visit to Winchester, Mass., U. S. A., to take part in your recent Tercentenary Celebrations, the Board of Selectmen, on behalf of the citizens of Winchester, Mass., handed to him for presentation to the citizens of Winchester, England, a replica in silver of the original Paul Revere Bowl, held and greatly prized by you; when it was:

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY "That the said bowl be gratefully accepted by the Council and kept with the corporation plate in the Muniment Room, and that the Town Clerk do convey to the citizens of Winchester, Mass., the Council's deep appreciation of their generous gift, and for the cordial reception and hospitality afforded to the Mayor and Mayoress during their visit."

Yours faithfully,
(Signed) Thomas Holt,
Town Clerk

MISS VIRGINIA WARREN

VIRGINIA WARREN IN CONCERT

A year ago a young American artist, born under the shadow of the gilded dome of our State House, broke into the vision of music lovers with a perfect recital. Without the usual blare of trumpets that so often accompany the announcement of an artist returned from musical studies abroad, Virginia Warren appeared on the stage of oJrdan Hall last January and before an audience of music lovers, which included almost all the critics of Boston, presented one of the most interesting recital programs heard in a long time.

Warren Storey Smith of the Boston Post stated that she was "a born recital singer"; adding also that she possesses that "rare, yet indispensable, attribute of the recital singer; a sense of style. To lapse into the vernacular, by way of comprehensive summary, Miss Warren can 'put a song across'."

The Boston Transcript stated "She does more than merely reverse the usual procedure of the musician who is just beginning a career and who places certain superficialities of vocal technique first and real musical intelligence last. Miss Warren not only places musical intelligence first but brings to bear a thorough technical training. She possesses a naturally fine rhythmic sense. She makes herself familiar with the music at hand, discovers its intellectual as well as emotional qualities, finds just the right tempo for it, observes its peculiarities of accent and phrase, and above all endeavors to project something of its essential character."

Other critics and newspapers commented upon Miss Warren's talents with equal approval and, needless to say, her American debut was hailed on all sides as a splendid musical triumph.

Following the laying of a fine musical background here in American, with further study abroad, where she filled extensive concert engagements, she returned to Boston where she was acclaimed as possessing a voice of fine quality and exquisite purity and warmth, added to which she has a pleasing presence, a sense of style and accurate enunciation.

Miss Warren, who makes her home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Warren of Everett avenue, appears in concert again in Jordan Hall, Boston, on Wednesday evening, Dec. 10, and a large number of music lovers of Winchester will undoubtedly be seen in the audience.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

Much favorable comment is being received by the local branch on the part it had in last Sunday's concert at the Holy Ghost Hospital. Joseph W. Mahoney of Woburn, himself an exceptional entertainer, sponsored the "Winchester" numbers which included singing, comedianism and readings. The various branches in the Diocese contributed to the same program.

No social meeting was held this month on accout of the holiday. The next business meeting will be Dec. 11.

WOBURN WON FROM WINCHESTER

Intercepted Pass and Field Goal Victors' Winning Edge

An intercepted forward pass which Capt. Paul Flaherty converted into a touchdown and a pretty field goal by "Bob" Foley gave Woburn High a 9—0 victory over Winchester in the annual Thanksgiving Day classic between the two schools yesterday morning at Woburn. A huge crowd viewed the struggle which was on the whole evenly contested. Winchester held the upper hand during much of the first half, but toward the end of the game Woburn was in the drivers' seat and kept the ball for the most part in the locals' territory.

As the crowd treked down to the gridiron the most noticeable things to be seem were the goal posts which some hardy souls had painted in Red and Black with the word "Winchester" emblazened on the cross bars. A workman between the halves slobbered yellow paint onto one of the goals, but the other stood as the Winchester enthusiasts had left it. It was just too bad that the football team couldn't have lived up to its advance press agenting.

Both camps had big cheering sections, and it seemed that there were more Winchester supporters at the game than Woburn sympathisers. Coach Mansfield's charges started well and looked good to win handily during the first few minutes of play. As the game progressed the locals seemed to lose their drive while Woburn hustled and took advantage of every break which presented itself.

Winchester's offensive scheme of things was pretty much an open book to the Woburn boys for it never varied from the opening to the closing whistle. First an off-tackle run from kick formation, then a try at center, with either a pass or kick on third down. The locals didn't make 10 yards all morning through the center of the Woburn line, yet the quarterbacks kept plugging away and invariably lost the advantage they were gaining off the tackles and through the air.

Woburn's offense also never varied. The Tanners used a cross-buck, a run on the long side of the line and occasionally a cut back. The success of its running game depended entirely upon the individual ability of Flaherty and Foley who ran hard and fast, holding their feet well when hit.

Winchester failed to make the most of the passing game with which it is equipped. Woburn's pass defense looked feeble enough, and time and again long "Eddie" Hitchborn was free and clear out in the open only to have the passer shoot the leather into a clump of black and orange jersies. Hitchborn completed one of the two long passes shot to him, and lost the other with a clear way for a touchdown when his feet went out from under him just as he was going to clutch the ball.

Woburn didn't gamble much on passing, preferring to kick; and its Paul Flaherty did some mighty effective booting of the pigskin. The Tanners invariably gained on kicks, Lee being so hurried by the Woburn forwards that he seldom got either heighth or distance.

The Winchester line just wasn't cleaning out consistantly though there were times when the whole left side of the Tanners' line was ridden right out of the picture. On those occasions the play invariably was on the other side where Woburn was especially strong. Only Captain Emery, DiMinico and "Dan" Smith played ball on the rushline. "Piggie" Knowlton and "Olio" Lee bore the brunt of the ball carrying for the locals and the former played a corking all around game, Wilmer Smith played the consistently good football he has shown all season, though the helmet he was wearing made his passing less effective than it has been.

At the start of the game Winchester had its big chance when play was entirely in Woburn territory. Following the kickoff and after Hickey had prevented Flaherty from breaking away for a score by a bruising last ditch tackle, both teams were penalized for offside. Knowlton kicked to the Woburn 12-yard line where a fumble was recovered by DiMinico for a real break.

Hickey got 5 yards on a criss cross but the inevitable thrust at center failed to gain. Knowlton got 2 yards at tackle, but another plunge into the massed center of the Woburn line failed to gain and Woburn took the ball at its 3-yard line.

Play remained in Woburn territory throughout the quarter and continued pretty much on that side of midfield until just before the half when Wilmer Smith dropped back to pass from his own 40-yard line. He was hurried by several Woburn men, but desperately hurled off the pass which went into the hands of Captain Flaherty of Woburn who galloped straight down the sidelines, 50 long yards for a touchdown. Foley failed to kick the goal.

Just before the close of the third quarter Lee and Knowlton reeled off a first down on Winchester's 40-yard line. Lee then crashed through the whole Woburn team for 15 yards, and it seemed that Winchester had started at last.

A costly offside penalty stalled Winchester's offense and Woburn intercepted a pass at its own 40-yard line. Then Knowlton broke through to smear Quigley for a 5-yard loss with the game's best tackle and Woburn kicked outside at the 42-yard line.

Once again an offside penalty slowed up the locals and Woburn broke up a poorly played lateral to take the ball at Winchester's 30-yard line. From then until the end of the game the Tanners held the upper hand. Flaherty kicked twice, driving Winchester back on the exchange from its 20 to its 10 yard line.

Lee dropped back to punt, but fumbled and recovered the ball on his own 1-yard line. His kick from behind the goal line carried only to the 18-yard marker, and after Flaherty had picked up 8 yards in three rushes, Foley dropped back and kicked a pretty goal from placement to seal Winchester's doom.

The locals tried desperately to score through the air, but without avail. Just before the final whistle, Lundblad and "Dan" Smith were sent from the game for too free use of their hands in a scrimmage.

PYNN—MacBURNIE

Miss Hazel May MacBurnie, daughter of Mr. Clyde R. MacBurnie of 35 Corey street, Medford, and Ronald Edward Pynn of this town, son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklyn Pynn of 28 Lebanon street, were married Friday evening, Nov. 21, in the Hillside M. E. Church by the pastor, Rev. George Allen. The auditorium was attractively decorated with chrysanthemums, palms and evergreen. Miss Ruth Smith played the wedding music on the organ, and the soloist during the ceremony was Miss Mildred Brooking.

Miss MacBurnie was attended by Miss Marion Pynn of Winchester, sister of the bridegroom, and Mr. Pynn had for his best man, Robert Titilah of this town. A cousin of the bride, Miss Della Gale of Medford, was flower girl and Robert Pynn, brother of the bridegroom, was ring bearer. Ushers were Lloyd E. Taylor of Medford, cousin of the bride; Woodrow Pynn of Winchester, brother of the bridegroom; and John Dunning of Brookline.

The bride wore a wedding gown of white satin and carried a bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies. Miss Pynn's gown was of orchid satin and she carried yellow roses. The flower girl wore a frock of pink silk and carried a basket of rosebuds, and the little ring bearer wore a tiny full dress suit.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church vestry which was decorated with chrysanthemums and autumn leaves. The young couple were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. MacBurnie and Mr. and Mrs. Pynn. Upon their return from an auto honeymoon spent touring through New Hampshire, Mr. Pynn and his bride will make their home in Medford on Thomas street.

The bride was graduated from Medford High School in the class of 1928. Mr. Pynn is a graduate of Franklin Union and is a heating engineer, associated with the Boston firm of Trask, Pynn Company.

Harris S. Richardson of the Board of Selectmen has called attention of the slippery condition of Grove street beyond Grove place, and has recommended that the road surface be roughed up to prevent undue skidding in wet weather. Mr. Richardson has also called the Board's attention to the depth of the gutter in front of the National Bank, it being so low that the hub of a car driven too near the sidewalk may easily catch upon the curbing. Both matters were referred to the Superintendent of Streets for report.

Old Farmer's Almanac at the Star Office. n28-tf

Mr. Ralph S. Vinal of Salisbury street has resigned from the Board of Appeal, and Mr. Edward R. Wait of Lawson road extension has been selected to fill his place. Mr. Wait's term will expire in 1933.

Those Edgar Guest Christmas cards you have been looking for are at the Star Office.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar P. Taylor of Brantford, Ontario, and Mr. Elbridge Taylor of Brown University are spending Thanksgiving season with Mr. and Mrs. S. W. H. Taylor of Bacon street.

Those who like a bit of nonsense on their Christmas cards will be pleased with the McEvoy box at the Star Office.

ANDRE RELICS IN WASHINGTON

Solution of one of the most dramatic mysteries of the Arctic during the four centuries of Polar exploration, by the discovery after 33 years of the frozen remains of the Swedish explorer and aeronaut, Solomon Auguste Andree, has aroused keen interest at the headquarters of the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C. Gilbert Grosvenor, for many years editor of the Society, relies of the expedition were collected at Danes Island in 1898, the year after Andree began from there his ill-fated air voyage; and in the same year the Society contributed to the expedition of Walter Wellman whose trip to Frilljof Nansen Land (then Franz Josef Land) had as one of its most important aims a search for the missing explorer and his two companions.

Occupied Andree's House in Spitsbergen

Dr. Gore with an assistant went to Danes Island of the Spitsbergen group in July 1898, just a year after Andree's ascent, to conduct some gravitational experiments. The uninhabited island had been left by Andree's supporting party less than a year before. The little house occupied by the ballonist was standing and in it Dr. Gore and his companion established themselves.

In the house Dr. Gore found a wooden replica of the old Swedish-Norwegian Union flag, left by Andree, and this he brought with him to Washington together with a section of the crate that had held the balloon and an envelope bearing the official insignia of the expedition. At the time of Dr. Gore's visit the balloon and an envelope bearing the official insignia of the expedition. At the time of Dr. Gore's visit the balloon house was standing as it had been left on the day of the ascent, and the long wooden runway over the jagged rocks was still coated with the axle grease that had been smeared on to facilitate the take-off.

An unfortunate down gust of wind at the time of the ascent may have had much to do with the tragic ending of the flight, in the opinion of Dr. Gore after his careful examination of the situation of the balloon house.

Descending Air Current Caught Balloon

I am convinced, he says, that it was a current of descending air, sweeping down from the top of the hill, rather than any fouling of the drag lines, as has been recently suggested, that caused the balloon to dip toward the water just after it was launched. I was told that Andree and his companions quickly threw over considerable ballast, with the result that the bag rose to a great height, lifting the drag lines out of the water. With the lines out of the sea, steering was impossible, so Andree released some of the hydrogen that he had sought to preserve so carefully. The balloon then settled down again and when the craft disappeared on the horizon it was progressing favorably in a wind blowing from the south.

The Wellman Expedition of 1898, to which the National Geographic Society contributed funds expected to find Andree and his companions at Cape Flora near the southernmost point of Franz Josef Land, which was recognized as a meeting place for Arctic explorers. Failing to find the party, Wellman concluded—erroneously, it now appears—that the balloonists had perished in the Polar waters.

Records of the National Geographic Society dated 1907 refer to Andree's flight—the first effort to conduct Polar exploration through the air—as the most daring of all schemes of Polar exploration. Outlining the Swedish balloonist's scheme, the account continues:

Elaborate Steering Apparatus

The plan looked to the flotation of the balloon some 800 feet above the sea by means of three attached heavy guide ropes, each 900 feet long to which in turn were attached eight ballast lines 250 feet long with which it was expected by shifting the position of the guide ropes to change the direction of the balloon . . . On July 11 the wind was favorable in strength and direction and everything was ready. The balloon named the Ornen (Eagle) had its load of about five tons of food, ballast, and freight and men, and from measurements of escaping gas had a flotation life of about 30 days. . . . . The wind carried the balloon across the mountainous island of Vogelsang, making it necessary to rise some 1500 feet, whence it passed out of sight in an hour, below the northeast horizon. As the balloon had at its best a flotation life of 30 days, it is obvious that the report is erroneous of its appearance in Siberia 65 days later.

Shocked Hens Good Layers

Guns are finding a fresh use. A Swedish farmer noticed that his hens laid just twice as many eggs while dynamite rock-blasting was going on. When the blasting had finished, he continued a daily dose of shock by firing a gun near the henhouse, and found the stimulus just as effective.

MURRAY—BRESNAN

The marriage of Miss Ann Elizabeth Bresnan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Bresnan of 3 Norris street, North Cambridge, to Patrolman John Joseph Murray of the Winchester Police Department, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Murray of 23 Salem street, took place on the morning of Thanksgiving Day in the Church of St. John the Evangelist, North Cambridge.

Rev. Hugh Blunt performed the marriage ceremony at 9 o'clock and also celebrated the nuptial mass which followed. The altar was attractively decorated with chrysanthemums and palms.

Miss Bresnan was attended by her sister, Miss Evelyn G. Bresnan of Cambridge, and Patrolman Murray had for his best man, his brother, Henry P. Murray of Winchester. Ushers were John J. Bresnan of Cambridge and Arthur O'Leary and Charles J. Harrold, both of Winchester.

The bride wore a wedding gown of white satin, princess style; with a veil of tulle and lace, caught up with orange blossoms; and carried a bouquet of calla lilies. Her attendant wore a gown of peach transparent velvet with a matching velvet picture hat and carried Talisman roses.

After the ceremony a reception was held and a wedding breakfast served at Notre Dame Clubhouse, the bride and bridegroom being assisted in receiving by their parents.

Upon their return from a wedding journey to Niagara Falls and Canada Patrolman and Mrs. Murray are to live in Winchester. They will be at home after Dec. 15 at 40 Water street.

Six girls ushered at the Hollis street theatre during the Middlesex County Teachers' convention. The girls were under the charge of Miss Helen Bronson.

Miss Bronson also took charge of the dozen girls who packed things for Christmas. In all there were 50 cretonne bags containing the more necessary articles of life.

The officers of the Red Cross for the coming year are as follows:

President Janet Nichols
Vice President Martha Boyden
Secretary Marjorie Little Publicity Chairman Elizabeth Chamberlin

The poster contest held in the high school in observance of book week has closed and Daniel West, with his modernistic painting, "The Modern City Needs Good Books" was the winner with Rachel Browne, a sophomore getting second prize for her portrayal of a man. The prizes are books which they choose themselves.

Those who submitted very good posters making it very difficult for the judges, Mr. Wade L. Grindle, Miss Helen Bronson and Mr. Raymond Hayward, to choose among who were Virginia Bessie, John Johnson, Kenneth Campbell, Aram Mouradian, Roberta Healey, Jean King, Winifred Williams, Lucille Pratt.

STRAND ATTRACTIONS

The feature attraction at the Strand Theatre, Malden starting Saturday, Nov. 29 will be a comedy version of that famous picture shown in Malden a short time ago the "Big House." "Up the River" is unquestionably one of the funniest talkies ever made, and it sets a new style in comedy.

The picture "Big House" became famous for its tense drama, "Up the River" was made expressly for the uproarious activities of a team of burglars and jail breakers.

With an all-star cast of seven well known screen and stage players, Universal has made what is claimed to be one of the outstanding dramas of the year, "A Lady Surrenders" which will be the second feature at the Strand Theatre starting Saturday. Adapted from the popular novel "Sincerity" by John Erskine, "A Lady Surrenders" is a blending of ultra-sophistication and astute subtlety.

WINCHESTER WOMEN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Republican Club will be held at Association Hall, Vine street, Wednesday, Dec. 3 at 2:30 p. m. The speaker will be Mrs. Alfred Radley who will talk on "Tripping Through the Tropics" with pictures. This will be a continuation of a talk which Mrs. Radley gave last year which was enjoyed so much by our members. Mrs. Radley's pictures are very interesting and we are looking forward to seeing some more of them and hearing her tell of her experiences in foreign lands.

Mrs. Isabelle Winship will be the soloist of the afternoon. Tea and a social hour will follow the meeting.

WINCHESTER RED CROSS

It is our ambition and our fondest hope to enroll every one in our annual roll call. If you have not been enrolled it may be that you were not at home when our worker called.

But please don't forget us we need every $1, and Mr. Priest at the Winchester Savings Bank is glad to accept your membership there. Every campaign for funds is a struggle these days. But please remember that Red Cross money returns in the form of service and relief to the people of the town.

Not Valuable Waterway

The Hudson bay is not an important waterway because of the proximity of its entrance to the Arctic regions. Past the mouth of the strait flows a stream, often more than 100 miles wide, of berg and floe ice, caused by an Arctic current. This makes navigation difficult and almost impossible in the winter season. The proximity of the entrance to the magnetic pole also causes the compass needle to become unreliable. The only good harbor is at Fort Churchill.

World's Musical Standard

International pitch is the one adopted by the Vienna congress in November, 1887. It had been adopted in France in 1859. Previous to the Vienna congress, held for choosing a standard pitch, there had been great confusion, due to the variety of pitches used. International pitch has 435 double vibrations a second for the tone A. It is now the standard for the whole world.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

The Winchesterite who goes with the tide of humanity may get on, but he never gets anywhere in particular.

We know a certain fellow here in Winchester who is all the time bragging of his honesty. Everytime we hear a fellow brag of his honesty we half suspect that honesty does not come to him naturally.

Perhaps too many people here in Winchester as elsewhere pray for what they want when they want it, with never a thought of waiting patiently until they deserve it.

"The burying of wires is a grave question," remarks a fellow townsman who favors putting all overhead wires under ground.

A Winchester housewife complains that some coffee she bought recently was full of dirt. Guess she must have got some of the ground coffee.

Always do what you think is right, and remember that this is quite a different thing from always thinking what you do is right.

Sticks to at least one Winchester farm—the mortgage.

A new bride of our acquaintance says Winchester hens are the most intelligent she ever heard of, for they lay eggs just the right size to fit her new egg cups.

Ye modern Winchester flapper wears out few brooms.

Some people here in Winchester are peculiar. They won't jump at a chance to eat frogs' legs.

"Star Reader" suggests a Boost Winchester marathon.

A citizen can talk freely to a Star reporter regardless of the fact that some people think a reporter prints everything he hears and a lot he does not hear.

"They ought to stop those prize fights," a woman writes to the Star. Fights have always interested the world since the first woman pitched a petrified rolling pin at her husband.

The tactful Winchesterite has simply due regard for the feelings of others.

And the Winchesterite who insinuates does more harm to reputation than if he attacked directly, for insinuations stimulate imagination to do its worst.

Wool Fat in Commerce

Lanolin is wool fat or wool grease in a purified condition. It is a substance consisting chiefly of the esters of cholestrin with certain higher fatty acids. Prepared commercially from wool as a yellowish white, unctuous mass, it is miscible to a certain extent with water. It is used widely as a basis for ointments.

"We invade a new field with vastly improved cars at the lowest prices in our history"

BY WILLIAM J. McANENEY
President, Hudson Motor Car Company

WE have built these models up to and beyond the 1931 standards of performance and quality in every way, and have never in our history offered so many improvements. Quality is greater down to the last detail. Every phase of performance has been greatly improved, and the luxury we have built into the cars is substantially greater than ever before. Motors are larger and more powerful. An efficient system of oil cooling is introduced. A marked improvement in carburetion increases flexibility and economy. Bodies are longer and wider. These cars possess the finest, easiest riding qualities. For the first time, such comfort is available at these low prices. Only great manufacturing economies and the fact that our large resources permit us to take the fullest possible advantage of reduced commodity prices have enabled us to offer the public the greatest combination of quality and low prices in our entire history.

Owner-Management Permits Exclusive Value Advantages

Owner-management enables Hudson-Essex to give you outstanding advantages in quality and price. The men who are now guiding its destines have been with the company since its inception twenty-two years ago. Its department heads and principal distributors are its controlling owners. Their independence is backed by unusually large resources in capital and plant facilities. It enables Hudson-Essex to lead in design and engineering quality. It permits economies in manufacture and distribution that bring exceptional quality direct to the public at distinct price advantages.

NEEDLEWORK GUILD OF AMERICA, WINCHESTER BRANCH

The 21st annual meeting of the Guild was held at the Unitarian Church parlor, Nov. 19, with a record attendance. The president, Mrs. Harry C. Sanborn, conducted the meeting.

Mrs. Frank W. Roberts was elected secretary, taking the place of Mrs. E. L. Dunning who has most acceptably filled this position for the past four years.

Mrs. George W. Fitch was elected treasurer, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. E. W. Wentworth.

Miss Hilda M. Torrop, superintendent of the Winchester Hospital gave a most interesting talk on the work of the hospital and of the nurses.

About 800 attractive, warm garments, including dresses, underwear, stockings, etc. were displayed and after the meeting these articles including seven pairs of blankets were distributed among the welfare agencies of our town.

The Needlework Guild is surely one of our finest charities. Much good is accomplished with no great tax upon any one person.

The officers of the Guild appreciate the courtesy of the standing committee of the church, for allowing the Guild the use of the spacious parlor in the Parish House in which the making and exhibition of garments took place.

A Lecture on Christian Science

In consequence we are privileged this evening to listen to a lecture on Christian Science by a member of this Board of Lectureship. It is entitled, "Christian Science: The Angelic Message," and the lecturer is one for whom we all feel great love, because we know of the consecrated work which she has done for many years to forward our beloved Cause. It is indeed a privilege and my pleasure to present to you, Miss M. Ethel Whitcomb, of Boston, Miss Whitcomb;

In Luke's Gospel it is written, "And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men." This wondrous chorus of angels is still singing, "Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people." Do any of you question, What are the good tidings that the angels are singing today? Christian Science answers that these tidings of great joy, these angelic messages, are nothing less than a revelation of the demonstrable fact that the same spiritual Truth which healed through Jesus of Nazareth is here today, bidding the dumb to speak, the lame to walk, the blind to see. Christian Science has already healed its unnumbered thousands and sent them on their way singing with the angels, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men." It is a divine fact that all that anyone can need to make him whole, to set him free from poverty, pain, defeat, sin, and what is termed old age, is the angelic message of the true understanding of God and of the real man, and to apply it.

What is an angel? To a Christian Scientist an angel is not a celestial personality with feathered wings, but an exalted idea from divine Mind, an inspirational thought-visitant. Do angels really speak? Yes, they forever come with their messages, and guide and heal and light our way. If this be so, what deafens us that we do not hear their call? Is it not the love of material things, the love of self, of purse, of praise? When do we hear these angel messengers? When the heart bathes in humility, and yearning to be used by God, whispers, "Speak, Lord; for thy servant heareth." Then is consciousness made ready to receive God's impartation of ideas which forever pass in angelic processions from Him to man.

Mrs. Eddy defines angels in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" on page 581, as "God's thoughts passing to man; spiritual intuitions, pure and perfect; the inspiration of goodness, purity, and immortality, counteracting all evil, sensuality, and mortality." Who is not stirred by the mighty truth that God pours forth His spiritual thoughts to man? Every moment of inspiration, intuition, goodness, gratitude, purity, or selflessness is a moment with the angels. Let us listen that we may hear them as they pass to us. There is not a person in this audience who has not at some time been conscious of an angel. An angel has brought each one of us here tonight, because every least desire for good is an angel visitant.

ANGELS WERE HEARD BY PROPHETS AND APOSTLES

Great characters of Scripture, in the midnight of human woe, were strengthened and inspired by angels, were delivered from dungeons by angels, were led on to holy tasks and grand achievements by angels. Abraham knew the angels. Jacob in his struggle at Peniel was transformed by an angel. Moses entertained angels and in the wilderness declared, "And when we cried unto the Lord, he heard our voice, and sent an angel, and hath brought us forth out of Egypt." Daniel, standing unharmed in the den of lions, said unto the king, "My God hath sent his angel, and hath shut the lions' mouths, that they have not hurt me." Paul, when the storm was raging and shipwreck was at hand, assured those with him in the ship of their deliverance by the power of God. "For," he said, "there stood by me this night the angel of God, whose I am, and whom I serve, saying, Fear not, Paul." And it is further recorded, "And so it came to pass, that they escaped all safe to land." Jesus knew God's angels better than did any man, and walked in companionship with them. So real was their presence to him that when his enemies came to take him he was able to say to one of his followers, "Put up again thy sword into his place. . . . Thinkest thou that I cannot now pray to my Father, and he shall presently give me more than twelve legions of angels?"

GOD

Actually to expect to hear the angels,—impartations from divine good,—and to be guided, inspired, and guarded by them as were these men of old, we must know God as He is. Christian Science satisfies the heart with its glorious views of God as Mind, incorporated Mind, the all-knowing, the all-present, divine, infinite intelligence, and this Mind, Love, tender, living, available Love in whom man lives and breathes as individual consciousness, for this Mind is the very life of all, the sole governor of the universe and man. From this Mind proceeds the only law,—the divine edict of good, forever operating for, not against humanity, a law of renewal, invigoration, and eternal unfoldment to man.

Man draws from this divine Mind, this infinite Life, his vitality, energy, health, all that enables him to comprehend, to act, to be. God actually talks with man, as the Scriptures say, in the sense that He imparts to them His own thoughts and spiritual afflatus. Such messages were named by early prophets, "angels." They come to you and to me today, this hour. God speaks and man can hear.

MAN

"What is man," queried David, "that thou art mindful of him?". For thou hast made him a little lower than the angels, and hast crowned him with glory and honour." Had David's thought risen another step in inspiration he might have said, Thou hast made man as the angels. All Christians accept the basic statement of Scripture that God created man in His own likeness. Like the infinite Father, is the real man, or spiritual idea, in quality, nature, and essence. Christian Science teaches us to look away from the hateful, sinning, and warped reflection, or mortal, to become acquainted with the reflection of God,—the man who reflects the qualities of divine Mind in the radiance of right thinking.

We can never obey Scripture and put off "the old man with his deeds," the old human concept of man with his stubborn disposition, nervous temperament, and weak character and constitution,— all unloveliness, —until we catch glorious glimpses of our identity in the likeness of divine Love, and maintain it, thereby refusing to express a thought, motive, or desire that springs not from the heart of God.

Man is the activity of God's thoughts, a pure, spiritual, boundless idea in Mind, an idea that cannot be separated from the light and loveliness of divine Mind throughout eternity. How can the man who knows that right ideas are passing to him from divine Mind every hour of the day and of the night be sorrowful, lonesome, or homesick? He is at home in the Mind that holds him, is forever in the company of God's ideas, hearing, and joyfully following their leadings through the activities of every day.

New inspiration and zeal come to the business man who learns that he can draw from God intelligent ideas to solve his every problem. From this point of vision he responds to the law of divine achievement. The work of the writer, the musician, the inventor, will immediately improve when they see that man, of himself, does not create, but rather hears and expresses inspired ideas which pass continually from God to man. When this is realized there will be no hiatus from inspiration. Through Christian Science thousands are learning of the coming of God's ideas, are depending upon them in the office, in the workshop, in the kitchen, in the schoolroom; and thereby are doing bigger and grander things than they have ever done. The function of divine Mind is to impart and the function of man is to receive and express, for man is God's expression.

In Scripture we read that Elijah was in the wilderness—the wilderness of fear, depression, and terror. "And as he lay and slept under a juniper tree, behold, then an angel touched him, and said unto him, Arise and eat." The angel that touched Elijah and called him to arise and eat was inspiration from divine Love which flooded his thought. Is anyone here in a wilderness of human experience, asleep under a juniper tree of discouragement or self-condemnation, feeling that he is a failure or perhaps chastening to be hated because of some bitter wrong? Awake! for an angel thought from God is touching you, calling you to arise from dreams of sense and eat the strengthening bread of inspired ideas. We sometimes hear people say that they have a touch of cold, of rheumatism, of depression, or even feel, perhaps, an hypnotic touch, but we should know that God's man is sensitive only to the touch of angels, and is responsive to no other. In her book, "Miscellaneous Writings," Mrs. Eddy says (p. 306): "When angels visit us, we do not hear the rustle of wings, nor feel the feathery touch of the breast of a dove; but we know their presence by the love they create in our hearts. Oh, may you feel this touch,—it is not the clasping of hands, nor a loved person present; it is more than this; it is a spiritual idea that lights your path!" "We know their presence by the love they create in our hearts." Whenever, then, a loving longing to bless others sings in our hearts, whenever a selfless deed is done, we entertain an angel. Whenever a spiritual idea lights our path, bringing the answer to our problem, or inspiring us with new purpose, new desires, new views of God and of our brother, we may know that we are with an innumerable company of angels—are feeling their holy touch. We are then thinking God's thoughts after Him. Such thinking heals the sick.

PRAYER

Many people come to Christian Science, seeking, as did I, to understand how to pray aright to the infinite, unseen Father. The yearning to approach Him who holds the universe in the hollow of His hand, is a deep longing that will come at some time to every heart. "Ye ask, and receive not, because ye ask amiss," are the Scriptural words that arouse the awakening thought to ask, How can I pray aright? I asked and received not because I asked amiss in an hour of great need. I was a young girl at this time. My mother was in dire distress, for she had been desperately ill with what the physicians pronounced a dangerous disease of the lungs. As a result she was left in such a state that for months she had lain almost lifeless. With all my heart I asked God to heal her. Many times upon my knees I prayed such a prayer of supplication, but I received no answer. At the end of five months, after two doctors had been in consultation, they told us that our mother was in a most dangerous condition. At this time we sent to Chicago for her sister, who was the wife of a physician. We knew that she had been healed through Christian Science of an eye trouble that had been pronounced incurable and which had made her almost blind. Even this healing had aroused no interest in our thought toward Christian Science. As my aunt entered my mother's room she seemed to bring with her a flood of hope and light. My mother said to her, "Take my medicine way. Help me through Christian Science." I recall how filled with terror I was when the family doctor came in about an hour and I told him that mother had turned to Christian Science. He said, "This is a very serious affair. Christian Science is a beautiful religion, but what can it do for diseased lungs? Your mother is in a most critical condition. You will have no hope left if she turns from medical treatment." I was panic-stricken and implored my mother to continue with the doctor's help. Her thought was firm as she said, "I have him here helpless for months. You must let me have what I wish." It seemed the most intense struggle that I have ever had, to trust her to God, in spite of the Scriptural declaration that He healeth all our diseases. In deep emotion I said to my aunt, "Tell me something that I can do to help." With steadfast faith in the availability of the law of God to deliver and save, she said to me, "Take your Bible and hold to the first verse in Psalm 46. Every word is true and can be proved true. When you read the first word, 'God,' in the promise, know that this God is man's Life and that in this Life your mother lives and breathes in freedom." I went to my room, took my Bible, and for hours read, wrote, and reread this promise, seeking to know the meaning of each word. "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble." How much nearer God appeared as I thought of Him as Life itself in whom we live and move. "God is," —not was, not will be; is today our refuge, our shelter, and protection from danger and distress. How forceful that word, "is"! "Strength," —the next word in the promise, "God is our refuge and strength." What could bring greater comfort! For the first time I looked away from matter to find my mother's true strength and began to feel certain that the impartation of divine energy was renewing her. "A very present help in trouble." "Present,"—not absent; here, not there; to-day, not to-morrow, our help; our divine assistance. She does not have to die that she may find Life, I thought, for here, in this hour, God, Life, is her refuge, her strength, her present help. Christian Science had begun to illumine the Bible for me and through its divine light I commenced to catch a faint glimpse of the prayer that appropriates instead of pleads for the things of God. I saw, though dimly, why I had formerly asked and received not. I had implored God to give my mother what He had never failed to give her and to everyone,—even His strength, His life, His help, His all of good. During that night my aunt sat by my mother's bed in silent prayer. What was the result of this prayer? That which to us was a veritable miracle. My mother was able to sit up the next day. The fifth day she took my aunt to ride, she herself driving the horse. The doctor who witnessed this healing often told people that no one who had seen my mother's case could doubt that Almighty God healed her.

We believe that it is a vain request to ask the God who is Love itself for more love, or to implore the divine Mind which is never absent from man to come closer. Can a mother whose heart is beating in tenderest love for her child love more because the child implores her? Is it not recognition, acceptance, and thankfulness which the child needs? Christian Science teaches us as older children to recognize the Mother-love of God, ever present, every hour, everywhere, and to accept through the prayer of perception, utilization, and thanksgiving God's perpetual out-pouring of health and goodness. Jesus prayed the prayer of recognition and thanksgiving before he raised Lazarus from the dead, "Father, I thank thee that thou hast heard me. And I knew that thou hearest me always."

HEALING

A physician once said to me, "Doctors often classify disease under two heads,—curable and incurable. Do Christian Scientists classify disease?" I replied, "Yes, but all under one class,—curable." We base our conviction of this mighty truth on the Biblical facts that God, the only creator, formed man and the universe as the expression or reflection of His own substance, perfection, and glory, and that they remain forever intact. As a little Christian Scientist of seven once said, "God made man out of Love because He did not have anything else to make him of." This child voiced sublime logic. He who is all good has only good out of which to create His likeness. He who sees no evil and knows no evil can impart no evil. Man, then, who is the very reflection of perfect Mind sprang from perfection itself and cannot be diseased nor impaired. What, then, is sick? and how does Christian Science heal?

I once passed a veiled statue that was waiting to be uncovered. I knew the statue to be very beautiful, but how ugly it looked that day, covered with its grimy veil! Then my thoughts, or inward eyes, turned to the real man, the beautiful, pure, and fair image of God. That which to the outward eye appears to be sick and impure man, I now realized is merely the veil which covers the real. The Christian Science treatment or prayer tears away, through its divine impulsion, the veil, and reveals man in all his God-given wholeness. The veil, then, not man, is the patient, which veil, Paul says, "is done away in Christ." We cannot love the veil, but with eyes of spiritual knowing we can look through it and behold and reverence the man whom the infinite sculptor has chiseled. In the language of Christian Science, "unveil" might be a synonym for "heal." Another synonym for "heal" might be "correct." God's thoughts, or angels, come through treatment or prayer, to correct the mistaken belief of life in matter with the sublime fact of life in God; to correct the fear of body, of food, of climate, of human inheritance, of limited capacities, of material laws, to correct evil appetites and false attractions with the true understanding of the God who is Love, impartial and universal, and of man's indissoluble unity with this all-satisfying Love. As this divine correction takes place in thought, erroneous beliefs give place to right ideas, and the body springs into spontaneous freedom.

A woman, whom I know, who had been severely injured in an accident attended a Christian Science church, several weeks after, assisted by friends. During the hour she was completely healed. I talked with her after this service, her face was wet with tears of thankfulness as she told me of her healing. What had taken place? Simply this: her God-given freedom, forever intact, had been unveiled to her thought through the truth that she received from God at that service. This explains how people are so often healed during Christian Science lectures. They grasp an idea—an angel—from God which illumines consciousness and corrects their false thinking. Time has no part in the healing work of Christian Science. Whenever the false thought-erroneous of which the seeming disease is made gives way to spiritual ideas, behold, healing takes place. It may be in a day, a week, a month, but correction of thought will be followed by the removal of the discordant effects.

Many years ago a man, lame from birth, spoke to Peter and John at the gate Beautiful. They voiced to him the life-giving word of Truth, and it is written that "immediately his . . . ankle bones received strength." The spiritual correction and its results upon the body were instantaneous. Let no one be disheartened if he has silently declared what is divinely true about the perfection of God and His real man and has denounced bravely the imperfections of sense and self, but has not yet felt the touch of liberty. This is coming, perhaps the next, false education and erroneous thinking may give way before the angelic vision, the Christly corrective, and you rise in your God-given dominion.

As sons of God we should know at all times that we can hear and appropriate spiritual ideas from God that will enable us to be efficient workers in the world. All that anyone can ever need to deliver him from pain or poverty, from vice or crisis, is an idea from God. Forget not that the angel idea, the enlightening and saving idea, is ever at the gate of consciousness, waiting for your acceptance. These mighty facts are healing seeds of Truth which when sown in receptivity and affirmation grow into realization and bloom in exaltation and demonstration.

CHRIST JESUS

Centuries ago multitudes in pain and misery gathered about Jesus of Nazareth on the hillside of Judea, to hear the marvelous word of Life. The sublime truth which he spoke corrected the falseness of their material thinking, and they went away whole, glorifying the God of Israel. The life and works of Christ Jesus mean everything to Christian Scientists, for they recognize him as their Way-shower, the one who has shown them the divine and definite way to work out every problem of human life. They strive to follow in the very thought-steps of this God-inspired Teacher. They endeavor to serve as he served, to bless as he blessed, and to conquer materiality with spirituality at every point as did he.

This record of God's mighty physician healed evil as both "liar" and "lie," and corrected the lie with the force of omnipotent Truth. Because he knew that sin, fear, sorrow, disease, and torment were no part of God's creation, and hence weren't to be, he abolished them with a word. Because evil in every form is a lie about the all-good and all-perfect creator and creation how can it be banished from the earth except by refusing assent to its claims and by maintaining the truth about our creator and His creation? Was a lie ever vanquished in any other way? Jesus never bowed before so-called laws of nature resulting in disaster, disease, and death; but, with victorious understanding of God's law of harmony and perfection, he annulled their spurious claims as falsehoods. As Christian Scientists follow their Way-shower, they steadfastly endeavor to preserve the vision of reality,—a God who is too good to create evil and a man who is too pure and perfect to express evil. They consider it a spiritual duty to mankind to recognize and silently hold to the glorious spiritual opposite of every lie of animalty and imperfection which confronts them. To them a lie is never final. Truth itself is final. Therefore in the presence of the lie of disease they stick to the truth of God-given health. In the presence of the lie of sin, they maintain the reality of God-imparted purity. Thus they stand with their thinking identified with the divinely true, in the midst of sense, and as they stand humanity wins.

CHRIST

Jesus never claimed that his mighty works were done through his own power. Did he not say, "I can of mine own self do nothing"? He affirmed to those who listened that the same works which he did could be accomplished throughout the ages by those who understand and believe in the living, present Christ, the divine manifestation of God, which he promised should be with men "even unto the end of the world."

Christian Scientists acknowledge Christ Jesus as the Way-shower, recognizing that Christ is "the way, the truth, and the life." Over the surging sea of human discord the Christ, Truth, forever comes on its healing mission, saying to each suffering one, "It is I; be not afraid."

ANGELS DELIVER US FROM FALSE MENTAL SUGGESTIONS

People who are striving to live progressive lives are recognizing that our thinking makes us what we are. Because of this they know that thoughts which would neither beautify nor edify their mental homes must not be spoken nor given a moment's hearing. Sooner or later every thought that is unlike God must be detected and mastered by good. No one can be excused from this divine demand. Matthew writes, "The Son of man shall send forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend." Some of the false suggestions that must be gathered out of our mental kingdom are those that beget sameness, smallness, and sourness. Sameness, or staleness, comes from doing one's work, whatever it may be, as a duty instead of as a privilege, with mere motion instead of inspired action. Fresh health and gladness invigorate the right as one goes to his work each day, lifting up his sense of his work until he sees it in the light of divine service. Then he will love to work and work to love. It is not so much new jobs that are needed, as new views of the old ones; not so much a change of environment, as a change of viewpoint. "O sing unto the Lord a new song," cried the Psalmist. He who sings in his heart a new song of purpose and thanksgiving as he works, joins in the overture of the angels, and everything he touches shines in the sunlight of inspiration.

Smallness is expressed in suggestions that lead to the contemplation of trifles instead of the bigness and beauty of good. Smallness is expressed in all that is ingrowing, instead of outpouring; in that which is self-centered instead of humanity-centered. He who is living in cramped spaces of thought, dwelling upon and talking about what someone else is doing or is not doing, needs to break through his finite boundaries, to think in terms broader than hemispheres. Every moment of the day our thinking is either shrinking or expanding. How we need expansion!

Sourness, bitterness, hatefulness, if not overcome, crush out the very essence of health and life. John realized this when he wrote, "We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren." He who passes from the deadness of hate into the vitalizing compassion of love for mankind is touching the Life that is God. We live only as we unselfishly love. Life is not too short for hate, but too sublime.

Speaking of a certain eminent statesman, a morning newspaper wrote, "He will be able, through his Christian character, to overcome suggestive mesmerism." The race needs and longs to rise superior to suggestive mesmerism. Christian Science has come to teach us that God is giving man, through the impartation of His own thoughts, or angel messages, the ability and inspiration to master victoriously the mesmerism which would hinder his highest endeavor.

If we are stumbling in the valley road of depression and unworthy thought, we are but listening to unreal, mesmeric suggestions. If we are steadfastly climbing the mountain path of inspired and progressive consciousness, we are making friends with angels, our Father's thoughts.

It is a mighty fact that each time an evil suggestion seems to speak, an angel—a message from God—is at the door of thought to counteract and destroy it. Jesus proved this in the wilderness when the devil of suggestion, trying to turn him from his holy mission of healing and purifying mankind, showed him all the kingdoms of the world and the glory of them, and said unto him "All these things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me." In the majesty of unimpassioned consecration Jesus replied, "Get thee hence, Satan: for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve." Then the devil heaveth him, and, behold, angels came and ministered unto him." What irresistible armor has the man who can say in his heart, "Him only shalt thou serve"! To such the angels forever minister. These angel thoughts from God are his companions, and by them he is enlarged, enlightened enriched, and encircled.

HUMAN WILL

Among the many errors of thought that dull one's hearing to the angel messages none is more pronounced than human will with all its resistance and strong opinions. This element of the human mind responds easily to aggressive evil suggestions. To want one's own way at home, in business, or in one's church is to close the shutters of the window through which God's sunlight pours. Jesus, who obeyed exactly the rules of life's divine Principle, said at the hour before his crucifixion, "Not my will, but thine, be done." "And," it is written, "there appeared an angel unto him from heaven, strengthening him." Each time our human sense of will falls at the feet of Love's sweet will, an angel of inspiration strengthens us.

THE DISCOVERER OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Christian Science was discovered and founded by a woman, made spiritually ready for such a holy trust by lessons learned from every event of her life, by human struggles, desperate privations, heroic overcomings, and deepest longings to know and to take the things of God and give them to mankind. Some people live for a few, some for many, but Mary Baker Eddy actually thought, prayed, and lived for all mankind. In an hour when she was in the valley of the shadow of death, she lifted her heart to God and turned as she had done since childhood to her Bible for help. With such spiritual readiness and purity of vision did she read its pages that lo, she touched, as did the woman of old, the garment's hem and through the power of the same Christ, she rose confidently and walked. Now she beheld through the lens of Spirit the universe of God in all its perfection and glory. Now she felt the operation of the law she had not known before,—the healing, purifying, saving law of God. As soon as she could find her way in this new universe of light her heart, so aglow with divine Love, was flooded with compassion for all those bewildered and bound by sin and pain. For their sakes she must know the divine Principle on which her marvelous healing was based, so that they too could drop their fetters at the feet of Christ. With this one star leading her on she withdrew from society with the Bible for her textbook. Here in the seclusion of prayer, she studied and worked for three years, learning in childlike simplicity from prophets and apostles. Through spiritual inspiration Mrs. Eddy received and revealed the revelation of scientific Christianity as it unfolded to her consecrated, Love-inspired consciousness. Of herself she has said that she was a "scribe under orders" Miscellaneous Writings, p. 311). The spiritual, undeviating, indestructible facts of Truth that appeared to her God-prepared heart at that time, she elucidated in words known as the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures,"—a book that is waking men of every nation from the midnight of despair to behold the morning light of hope and holier living. Her reason for writing this book she makes plain in these words which appear in court records: "I turned to God in prayer and said, Just guide me to the Mind which was also in Christ, and I took the Bible and opened to the words, 'Now go write it in a book.' I then commenced writing my consciousness of what I had seen and I found that human will was the cause of disease instead of its cure; that the divine Mind was the healer." Thus was made and given to mankind the discovery which has shaken the very foundation of material systems and awakened thought to realize that Spirit and the things of Spirit are real, vital, operative, present, and available to men.

I have heard Mrs. Eddy speak many times. Her words live in memory as holy messages from God. She abode with angels,—God's sublime thoughts,—and brought them close to those who heard her.

I love to tell of the time when Mrs. Eddy arranged for a group of Scientists, of whom I was one, to go through her home in Concord, New Hampshire, while she was out driving. As the one in charge of the house took us about, we came to Mrs. Eddy's sleeping room. Over her bed I noticed a slip of paper on which something was written, in her handwriting. I asked if I might read it and was given permission. What volumes I found in this simple stanza:

"When others hate, oppose, ignore,
Help me, dear Lord, to love them more."

In prayerful silence I went over to her window, and looking out upon the hills so precious to our Leader, I repeated again and again:

"When others hate, oppose, ignore,
Help me, dear Lord, to love them more."

She who had given herself to show befogged humanity the way of escape from sin and torture had been hated, opposed, and ignored by the world that knew her not, that could not understand her devotion and prayers; but despite it all her heart grew ever more aglow with love. As I stood there I thought of how she had given back kindness for every hate, forgiveness for every cruelty; in fact, had loved more than anyone since the days of Jesus; and yet had written these lines and placed them over her bed to remind her still to love more. As I thought of it all I felt a heavenly baptism of Love, for now I could see a new and deeper meaning in the line from her hymn (Poems, p. 4), "Wait, and love more for every hate." Why, I thought, it is a definite, positive rule for action; a rule that must be obeyed by all who would understand real Life. No one who is not a humanity helper, a world thinker and worker, who does not live to draw from God and give to man through selfless service, is truly a follower of Mary Baker Eddy.

PETER'S ESCAPE FROM PRISON

In Acts it is written that Herod oppressed certain of the church, casting Peter into prison. At night, as, bound by chains, he slept between two soldiers, an angel, an impartation from Spirit, came to his thought lighting the prison with the revelation of God's power. The angel spoke to Peter, saying, in the words of Scripture, "Arise up quickly. And his chains fell off from his hands. . . . And he saith unto him, Cast thy garment about thee, and follow me. . . . When they were past the first and the second ward, they came unto the iron gate that leadeth unto the city; which opened to them of his own accord. . . . And when Peter was come to himself, he said, Now I know of a surety, that the Lord hath sent his angel and hath delivered me."

Peter's experience illustrates the power of the saving law of Almighty God which operates instantly and constantly in behalf of man in every age. Christian Science, the angelic message, enters the mental prisons where men are bound in chains of temptation and torment and lights the prisons with the glory of divine Love. It says to earth-burdened prisoners, sentenced by common opinion and not by the decree of God, "Cast thy garments off, hope about thee and follow me." This scientific Christianity with its holy influx from God leads the prisoners forth through the gate of opportunity into the city of spiritual understanding and freedom. Thousands, who, like myself, have been so impressed, are saying as did Peter, "Now I know of a surety, that God hath sent his angel, and hath delivered me."

SALVATION

John wrote, "I saw another angel come down from heaven, having great power; and the earth was lightened with his glory." Each exalted thought is an angel from heaven, and our earth, our human experience, is lightened with its glory. To dwell in the radiance of spiritual consciousness where angels are heard, we must separate evil from our thought of man. If man is God's image,—and he is,—then that which misrepresents and misjudges, that which is jealous and envious and hateful, is not man at all but merely a false concept,—the veil. He who knows this divine fact will no longer look through the veil of materiality and see his brother at all times as he is, shining in the light of God-likeness, unspotted and untouched by sin. There will be no unhappy nor disrupted homes or broken friendships when the earth is lightened with the glory of this angel idea. Separating error from our sense of man is a vital part of working out our own salvation and of helping others to work out theirs. We cannot be saved from pain, restlessness, or sin until we begin to see ourselves divinely, in the light of God-likeness, and express this selfhood. It is impossible to know ourselves aright unless we are striving with all our hearts to recognize our brothers as God sees them.

I was put to this test one day when a maid in our home admitted an intoxicated man who came to beg. When she told me what she had done I went into the library and found a young man in a drunken sleep. My first thought was to telephone to the police and have him removed. Then I thought, I will see if I cannot rouse him. I took his arm and said, "Awake, you are a son of God and can act as one." He opened his eyes and asked in a dazed way what I had said. I repeated, "You are a son of God and can act as one." Pathetically he said, "You are the first one that ever called me anything but a sinner. I have a wife and three children but they have left me because I'm a sinner." I stood by his chair and told him again and again that God made him in His own likeness, which means like Him in character, moral strength, and purity, and that the veil of materiality that was covering him was the sinner and could be torn away, and then his true self would come to light. As the idea of his spiritual sonship with God broke upon this man's thought a changed expression came over his face and he began to repeat, "I am a son of God and can act as one." At this moment he touched the robe of the saving Christ and his purification began. An angel had come down from heaven and the earth was lighted with his glory. I did not offer this man a Christian Science treatment, but I gave him some Christian Science literature and he went away. Through it he was cleansed and was reunited with his family. The angel thought that came to him that day awakened him to recognize his sonship with God and he followed it through the gate of opportunity into the city of the redeemed of God. Through the same gate each man may pass to know his spiritual sonship and behold the redemption of divine Love. Yes, each one. Not one need wait outside in weary condemnation, or pierced with pain.

It is a mighty fact that the gates of opportunity are flung wide for all to enter and behold the grandeur and glory of Life stretching out before us in an eternity of boundless good, and find man's place in the presence of God, here to understand and follow his Father's holy messages. In God's hallowed now, in heaven's golden light of divine possibilities and pardons, we hear the angels whisper, "Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city."

As we think of it all we lift up our hearts as did our Leader, and in her words we pray (Miscellany, p. 354),

"Give us not only angels' songs,
But Science vast, to which belongs
The Longest of angels
And the song of songs."

ATLANTIC NATIONAL BANK USES RECORDAK SYSTEM

Winchester people, who are customers of the Atlantic National Bank of Boston, have the protection of Recordak, the new system of photographing checks.

A negative is made of every check drawn on the bank by its depositors. If payment by check is ever contested and the cancelled check is not available, the depositor may have a reproduction made of the cancelled check in question to offer as proof of payment. This is only one of the many features of Atlantic National Bank service.

Two of the bank's offices are particularly convenient for those using the North Station. The Canal street office, 98 Canal street, is directly on the way in town, while the office at 111 Tremont street between West street and Temple place, is ideally located for women who do their buying at Boston's big downtown department stores.

The Atlantic National Bank of Boston is glad to serve Winchester people at whichever of their offices is most convenient.—Advertisement.

MELROSE GIRLS BEAT WINCHESTER

Ineligibility of One of Its Players Deprived Winners of Right to Play for Title

While Melrose High School girls' field hockey team defeated Winchester, 2 to 1, in the playoff for the championship of the Northern Division of the Interscholastic League, last Friday afternoon at Lasell Field, Auburndale, the victory did not entitle the winners to meet Arlington for the Greater Boston title. After the game it was found that one of the Melrose girls has been ineligible to play hockey all year, according to the Melrose scholastic regulation which stipulates the completion of 18 hours scholastic work to be eligible for athletic competition.

Since the rule is not an interscholastic one Principal Grindle tried, but without success, to persuade the Melrose authorities to permit the win to stand, and the local girls, while welcoming the shot at the big crown, regretted the hard luck which deprived Melrose of its chance at the championship.

In two games Melrose held Winchester to a scoreless tie and won the second meeting, appearing just a bit better than Winchester as the latter has been going lately.

During the first half of last Friday's game the teams fought on pretty much even terms and though Melrose scored two goals to Winchester's one, the locals had fully as many scoring opportunities as their opponents. Winchester might have won had the Red and Black capitalized its chances, but a decided lack of team work prevented the local girls' offense from clicking.

Eleanor Fillmore, Melrose center forward, broke the ice with a clean shot from the center of the striking circle which got by "Kayo" Peepers. Soon after Janet Nichols made it all even when she took the ball at middle field and dribbled all the way up the alley to shoot past Goalee Davidson.

The last Melrose goal came as the result of a break and the winner's ability to make the most of a scoring chance. Doris Gilley, Melrose right inner, took the ball up the field and into the striking circle where she launched a shot at Goalee Keepers. The latter took the shot on her stick, but in deflecting, the ball struck the goal upright and bounded straight back into the field of play. Evelyn Smith, left inner for Melrose, was "Johnnie-on-the-spot" and banged the ball into the net for the winning goal.

After the intermission the Winchester team seemed to lose much of its fight, and never seriously threatened, though the locals did prevent any further Melrose scoring.

The winners played by far the better combination game throughout the afternoon, Winchester apparently being content to pass the ball to its star wing, Janet Nichols, who was literally run ragged before the final whistle. Captain Carolyn Nichols played a strong defensive game for Winchester and Melrose might well have run up a larger score, had it not been for her clever work.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

The November meeting of the local Union was held at the home of Mrs. George Arnold. Twenty-four comfort bags for the Sailors' Department were made at the forenoon session. At the close of the business meeting reports from the State convention were given by Miss Blanche Freeman, Miss Eugenia Elliott and Mrs. Emma Nickerson. The president stated that we have no need to feel discouraged over the outcome of the recent election. One battle lost is not the whole war and ultimately we shall win. The air has been full of forebodings and the newspapers full of wet boasting. But the fact is that when our representatives in Washington discuss prohibition it is not as a party issue but as a social welfare measure and the discussions and votes are non-partisan. Considering the subject, then, with no thought of party victories or defeats, just what did happen to prohibition on Nov. 4?

United States Senate Holds Fast

Out of 36 Senators elected for short or long terms, all but five are dry.

Dry Losses in the House

The probable total of gain for the wets in the House will be around 35, just one half of the number claimed by the opposition before election. Considering the great turnout, the off-year and the extensive financing by the enemies of prohibition, it is surprising that they were able to pick up recruits only by ones and twos in states with large dry delegations. The accepted ratio of wets and drys in the Congress since 1928 has been 70 drys to 20 wets in the Senate and 329 drys to 106 wets in the House. Conceding the gain of wets in the House to be 35, the ratio in the new Congress, which meets in regular session December 1931, will be 292 drys to 143 wets. The drys still will have a very safe majority—enough to defeat any repeal or modification measures.

The election is over, but the men who have been successful at the polls keep their ears to the ground for popular sentiment in their home districts. The "working for prohibition where you are" will do more to offset state control and repeal doctrine and will do more to help friends of prohibition in Congress to stand loyal than any thing else. It is a time when individuals who believe in prohibition should lend aid to every effort to increase law observance and should at the same time let all political parties and all elected officials know what they expect and demand successful enforcement of the present laws.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

The dance held at the Calumet Club last Friday evening was a success financially, but numerically it left much to be hoped for! Twenty-eight couples enjoyed a pleasant party. The hall was attractive in a rose colored atmosphere produced by many small lights, shaded in various tints of red. The result was a subdued tone which was very easy on the eyesight. "Ed's" harmony boys furnished the music and it sure was snappy. Calumet Club members, who were expected to be present and thus make it a joint dance, were conspicuous by their absence, in fact, not one was on hand. Of course, Friday is no doubt the busiest evening of the week, and it was also the night before the Harvard—Yale game, so there may be good reason for the total absence of Calumeters. On account of conflicting dates, Dec. 19 is the next possibility and on that evening we will conduct another party.

The Fire Department was called at 6:42 Monday morning by an alarm from Box 521 to put out a fire in the basement of Mr. P. F. Avery's residence at 19 Sheffield west. The fire, which was caused by an over-heated electric iron, did little damage.

BIGGER AND BETTER

THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX HAS MANY IMPROVEMENTS

The introduction of the new Chevrolet Six marks the most impressive forward step in Chevrolet's twenty-year record of constant progress and improvement. For this Bigger and Better Six offers new beauty, new luxury, new completeness and new quality—yet it sells at lower prices!

The improvements in the new Chevrolet Six begin at the smart new chrome-plated headlamps and extend throughout the entire car. The radiator is deeper and unusually efficient. Due to the increased wheelbase, the lines are longer and lower, giving an air of exceptional fleetness and grace. And the new Fisher bodies combine with this more attractive exterior appearance, a new degree of interior luxury.

The chassis of the new Chevrolet Six has also been refined and advanced in a number of different ways. The frame is heavier and deeper. There is a smoother operating, long lived clutch; a sturdier front axle; an entirely new steering mechanism; an easier shifting transmission.

And along with these improvements, Chevrolet offers a 50-horsepower, six-cylinder motor—four long semi-elliptic springs—four hydraulic shock absorbers—a safety gasoline tank—and an economy of operation not surpassed by any automobile.

TO THE PARENTS AND GUARDIANS OF HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS

On Tuesday evening, Dec. 2 at 8 p. m. in the high school assembly hall, the Parent-Teacher Association meets for the second time this year. A program has been arranged which well merits the attention of all whose children are among the large student body of the school.

Dr. Albert H. Gage, of Wakefield, will address the meeting on the subject, "Through the Eyes of Youth." Dr. Gage recently spoke before the Parent-Teacher Association of the Wadleigh School. His message was a timely one and was enthusiastically received. He has something to tell that none of us should miss.

In order that each of our meetings may present some one of the many school activities, the high school orchestra will be present to furnish a number of musical arrangements. It is always an inspiration to see the students in action. This part of the program is certain to be well worth while.

The committees in charge of membership and entertainment will leave nothing undone to make our second meeting of the year a complete success. Refreshments will be served. An opportunity will be afforded for parents and teachers to meet that they may know each other better. In this way the co-operation between home and school, which means so much to successful education, will be increased.

The meeting will start promptly at 8, so we urge you to come early for your "tag" and seat.

Our Motto

"The unit of American life is the family and the home. It vibrates through every hope of the future. It is the beginning of self-government. It is the throne of our highest ideals. It is the source of the spiritual energy of our people."—Herbert Hoover.

Cordially yours,
Leonard O. Waters,

EARLY MORNING BLAZE DAMAGED IRVING STREET RESIDENCE

Considerable damage was done the residence of Vincent and Rosa Ciarfella at 35 Irving street by a fire which was discovered early Wednesday morning.

Box 37 was sounded at 2:40 o'clock and the firemen found a brisk fire in progress at their arrival. The fire had started in the attic and practically destroyed the roof of the dwelling while there was heavy smoke and water damage done on the lower floors of the house. The amount of the damage done was not made public.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Mr. Wyatt St. Barbe Eustis of San Francisco has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Eustis, at 14 Stevens street, and meeting many of his old friends. He has also been interested in visiting the North and South reservoirs and noting the many changes and improvements there since boyhood days. He will return to the West after Thanksgiving.

Miss Emma Trowan of Dix street has returned to Winchester from an extended visit to her old home in Prince Edward's Island.

Last Saturday's alarm of fire at 2:51 p. m. was for a brush fire on Woodside road.

A Ford cabriolet, driven by Roy W. Horn of 9 Bridge street and a Ford truck, owned by Albert B. Seller of 34 Glen road and driven by George A. Donaghey of 62 Brookside avenue were in collision at 2 o'clock last Saturday afternoon at the traffic beacon in the center. Both cars were going westerly on Mt. Vernon street and in making a left turn around the beacon the coupe's left rear mudguard and the bumper of the truck came together. The damage was slight and no one was injured.

Frank Rounds, who is at Andover, spent the past week-end with his parents in Winchester.

The Jewel Club, consisting of 17 1928 O. E. S. matrons, were entertained at a luncheon by Mrs. Wm. B. Wood of Highland avenue last Friday. Mrs. Helen Duncan of Winthrop was the special guest.

Van Cunningham, Winchester High '29 has been elected president of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity of Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, Ohio. Van is also playing the saxophone in the 50-piece University band.

Mr. Ashley K. Hayden of Glengarry was elected a member of the Board of Directors of the Kiwanis Club of Boston at its meeting on Nov. 25.

The Winchester schools closed Wednesday at noon for the annual Thanksgiving vacation, reopening Monday, Dec. 1.

Police Chief William H. Rogers has placed a new steel, 2600 card capacity filing cabinet in the office at Headquarters, and is introducing a new loose-leaf system of reports and time sheets to simplify the working of his department.

The high school classes of 1927 and 1928 are holding an informal dancing party at the Calumet Club tonight, the younger Alumni evincing much interest in the affair.

Work was begun this week by Utility man James Noonan of the Highway Department on the marking of parking lines for cars on Thompson street to permit more machines to stand in the open air garage there.

A Ford coupe, operated by Patrick Sheehan of 33 Lewis avenue, Arlington, while going south on Cambridge street and opposite Glen road, Tuesday skidded and went over a curbing, hitting a pole at the side of the road. After striking the pole the coupe went through the hedge and onto the lawn at the home of Mr. Robert T. Burr at 50 Glen road. The right front and rear wheel of the Ford were badly damaged and the machine was towed to an Arlington garage.

We are privileged to offer for long term lease the unusually-attractive estate created and formerly occupied by Herman Dudley Murphy. The house, undoubtedly one of the most artistic in Winchester, commanding a perfect panorama of the West Side hills is of English half timber and stucco style and is being entirely renovated by the owner. It contains a commodious living room with massive fireplace, entrance hall and dining room finished in dark beamed oak, kitchen, two servants' chambers and dining room; also children's playroom and den on the first floor; there are 6 family chambers, two tiled baths and upper living room with fireplace on the second floor; the third floor contains one large chamber and ample storage space. The grounds, a veritable park in themselves, comprise nearly three acres of land and include many unusual shrubs and plants, a gravel driveway and garage for two cars. A very advantageous lease will be given to a responsible family.

"A PILGRIM IN PALESTINE"

First Congregational Church Wednesday Evening at 7:45

Rev. Sidney A. Weston, Ph.D., of Wellesley, who has recently returned from a trip to the Holy Land, will speak at the mid-week service of the First Congregational Church Wednesday evening at 7:45.

Dr. Weston will show motion pictures of his trip, illustrating the peoples and the life in present day Palestine. Among these, will be pictures of Nazareth, Bethlehem, and Old Jerusalem, the Wailing Wall, and other sacred places.

The lecture will be only one hour long. Dr. Weston is an interesting and delightful speaker, and any who are interested in seeing his films and hearing him talk on the racial struggles and the much debated Zionist movement in Palestine will be welcome at this meeting.

The meeting will be held in Ripley Chapel. An offering will be taken to defray the expenses of the lecture. The public is invited. Dr. Chidley will preside.

COSTUME BALL BY WINTON CLUB

The Winton Club held its first costume ball in the Town Hall, Friday evening, Nov. 28. It was well attended and everyone had a most amusing evening. The hall was decorated to resemble an Italian court yard and was very colorful. After a grand march, prizes were given for the most beautiful, most original and the funniest costumes. Mrs. James W. Russell was awarded first prize for the most beautiful costume; second prize, going to Miss Phoebe May. Both wore Spanish costumes. Mr. Albert K. Huckins and Mr. Gordon Parker, dressed as babies, won the first prize for the most original costumes with the second prize going to Mr. and Mrs. Merton E. Grush, garbed as Anaesthetists. Mr. Laurence Martin, dressed as a comedian, was adjudged to have the funniest costume; second prize going to Mr. George Barton who was an old fashioned bathing girl.

Mrs. Clark Collins and Mr. Langdon Matthews provided a very interesting tap dancing specialty number. Music was furnished by Marion Chase's orchestra.

Mrs. Vincent Farnsworth, Jr., was chairman of the committee. Mrs. Donald Crowell was in charge of decorations; Mrs. Clark Collins and Mrs. Ernest Stockwell, the refreshments; and Mrs. Thomas M. Righter, Jr., the tickets.

MUCH INTEREST IN LEGION WRESTLING BOUTS

Interest in the first big wrestling carnival of the season which is to be staged tonight in the Town Hall by Winchester Post, A. L. has been increasing steadily and a big crowd is sure to be on hand when the referee calls the first pair of grapplers to the center of the ring.

The Post has left no stone unturned in its efforts to make this its best show to date, and the appearance of the famous Count Zarynoff, heavyweight acrobatic luminary, is just an indication of the class which is packed into the whole length of the bill.

Three amateur bouts will open the show at 8 o'clock and the pros will pair off as follows: "Paddy" Mack, Philadelphia vs Stuart Spears, Albany; Sailor Arnold of Cleveland vs "Nick" Scotus of Boston; Count Zarynoff of Russia vs "Jack" Albright of Chicago. Tickets will be on sale at the door at the popular prices of 50c and $1.

MISS RUTH R. DODGE

Miss Ruth R. Dodge, 42, daughter of Mrs. Charles A. Dodge and the late Mr Dodge, died early this morning. Arrangements for the funeral, which is to be private, have not as yet been completed.

HONOR FOR WINCHESTER

Charles Eshback, 44 Brookside avenue, Winchester, has done the best 4-H garden club work in Middlesex County, according to the officials at the Middlesex County Extension Service. This honor entitles him to be a delegate from Middlesex County to Camp Gilbert, held for a week in July at the Massachusetts Agricultural College, Amherst. This camp is named in honor of the Commissioner of Agriculture, Dr. Arthur W. Gilbert, and is attended only by 4-H club members who have done the best work in the various counties and the state, in the several 4-H club projects; such as garden, handicraft, poultry, canning, etc.

For five years Charles has had a productive, well planned, and well kept garden in his back yard. Each year he has sent in a neat and complete record. For the past three years he has been the 4-H garden leader in Winchester. He won the honor of being County Delegate in competition with nearly 900 boys and girls who enrolled in the 4-H garden club this past season. Last year he was second in the county-wide contest and was awarded a special 4-H medal. He has previously been awarded the Massachusetts Horticultural Society medal for meritorious garden work, and the two-day trip to the Massachusetts Agricultural College. This year he represented the county in a state-wide vegetable judging contest held at the Brockton Fair, and received honorable mention. The first prize in this contest was a $60 scholarship.

In the county contest Wallace Sims, Acton; and Elmer Bigwood, Cochituate, were tied for second place, Leonard Deane, Groton, was third.

About 50 4-H garden club members were enrolled in Winchester this past summer. Others who had excellent gardens were: Lincoln Grindle, Richard Glendon, Glenn Potter, Rose Russo, John Hodson, Leon Baghdoyan, Kenneth Benson, Charles Moran, Christine Russo, William McDonald, and George Luongo. Among those having small gardens, the following were the best: Fred Housen, Joseph Connolly, Francis Murray, William Stevenson and Eleanor Thompson.

It is the third County championship that has been awarded to Winchester. The previous ones were Mildred Benson in Canning and George DeCamp in Poultry.

In the supervision of the gardens Charles was assisted by Kenneth Benson and Richard Glendon Kenneth, in addition to being a good gardener is probably the outstanding canning club boy in the county, and was fourth in the county contest this year.

The garden club members had an attractive display of flowers and vegetables in the window of Henry Duncan's Hardware store on Sept. 24 and 25.

TWO WINCHESTER BOYS WIN VARSITY AWARDS AT NEW HAMPTON

Clifton W. McNeill and James Haley, both of Winchester, have been awarded letters and insignia in varsity football for their splendid work on the gridiron at New Hampton School for Boys. Coach Conrad presented these awards at the annual fall sports banquet held recently at the school.

McNeill, son of Mr. Chester W. McNeill of 39 Grove street, is a former graduate of the Winchester High School. While there, he won two varsity letters in football, was chief of the traffic squad, and chairman of the class play committee.

Haley is the son of Mr. James V. Haley of 4 Symmes road. He, also, attended the high school of Winchester before entering New Hampton. He held the office of secretary of the senior class, played on the W. H. S. football and track squads, and was active in winter sports.

The Fire Department was called at 11.12 yesterday to put out a grass fire at Allen and Pierrepont roads.

STAR ANNOUNCES ALL MYSTIC VALLEY SELECTIONS

Arlington and Melrose Each Have Three Men on First Eleven

With the closing of the Mystic Valley League football schedule Thanksgiving Day the season for the selection of mythical "all" teams opened and the STAR herewith offers for dissection by experts and near experts the above first and second elevens, the members of which, we believe, include the cream of the circuit performers.

As in former seasons the STAR is forced to admit that its selections have been made on the basis of what the boys in the League have shown against Winchester, and we know the danger of judging a player's ability upon what he happens to show on any one afternoon. We have been aided materially in our judgment by players and coaches of our acquaintance, and believe we have picked two strong teams. We probably have missed some good boys, and to them we offer our apologies and the reassurance that few take honorary teams too seriously any more.

The two weeks' interval just passed between our meetings has in no way detracted from the enthusiasm for Rotary which our members possess. There were but two absentees from last Thursday's meeting and in all probability they will make up attendance. Our present record stands at five consecutive meetings with 100 per cent attendance. Seven consecutive meetings with but one absence.

"Nat" Nichols presented a report on Thanksgiving Welfare work in which this club was interested. We are satisfied that our committee made the best possible use of the means at its command and was instrumental in creating a great deal of holiday cheer which otherwise would have been lacking. There is no doubt that similar conditions will prevail at Christmas.

Also we are greatly pleased to announce that steps have been taken to produce accretions to our Educational Fund. It seems assured that in due season this fund will be in condition to function as it should.

The guest speaker at this meeting was Rev. R. E. Ham of Reading who entertained the club with one of his well known dialect readings. Mr. Ham lived for several years in the South and while there familiarized himself with negro dialect. With this as a basis he has written several humorous essays, one of which entitled "The Art of Driving a Pig," he presented at this time. The club is indebted to Mr. Ham for an unusually pleasant half hour.

Dues and Don'ts

Don't overlook the fact that your club, like your own good selves, requires nourishment at fairly regular intervals. The club treasurer is in a receptive mood.

Percentage of attendance Nov. 20—100 per cent.

FORMER WINCHESTER BOY ORDAINED

Rev. Hamilton Gifford, since last spring acting as pastor of the Tremont Street Methodist Episcopal Church, was ordained into the Methodist ministry last Sunday evening by Bishop William F. Anderson. Among those at the ordination service was the new minister's father, Rev. Alliston B. Gifford, formerly pastor of the Crawford Memorial M. E. Church in Winchester.

MAYORESS WISHES NAME OF DONOR

Mrs. Harry Collis, wife of Mayor Harry Collis of Winchester, England, is desirous of learning the name of the person who presented her with a pair of silver candlesticks during her recent visit here. The gift was simply marked "from a citizen of Winchester," and the Mayoress desires to thank the donor. The request is made that the name be given to Miss Elizabeth Downs, Myopia Hill.

Mrs. Ludmilla Kaula, who died Monday in Somerville, was the mother of Arthur W. Pitman of this town.

WINCHESTER MAN INJURED IN WOBURN

Albert Doucette of 995 Main street received a broken leg when he was struck by an automobile owned and driven by Asadoor Babigian of 121 Bellevue street, Lowell on Cambridge road, near the Marion farm, Thanksgiving night.

Doucette was riding with James Bradley of 10 Water street, when they noticed a machine over an embankment. They got out to see if they could give aid to the driver of the disabled car and while crossing the street, Doucette was struck.

TO DISTRIBUTE 1000 DOLLS

Mrs. Florence Wiswell of this town, chairman of the doll committee of the Christmas relief of Crosscup-Pishon Post, American Legion, announced last night that the committee proposes to distribute 1000 dolls or more for Santa Claus this Yuletide. This means, she said, that the committee must find at least 1000 dolls within the next few weeks so that the orders of Santa may be carried out. Dolls will be received from donors at room 140 in the Hotel Brunswick and Winchester friends who desire to aid may send their dolls to Mrs. Wiswell at 70 Fletcher street.

YOUTHFUL AUTO THIEVES SENTENCED

Pair Who Stole Car in Winchester Received Five Years

Thomas M. Wallace, 19, of 3 Lexington street, and Frank Carpenter, 20, of 22 Main street, both of Charlestown, were sentenced Wednesday to serve five years and a day in the Concord Reformatory by Judge James H Sisk in the Middlesex Superior Criminal Court after the pair had been adjudged to be common and notorious thieves.

Wallace and Carpenter, who were indicted with two girls, Rita Mahoney and Margaret Gallagher of Charlestown and Dorchester, pleaded guilty to the larceny of three automobiles, leaving the scene of an accident after causing personal injury and doing property damage, and to breaking and entering three camps in Wilmington.

The young men were locked up in Winchester by Chief of Police William H. Rogers after it was alleged they, in company with the girls mentioned above, had stolen two automobiles in Somerville, and one in Winchester.

On their way here their machine collided with another, resulting in injury to a young woman riding in the latter car. Wallace and Carpenter abandoned their second stolen machine and took another, the property of A. M. Lyman of 359 Highland avenue, in which they went with the girls to Wilmington.

In the latter town, it is alleged they entered several camps in the Silver Lake district. The quartette was discovered Sunday morning by a special police officer when their car became stalled while they were trying to leave the yard of a Wilmington dwelling.

Chief Rogers was notified and went to Wilmington, bringing the young men and girls back with him to Headquarters where they were locked up. They were held in bonds of $2500 each for the young men and $2000 each for the girls, and failing to produce bail were locked up at East Cambridge to await trial.

Wallace and Carpenter, the police said, were sentenced on the charges preferred by the Winchester Police, and have still to reckon with the Somerville authorities for the larceny of two automobiles in that city. The charge of breaking and entering the camps in Wilmington was filed. Miss Mahoney and Miss Gallagher are still awaiting trial.

WINCHESTER TO STAGE FALL SPORTS BANQUET

The annual fall sports banquet, held in honor of the football, field hockey and cross country teams, is to be held in the Winchester High School gymnasium tomorrow evening.

This is always one of the big events in the athletic year at high school and while only the cross country team won a championship this fall it is expected that the gathering will be by no means downhearted.

Chief among the events of interest at the banquet are the awarding of the Wheeler and Mansfield sportsmanship cups, and the announcement of captains in the several sports represented at the dinner. The principal speaker is to be Prof. Clarence P. Houston of the Department of Physical Education and Graduate Treasurer of Athletics at Tufts College. Miss Margareta Centervall, Physical Director and coach of girls at high school, is faculty director of the banquet.

KNOWLTON TO LEAD SPRINGFIELD

Henry T. Knowlton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Knowlton of Salem street, was elected yesterday to lead the Springfield College varsity football team on the gridiron next year.

"Hennie," who is a member of the junior class at Springfield, has played halfback on the college eleven for the past two seasons, and previously on the freshman team. He has been used chiefly as an interfering and defensive back and his election as captain is a fine tribute to his team value.

The sturdy Winchester boy captained the high school team three years ago and is one of the greatest all around backfield men ever developed at Winchester High.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

The regular meeting for December will be held on next Thursday evening.

Members interested in the Christmas charity work which the Charitable Committee is taking care of should attend to hear their report. Also, the Regent will report on the quarterly meeting of the State Guild, to be held on Saturday, Dec. 6. The reports are always very interesting for they bring out clearly the large scope of work carried on by the several Guilds collectively, as well as individually.

MISS ELIZABETH STEVENS

Miss Elizabeth Stevens of 20 Winthrop street died yesterday afternoon at the Winchester Hospital after a brief illness. The funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at the late residence.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Mr. A. K. Comins, past district Governor of Rotary, is at the Phillips House for a slight operation.

Miss Muriel Carr, who was recently awarded her field hockey insignia at Radcliffe, was one of the pourers at the tea, given last evening by the Radcliffe Catholic Club.

"Dan" Smith was selected for a place on the Globe's second all-scholastic second team, and "Bob" Lee has received honorable mention on several "All" groups.

CHRISTMAS ISSUE DEC. 12

The annual Christmas issue of the Star will be published on Dec. 12 this year. As usual this edition will contain extra pages and special holiday features. Merchants desiring space should notify this office immediately.

OUR OFFER

In accordance with our usual custom, all new subscriptions to the STAR received up to the first of the year, will be given a January first dating. This offer applies only to new subscribers who have not previously taken this paper. Subscribe now and receive the remaining issues this year free.

SOMERVILLE VESTED BOYS' CHORUS

The Somerville Vested Boys' Chorus of 35 voices will present a unique program Sunday evening at the First Baptist Church of Winchester.

Attired in solemn vestments which accentuate the charm of boyhood, this chorus under the able direction of Dr. Wm. H. Dyas has won reputation for reverent presentation of difficult church music. An original order of worship will be followed including responses, chants, anthems, processional and recessional.

A Christmastide sermon on "The Choice of the Highest" will be given by the pastor, Rev. Benjamin P. Browne.

FLORENCE CRITTENTON NOTES

The next meeting of Winchester Circle, which is to be held Thursday afternoon, Dec. 11, at Fernway, the home of Mrs. Howard J. Chidley on Myopia Hill, promises to be unusually interesting.

Miss Helen Fowler, who is to speak is the new matron at the Florence Crittenton Home. Her pleasing personality has already endeared her to all those who have come in contact with her at the home and her 15 years of welfare work in and around Boston qualify her to speak with authority.

The soloist, Juliet Stacey Shaw, soprano, will be pleasantly remembered by all who heard her in Winchester last year. She will be accompanied by Faye H. Lefavour, long a Winchester favorite. Tea will be served.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

Don't forget the next dance will be held at the Calumet Club hall on Friday evening, Dec. 19 at 8:30 p. m. We expect an even larger gathering this time and this is a Calumet Club as well as Boat Club dance.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

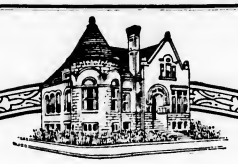
The committee in charge of the banquet and dance which is to be held next Thursday evening in Lyceum Hall in honor of the Winchester Town football team is hard at work trying to secure an outstanding speaker to appear on that occasion. Things are moving along smoothly and it is expected that the banquet will be one of the best affairs of its kind ever staged in Winchester.

Winchester's well known football combination of "Joe" Pendleton, dean of officials, and "Bob" Guild, ex-Harvard fullback and coach, were guests of honor last evening at the meeting of Woburn Post, American Legion. "Joe" and "Bob" entertained the Woburn Legionnaires with stories of football as they have seen the great fall game through their intimate association with it as officials.

Sixty couples attended the Alumni dancing party held last Friday evening in the Calumet Club under the direction of "Bennie" Chitel and Kenneth Cullen. The former secured the services of a five piece orchestra which was very good to dance to. A good time was reported by all who attended.

Miss Carolyn Smiley of this town, who has recently returned from 14 months of world travel which included interviews with Mahatma Gandhi and Japan's great Christian Socialist, Toyohiko Kagawa, spoke Wednesday afternoon in the parlors of the parish house of the First Congregational Church before a group of Mt. Holyoke Alumnae. Miss Smiley, who is a Mt. Holyoke woman, is associate editorial secretary of the American Board of Commissioners of Foreign Missions. Her subject on Wednesday was, "From Peiping to Moscow."

The teachers in the church school of the First Congregational Society met Tuesday evening in the parish house for dinner and an informal discussion of school plans for the coming year.



We have distributed $44,000.00 to our 1930 Christmas Club members.

DEROSA—SHEEHAN

A very pretty church wedding took place at St. Catharine's Church, Somerville, at 5 p. m., Nov. 27, when Miss Elizabeth Irene Sheehan, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sheehan of Maynard, was united in marriage with Joseph W. Derosa, son of Mrs. Margaret T. Derosa of 187 High street.

Miss Marguerite Sullivan of Somerville, cousin of the ride, was bridesmaid and William Scanlon of Arlington was the groom's best man. Francis Derosa, brother of the groom, and Eugene Sheehan, brother of the bride, were ushers.

The bride wore a gown of white satin, her veil being trimmed with orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of white Chrysanthemums. Her attendant was gowned in blue satin, carrying a bouquet of Killarney roses.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Miss Sheehan's sister, 131 Albion street, Somerville, where the immediate families only were present, owing to the recent death of the groom's father.

The house was beautifully decorated in pink and white.

Immediately after the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Derosa left on an auto trip through New York State. On their return they will reside at 75 Park avenue, Arlington.

C. D. OF A. NOTES

The old timers' night has been postponed for one month and will take place at the second January meeting. Instead of holding this party on the December social night there will be a turkey whist. This whist, on Dec. 18, will no doubt enjoy the success that has been accorded all previous turkey whists and the proceeds will help in a fine way the Court's charitable work at Christmas.

At this party, there will be bridge and whist and tickets may be had by calling the Grand Regent, Mrs. Conlon, Win. 0509.

DR. ALBERT GAGE ADDRESSES HIGH SCHOOL P. T. A.

"The biggest problems of the boys and girls of high school age are their parents and teachers," declared Dr. Albert Gage, of Wakefield, in his address on "Through the Eyes of Youth," delivered before a well attended meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the local high school Tuesday evening. "Our children are not preparing for life," he continued, "they are living life and living very abundantly."

The speaker referred to a recent meeting of a group of boys which spent an afternoon discussing the main problems it had to face. The first of these was the problem of choosing a life work. This choice cannot be made by the parent or the teacher. The adult can only guide and counsel. The actual decision must be made by each individual based upon his interests and natural abilities.

The next problem was that of the relationship between boys and girls. Social good times should be carefully directed by the home, the school, and the church.

The course of education is another acute problem. The choice of college or professional school is a question closely allied to that of vocation. There are many boys and girls who do not care to seek higher education. The problem is one of creating a desire for knowledge which cannot be gained through the teacher who is content to give merely factual data.

The boys, who considered their own problems, decided that another very difficult one was the art of living together. Upon this problem and its solution rests the whole fabric of our social life. It is harder to master than Latin, Greek, or Mathematics. What the child should receive from the adult is not so much criticism, but more faith. Words of praise and encouragement can go a long way in making the best predominate in the growing boy and girl.

As an added feature of the evening's program, Miss Constance Purington, a member of the high school orchestra, offered two violin solos. She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. S. L. Johnson of the Hospitality Committee.

Leonard O. Waters, president of the Association, presided. Refreshments were served during the social period which followed the main program of the evening.

UNITARIAN YOUNG PEOPLE PRESENT ANNUAL PLAY AND DANCE

The Metcalf Union, the Young People's group of the Unitarian Church, presented its annual Thanksgiving entertainment and dance, in Metcalf Hall, Nov. 29. The hall was well filled. The first entertainers were the Knowlton Trio, three very active and popular performers at the Unitarian Young People's Conference at Star Island. They presented several songs and a very clever song and tap dance number. They had to present an encore before the audience would let them leave.

"Miss Civilization," written by Richard Harding Davis, was the name of the play which followed. The cast consisted of members of the Metcalf Union, including: Jean Thompson, Stanley Osgood, Andrew Young, Allen Wood, Richard Elliott and Robert Godfrey. The parts were all exceptionally well played and no one person was outstanding. Dancing followed the play. Mrs. Herbert E. Stone and Mr. and Mrs. Norman L. Cushman were the patrons. The evening proved to be a great success, both financially and socially.

GUILD OF THE INFANT SAVIOUR

A business meeting of the Winchester Chapter of the Guild of the Infant Saviour was held on Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 2 at Fortnightly Hall. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Virgil Ghirardini. Organization was completed with the following list of officers:

President Mrs. Virgil Ghirardini
Vice President Mrs. William F. Hickey
Secretary Mrs. Michael H. Hintlian
Treasurer Miss Mary Lyons
Chairman Sewing Circle Mrs. Louis E. Chevalier
Hospitality Chairman Mrs. Arthur W. Collins
Press Chairman Mrs. James N. Clark

After the business meeting the afternoon was devoted to sewing. Tea was served under the direction of Mrs. Ghirardini and Mrs. Hintlian. The next meeting of the Guild will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 16.

Beginning next January, meetings will be held at 2 o'clock on the afternoons of the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month at Fortnightly Hall.

The Winchester Chapter of the Guild is a branch of the Guild of the Infant Saviour of Boston, an organization founded in 1906 for the protection of mothers and infants and affiliated with the Catholic Charitable Bureau of the Archdiocese of Boston, of which Rev. Fr. Thomas R. Reynolds is director.

I FEEL THIS ANNOUNCEMENT WILL APPEAL TO YOU

I have taken the management of Cedar Crest, 21 Main Street, Reading, midway between Stoneham and Reading on the State Road. For several years I have been assistant manager and prepared all the foods served at famous Tox-A-Way Inn. As each year increasing numbers running into thousands have visited this place I feel it has been a testimony to my products. Popular prices will prevail. An innovation will be the supper menu from 8:30 to 12 midnight; serving dainties from 25c to $1.25. Christmas and New Year's special roast duck or turkey dinner at $1.50.

STAR ANNOUNCES ALL MYSTIC VALLEY SELECTIONS

Our first team ends are Lane of Arlington and Hurley of Wakefield, both big, rugged boys, able to hold their own with the tackles, and hard to put out of a play. Hurley, in addition, is a good kicker. Brennan and Hoekel of Melrose, our second choices, are good all around ends and the latter is a fine receiver. Ross of Watertown, Canney of Woburn and DiMinico of Winchester are just a stride behind the leaders in all around class.

Hagerman of Arlington is the best tackle we saw this season and well he might be. One hundred and ninety-two pounds of experienced football player, he is a fine offensive tackle and impossible to put out of a play when on defense. Winchester's "Dan" Smith has the hardest drive of any tackle on the circuit, is also a tough man to smear and [illegible] to injury and tireless. W. MacKenzie of Melrose and Genaris of Woburn are both good tackles, able to do about anything well. Genaris caused Winchester plenty of [illegible] on the holiday.

We place Hannigan, Melrose's great tackle at guard because of his ability to come out of the line for interference and because he is the type of player able to play anywhere on the rushline. His running mate, Dunneen of Arlington, is a big, burly boy who with Hagerman was the bulwark of one of the strongest defensive lines in the League. Coipa of Winchester and Reeves of Melrose, our second guards are both good linemen, capable of holding their own with the best. Coipa, a 150 pounder, at times played as good football as any line man on the circuit, while Reeves, a light weight, was a smart and very effective performer. Callahan of Arlington, DeMayo of Woburn and Androski of Watertown were other good guards.

Center goes to Winchester's "Don" Emery and we think none will challenge our choice. The best defensive center since Amico and suffering little by comparison defensively with that great player, Emery passed well enough and diagnosed plays smartly. He made fully half of Winchester's tackles in every game and was the backbone of his team. O'Keefe of Wakefield was a good all around center, who however lacked Emery's all around class. Donovan of Melrose and Aylward of Woburn were other good pivot men.

Another easy choice was that of "Rex" Kidd of Melrose for quarterback. Kidd is easily the best running back of the year, a fine passer, an effective defensive back and also a good field general. He ranks with the finest in Greater Boston, a really great all around performer. Galucci of Arlington, second team choice, is one of the best passers around the circuit and is a good enough all around quarterback to run second best to Kidd. McNamara of Watertown and F. Dinan of Wakefield are other good quarters.

Lane of Watertown is our choice for left halfback and this boy does everything well. On a stronger club he would have burned up the League. A fine interferer, a good passer and runner, as well as a strong defensive back, he leaves nothing to be desired. Robinson of Melrose is the fastest back on the circuit, a great receiver of forward passes and a tough man to catch in a broken field.

Flaherty of Woburn wins the fullback berth on the first team over Lee of Winchester because of his consistency. He is a good interfering back, a fast, hard runner, fair passer and a good punter.

Lee, potentially the best all around back in the League, is picked for the utility back's berth on the first team only because he has been a player who has seldom performed at anywhere near his true aility. No back in the League can back up a line like Lee can, and few are better off the tackles. Lee can punt, pass and run and only needed drive to take his place with the all time Mystic backs.

Filling the utility line berth on the first team is Rattigan Watertown's rangy tackle, who played great ball on a weak team. Only a couple of unusually strong players kept him from a regular place on the eleven as he had no weaknesses worth mentioning.

Completing the backfield of our second team are Mugford of Wakefield, Wilmer Smith of Winchester and Harold MacKenzie of Melrose. All are good boys who have played consistently good football all fall. Mugford, at left halfback, is a hard line crashing back who was one of the League's leading scorers, a good performer on a not-so-good ball club. Wilmer Smith is Winchester's best all around back in the opinion of the writer, a boy who did everything but kick well. Few, except his team mates and coaches will give "Smittie" the credit which is his, due as he is, not the flashy type of player, but rather the steady dependable performer who is the real answer to every coach's prayer. Harold MacKenzie of Melrose is a good, all around fullback, an effective line plunger and interferer and a consistant performer over several seasons.

Winchester's "Hal" Knowlton draws the assignment of utility back on the second team and only a hair line separates him from the boys in the first group. This Sophomore will reckon with the best another season as he can run, kick, pass, receive, and is a good defensive back. Fuller of Melrose, Foley of Woburn, Lundblad of Winchester and Dulong of Wakefield are other backs above the average, and it is likely that Dulong would have landed in the money had it not been for injuries which prevented his playing part of the season.

Sparks of Wakefield is our second team utility lineman and is a boy who has played steadily good football with a losing club. Perhaps one of the best utility linemen on the circuit is little Ralph Ambrose of Winchester, who has been called upon to play center, guard and tackle during the past two seasons. He has done well in each of his jobs and is one of the best passing centers in the league. Only his lack of weight gives the boys picked ahead of him their jobs.

Mystic Valley football this season has surely been no better than in the past several seasons, and yet on the two occasions when comparison was possible, it has compared favorably with the brand of ball played in the Suburban League. Melrose beat Malden and Arlington held Somerville to a tie. Most of the games played, aside from those in which Melrose figured were hard fought and interesting. The Melrose club was easily the class of the League, and carried by far too many guns for the other teams to cope with.

is surely best for your baby

INSPECTORS select the dairies. Veterinaries test the cows. Inspectors supervise farm conditions and methods. Veterinaries regularly examine the cows. Milk is inspected and tested at the country receiving stations. Milk is checked again at the city pasteurizing plants. The Hood laboratories make more than 250,000 scientific tests yearly. Then when the bottles are filled, they pass before the trained eye of an expert.

Eight times in the production of this fine milk direct supervisional contact is made. Nothing is left to chance or guess. Every factor relating to the quality, safety and cleanliness of Hood's Grade A is built on scientific precision. The result is uniformity, dependability, unvarying fine quality, with a delightful natural flavor that babies and children love.

MRS. WOODSIDE TO SPEAK

Sunday evening at 6:30, in the Meyer Chapel, Mrs. Alonzo F. Woodside will speak to the members of the Union and their friends, on "Christmas in Norway." Everyone is cordially invited to attend this unusually interesting talk, which Mrs. Woodside has so kindly consented to give the young people.

John Ghirardini spent last weekend in Winchester with his parents. He is attending Worcester Academy.

PARK BOARD NAMES JOHN L. SHERMAN SUPERINTENDENT

The Park Board at its meetings last Monday evening appointed John L. Sherman of Dix terrace Superintendent of the Park Board, to succeed Alexander Macdonald, recently deceased.

Mr. Sherman has made Winchester his home for more than 30 years and is widely and favorably known. He was for four years a member of the Fire Department, driving Hose 1, and later was employed for six years at Blaisdell's Market. For the past 24 years he has been manager of the S. K. Ames store in Winchester, being known as one of the company's most capable managers in this district. He is a member of William Parkman Lodge of Masons and of Waterfield Lodge of Odd Fellows. No announcement of when he will assume his new duties has been made public.

The Reo truck which has been in use for some years by the Tree Department has been discarded and "Bill" Nicholson and his "bully boys" now cover the town in a Ford, purchased from Bonnell Motors Co.

THREE ALARMS TUESDAY

The first of three alarms which the Fire Department was called to answer on Tuesday came at 4:33 in the afternoon when residents of Orient street reported smoke issuing from a house in process of construction there. The firemen found upon arrival that salamanders were drying out the plaster.

At 5:05 p. m. a delivery truck, owned by the Economy Grocery Company, caught fire at the crossing in the center, tieing up traffic for a few minutes. The damage was slight.

A general alarm from Woburn Box 612 called Engine 3 and the Chief's car to Woburn to assist at the big fire which badly gutted the old Grothe plant on Everett street. The men had a cold three hour fight with the fire before returning to the local station. While going upstairs at the plant during the fire, Fireman J. Edward Noonan severely wrenched his knee. He continued to work though limping badly. Upon his return to the Station he found the knee very painful, but waited until Wednesday morning before consulting Dr Richard W. Sheehy. The latter found an injured cartilage and was obliged to place the leg in a cast. It is likely to be some time before Fireman Noonan will be able to report for duty.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Yesterday afternoon a huge oil truck loaded with 1500 gallons of crude oil split a seam on Main street near the Medford line. Patrolman James E. Farrell of the Police Department notified the Fire Department and Chief David H. DeCourcy went to the scene of the accident to superintend a crew of workmen who covered the crude oil on the ground with sand.

Miss Ruth Tompkins of this town is a member of the committee in charge of the Wheaton College Bazaar to be held this Saturday.

Far be it from the STAR to enter seriously into factional differences of our Town. Nothing pleases it more than the knowledge that we have in Winchester a homogenous and united community wherein everyone considers his neighbor as himself. But if it might be permitted to enter into a discussion of ways and means in solving our municipal problems it would be tempted to offer a bit of advice to those of our residents who are worrying over the Symmes Park water tank. Its advice to these residents is to concentrate upon an artistic (and not too expensive) plan to decorate this tower. It predicts that if a comprehensive scheme for beautifying this tank is presented to the citizens at our next town meeting, it will be courteously granted. If such a plan is not desired, and a plea made to remove the tank, it will be refused.

Aside from any viewpoint of serviceability and viewing the matter from a point removed from the immediate vicinity, we would just as soon live along side this water tower as one of our beautiful schoolhouses—provided it held some qualifications of beauty. Our only criticism of its erection is that this point was omitted in its design. As an individual we always like to see our hills and high places crowned with some mark of distinction, albeit of the beautiful and artistic. As an enlightened and intelligent people we should long before now have recognized that beauty holds its place in all things and not pass any of our public or private projects by without artistic consideration. In childhood days the conical top of a tower in a nearby northern town, rising amid green foliage of a sightly knoll, was long a land mark of the great world beyond, bringing visions of castles and conquests and marking the goal of our first desires to travel in unknown and delightful places. That our questionable tower should be beautified seems right and proper; that it should be torn down and removed to a site less advantageous and useful seems needless.

Indications point this season to abundant Christmas shopping in Winchester. The tendency, without doubt, will be towards intelligent purchasing and the limitation of lavish buying which has marked former years. We believe, however, that the average family will not curtail its usual holiday gifts and will endeavor to make its selection so far as possible in Winchester stores. Thus far this fact is noticeable. Furthermore it is but natural, for why should not our own families support the local merchants at this season? The STAR firmly believes that this outlines the situation in Winchester. In turn, our local merchants should make every endeavor, without undue optimism, to meet this trade which appears promised them. The Christmas spirit is bound to prevail and our people know that all local merchants demand upon their holiday trade for the larger part of their winter receipts. Every Winchester merchant has been called upon during the year to give his support to the various enterprises fostered by residents from every section of the town. Their appreciation of this fact, together with the knowledge that a town thrives largely through the prosperity of its merchants, will undoubtedly result in at least normal Christmas trading here. If the merchants do not fall down on their part of the job, the STAR predicts normal and satisfactory Christmas trade.

The STAR has watched with interest the withdrawing from the Suburban League of several high schools which for many years have competed athletically with this group. The Suburban situation has interested us only because the schools involved have been courageous enough to break away from a combination which seemed to them to be not entirely for their best interests. Why they wanted to withdraw, we don't know, but for one reason or another they evidently felt that their particular athletic development could best be accomplished outside the Suburban circuit. For some time we have felt that Winchester should withdraw from the Mystic League if its personel is to remain as it now stands, Melrose, Arlington and Watertown have outgrown the league and from now on are going as a general thing to carry too much power for Winchester, Wakefield and Woburn to compete with on even terms. The first three named are big schools in large communities, in which a majority of the boys available attend high, and not private schools. Viewing the situation purely from Winchester's standpoint, it is our opinion that the high school here should do one of two things, either drop out of league football competition entirely or get into a group of schools more nearly its equal athletically. We do not mean that teams like Arlington, which has long been a cherished rival of Winchester, should not be played. Far from it. But Winchester should not compete with schools the size of Arlington and Melrose on a championship basis, because in the long run the local boys are going to find such teams too strong for them. When the success of a season is going to depend upon a school's standing in a league, then that school should not be a member of a group physically too strong for it to compete with on even terms. As things are now in the Mystic Valley League, Winchester is going to have no better than a fighting chance of winning, if everything happens to break just right, and only very occasionally when a particularly strong group of boys is available can the local school hope to finish out in front. Winchester has made a good showing in the Mystic Valley League, but only fine coaching and exceptional conditioninre of its meager material has permitted it to do so. The fact that each year the locals have won a majority of their games played has gone for nothing in the face of losing certain objective league engagements. And so we say that if Winchester is to play league football, it should play in a league, the other members of which are more nearly in its particular athletic class. It is our opinion that a league composed of teams like Stoneham, Wakefield, Lexington, Belmont, Woburn and Concord would more nearly suit Winchester than a group like Melrose, Arlington and Watertown. The ideal league is one in which each member has an even chance in most seasons to win the championship. The Mystic Valley League so far as Winchester is concerned is not such a league. We don't of course know how the local authorities would feel about withdrawing from the Mystic League and attempting to form a new circuit of schools more nearly in Winchester's class. We personally are for it, and would like to see those in charge of Winchester's football give the proposition earnest consideration.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

L. R. Palmer of this town, who is a student at the University of Vermont, recently won the University tennis championship for 1930 by defeating Fred Tupper '32 of Burlington. By virtue of this victory, Palmer secured permanent possession of a cup and won the privilege of having his name engraved on the Aldrich Memorial Cup, a trophy which has been in competition since 1923.

The Star learns that Bruce Colpas and Capt. "Don" Emery have been chosen on the Transcript's All-Mystic League team, selected by the circuit's coaches.

Last Friday a Jewett touring car driven by Oliver S. Lawson of 421 Washington street and a Chevrolet coupe, driven by Theodore J. Pieri of Fellsmere street, Wakefield, were in collision on Washington street at Irving street. According to the police, Lawson was driving south on Washington street and stopped his machine at Irving street to pick up E. N. Giles of 12 Stone avenue when his car was struck in the rear by the Chevrolet. Both cars were damaged and Giles was thrown from the running board of Lawson's car to the ground. He was reported as unhurt.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Badger and family, who have been temporarily in Winchester, following their return from Paris, left last Friday for New York where they are to make their permanent home.

Miss Anne Simpson of Wedgemere avenue is east to appear in a dramatic entertainment to be staged Saturday evening at the House in the Pines School in Norton.

Motorcycle Officer John Hogan of the Police Department is reported as able to get out a bit after being confined to his home for some time by illness.

Miss Helen Glover of Reservoir street was one of the Boston University students who ushered at the recital given in Symphony Hall last evening by Professor Houghton of B. U.

The members of the Winchester Police Department who recently took the mental examination for Sergeant have been notified to report for physical examination. All the candidates were successful in the written test.

The Fire Department was called at 5:53 p. m. yesterday to put out a grass fire on the Shore road. At 7:10 p. m. the men were called again for a recurrance of the same fire.

The Fire Department was called at 7:53 last Saturday evening when smoke was smelled in the block at 616 Main street. The trouble was found to be a smokey stove pipe.

Mr. Basil Burwell of this town, is to play "The Young Man" in "Mockbeggar," at the Dec. 11 play given by the Whitehouse Academy of Dramatic Arts, at the Whitehouse studio, 418 Pierce Building, Boston. Mr. Burwell, who is well known in Winchester as a young man of marked dramatic talent and who is frequently billed with the Ford Hall Players, is showing an unusual degree of development in this, his second year at the Whitehouse Academy. Not only are his impersonations of the various characters assigned to him at Whitehouse very well done, but he is manifesting considerable ability in stage technique.

Mrs. Donald M. Belcher of the Winchester Country Club, one of the best women golfers in the State, has been nominated for the 1931 executive committee of the Women's Golf Association of Massachusetts. Mrs. Belcher is to serve as chairman of the intercity and interstate committee of the M. W. G. A.

James Noonan of the Highway Department has placed the safety ladders around the various town ponds in anticipation of the annual skating accidents.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue and in execution of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage given by Myer Gotz to Agnes E. Martin, dated December 12, 1925, and recorded in Middlesex South Registry District, and being Document No. 85,195, and noted on Certificate of Title No. 25,518, in Registration Book 174, at Page 189, of which mortgage the undersigned is the assignee and present holder by an assignment date July 15, 1928, and being Document No. 92,756, and noted on Certificate of Title No. 25,518, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same will be sold at public auction at 9:30 o'clock A. M. on the twenty-seventh day of December, 1930, on the premises below described, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage, said premises being therein described substantially as follows:

The land situated in Winchester, Middlesex County, Massachusetts, being bounded and described as follows:

Easterly by Main Street, one hundred fifty-two and 97-100 (152.97') feet; Northerly by Lot A as shown on a plan hereinafter referred to, seventy-five and 14-100 (75.14) feet; Easterly again by said Lot A, as shown on said plan, ninety (90) feet; Northerly again, by Water Street, one hundred nine and 2-100 (109.02') feet; Westerly by land now or formerly of John F. Cassidy, one hundred twenty and 73-100 (120.73) feet, and by land now or formerly of John Swayner, one hundred twenty (120) feet; Southerly by Richardson Street, two hundred four and 50-100 (204.50) feet; containing forty thousand, four hundred (40,400) square feet of land more or less, and being Lots B, C, D, E, F and G, as shown on a plan of "Subdivision of Lots, Winchester, Mass., March 30, 1926", drawn by Parker Holbrook, Engineer, and filed in the Land Registration Office, a copy of which is filed in the South Registry District of Middlesex County, and referred to as Plan No. 11,066-H.

Being the same premises conveyed to me by deed of even date of Agnes E. Martin, to be recorded in the South Registry District of Middlesex County.

The above described premises are conveyed subject to a building line on said Water Street, established by the Town of Winchester, shown as Document No. 66,268, on Certificate of Title numbered 26,684, and also subject to taxes assessed by the Town of Winchester for the year 1927. Said premises are also conveyed subject to the restriction that no stores shall be erected on said premises for a period of ten (10) years from August 20, 1927. This restriction, however, shall not apply to a garage, automobile salesroom, service or filling station.

There is excepted and excluded from the above-described parcel the following lots of land, which have heretofore been released from said mortgage, namely Lots D, E and F, by partial releases duly recorded in said Middlesex South Registry District, and noted on Certificate of Title No. 25,518, in Registration Book 171, at page 381.

Said premises will be sold subject to any and all unpaid taxes, tax titles and municipal liens or assessments, if any there be.

Terms of sale: $2000.00 will be required to be paid by the purchaser at the time and place of sale, and the balance in cash within ten days thereafter upon the delivery of the deed.

WINCHESTER WOMEN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Republican Club was held at Association Hall, Vine street, Wednesday, Dec. 3 at 2:30 p. m. There was a short business meeting during which Mrs. Scales, our membership chairman reported six new members. Mrs. Dabney, our Education chairman, then introduced Mrs. Joseph Ryan, who urged everyone to help in welfare work. She spoke especially of aiding mothers of dependent children, telling how little money they have and how badly help is needed to bring them to a little higher standard of living. She stated that unemployment makes it especially hard at this time and if anyone can help in any way to get in touch with her or any member of the Welfare Board. Mrs. Idalaelle Winship rendered two different groups of songs which were very delightful and much enjoyed by all those present.

The speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Alfred Radley, our past president, whose subject was "Tripping Through the Tropics," with pictures. Her talk opened with pictures of Ceylon and Rangoon, showing the beautiful temples, interesting street scenes as well as native costumes and life. She showed the elephants working and lifting the teakwood logs at the teakwood mill. This was followed by pictures of Siam, Singapore and Columbo, the famous emerald Buddha on the temple, the Friendship palms around the temple and the beautiful flowers in the botanical gardens of Java. All the native life was so interesting and unusual. There were pictures of Manilla, the native hut and coconut groves, showing how the coconuts are picked and broken. Then came pictures of Japan depicting the different costumes of the people, their thatched houses, their interesting costumes, pictures of Yokohama, Tokio and native towns showing the life of the Japanese people. The fact that these pictures were all taken by Mrs. Radley during a recent trip to the Tropics made them especially enjoyable as she included many of her personal experiences and observations. Tea and a social hour was enjoyed after the meeting.

SALVATION ARMY DRIVE

The annual Salvation Army drive for $5000 for Winchester is still going on and about $4200 now has been subscribed. Over $800 yet to come.

Lieut.-Col. Paul B. Moulton, chairman of this appeal and Charles E. Barrett, treasurer of this appeal issued the following statement today:

"Never in the history of the Salvation Army, that great Army devoted to the work of alleviating the condition of the poor, and the outcast has the need of appeal for funds to carry on its work been greater than it is now. The average man and woman cannot help being aware of the frightful condition in which too many wage earners are finding themselves, at the present time, when it is impossible for them to connect themselves with jobs, and when, as a consequence, thousands are starving in the midst of plenty. A starved body can be accomplished only by a weak mind.

"There is grave danger that the forces of communism and anarchy may grow, and that rapidly with the impending increase of unemployment and the consequent starvation of thousands, perhaps hundreds of thousands, in our very midst.

"When we think of this wonderful work done by this splendid organization; when we reflect that the increase in unemployment and business depression have brought unusual demands upon it, when we are aware that the relief work now carried on, is the greatest in the history of the Salvation Army in and about Winchester; when we contemplate a winter this year which the demands will be unusually heavy, we cannot help making a most powerful appeal to the more fortunate of our fellow citizens to see to it that this great work is not curtailed, but on the contrary, is helped to do greater and better than it has ever done before.

"Help us to put this drive 'over the top,' within the next week.

"You cannot give too quickly, for starvation, the enemy of society, is at the gates.

"Give now, please!"

Sincerely yours,
Lieut.-Col. Paul B. Moulton,
Chairman of Advisory Board
Charles E. Barrett,
Treasurer of the Drive

CALUMET NOTES

Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 2, the first afternoon auction at the club was attended by a large crowd. Mrs. Harris Richardson and Mrs. E. O. Pride were pictures and made very charming hostesses.

Next Monday, Dec. 8, Calumet Club will go to Malden and play Kirkwood Club in the Mystic Valley League. Come along with the boys and help them to stay at the top. One of the outstanding matches last Monday was to see Walter Chamb play billiards for Calumet against Medford Club. This was the first time in five years that Walter has played since he carried off the honors in the billiard tournament. We should not forget Fred Bovien the official time man in the alleys. The team always wins with Fred on the line.

Friday, Dec. 19 at 8 o'clock, Calumet dancing party. See a ticket. Make these dancing parties go over big.

New Year's party, Wednesday evening, Dec. 31. The committee with W. A. Wylie, chairman is planning one of the largest and the best parties of the year.

Don't make any other engagements until you hear about this party. "Jack" Hennessey's dance orchestra has been engaged for this big time.

Henry C. Quirbach, who died Saturday in Lowell was the brother of Rev. Fr. Conrad J. Quirbach of St. Mary's Parish. The funeral was held Tuesday morning in St. Margaret's Church, Lowell, and there were many Winchester people at the service.

CHRISTMAS BAZAAR

The Ladies' Friendly Society held its annual Christmas Bazaar at 2 p. m., Tuesday, Dec. 2, in the Unitarian parish house.

The chairman, Mrs. Ralph T. Damon, Mrs. George Goddu, and Mrs. Charles E. Young, assisted by a large number of society members, had provided 12 tables most festive and appropriate for the Christmas season. Aprons, baskets, flowers, handkerchiefs, infants' apparel, bags and other holiday articles were on sale during the afternoon and evening. The proceeds from the bazaar were highly gratifying to the committee and members.

Tea was served during the afternoon and at 6:45 p. m. there was a supper in Metcalf Hall for members of the parish. Mrs. Theodore R. Godwin and Mrs. Jesse S. Wilson deserve much praise for their work as chairmen in providing so excellent a supper and in arranging so attractively the table decorations of yellow and green.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

BIGGER AND BETTER
THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX
Strikingly beautiful, fleet and smart —a masterpiece of Fisher styling
Never has the superiority of Body by Fisher been more strikingly exemplified than in the Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six!
With the added advantage of a lengthened wheelbase, Fisher designers have achieved in the new Chevrolet an impressive degree of smartness, comfort and luxury.
Inside and out, scores of refinements stamp this car as a masterpiece of modern coachwork. Radiator, headlamps and tie-bar form an unusually attractive and distinctive ensemble. Mouldings sweep back in an unbroken line to blend with the smart new body contours. And new color combinations lend a new individuality. Interiors, too, are exceptional. The new mohair and broadcloth upholstery is smartly tailored. Seats are wider and more luxuriously cushioned. A deeper windshield and wider windows give better vision. And beautiful new modern fittings lend a final note of charm.
Many mechanical improvements are also evident in this Bigger and Better Six. Among these are a stronger frame; easier steering; a more durable clutch; a quieter, smoother transmission; and important engine refinements.
The Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six is now on display. See it today—drive it! It is the Great American Value!

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

At the meeting of the club on Monday, Dec. 8, there will be presented for the first time a three-act play by Carolyn Draper Gilpatric, a member of the Fortnightly, entitled "French Doors." Other plays and sketches by Mrs. Gilpatric have previously been much enjoyed by members of this club as well as many more distant audiences. Mrs. Lillian A. R. Whitman, chairman of the Dramatic Committee, has coached the play. An experienced director of amateur productions in co-operation with the author of the play surely promises a performance of the highest level when assisted by unstinted patience and hard work by the members of the cast. The characters in "French Doors" will be played by Mrs. Thelma Boothby, Mrs. Helen Fessenden, Mrs. Doris Hills, Mrs. Pearle Miller, Mrs. [illegible] Pitman, Mrs. Muriel Fruit, Mrs. Ada von Rosenvinge and Mrs. Dorothy Wills. The meeting is public.

An interesting discussion of the work "Coronet" by Manuel Kamroff was enjoyed by members of the Literature Group, lead by Miss Mary L. Hodge and Mrs. Helen H. Murray, on the afternoon of Dec. 1. A brief sketch of the life of the author was furnished by Mrs. Arzillia M. Higgins. Miss Hodge commented on the theme of the novel and Mrs. Murray gave a summary of the action. Miss Hodge quoted from numerous parts of the book, giving especially the background of the first episode descriptive of the shop of the artist craftsman, Cappini, a worker in gold and precious jewels, a fascinating character representing a nobility of craft. Here were introduced the coronet and the whip which appear as connective forces in the narrative. Comparisons were made of the characters of Rocco, Cappini's sharp and fisherman apprentice who afterward goes into the hog-butchering business, and the Chicago pork capitalist, George Mallet, the little Napoleon of modern industry. Emile Jobey, the street scavenger of Senlis, was mentioned as one of the vivid characters of the novel. Mrs. Murray followed Miss Hodge with two of the most tellingly descriptive scenes of the book, the death of Chopin, and the extreme cold of a Russian winter. The afternoon proved altogether too short for a full discussion of and reflection on the many picturesque scenes noted in the presentation.

An interesting bit of background from Florence was contributed by Miss Amy S. Bridgman in the form of a necklace and bracelet which were made by members of the house of Cappini which still exists in Florence. The original pieces of jewelry of which these are reproductions are now on exhibition in the Pitti Palace in Florence.

HOME FOR AGED PEOPLE

Donation and Thanksgiving Days are underlined on the November "Home" calendar.

Although in theory, Donation Day would seem to specialize—in practice, it includes the 365 days of the year, as is evidenced by this past year's record.

Since Sept. 1, 66 individual people and seven groups, including many more people, have materially contributed to the Home supplies of food.

This not only shows an increasing interest, but a growing responsibility and local pride, in its success as an ongoing institution; and it was forthcoming, under no stress of special solicitation.

For several years a gift sales table has been a feature of the Donation Day. Attractive articles, moderately priced, have seemed to find favor with discriminating buyers, and as a result, together with money given, this year netted over $100—no insignificant sum for the few people who work for it.

No guest book is kept; but the yearly calls total many hundreds.

The Directors cordially invite to the attention of those who are not as yet acquainted with the Home to this invitation to visit and inspect its work.

And they also wish to extend in no perfunctory manner, but with heartfelt gratitude, its thanks for the generous help of the many people who contribute to its success.

NOTICE

I wish to announce that the painting and decorating business previously conducted by David A. Carlue of Winchester has been purchased by Fore H. S. Johnson, one of Mr. Carlue's former employees. Mr. Johnson will continue to have associated with him John Nelson and other men who have been with Mr. Carlue for many years, and whose excellent work is so well known to many Winchester residents. For the present, Mr. Johnson will keep his headquarters at Mr. Carlue's former residence with the same telephone number Winchester 1501. Any calls for inside or outside decorating at that number will receive the same prompt and efficient service as heretofore, and by the same skilful mechanics.

HELD HEARING ON SYMMES PARK WATER TANK

Gathering Recommended Removal—Scored Town Officials

The hearing, held Monday evening by the Symmes Park Water Tower Committee, attracted a gathering which completely filled the small town hall, and resulted in the passing of a sense of the meeting vote to remove the tank, erected on Cranston road, and to provide water facilities for that district by laying an additional pipe line on Highland avenue.

There was noticeable unanimity of opinion at the hearing. If the tower or tank had any friends in the hall, they were reticent in stating their views. All the speakers favored the removal of the structure, various schemes being advanced as alternatives for providing the necessary water supply now housed in the tank.

Chairman J. Harper Blaisdell of the Symmes Park Water Tower Committee presided at the hearing and Charles R. Main served as secretary. Speakers were asked to give their names, but there were several who neglected to do so.

Doctor Blaisdell opened the hearing with a brief outline of the situation as it exists, giving six possible solutions for the tank problem. He stated that his committee had found that the water housed in the tank is necessary for fire protection in the Symmes Park section, and added that the structure is undoubtedly the cheapest and most effective means of providing this supply. His committee in studying the situation found six courses of action open to the town. First the tower can be left alone and permitted to stand as erected; 2nd, the ground about the tank can be beautified at an estimated cost of $4000; 3rd, the tank can be screened with trees and shrubbery at an estimated cost of $20,000; 4th, the location of the tank can be changed; 5th, the tank can be replaced with a pipe line on Highland avenue at an estimated cost of $50,000; and 6th an ornamental shell of concrete or masonry can be placed about the tank at an estimated cost of from $25,000 to $30,000.

Mr. Fox followed Doctor Blaisdell and spoke at some length. He [illegible] that the Symmes Park section had not been sufficiently informed of the project to erect the tank in advance of the meeting which voted to erect it, and believed that in the long run the town will lose money in property depreciation and loss of taxes by permitting it to remain in its present location. He felt that the plan to replace the tank with a pipe line was sound, and that it could be done for considerably less than the $50,000 mentioned by Doctor Blaisdell, naming a bid of $32,000 for the job which he had secured from a contractor. Mr. Fox had gone into the matter rather deeply and read figures which supported his contention that the town will gain financially by removing the tank.

During his remarks the speaker asked Doctor Blaisdell to read the report of the Board of Appeal which was appealed to at the time of the erection of the tower in an effort to remove the structure. This report as read criticised the Water and Sewer Board, the Planning Board and the Finance Committee for having placed the tower in its present location, but the members of the Board of the Appeal were unable to order the tank removed because it was not a menace to health, a nuisance or detrimental to property.

Mr. Comins followed Mr. Fox and stated that he felt that the town should try to do things as well as possible, and not as cheaply as may be. He felt that the town had made a mistake in placing the tower in its present location, and believed the mistake should be rectified, just as any business man corrects an error as soon as possible. He stated that Winchester's civic status was too high to permit a whole section of the town to suffer for a mistake in judgment, and did not believe that much headway could be made in beautifying the present structure.

Mr. Kendall of the Water and Sewer Board stated that in his opinion the whole tank could be done away with by adding 25 feet to the heighth of the present pressure tank at the North Reservoir. The same results could be obtained in this way he believed.

Mr. Sanderson arose and said that the Water and Sewer Board was willing to do whatever the town wanted done in the matter, but did not concur with Mr. Kendall, stating that what was needed in the Symmes Park section was water and not pressure. He also reminded the gathering that no opposition had been voiced to the erection of the tank when the matter was brought up in the town meeting.

Mr. Bryne held the Water and Sewer Board accountable for the present situation, and favored the expending of $50,000 for a new main on Highland avenue.

Mr. Comins added to his original remarks by stating that the construction of the tank in its present location had been put over by the Water and Sewer Board, and that if the people of the section in which it stands had known of the project, there would have been a storm of opposition. He stated that the town was spending some $10,000 to beautify the vicinity of Wedge Pond and did not believe that the money necessary to remove the tower from Cranston road would involve a heavy tax burden.

Mr. Lunt addressed the chair as a poll tax payer, and wanted the "monstrosity" removed, stating that the sooner this is done, the better the citizens will be pleased.

Mr. Whorf of the Water and Sewer Board resented the word "monstrosity" and warned the meeting that it would gain nothing by ridicule and rancor.

Former Selectman Worthen was the next speaker, and his remarks did much to clarify an awkward situation. He stated that he favored the removal of the tank, but he also agreed heartily with Mr. Whorf's admonition. He felt that Mr. Sanderson and his Board had done a fine job, that the Planning Board had given the matter careful consideration and that the Finance Committee had acted in the matter as its members deemed best for the town as a whole. He believed that the three bodies had information at their disposal which made them better informed on the whole matter than any at the hearing, and that they had acted as they thought for the best interests of the community. The Water and Sewer Board had prepared a most comprehensive report of its findings and had caused each family in Winchester to receive a copy by inserting it in the town report. No one had any right to say or to believe that the thing had been "put over." The whole project was handled as every town project must be handled, and the people of the Symmes Park district had no one but themselves to blame if they had not informed themselves fully on a matter which [illegible] them. In [illegible] matter was [illegible] could [illegible] frankly and [illegible] above all felt [illegible] should [illegible] necessary for the town [illegible] $25,000 to get its [illegible] town reports [illegible] town officials [illegible] will be well spent.

Mr. Fox [illegible] should have been [illegible] and reiterated his [illegible] main be laid along [illegible].

Mr. McHon [illegible] interested in how the tank [illegible] it is, but was [illegible] with its removal. [illegible] workers in the vicinity [illegible] the greatest damage [illegible] by the tank would be to [illegible] since desirable buyers [illegible] with the [illegible]. He [illegible].

He was followed by [illegible] property in the [illegible].

Mr. Heath [illegible] expense [illegible] removal of the [illegible] of a water main on Highland [illegible].

Mr. Cullen then [illegible] stated that the work [illegible].

Mr. G[illegible] was [illegible] did not believe the [illegible] [illegible] proposed [illegible] would reject, and [illegible] Blaisdell felt that [illegible] time [illegible].

WINCHESTER GARAGE MAN WINS MAINE VERDICT

Awarded $15,000 in Superior Court for Loss of Left Arm

G[illegible] L. T[illegible] well known to local motorists [illegible] employee at the Winchester Garage was [illegible] damages by a jury [illegible] at Portland, Me., last [illegible] injuries [illegible] Me., last March. Tomlinson lost his left arm in a [illegible] with a truck owned by Clement Brothers of Portland, defendants in the recently concluded case.

The young garage man was driving along the highway, and [illegible] passing a big truck felt a numbness in his [illegible]. Upon [illegible] found that [illegible] had been pulled from its socket. He was taken to the Wel[illegible] Hospital and eventually recovered.

A check-up of the accident revealed the fact that a heavy truck owned by Clement Brothers had [illegible] along the highway at the time of the accident and Tomlinson brought suit for $50,000 damages.

The suit was contested by the defendants who claimed that Tomlinson was guilty of contributory negligence in driving with his arm out of the window. The Winchester young man testified that he had both hands on the wheel and that his left elbow only was out of the window. His counsel showed that the truck had an overhanging body.

After the testimony, counsel for the defendants petitioned for a directed verdict for his clients, which the judge denied. The case went to the jury, and after two hours deliberation, a verdict of $15,000 was rendered. The defendants appealed.

HOWARD—DINEEN

The marriage of Miss Mary C. Dineen, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Dineen of Swanton street and Joseph W. Howard, son of Mrs. J. W. Howard Callanan of Allen road, took place on the afternoon of Thanksgiving Day in St. Mary's Rectory with the Pastor of St. Mary's Church, Rev. Fr. Nathaniel J. Merritt officiating.

Miss Dineen was attended by Miss Margaret O'Donnell and Mr. Howard had for his best man, James R. Young. The little train bearer was Master Wilbert Callanan.

The bride wore a gown of chiffon, beaded with silver, over white satin, with a veil of tulle, caught with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss O'Donnell wore silver metal cloth, trimmed with robin's egg blue tulle, with a matching hat, and carried tea roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's mother where a wedding supper was served. Mr. Howard and his bride, upon their return from a wedding journey, are to make their home in the Mulclair Apartments, Medford.

The bride is a graduate of the Winchester schools and previous to her marriage was employed at the Winchester Division of the New England Laundries. Mr. Howard was educated in the Woburn schools and in Michigan and is associated with C. F. Hovey Company in Boston.

"We invade a new field with vastly improved cars at the lowest prices in our history"

BY WILLIAM J. McANEENY
President, Hudson Motor Car Company

WE have built these models up to and beyond the 1931 standards of performance and quality in every way, and have never in our history offered so many improvements. Quality is greater down to the last detail. Every phase of performance has been greatly improved, and the luxury we have built into the cars is substantially greater than ever before. Motors are larger and more powerful. An efficient system of oil cooling is introduced. A marked improvement in carburetion increases flexibility and economy. Bodies are longer and wider. These cars possess the finest, easiest riding qualities. For the first time, such comfort is available at these low prices. Only great manufacturing economies and the fact that our large resources permit us to take the fullest possible advantage of reduced commodity prices have enabled us to offer the public the greatest combination of quality and low prices in our entire history.

Owner-Management Permits Exclusive Value Advantages

Owner-management enables Hudson-Essex to give you outstanding advantages in quality and price. The men who are now guiding its destinies have been with the company since its inception twenty-two years ago. Its department heads and principal distributors are its controlling owners. Their independence is backed by unusually large resources in capital and plant facilities. It enables Hudson-Essex to lead in design and engineering quality. It permits economies in manufacture and distribution that bring exceptional quality direct to the public at distinct price advantages.

MISS AVERY GIVES HER THIRD LECTURE

On Nov 26, Miss Avery gave her third Current Events' lecture of the season, speaking on her recent visit to Russia and the impressions gained while there. Of course no one can draw any definite conclusions about Russia's future from a short visit and as there have been many books written about modern Russia and its problems, Miss Avery said she would confine herself to the personal contacts she had with the country and its people.

Russia covers an immense territory and much of it is little known. It has enormous potential wealth with the greatest standing lumber supply in the world and the second largest oil output. The population numbers over 150,000,000 and consists of over 200 races. The Russian people have a great capacity for endurance and great dramatic instinct. Though Russia and the United States are absolutely dissimilar in their methods, yet both are working toward the same end.

Miss Avery said that she realized when she went into Russia that what she learned while there would not be from what she heard but from what she saw. She had heard tales of tourists not getting enough to eat but she herself had plenty, doubtless more than the average Russian, and one thing was cheap for everyone, and that was entertainment.

It was not physically difficult to travel about Russia, Miss Avery said, but it was a great emotional strain with the contrast between what was and what is, between the fall of the old regime and the rise of the new on the ashes of the past. Russia today is allowing every race to speak its own language and is teaching every person to read and write, and this is a long step from the days of the Czars. Today Russia is attempting the most dramatic experiment the world has ever seen and we are fortunate in having the privilege of watching it develop.

On Dec. 10, Miss Avery will speak on "Germany."

Sunday night at 11:35 a man reported to Patrolman Clarence Dunbury that there had been an accident at the corner of Cambridge and Church streets. Patrolman Dunbury went to the place designated and found that an automobile had gone over the sidewalk and had smashed about 10 feet of hedge at the residence of Mr. Edwin Jennings at 127 Church street. The operator of the car had left before the arrival of the police, and the registration of the car had not been taken.

VIRGINIA WARREN IN SONG RECITAL

The forthcoming song recital to be given by Virginia Warren on Wednesday evening, Dec. 10 in Jordan Hall, Boston, is attracting widespread interest among music lovers.

Since her return to America a year ago, she has filled concert engagements in many of our large cities and has assisted musical organizations in orchestral numbers and in oratorio roles. Nothing has served to spread the fame of the young artist, who makes her home in Winchester with her parents, than her selection as soloist at the Tercentenary dinner given at the Copley Plaza Hotel in Boston last September by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in honor of the distinguished guests of the Commonwealth, among whom were the British Ambassador to the United States and representatives of nearly all foreign governments, as well as distinguished personages from all over our own country.

Miss Warren has a soprano voice of remarkable quality and exquisite purity and warmth and as Warren Storey Smith, music critic of the Boston Post said of her after a recent concert, she is "a born recital singer"

WINCHESTER MAN NEW TAX OFFICIAL

Mr. Francis O. P. Carlson of Wedge Pond road, assistant secretary to Governor Frank G. Allen, has been appointed by Tax Commissioner Long to the position of deputy tax commissioner at a salary of $4350 a year. Mr. Carlson has had several years experience in State affairs, having served as assistant secretary to Governor Alvan T. Fuller before accepting a similar position with Governor Allen. He is a World War veteran, a member of Winchester Post, 97, A. L., and has many friends in Winchester who will be pleased to learn of his good fortune.

WINCHESTER PUBLIC LIBRARY

There will be an exhibition of photographs loaned by the Library Art Club from Dec 1-20 on "The Island of Mount Desert, Me.

"This same day, (September, 1604), we passed quite near an island which is some four or five leagues long. The island is very high, and so cleft in places that it appears as if seven or eight mountains were ranged side by side. I have named this island 'L'Isle des Monts Desert.'"—(Note book of Samuel de Champlain.

WINCHESTER HOSPITAL DIETITIC LABORATORY

A Progressive Step in Education

"As a combined Science and Dietitic Laboratory is most unsatisfactory steps are being taken to provide a separate Dietitic Laboratory. When this is completed it is strongly urged that arrangements for improving the Science Laboratory go forward so that there may be a complete and modern teaching unit."

The above represents an excerpt from the last inspector's report of the School of Nursing by the New York Department of Education. The first part of our answer may be seen in the splendidly equipped dietetic laboratory given to the hospital by the Winton Club. The greatest pride is felt by pupils and staff in this new unit and it is an enduring monument to the progressive policy and interest in education that is being constantly shown by the people of Winchester.

The great interest being demonstrated toward the treatment of many diseases by diet is hardly appreciated by the great majority of people, but "Diet in Relation to Health" is one of the most constructive slogans we use. To teach this invaluable lesson requires equipment and a well prepared teacher. We now possess both and our Dietotherapy Course proves one of the most interesting in the curriculum.

This new laboratory consists of two monel metal covered tables with accommodation for eight pupils—each student having complete individual equipment. Blackboard, dish and utensil cabinet, electric ice chest were parts of this most complete gift that also included painting of the room and laying of attractive linoleum in grey and white. We trust many interested friends, who have not seen this addition, will make it a point of visiting the Nurses' Home and viewing the progress that is being made in our nursing education, thanks to our devoted and understanding friends.

REDS WON FRESHMAN CLASS CHAMPIONSHIP

The Red and White teams of the Freshman Class held their final play off for the championship of the class Wednesday afternoon. The Reds won 5—1 but it was a much harder fought game than the score would indicate. Janet Bradlee and June Pettingell each caged one point for their team while E. Sharon added three more points to the score. For the White team, L. Elliott scored the only points.

The summary follows:

EPISCOPAL MEN'S CLUB

Epiphany Men's Club will hold the second of their series of winter meetings next Wednesday evening, Dec. 10 in the parish house, Church and Norwood streets. Ladies of the Church Service League under the direction of Mrs. George Leghorn and Mrs. L. E. Snow will serve dinner at 6:30 p. m., following which there will be opportunity for new members of the parish to become acquainted and a short business meeting.

At 7:45 p. m., R. F. Stevens of Arthur D. Little, Inc., well known chemical and industrial engineers, will speak on the subject, "Molding the Future." Mr. Stevens, a graduate of M. I. T., has had excellent opportunity to inform himself on the subject of research as applied to our every day life, having just returned from an extensive tour of the country's leading research institutions with a group of engineers, who were sent out by the National Research Council and under the auspices of the New England Council of business men.

Visits were made to laboratories of the General Electric Companies, Bell Telephone Company, General Motors and several steel corporations. Mr. Stevens has the faculty of making industrial research vital and interesting to the layman and will relate some of the current industrial developments which bid fair to revolutionize our present mode of living.

President Alton B. Jackson and his executive committee promise a most interesting evening.

SOPHOMORES WON HOCKEY CHAMPIONSHIP AT HIGH SCHOOL

Tuesday the Sophomores of the Winchester High School won their 1933 numerals by defeating the Seniors in a class hockey game 2—1. The Sophomores defeated both the Junior and Senior teams, while the latter two teams tied when playing against each other, giving the Sophomores the championship, 4—1. Many of the girls on all the teams showed promise of developing into some fine varsity players.

The line up follows:

SOPHOMORES K. Sanford, J. Ancello, M. Laudiar, P. Armstrong, J. Benenato, R. Browne, N. Young, D. Noble, M. Thwing, R. Hathaway, M. Mountain, J. Woodford.

SENIORS J. Sanford, M. Bryer, F. Tremberth, E. Irwin, M. Penta, D. Snodgrass, Natalie Hall, M. Hathaway, H. Miley, W. McPartlie, K. Chamberlin, R. Brown.

Umpire, Miss Centervall. Scorer, L. Carleton. Timer, C. Mercer. Goals made by Snodgrass, Ancello, Benenato.

MISSION UNION

The Mission Union of the First Congregational Church will meet in the Parish House, Tuesday, Dec. 9, from 10 to 4. Miss Carolyn Smiley, lately returned from a tour of visits to missions around the world will be the speaker. Those wishing to bring guests for luncheon are asked to notify Mrs. Ben Schneider before Monday evening, Winchester 1723 or Mrs. J. Churchill Hindes 0641-J.

Mrs. Remington Plumer of Wildwood street is enjoying a trip to the West Coast, visiting friends in Milwaukee, Cleveland and New Orleans, enroute.

MYSTIC VALLEY LEAGUE

Calumet continues to hold its lead in the Mystic Valley League, and on Monday night took 13 of the 15 points represented in its match with the Medford Club. The local teams won every point except one in bowling and one in billiards. McGrath was the shining light on the alleys, rolling a single string of 162 and a total of 361. Goldsmith, Blanchard and "Newt" Purington also rolled well, together with Brown of Medford, who got 117 and 322.

The scores:

Ralph Purrington holds both the high single and high total record in bowling with 151 and 352, but his marks have now been bettered by McGrath, and Priest stands second in average with a 106 tie with Mackin of Medford. Butters is third in the individual pool standing.

Mrs. Kingman P. Cass is in charge of the dinner bridge to be held at the Calumet Club next Friday, Dec. 12. The dinner will open at 6:30 sharp.

The Calumet Club will visit the Kernwood Club at Malden in the Mystic Valley League next Monday evening. As this is always a popular meeting between the two clubs, it is expected that a large aggregation from the local club will attend.

A bowling party for the ladies will be held at the Calumet Club next Tuesday afternoon. Bowling will start at 2:30.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Winchester has been complimented upon its endeavors in the recently completed rat campaign conducted under the auspices of the County Extension Service. Twenty-three hundred packages of bait (poison) were distributed here, and most of it put to good use.

Considerable damage was done by the bursting of water pipes in an unoccupied house at 102 Sylvester avenue last Sunday. The trouble was discovered by Motorcycle Officer Hogan of the Police Department who is recovering from a long illness at his home on Sylvester avenue. The Water Department was notified and trouble man "Bill" Nowell was soon at the scene of the break. It was necessary to shut off the water outside the dwelling as access to the house could not be gained without breaking a door or window. The house is owned by a Medford lumber concern.

While crossing Westley street last Friday, Alva W. Cross of 320 Washington street slipped and fell, sustained injuries which were treated by Dr. Milton J. Quinn. Mr. Cross also went to the Winchester Hospital for X-ray examination. The matter was reported to the police.

The police were notified last Friday evening that some time during the night previous, the home of John W. Wattrs at 49 Wildwood street had been entered. Access was gained through a window. The silver had all been examined by whoever entered the dwelling, but nothing was reported as missing. Sergt. Thomas F. Cassidy of the Police Department began an investigation at once.

An Essex sedan, driven by Clifton E. Hall of 27 Vernon street, Woburn, and a Chevrolet sedan, operated by Daniel F. Houghton of 11 Gilman terrace, Somerville, were in collision at the junction of Washington street and the Parkway last Sunday night at 11:50. The Essex was going north on Washington street and the Chevrolet was headed west on the Parkway. Both cars were damaged, but no one was injured.

REFORESTATION OF THE WATERSHEDS OF WINCHESTER'S WATER SUPPLY

To the Editor of the Star:

Our town of Winchester is one of the favored municipalities in having had such an adequate supply of water during the dry season just past. In order that we may insure ourselves of an increased supply of water, the following statement is to show what science has proven that we can and ought to do regarding tree life upon our watersheds.

We are greatly indebted to our three original water commisisoners: Messrs. David N. Skilling, James F. Dwinell and Moses A. Herrick, for this living and growing monument of health, because of their foresightedness, persistency of effort and grim determination for which they suffered much abuse. We are just beginning to appreciate and realize their anticipated blessings.

It was stated when this system was constructed that it would supply our town with water when she should have 16,000 inhabitants and as we have 12,000 people in our town at present and are growing rapidly, what about our future needs of water for domestic use.

Science is answering the question in a most practical way under the head of conservation. The average rainfall of about 42 inches in depth can be greatly conserved by the substitution of the evergreen trees in place of the hardwood trees.

Professor Ralph J. Hosmer of Cornell University states that all hardwood trees that begin life as a stump or sprout growth are always false or hollow hearted, and do not live to any great age. A large percentage of the hardwood trees located upon our water sheds are of that nature and are over mature.

The consumption of water by the hardwood trees is very much in excess of that by the evergreen trees.

Dr. Gale of the Groton Water System that supplies the city of New York with water for domestic use, has stated that in his opinion a well developed evergreen forest will consume no more water to sustain life than would require to grow a crop of hay on the same sized lot of land. This statement of Dr. Gale's with his great experience in forestry work, is of great value under the head of conservation of the rainfall.

The undergrowth under the hardwood trees is always at a maximum, whereas under an evergreen shade there is a minimum of undergrowth which means a great saving of water on this 405 acres of our water sheds of town owned land.

The water consumed to sustain the life of this undergrowth equals several millions of gallons of water per year, which can be conserved under a canopy of evergreen trees.

Mr. F. F. Rane, former State Forester, has made the statement in comparing the consumption of water by the hardwood trees versus the evergreen trees, as follows: for every pound of leaf material that falls from the hardwood trees in the fall of the year, 470 pounds of water is required to produce the same, whereas 43 pounds of water are required to grow one pound of the foliage of the evergreen trees, or in other words, 56 gallons of water is required to grow one pound of leaf material of the hardwood trees as compared with five gallons needed to develop one pound of the evergreen foliage.

It is safe to state that there is an average of 250 hardwood trees per acre on this water shed or was when this reforestation was first instituted which, when multiplied by the number of acres, estimating that there are 10 pounds of leaves per tree, the results of water consumed by the hardwood trees is astounding. We cannot afford to waste so much water.

Dr. Frank Thone, a noted scientist in forestry work at Washington, D. C., has stated that a well developed hardwood tree will transpire one barrel of water per day during the growing season. Transpiration is the function in tree life of gathering water by the small white rootlets in the ground and passing it through the roots and up the trunk of the tree through the limbs and to the very tips of all of the leaves on the tree.

A well developed hardwood tree is said to possess from 185,000 to 250,000 leaves as a canopy cover. The leaves of a tree are its lungs, through which it breathes, and the amount of water that passes off in evaporation is large, as stated above. Every tree has its own chemical laboratory, and the chemicals needed to develop the tree are retained and sent downward, while the water that is not needed is evaporated through the leaves.

Miss Julia Ellen Regers, a noted student of nature, has written several books in relation to her study, and one of her statements in relation to hardwood trees is that a well developed hardwood tree will consume during the growing season more than 28,000 gallons of water which would mean an average of 183 gallons of water per day, which on our watershed means a very large consumption of water.

Hon. Martin L. Davey, Congressman from Ohio, made a speech in the National Congress at Washington, April 22, 1926, relating to conservation of American forest and water supplies. He stated as follows: "Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, it is not my purpose today to discuss the question of lumber supply at great length. I want so far as the power within me lies, to direct your attention to the broader phases of this question as they relate to the effects of forest devastation in other equally serious ways, perhaps more serious.

Let me call your attention to the fact that scientists have estimated that one average tree in a single growing season throws into the air through its leaves about 500 barrels of water by the process called transpiration, from April 1st to Sept. 1st, five months.

Just as our breath is laden with moisture when it comes from our lungs, so there is breathed out through the leaves of trees great quantities of water in vapor form to remain in the air and be condensed and come back once more as rainfall. And thus we see a very direct relation between the existence of trees and the rain that may come to bless the earth.

The leaf is the most important thing in all the realms of life, it is the one and only connecting link between the organic and the inorganic worlds. There are only two minerals that man can take into his system and assimilate—water and salt—and these only in limited quantities. Everything else that we eat and, in fact, most of the things that we wear come to us through the leaves of vegetation—not of trees alone, but of all vegetation.

It is the leaf which takes the dead mineral elements from the soil, the inorganic elements, and transforms those minerals into organic, living cells and makes it possible for them to feed the whole of the living world. And thus it appears that the great God who created the world and the life that inhabits it made of the lowly leaf the greatest and the most important instrumentality of that life."

The foliage of the coniferous trees as it falls to the ground makes a much better sponge-like covering on the ground, known as humas, and a noted French scientist has stated that it will contain from one to four times its weight of water and causes the water to much more rapidly seep into the ground. The dead foliage of the hardwood trees is wafted hither and thither by the wind and is not considered to be as good a cover on a water shed as the evergreen foliage.

The hardwood trees should all be removed as rapidly as evergreen trees can be made available to take their place if we are to get the full benefit of the reforestation work. Young pines are seriously retarded in their growth where the shade is so dense as in many places upon many watersheds.

Dr. Harvey Wiley, a New York statesman of recent date, stated before the Legislature as follows: "As we learn more of hygiene we understand better the relation between trees and health and the necessity of pure, clean air to be obtained from the forest. We can live less than five weeks without food, less than five days without water, and less than five minutes without air."

All of these necessities are practically dependent upon trees. The trees are necessary to the earth as are the capillaries to the body.

A noted engineer of Brookline, Mr. Desmond Fitzgerald, after many years of experimenting, stated that the evaporation of fresh water from a water surface in the vicinity of Boston equals 39 inches in depth per year out of an average rainfall of 43 inches. This means that we must conserve as much as possible of the water that falls upon this water shed.

This work was instituted in the fall of 1916 by first cutting away the hardwood growth 100 feet in width on the shore lines of the North, Middle and South Reservoirs, 30 feet from water's edge, on the shore line 10½ miles.

During the period of 43 years or more the leaves and the organic matter has been falling into the water of our reservoirs and contamination was on the increase causing the water to have an unpleasant taste and odor during the summer and fall seasons, previous to the removal of the hardwood on the 100 foot strip.

The three advantages to be obtained by this work are: First, and most important, improvement in the condition of the water. Second, conservation. Third, preservation of this remarkable water shed.

Charles E. Kendall,
Water Commissioner

"Land-Bridge" Not Needed

The existence of a so-called "land-bridge" between Alaska and Asia in ancient times is argued by some scientists as an explanation of how man first arrived in America from Asia. Doctor Hrdlicka scouts the theory. A land bridge, he says, was wholly unnecessary. Primitive boats made of the skins of animals, such as still are used by some Alaskan natives, would have been, he says, sufficient to cross the Bering sea.

Aboriginal Europeans

The Basques are believed to be a fragment, perhaps the only distinct remnant, of the pre-Aryan race or aboriginal people of Europe. Their language is the only non Aryan language of western Europe. Recent investigations indicate connections with the Berbers of North Africa, who are of Hamitic stock.

WEST SIDE HOME

It is possible, because of unusual circumstances, to purchase one of the most attractive modern homes on the West Side of Winchester at a material sacrifice. The house contains a large living room, a sun-room, Colonial dining room and modern kitchen on the first floor; three well arranged chambers and two tile baths on the second floor, and a maid's room and storage on the third floor. There is over 12,000 square feet of land, well landscaped and planted with perennial plants and shrubs. Price $14,000, less than assessed value.

LEGION POST TO GIVE DOLLS TO 1000 GIRLS

Crosscup-Pichon Members' Wives Have Committee

Crosscup-Pichon Post of the American Legion, which annually at Christmas time for the last several years has brought smiles and joy to many a needy little girl with a big doll straight from Santa Claus, is in the midst of this good work again this year.

In other years the demand was so great for dollies that the men of the Post were unable to obtain sufficient dolls to go around. So this year the wives of the members have formed a doll committee, with 1000 dolls as the goal.

The call for dolls this year is larger than ever and the women's committee, headed by Mrs. George C. Wiswell of 79 Fletcher street, will be glad to receive such gifts or the money equivalent.

Although the appeal is for either a doll or a dollar, the womenfolk prefer the money. They feel their marketing ability will outclass the men's when it comes to getting the most for their money.

ATTEMPTED FLIV CLAM

Edwin Berry, an employee at the Atlantic Filling Station on Main street notified the police of an effort to flim flam him at the station last Saturday.

A motorist drove into the station and purchased 5 gallons of gasoline. After pretending to search for a $1 bill, he tendered a $20 bill in payment for the gas and after receiving his change, found the dollar and asked for his $20 back.

The game did not work, and the registration of the car the man was driving was given to the police. The authorities of the place where he resides are home stated that the man had been complained of for attempting to work the same hoax before.

FRUSTRATED PLAN TO STRIP MACHINE

The prompt action of Patrolman [illegible] E. Cassidy of the Police Department last Thursday night prevented the theft of the stripped automobile, owned by Charles [illegible] of 24 Everett avenue.

Headquarters had been notified of an automobile standing with the motor running in the junction of Myrtle street and Bonicroft road, and Patrolman Cassidy was on his way to investigate when he was told by two residents of the district that two young men were stripping a machine on the lot dedicated to the [illegible] on Bonicroft.

Hastening to the spot, Patrolman Cassidy was successful in catching the thieves, who escaped in an automobile and escaped toward Cambridge street. The machine they were stripping was a Stearns-Knight coupe, which had been parked on Calumet road. It is [illegible] and stolen about an hour later. A number of some side curtains were all the thieves had time to secure before they were frightened away. Patrolman Cassidy returned the car to its owner.

"Larry" Palmer of this town, a sophomore at the University of Vermont and a veteran on the varsity hockey team, is rapidly reported as a candidate for this year's team.

LINCOLN PLAYERS ENTERTAINED VETARANS AT BEDFORD

The disabled veterans at Bedford Hospital were given a musical treat Wednesday evening when the members of the Lincoln Players presented a most interesting program for their benefit under the direction of Walter L. Rice.

The Lincoln Players' Orchestra is making rapid strides as a musical organization and is acquiring a reputation which is spreading beyond the confines of Winchester. Many enthusiastically acclaimed Wednesday evening's concert the best ever heard at Bedford.

Wednesday evening the orchestra was assisted by that dainty dancer, Miss Martha Tibbetts, and by Miss Marion E. Smith, soprano. 'Cello solos were played by Mrs. Helen Smith and trumpet solos by Guido Talone. All were enthusiastically received.

After the entertainment, cigarettes, the gift of generous friends were passed around. The arrangements for this delightful concert as well as for the transportation of the musicians and friends were made by Mrs. R. K. Miller.

Following is the complete program and personnel of the orchestra:

WINCHESTER DEBUTANTE PRESENTED AT DANCE

Miss Eleanor Ives of this town made her formal bow to society Monday evening at a dance given for her at the Algonquin Club, Boston, by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Manley Ives of Highland avenue. Preceding the dance there was an usher's dinner for 68 at the club.

The debutante wore a gown of white net and silver with a corsage of gardenias and carried pink roses and pink sweet peas. Mrs. Ives was gowned in black and pink lace with a corsage of gardenias.

The corps of ushers, who were all Harvard men, was headed by the debutante's brother, Frederick Manley Ives, Jr., and Reginald Elwell; and included Robert M. Whittemore, brother-in-law of Miss Ives; James Dwinell, a cousin; Richard Thomas, Hiram Sibley, Beekman Pool, Robert Morse, Phillips Dodge, Philip Tucker, Henry Worcester, C. Terry Cellens, Richard Friedman, David Morse, Francis Martin, Mitchell Hastings, George Lombard, Albert Pratt, James Madden, Richard Borden, Joseph Bradley, Robert Hurlburt, William Boyd, Hammond Bowden, George Johnson, Thomas Kimball, William Elwell, Edmund Keville, Roger Hallowell, William Harris, Joseph Frothingham and Charles Ware.

Miss Ives attended Buckingham School and was graduated from Miss Winsor's. She is a member of the Vincent Club, a provisional member of the Junior League and was one of the group who ushered at the performance of "Angna Enters" which was given Wednesday afternoon in the Repertory Theatre for the benefit of the unemployed women of Boston, who are being helped by the Women's Educational and Industrial Union.

FURTHER RECOGNITION FOR PEACE POEM

"God's Challengers," a poem by Marion Perham Gale of this town, appears in "Cease Firing," an anthology of the greatest poems inspired by the World War, compiled by Anna W. Ronessel and published by the Winsted Company of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Gale's poem first appeared in Federation Topics, issue of May, 1926, and since that time has been included in three notable anthologies, and copied throughout the country in newspapers and periodicals.

"Cease Firing" contains the works of 50 of the world's greatest writers, including John Drinkwater, Rudyard Kipling, Siegfried Sassoon, Edwin Markham, John Masefield, Carl Sandburg, Joseph Auslander and others.

Mrs. Gale's poetry has come rapidly to the fore during the past two years, and the selection of her "God's Challengers" for publication in this latest and most complete anthology is proof positive of the literary merit of her work.

Don't forget the dance at the Calumet Club Friday evening, Dec. 19. "Ed's Harmony Boys" have been secured to furnish the music and a good time is assured all who attend. Tickets are but 50c.

WINCHESTER FARED WELL IN NEW ENGLAND TENNIS RANKINGS

The New England lawn tennis rankings for 1930, as announced last week-end by Frank J. Sulloway of Concord, N. H., chairman of the ranking committee of the New England Lawn Tennis Association, list four Winchester girls and three local boys among the cream of the talent competing during the past season.

In the Junior Girls' class, Helen Bidwell is ranked third and Mary Cutter, fourth, behind the redoubtable Sarah Palfrey and Hilda Boehm of Malden. Catherine Boyden is eighth in the same ranking. Lucy Fowle is placed fourth in the first ten of the Younger Girls' class.

Sidney Paine is ranked eighth and Richard Riley, ninth, in the Junior Boys' class and "Billy" Gilpatric is number 3 among the first ten of the Younger Boys' ranking.

All these young people have turned in fine performances on the courts. Helen Bidwell, whose home is now in Scarsdale, N. Y., was ranked in New England because she was a resident of Winchester when she won her junior championship in singles and mixed doubles with Nat W. Niles, Jr. With Mary Cutter she was among the last eight in the national singles at Philadelphia, being topped by three California entrants, a New York girl, by Sarah Palfrey and Hilda Boehm. Helen is now at Sargent School.

Mary Cutter, also a student at Sargent, is the holder of the Pindale Challenge Bowl at Newburyport and won the Women's Eastern Doubles championship at the Eastern Yacht Club last season with Louise Packer. Catherine Boyden, representing Vassar in the invitation intercollegiates last June, reached the semi-finals in doubles and won several singles matches. Lucy Fowle, a Winchester High School Sophomore, won the Longwood boys' and girls' tournament singles crown in the fall.

Sidney Paine, former Andover captain and number 2 singles performer, won the North Shore singles' crown last season and with Richard Riley is the holder of the New Hampshire State junior doubles' championship. Riley, besides making an excellent showing in several junior tournaments, won the North Shore junior mixed doubles with Mary Cutter.

All in all the Winchester youngsters showed pretty conclusively that the brand of tennis played locally is "a little bit of all right," and there is no reason to suppose that it isn't going to keep along on the up grade. Many of the local youngsters are planning to enter the indoor junior championships which are to be held this year on the covered courts at Longwood starting Dec. 29.

FLAHERTY NEW FOOTBALL CAPTAIN

At a recent meeting of the football letter men of the Winchester High School, Joseph Flaherty, '32, was elected to lead the eleven next season. "Flats" has been a member of the team for the past two seasons and has been a regular this year, playing at both guard and tackle. He is a sturdily built youngster and has the stuff to be an outstanding lineman. He will have a fair nucleus for his team another fall and hopes to lead a winner on the gridiron.

The choice of the high school field hockey team for next year's captain is Barbara Shaw, '32, regular fullback on the eleven for the past two years, and a steady dependable player. This year's club will be hard hit by graduation, and it will be necessary to almost completely rebuild next season.

Francis Corby, '32, is the new captain of the cross country team, and he too is rather the steady, dependable type of athlete who gives a coach little trouble. Corby has come along nicely this fall and Coach Wenner looks for great things from him next season.

In addition to the athletic letters awarded the members of the various teams at high school, awards were made to cheer leader Ada Johnson and to Carolyn Nichols for the best record in the ticket selling competition. Miss Johnson was assisted in cheer leading by Francis Felt, Janet Nichols and Earl Smith. Few schools have succeeded in showing a better cheering section than Winchester and the local leaders deserve much credit for their work.

MAN INJURED WHEN THROWN FROM TEAM

George Wells of 651 Washington street was severely injured about 4:45 o'clock Monday afternoon when he was thrown from the wagon which he was driving south on Washington street near Kenwin road. The accident occurred when the horses for some reason suddenly bolted.

As the team was passing Kenwin road the wagon collided with a Ford truck which was parked at the corner of Kenwin road and Washington street and owned by Daniel Callahan of this town. The team was finally rounded up on Grayson road.

Wells was taken to the Winchester Hospital by Arthur Cameron of Kenwin road and treated by Dr. Richard W. Sheehy. X-ray photographs were taken to determine the full extent of his injuries and he was found to be suffering from a fractured skull and a severe scalp wound. Hopes are held out for his recovery.

The Committee of Safety Chapter, D. A. R. was represented at the Regional meeting of the Northern Division, held at the Statler Hotel, Dec. 3 and 4 by Mrs. Sewall Newman, Mrs. Maurice Brown, Mrs. J. Churchill Hindes. Mrs. Dorothy Waun also attended as one of the pages.

The Star Wishes all A Merry Christmas

WADLEIGH PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION

On Saturday, Dec. 6 in the afternoon and evening, the Wadleigh Parent-Teacher Association made it possible for the children and grown-ups to enjoy the famous moving picture, "Commander Byrd at the South Pole."

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Cleaves, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, were able to secure the picture through the courtesy of the Capitol Theatre of Arlington.

The Association made it possible for the children to enjoy this unusual picture in the afternoon at the very low price of ten cents and the Town Hall proved too small to accommodate all who came. The evening audience numbered about 500, both adults and children.

The great success of the affair was due in a large part to the splendid enthusiasm and support of the parents. The money raised from the Byrd picture will now enable the Wadleigh Parent-Teacher Association to go ahead with its constructive programs for the year.

MOVING PICTURES AT MEN'S CLASS DINNER

Moving pictures taken in the Canadian Rockies and a male quartet will be entertainment features of the December dinner and social meeting of the Men's Class of Crawford Memorial Methodist Church on Friday evening, Dec. 19.

Scenes of wild life and nature in the region of towering peaks and great waterfalls amid the finest mountain scenery in America will be shown for an hour and a half. They will include Mt. Edith Cavell and Mt. Robson, whose altitude is nearly 13,000 feet, and Emperor Falls leaping over a precipice 142 feet to the river below. There is also a reel of winter sports and one of the exciting sport of fishing for mountain trout.

Mr. Lewellyn Hutchinson, manager of the male quartet has promised that the men will sing several selections. A. D. Nicholas, president of the class, will have general charge. The dinner will be in charge of Prof. Kenneth Reynolds.

SUCCESSFUL IN NAVAL ACADEMY EXAMINATIONS

Announcement was made last night that Kenneth West, a senior in the Winchester High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. West of Mason street, had won the highest rank in the recent competitive examinations held for the appointment to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, to be made by Congressman Frederick W. Dallinger. West's winning average was about 80 per cent, considered to be a very good rating. The young man has been one of the outstanding pupils in his class at high school and has been prominent in extra-curricular activities. He has been a member of the basketball team and captain of the track team as well as serving this year as president of the school Athletic Association. His fine showing in the Annapolis examinations reflects much credit, not only upon West himself, but upon his school, and the STAR offers its congratulations.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Begien announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara to Mr. Fred Cahimer of Fitchburg, formerly of this town. The wedding will take place in January.

RECEPTION TO MRS. WINNIFRED S. FAY

Mrs. Winnifred S. Fay, 36 Park avenue, was tendered a reception Tuesday evening, Dec. 9 by the Purity Rebekah Lodge, I. O. O. F. 94 at West Medford, on the 40th anniversary of the Lodge. The Lodge had as its invited guests, the president of the Rebekah Assembly, Mrs. Jennie Richardson, of Melrose and also her board of officers. Mrs. Fay, this year is a member of the board holding the office of Inside Guardian.

A bountiful chicken supper was served by the Lodge to about 190 guests and members at 6:30 p. m. A reception and open meeting was held in the Lodge rooms at 8 o'clock. There were about 40 visiting officers from other lodges in the receiving line. About 400 members and friends were gathered at the meeting in the evening and enjoyed a very fine entertainment furnished by talent in the Lodge and outside entertainers engaged for the occasion.

Mrs. Fay was very generously remembered by floral tributes and also with gold that came to her from her own home Lodge—the members of the President's Board and Junior Aid of the local Lodge. Many other gifts were received showing the love and esteem with which she is held by her friends in her own Lodge as well as members of the order throughout the state.

The full state board was present with their husbands and also Sister Edith Spooner, Junior Past President; Sister Alexina Bolby, Sister Bertha Gayton, Sister Florence Mayhew, Sister Frances Douglass, Sister Mae Gaynor, all past Presidents of Rebekah Assembly. The other Rebekah Lodges represented by their Noble and Vice Grands in the receiving line were: Margaret Winthrop Lodge, Winthrop, of which Mrs. Fay is the District Deputy President; Golden Rule Lodge, Melrose, the District Deputy President to Purity Lodge having been appointed from this Lodge; Truth Lodge, Medford, being the other Rebekah Lodge located in Medford; Mary Washington Lodge, Boston, of which Mrs. Fay is District Deputy Marshall.

Sister Helen Morton of Springfield, vice-president of the Ladies' Deputies Association, accompanied by Sister Edith Hart were also in the receiving line bringing to Mrs. Fay the greetings and best wishes of the members of the order in the western part of the state.

C. D. OF A. NOTES

Next Thursday evening in Lyceum Hall, the Court will conduct its annual turkey whist and bridge. The officers of the Court constitute the committee in charge and they are working harder than ever to make this year's Christmas charity work worth while.

V. R. Mary E. Martin is chairman of this year's charity committee and treasurer Elizabeth C. McDonald is treasurer.

Grand Regent Frances T. Conlon is chairman of the party and she announces that besides the first prize turkey and the turkey to be awarded, there will be over 50 other fine prizes.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

At the monthly meeting of the local Branch held last evening at the home of Regent Ambrose plans for local Christmas charity work were formulated. As in former years, "Guild Boxes" will be distributed by the Branch.

DO YOU WISH TO EXTEND CHRISTMAS CHEER?

Are you interested in making others happy at Christmas? Do you wish to extend the Christmas cheer beyond your own family and intimate friends this year? If so please communicate with Miss Nellie Sullivan, 18 Spruce Street, tel. Win. 0143-W, Chairman Winchester Board of Public Welfare, or Mrs. Harry C. Sanborn, 8 Black Horse Terrace, tel. Win. 0120, Treasurer of The Citizens' Community Relief Association. This will avoid all duplications of dinners or gifts.

WINCHESTER HOSPITAL

Christmas

The joy of Christmas will soon be found in generous measure at the Winchester Hospital.

Christmas greens, holiday fare, singing and good cheer, all combine to bring the spirit of Christmas to everyone within its walls.

The superintendent of the hospital will be glad to tell you how you can help her in her Christmas plans.

TOWN TEAM IN VICTORY BANQUET

Gold Watch for Coach Amico—Neil Kerrigan New Captain

The curtain was rung down on the Winchester Town Team's 1930 season last evening when the players with their coach and managers were tendered a victory banquet in Lyceum Hall. Members of the Board of Selectmen and their ladies were included in the 150 guests at the affair.

Seated at the head table with the members of the banquet committee, who included J. Albert Horn, James E. Farrell, Frank M. Collins and Gordo H. Horn, were Selectman and Mrs. Harry W. Stevens, Selectman and Mrs. Harris S. Richardson, Selectman and Mrs. Vincent P. Clarke, Selectman and Mrs. Irving L. Symmes, Selectman Walter H. Dotten, Miss Phoebe Dotten, Joseph B. Pendleton, dean of football officials in the East; Coach Wendell D. Mansfield of the high school eleven, and Coach Archangelo Amico, Captain Joseph Quigley and assistant manager Harry Chefalo of the town team.

J. Albert Horn acted as toastmaster and those who responded were Harry W. Stevens, chairman of the Board of Selectmen; Captain Quigley, Coach Mansfield, Coach Amico and Mr. Pendleton.

VIRGINIA WARREN IN SECOND BOSTON RECITAL

Virginia Warren, soprano of Winchester, for her second Boston recital, Wednesday evening in Jordan Hall sang the following program: Bach, Mon Ame croyante tressaille et chante (My Heart ever Faithful); Handel, Care Selve, Oh Had I Jubal's Lyre; Hugo Wolf Verborgenheit; Brahms, Meine Liebe ist Gruen, Feldeinsamkeit; Debussy, Voici que le printemps; Ravel, D'Anne jouant de l'espinette, D'Anne qui me jecta de la neige; Hue, L'Ane blanc; Deems Taylor, The Rivals; Winter Watts, Like Music on the Waters; Richard Hageman, Me Company Along.

The large and most appreciative audience included many of the singer's fellow townsmen and was graced by a number of personages of importance in civil and professional life in Greater Boston.

Miss Warren's voice is of very fine quality, and to this asset, so necessary to the concert singer, she adds a charm of manner which makes her performance doubly pleasing. Wednesday evening she sang with an elegance of style and a command of phrasing not so often found in the less experienced singer.

Miss Warren was perhaps most effective in her singing of the group of French songs by Debussy, Ravel and Hue, her delightful singing of Hue's "L'Ane Blanc" giving much pleasure. She also sang effectively the songs by Wolf and Brahms while her final group of American songs was particularly interesting because of the singer's success in avoiding the commonplace.

There could be no doubting the audience's pleasure and Miss Warren graciously added several extra numbers. Bernard Zighera, first harpist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra played Miss Warren's accompaniments with the same artistry which gave so much pleasure at the singer's first recital.

Miss Warren wore a long flowing gown of turquoise blue satin, and as at her first recital permitted no flowers upon the platform, though there were many back stage. Following the recital her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Warren of Everett avenue, gave a small dinner party for Miss Warren at the Copley Plaza.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Miss Lucille Skilling, teacher of Physical Education in the Winchester grade schools, is reported as quite ill at her home on Lloyd street.

The condition of Mr. Patrick J. Fleming of Bridge street, who is at the Haymarket Relief Hospital in Boston, is reported as much improved. Mr. Fleming was removed to the hospital early last Friday morning, suffering with a severe injury to his head, sustained while on his way to work. The Boston police believe he may have been black-jacked by some one with robbery as a motive. Mr. Fleming's condition was for some days critical.

Thomas H. Hiltz of 40 Berkley avenue, Lowell, reported to the police Tuesday that as he was driving his Pontiac coach north on Cambridge street shortly after 6 o'clock Tuesday evening, he stopped the car short and the machine was struck in the rear by a Chevrolet sedan, owned and operated by John H. Dyer of Fort Banks, Winthrop. Hiltz claimed that Mrs. Margaret C. Hiltz who was riding with him in the Pontiac was injured as a result of the collision.

Last Tuesday evening, Patrolman Edward W. O'Connell of the Police Department discovered an abandoned car on Main street near the Blanchard Mill. An investigation disclosed the fact that it had been stolen in Cambridge. The owner of the car was not aware that it was missing until he was notified by the police.

The Chief of Police has been notified by the Selectmen to stop all parking on the easterly side of Washington street from the Legion Headquarters to the Parkway during the day time. This ruling is being made to enable the trucks bringing building materials to the new library to get into the grounds of the building.

The Selectmen have also notified the police to put a stop to the speeding on Forest street. Lines are to be painted on this roadway at the curves.

DANIEL T. LEAHY

Daniel T. Leahy, a widely known Winchester young man, died early this morning at the Massachusetts Memorial Hospital, following an operation which he underwent two weeks ago today.

Mr. Leahy was 34 years of age, the son of Timothy and the late Delia (Madden) Leahy. He was born in Medford, but came with his parents to Winchester in 1900, and had since made his home here.

He attended the Winchester schools and during the World War served in the aviation branch of the United States Navy, being stationed at Pensacola, Fla. Since the war he has been associated with the automobile firm of John H. Bates, Inc. in Woburn. He enjoyed a wide circle of friends in both this town and Woburn, was a member of Woburn Lodge of Elks, Winchester Post, 97, American Legion; and of the Passionist Layman's Retreat.

Surviving are his father, three sisters, Miss Mary Leahy and Mrs. Charles F. Reardon, both of Winchester, Mrs. George Doherty of Medford; and a brother, Edward Leahy of Woburn.

The funeral will be held from Mrs. Doherty's home at 100 Damon road, Medford, Monday morning, Dec. 15, followed by solemn requiem high mass in St. Mary's Church at 9 o'clock. Interment will be in Oak Grove Cemetery, Medford.

FLORENCE CRITTENTON NOTES

The Winchester Circle of the Florence Crittenton League met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Howard J. Chidley on Myopia Hill.

Mrs. Harold F. Meyer, the president, presided. Prayer was offered by Rev. Benjamin P. Browne, pastor of the Baptist Church.

After an interesting business meeting, Mrs. Juliet Stacey Shaw, accompanied by Mrs. Faye Hoyt Lefavour, delighted her audience with the following group of songs:

"I Sent You A Song" — Sanderson
"La Vierge a la Creche" — Dell 'Acqua
"A Song of Gladness" — Oley Speaks
"Just For Today" — Densmore

Mrs. Meyer presented the speaker of the afternoon, Miss Helen Fowler, Superintendent of the Florence Crittenton Home in Boston. Miss Fowler spoke on the everyday happenings at the Home, telling of the methods of application, investigation, admission, the day's program, plans for placement and followup after discharge. Her talk was most interesting and instructive and all felt grateful to Miss Fowler for the clear and pleasing way in which she presented her subject.

Dr. Chidley, president of the Florence Crittenton League spoke briefly but forcefully, saying that the League had never functioned more efficiently or harmoniously and promised even greater efficiency when the new cottage is obtained at the Brighton Home.

TO HOLD EXAMINATION FOR FIRE DEPARTMENT

Chief David H. DeCourcey of the Fire Department announced yesterday that the date of the civil service examination for appointment to Fire Departments in Boston and the Metropolitan District has been set for Jan. 24. Applicants must file their papers at least ten days before the date of the examination. The weight limit for the Winchester Department has been reduced from 150 to 135 pounds to conform to general State regulations. Applicants must be not less than 5 feet 8 inches tall.

CHENINA—HARRIGAN

Miss Josephine Annie Harrigan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Charles Harrigan of Glenwood avenue and Charles Chenina, son of Mrs. Gerald Chenina of Fairmount street, Woburn, were married Sunday evening, Dec. 7 in St. Mary's Rectory by Rev. Fr. William J. Clarke. Miss Mary Harrigan was bridesmaid and the best man was Salvy Danna. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served at the home of the bridegroom.

$655,936 DISTRIBUTED BY ATLANTIC NATIONAL BANK CHRISTMAS CLUB

Winchester People Participate

There are some people who are not worrying about funds for Christmas shopping this year. The Atlantic National Bank of Boston recently turned over to its Christmas Club members nearly two-thirds of a million dollars—the amount accumulated by these Christmas Club depositors during the course of the year.

Many Winchester people benefited by the Atlantic National Bank's 1930 Christmas Club. It is hoped that many more will join the Atlantic's 1931 Christmas Club now forming. Membership deposit books range from 25 cents to $10 a week and yield sums ranging from $12 to $500, with interest next December. Incidentally, a Christmas Club account started now would make an ideal gift to a mother, wife or child next Christmas.

Some may wonder why people living in Winchester should choose the "Atlantic" for their Christmas Club accounts and other banking business. One reason is that banking with the Atlantic National is, in reality, very convenient. The office at 98 Canal Street is near the North Station and directly on the way in town, while the office at 144 Tremont Street, between Temple Place and West Street, is ideally situated for women who visit Boston's large downtown department stores. In either case, no time is lost and banking becomes merely a pleasant incident to a trip in town.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

The Fire Department was called at 11:15 last Friday morning to put out a fire in an Oldsmobile sedan, owned by Harry Clinton of 63 Washington street. The machine was only slightly damaged. The alarm was sounded from Box 33.

The police have received several complaints about drivers of automobiles who repeatedly drive their machines out of Lewis road across a field and through some trees over the sidewalk onto Wildwood street. The practice is dangerous, alike for pedestrians and vehicular traffic on Wildwood street, and drivers caught taking this cross cut can be prosecuted for driving their cars across a sidewalk.

It is not too early to think about Christmas cards, printed with your name. A fine line is awaiting your inspection at the Star Office.

CALUMET

CALUMET NOTES

The bowling party for the ladies last Tuesday brought out the largest gathering of the season, the alleys being thronged during the afternoon. Mrs. Vernon Hall was in charge of the party, and the prize winners were as follows:

High Single—Won by Mrs. French with 107

High Single with handicap—Won by Mrs. Little with 97 and 12, making 109

High Total—Won by Mrs. Cox with 188

High Total with handicap—Won by Mrs. Howe on a roll-off with Mrs. Pitman, both ladies making 198 for a score.

It is anticipated that the bowling party next Tuesday afternoon will be the best of the series in point of attendance, for many ladies are taking advantage of the sport and have signified their intention of participating.

This Friday evening, Dec. 12, the dinner bridge party will be held at the Club. Dinner will be served at 6:30. Mrs. Kingman P. Cass is in charge of the affair.

Calumet met its first defeat in the Mystic Valley League on Monday night when the Kernwood Club of Malden took 11 of the 15 points represented. Next Monday night Calumet will meet the Highland Club at the latter's club house. Members are urged to attend the matches and give the players their support by a good turnout. Cars leave Calumet at 7:30.

SANTA CLAUS AT CURTIN'S

Winchester youngsters and their parents will be glad to learn that Santa Claus is coming again this year to his headquarters in the Toy Department of Andrew J. F. Curtin & Sons' big store in Medford at 12-18 High street, convenient to the Winchester car stop.

Santa is planning to greet all his little friends from Winchester about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Dec. 13 and will be in his headquarters every afternoon from that time until Christmas.

For the benefit of their Winchester customers, Curtis is to be open evenings from Saturday, Dec. 13, until Christmas. A full line of toys and gifts to please every member of the family awaits your inspection. Holiday C. O. D.'s promptly delivered. Early shopping ensures the best selections.

The Winchester office of Walter Channing, Inc. reports the sale for Henry O. Lowell of Medford of the property at 18 Stowell road, consisting of a new Dutch Colonial house of seven rooms and two baths, two-car garage and 7500 square feet of land. The house was built to order for its purchaser, James M. Jones, formerly of Arlington, and is considered one of the most artistic Colonial reproductions in this section.

WINCHESTER SQUARE WEST, AT CHURCH STREET

EDWIN CARTER STARR

Edwin C. Starr, for over 30 years a resident of Winchester, died suddenly on Dec. 5 at his office on Medford street, Somerville, within a few weeks of the time when he had planned to retire from business.

Mr. Starr was born in Ashland, Ohio, 63 years ago. He was the son of Captain William and Martha Carter Starr, pioneers of Quaker and New England origin. Forty-five years ago he entered the packing industry in Chicago, later going to New York, returning to Chicago in 1896.

In 1898 he married Alice Wareing of Southport, England, who survives him with two children, Catherine Starr Phenix (Mrs. Paul Stetson) of Cambridge and Assistant Attorney General Donald C. Starr of Winchester. There are also surviving a sister and brother, Lois Starr Felger and William B. Starr, both of Ashland, Ohio.

For the last 31 years, when Mr. Starr came to Boston in the employ of the Swift interests, he has been regarded as one of the best known and best informed men in the Eastern packing industry. At the time of his death he was vice president and manager of the North Packing and Provision Company of East Cambridge; vice president and general manager of John P. Squire Co., East Cambridge; Sherry & Barnes Co., New Haven, Conn.; Springfield Provision Co., Springfield; and White, Pevey & Dexter Co., Worcester; and director of these five companies.

Mr. Starr was a member of the Church of the Epiphany, the Winchester Country Club, the Calumet Club, William Parkman Lodge, A. F. & A. M., and of the Boston Athletic Association.

Funeral services were held on Monday at 2:30 p. m. in the Church of the Epiphany, the Rev. Truman Hemenway officiating. The honorary pall bearers were Ingram D. Marshall of New Haven, Conn.; J. Alfred Dolben, Harry G. Davy and Elmer P. Randlett of Winchester; and Rufus L. Clark of Cambridge.

The active bearers were Daniel W. Creeden of Belmont, Charles A. Appel of Somerville, Calvin P. Cook of Arlington and William E. Harris of Newton, for many years close business associates of Mr. Starr; also John Hart Taylor, Ernest R. Eustis, George Davidson, H. Newell Squires, Jr. and Vincent P. Clarke, fellow townsmen and members of William Parkman Lodge. Interment was in the family lot in Wildwood Cemetery.

NEW HUDSON AND ESSEX CARS CREATE COMMENT

Favorable reception given the new Hudson and Essex models, introduced one week ago at the lowest prices in the history of the company, and the resultant sales to consumers and dealer orders have caused the production schedule to increase in excess of 2000 cars a week. This is the largest production schedule at the Hudson-Essex plant since June.

"The reception accorded our 1931 offerings exceeded our own optimistic hopes and those of our dealers," said William J. McAneeny, president and general manager, "and the actual sales do not represent the confidence of the crowds that attended the initial showings. From every section of the country we received telegrams to the effect that the public was in a better 'buying mood' than at any time in many months. These telegrams from our dealers were optimistic and confident of the future. All were agreed that the 1931 buyer is a type that was encountered in the years prior to the great wave of prosperity. Value, quality and economy on an investment basis is the spirit that is actuating the present day purchaser of an automobile.

"I am confident that conditions are improving and that returning confidence is becoming contagious enough to enthuse salesmen, create sales, get the money back into circulation and gradually increase employment," reported Hudson's executive.

RADIO ANTENNA HAZARD

To avoid unnecessary hazard to life and property the location of radio antennas with respect to electric wires should conform to fixed requirements. Persons unaware of the lurking dangers of personal injury and property damage, many times have placed antenna and guy wires in extremely unsafe positions.

As a part of its safety program the Edison Company defines certain limitations which have been developed as necessary safety measures.

The attachment of an antenna to poles carrying Edison wires on both accepted and unaccepted public streets is prohibited. Similar attachment to a pole on private property carrying Edison wires at a voltage exceeding 750 volts between conductors is also prohibited. Certain other attachments to poles on private property are allowed to remain if in the opinion of an inspector sufficient clearance exists between the low voltage wires and the point of attachment.

The same restrictions apply with regard to passing an antenna over and under Edison wires. A lead-in wire in proximity to Edison wires at a voltage less than 750 volts between conductors is allowed to remain if in the judgment of the inspector the clearance of the lead-in wire is sufficient. Clearance is considered when the lead-in wire is swung to assure proper separation under this condition.

Recommendations on passing wires, vertical and horizontal clearance, have been taken from the national electrical safety codes.

A resident of Washington street called Police Headquarters last Saturday to complain about several horses which were walking about her property. Patrolman Edward O'Connell, one of the local department's experienced cowboys, was sent to investigate and located the owner of the animals who rounded them up.

CAROL CONCERT

Lovers of quaint and lovely Christmas music will be interested in the Carol Concert to be given in John Hancock Hall, Boston, on Thursday evening, Dec. 18, at 8 o'clock.

Sponsoring this concert is the Mount Holyoke Club of Boston of which Miss Jane Louise Mesick, dean of Simmons College is president. At Mount Holyoke one of the most precious traditions is that of carol singing, through which the students for years have expressed the spirit of Christmas.

For more than a quarter of a century Dr. William Churchill Hammond, organist of rare ability, and explorer of the realm of quaint and exquisite music, has directed the musical destinies of the college. Professor Hammond has searched far and wide for new material and has been aided by his brother-in-law, Prof. Edward Bliss Reed of Yale University, who has a rare collection of unpublished carols drawn from many countries.

Thus has developed the Carol Choir of Mount Holyoke, an organization of more than 100 girls. Each year the Carol Concert is given in four cities, in addition to being given at the college. New York is always included, where the Town Hall is thronged for this annual event. Boston is fortunate this year in having its first evening concert.

An efficient committee from the Mount Holyoke Club is making the arrangements for the concert. The chairman is Mrs. Herbert A. Jump, of Newton, who has as advisors Mrs. Herman Dillingham of West Medford and Mrs. George Willard Smith of Newton Center, chairmen of former concert committees. Mrs. James Sidney Allen of Winchester is in charge of entertaining the girls overnight. Mrs. William J. Cunningham of Cambridge will supervise the decorations of the hall; Mrs. George L. Lincoln of Boston is interesting a list of patrons; Miss Avis Trowbridge of Newton is assembling a group of ushers; Mrs. Hanson Hart Webster of Newton Center has charge of publicity; Mrs. Frederick S. Hatch of this town is on her committee and will be glad to answer any inquiries. Miss Edith H. Weatherill of Arlington is assisting with the tickets.

THE CONIFEROUS TREES FOR WATERSHED ECONOMY

To the Editor of the Star:

Science has, and is proving that the evergreen trees are much more economical in taking water from the ground to sustain life than are the deciduous or hardwood trees.

All tree life, and in fact all vegetation, sustains life through the act of transpiration which corresponds to the action of breathing by the human family and animal kingdom.

The size of the leaf material of the hardwood trees is much more extensive than the foliage of the evergreen trees, hence the much greater consumption of water to sustain the life of the trees.

There are several advantages making the evergreen trees preferable to the hardwood trees upon a watershed. The evergreen trees grow with a greater rapidity than do the hardwood trees and make a more dense shade upon the ground the year through, thereby accomplishing two results: 1st, the shade in the warm weather prevents a large evaporation from the ground when the dead foliage or humas acts as a sponge-like cover on the ground. 2nd, the temperature under a growth of sizable evergreens is cooler than under the hardwoods, so men of experience state.

It has been proven upon our own watershed that one inch or more in depth of the evergreen cast-off foliage will prevent the frost from entering the ground and eventually will find its way into our reservoirs, for water is always seeking its own level.

Wherever the shade of the evergreens protects the ground from the sunlight, the snow and ice will remain several days longer for the sunlight cannot reach the ground and the warm air will do the melting of the snow and ice.

Under the hardwood growth there is not this protection for whenever the ground is frozen the water runs adlibitum and the water loss is great over the waste-ways of the reservoirs.

The State Department of Forestry, after 50 years of experience in commercial forestry life, states that it has evidence to prove that when a white pine tree is ten years old it has a commercial value of ten dollars per tree for the growing of lumber and after 30 years of growth there will be an increase of lumber at the rate of 1000 square feet broad measure, per acre per year; and upon 400 acres of water shed it means real money.

This statement is entirely a secondary consideration. We need water and must have it in the most economical way.

The one great object sought for is the conservation of the moisture that falls upon these watersheds. Our town is to be congratulated upon its good judgment in furnishing money to place this work of reforestation in an investment class of the first order.

During the last 12 years there have been 328,000 trees placed, known as four-year transplants, at an average cost of one cent per tree. The State, on this kind of work, furnishes them at the cost-price. The following are the kinds or names of the trees used: the white, red, Scotch and Austrian pine, white and Norway spruce, Arborvitae, Hemlock, Oregon fir, American fir balsam, and a few of the Japanese pines which look much like our red pines. At the ends of the north and south dams three Colorado blue spruces were set in a triangular form indicating the strength of our three original water commissioners, "always working together." This living, and growing memorial, as their limbs inter-lock, will be typical of the great and combined labor of our three first water commissioners, Messrs. D. N. Skillings, James F. Dwinell and Moses A. Herrick.

Dr. Frank E. Hale, chief engineer of the water supply of the City of New York, has caused much to be done on the great water sheds of the Catskill, Askokan, Kensico propositions as water sheds. He states: "The City of New York is awake to the importance of the practice of forestry and extensive tree planting on its water sheds is apparent. With a good portion of the barren acres owned in fee along the Catskill water supply system and in the Esopus and Schoharie watersheds already put to growing trees, and several thousand acres of standing forests improved, the city is in a fair way to a perpetual water supply."

The Metropolitan District Commission, through the efforts of Mr. George B. Wason, a great student of nature, has set out many thousands of coniferous trees upon their land adjacent to our great town property which will prove to be of a benefit as time goes on.

Is it not true that we are living in the most scientific age of the world, and the divine law states that "wisdom is the principal thing, therefore get wisdom, and with all thy getting, get understanding."

Charles E. Kendall,
Water Commissioner

HEART TO HEART TALKS

Faith is that which all good Winchester [illegible] in common. It is the [illegible] in the soul which amid all diversities of opinion [illegible] after the Almighty, bows in reverence, and bids [illegible] in trust. It is that which reveals a brother to pity and to save in every man that lives, and twice a brother in every good and pure and loving man. Faith lies back of all the [illegible], it [illegible] true worship of all churches, and [illegible] love's [illegible] through the [illegible] honest creeds.

There is but one faith; it is the soul of all goodness. Let good Winchester men and women regardless of creed pray for it and cherish it, and recognize it wherever it appears, however disfigured by errors of opinion; and with it put on charity and mutual tolerance and the liberal spirit and that crowning fact of the Christian life—a sense of the unity and brotherhood of Winchester church amity.

FOUR MOTOR ACCIDENTS OVER WEEK-END

Four minor automobile accidents were reported at Police Headquarters during the past week-end.

Shortly after midnight Sunday a Ford sedan, owned by Paul Garland of 682 Concord street, Belmont, and driven by F. W. Munroe of 61 Warwick road, Belmont, while headed west on the Parkway and in crossing Main street, was in collision with a LaSalle roadster, headed south on Main street, the property of Alice Counihan of 328 Harvard street, Cambridge, and driven by E. Victor Cutrer, Jr. of 17 Hillside avenue, Cambridge. Both machines were damaged but no one was injured.

The police were notified on Sunday that a dog, owned by a resident of Oak street, had been struck by an automobile, the driver of which had failed to stop after hitting the animal. The machine was registered to D. L. Aldoisio of 52 Heath street, Roxbury. The Roxbury police reported that the man no longer lived at that address.

A Stephens touring car, owned and driven by Harold McFeeley of 71 Nelson street, was in collision at 7:25 last Sunday evening at the junction of Washington and Mt. Vernon streets with a Lincoln sedan, driven by Edward Willis of 11 Natalie avenue, Melrose. Both cars were damaged, but no one was hurt.

The Police were notified Monday morning that a Ford sedan, in turning around on Harvard street, ran into and damaged a fence in front of the residence of Michele Pizzano at 90 Swanton street. The machine was owned and driven by Earl G. Willey of 24 Swanton street whom the police communicated with in an effort to straighten out the matter.

MALDEN MYSTIC THEATRE

"The Sea Bat," with Charles Bickford and Raquel Torres, and "College Lovers," with Marian Nixon as the star, will be the double feature program which opens at the Mystic Theater in Malden on Saturday. "The Sea Bat" is full of the action of the seas, both on its tropical shores, and above and below its waves. It is to be doubted if there have been any recent screen thrill to equal the fight under water between John Miljan and Nils Asther, and the fatal struggle of Asther against that strange menace, new to pictures, the sea bat, or giant two ton ray. Bickford plays the part of an escaped convict who assumes the garb of a minister as a disguise. "The Sea Bat" is a thriller in every sense of the word and the scenes showing sponge divers at work is something new on the screen.

In "College Lovers," Marian Nixon is supported by "Jack" Whiting, Guiann Williams and Phyllis Crane. The whole story of "College Lovers" sparkles with youth and collegiate pep.

"Way For a Sailor," starring John Gilbert, Wallace Beery and Leila Hyams, heads the program which concludes its run at the Mystic on Friday.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

The second in the series of winter dances conducted by the club will take place next Friday evening, Dec. 19 at the Calumet Club hall. The turn-out for the first dance was very fair, but at this coming one, we hope for even more couples.

The showing of the Boat Club members at our initial party, was most encouraging and now with the promised support of many Calumet members, a good, big dance is looked for. The price is ridiculously low and what could be more centrally located than the Calumet Club. Don't forget the dances are not limited just to Calumet or Boat Club members—they are open. Bring on your friends! That date is Friday, Dec. 19.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT NOTES

The School Committee make the following announcement concerning the Christmas vacation.

CHECK AND DOUBLE CHECK AT STRAND

A million letters from pens of followers from Portland to Phoenix, from Tampa to Tacoma, were responsible for the filming of Amos 'n' Andy's first talking picture, "Check and Double Check," which will be the feature attraction at the Strand Theatre for seven days starting Saturday, Dec. 13 with continuous showings on Saturday and Sunday. "Check and Double Check" is the result of the millions of demands from the general public for this world famous pair of blackface radio performers.

Something unique in film authorship and plot construction is found in "Check and Double Check" in that the authors have welded into one absorbing film treat two almost distinct stories: a drama and love story played by white characters, and a comedy played by Amos 'n' Andy and their familiar cohorts of the air.

"Three Faces East," the famous stage drama will be the second attraction at the Strand Theatre next week. Constance Bennett, who so recently made a tremendous hit in "Common Clay," plays the leading feminine role opposite Eric von Stroheim, the famous German actor of both silent and talking pictures. There is very little can be said of the story because of the fact that to do so would reveal the solution of one of the most tense and bewildering mysteries ever adapted for stage or screen.

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

"Laughter," starring Nancy Carroll and William Haines in his new picture "Remote Control" will be the selected double feature program which opens a seven day engagement at the big Granada Theater in Malden on Saturday. "Laughter" is a vehicle which gives full opportunity to Miss Carroll for a display of her emotional capabilities. Throughout the tense action of the play Miss Carroll sweeps along in a superb portrayal of an ex-Follies girl who, as the wife in a mismated marriage, tries to be loyal—and is, but who always seems to be victimized by the irony of circumstances. "Laughter" is one of the most popular of the season's screen offerings and admirers of Miss Carroll will be delighted with her portrayal.

A baffling crime plot mixed with riotous laugh situations is the unusual combination employed with great success by William Haines in "Remote Control." The picturization of the mystery stage thriller is the best Haines talker yet. Mr. Haines leading lady is Mary Doran, while other favorites to be seen are Polly Moran, Charles King and John Miljan.

"The Big Trail," the epic of pioneer days, with a cast of 20,000 headed by John Wayne and Marguerite Churchill, heads the program which ends its run at the Granada on Friday.

MUSIC GARDEN

Mrs. Leon Hughes of Winthrop street was hostess on Monday evening, Dec. 8 at the December meeting of the Music Garden. There was a goodly attendance of members and visitors to enjoy another of the delightful evenings for which the club is famous. Two associate members were added to the roster at this time.

At a short business meeting previous to the entertainment hour it was voted that our next meeting be scheduled for Monday, Jan. 5, 1931. Members will please note the change from the regular date.

The January meeting will be devoted to consideration of the music composed by Ethelbert Nevin. As Nevin was one of the most gifted and popular of American composers, we anticipate a most interesting program next month.

An "ad lib." program was presented at this week's gathering which featured the work of many of our soloists, who were heard at their best on this occasion. We feel that especial mention should be made of the selection rendered by Guido Talone. This young man is rapidly becoming a master of his chosen instrument, the trumpet. His musical future is most promising.

The program of Dec. 8 follows:

Long Wait for Results

Scientific patience is to be illustrated again by an experiment begun by the Swiss glacier commission, in an attempt to determine the speed of glaciers. A steel cylinder has been placed in the ice at the head of a number of Swiss glaciers. Each cylinder contains an explanation of the experiment, written on special paper with special ink. It is not expected that the results will be known for eight generations to come, or about 250 years.

God and Life

I think God is equally concerned with man and all the animals to whom He has given life, but that, perhaps, he has a special leaning toward dogs.—Dumas.

Wise Sanitary Regulations

The Egyptians filtered the water of the Nile, and the Chinese in remote ages clarified their water supply. Joseph's well, near Gizeh, driven through 300 feet of solid rock, is a model for obtaining purity. The Roman aqueducts, tapping mountain streams for a city population, are later examples. Ventilation was another Roman hobby. The soundness of Moses' health regulations, adopted into the moral code, is confirmed by present-day theories.

EMERGENCY UNEMPLOYMENT COMMITTEE FORMED

The Winchester Emergency Committee on Unemployment, working in conjunction with the Massachusetts Emergency Committee on Unemployment earnestly urges the unemployed to call on any of the under-signed and register.

Governor Allen's Committee is bending every effort to help relieve the present situation, and an accurate number of Winchester's unemployed is greatly desired:

walked through the corridor of a Washington Hotel apparently lost in deep thought. Many remember the saying of witty Thomas D. Reed who was seated in a group near by and knew the man. "He thinks, he is thinking."

How valuable are thoughts which do not develop into action?

SCHOOLS AND MOVIES

It is rumored—and the scheme seems fairly reasonable at this festive season, that the Town is to be privileged to vote again during the holidays upon the burning question of a new Junior High School and Movies. The two questions appear to go hand-in-foot, so information that we are to be privileged to vote upon one, naturally carries with it the verification that we are to vote upon the other. Like little drops of water and little grains of sand, our movies work with us always, willy nilly. Likewise this charitable season may be well picked for another try for the new school. It is too bad we cannot vote upon the proposed school building without the inclusion of the movies. While no one would imagine that these two factors in municipal affairs are bound up in each other, it looks very much as though someone cannot save his face without biting off his nose. Sooner or later some bright voter is going to offer a motion for a school house combining movies, or a movie combining a school, and the Town will vote it—and then where will poor robin be, poor thing! Meanwhile the stage is being set, so we hear, for the evening of Monday, Jan. 5, 1931, at which time we shall have the opportunity of starting the new year right by voting for a new school building and again killing the movies and at least separating these educational problems one from the other.

It hardly seems possible that we should, at this time, consider entering the Metropolitan Water System. We have always been taught that our water supply was abundant and adequate. Whether or not a recommendation will be made to enter the Metropolitan system is not known. It has been mentioned, much to the surprise of many. Should the present drought, which we read has been the severest in the history of the New England states, and which began in 1929, continue, we may be obliged to seek additional water. But if this drought is universal hereabouts it should not have any greater effect upon Winchester than any other place which has always had plenty of water. Then too, we have always been told that our valley is capable at any time of yielding water in great quantity should we care to use it. Doubtless the matter will receive careful consideration by our citizens should we be urged to enter the Metropolitan system as has been reported.

TOWN TEAM IN VICTORY BANQUET

Coach Mansfield paid a fine tribute to the members of the town team, most of whom had played under him at high school. He stated that they in the truest sense of the word were playing football for the real love of the game, and expressed the hope that the town team might grow into a boys' club to give the youth of the town something with which to occupy its spare time.

Mr. Pendleton alternating his remarks with amusing stories and reminiscenses of his 32 years of officiating which includes the refereeing of the Harvard Dartmouth game which dedicated the Stadium. Toastmaster Horn then spotted Horace Ford, star second baseman of the Cincinnati Reds, at one of the tables and called upon him for a few words. Horace responded graciously, congratulating the town team for its great success under the most trying conditions.

Following the banquet the members of the team with assistant manager Chefalo were presented with gold footballs by Chairman Stevens of the Selectmen. Captain Quigley then sprung a real surprise when he presented Coach Amico with a handsome white gold watch and chain, the gift of the squad. Chairman Horn of the banquet committee was given a fine cigarette case, the gift of the team, for his interest and assistance during the season. After the presentations the team retired to a dressing room and elected Neil Kerrigan, star guard captain for next season. Dancing to the strains of "Tommy" Gigliotti's orchestra concluded the evening.

The Town Team, under the splendid coaching of "Archa" Amico, has hung up a really fine record in the independent ranks this past season, losing only one game in nine starts. On this occasion the local boys went out of their class, and lost a 13—0 engagement to the strong Dedham Town Team. Dedham was the only team good enough to score on Winchester, though Coach Amico's boys took on some elevens which stood well in the independent and semi-pro ranks.

The outstanding factor in the Town Team's success was the splendid condition in which the boys kept themselves by their night practice sessions. The club was well equipped with plays and handled themselves well, being especialy strong defensively. Many of the boys played football under Coach Wendell Mansfield at Winchester High and the Town Team showed the same clean brand of play which has been characteristic of local high school evens under his direction. The town, as well as the members of the Town Team, has reason to be proud of the boy's record, which follows in full:

Winchester	6	Somerville Cubs	0
Winchester	10	Forest Hills	0
Winchester	6	Bedford A. C.	0

Mrs. Arthur W. Pitman of Yale street suffered the loss of her mother, Mrs. Ludmilla Kaula, who passed away last week Monday in Somerville.

The police have received complaints of boys breaking into Association Hall on Vine street and doing considerable damage there.

Mrs. Alonzo F. Woodside gave a most interesting address last Sunday evening in Meyer Chapel at the Unitarian Church to the members of the Metcalf Union and their guests. Mrs. Woodside spoke upon "Christmas in Norway," and was able to treat her subject intimately, having travelled and lived abroad and being especially interested in the Scandinavian people.

Miss Lavinia J. Carlisle was a member of the dance committee at the formal Saturday evening given by the class of 1924 at Jackson, women's department at Tufts College Saturday. Miss Elizabeth Berry led in the singing of Christmas songs at the college Tuesday when the Romance Club entertained at a Christmas tea.

Dr. Charles H. Tozier of this town is to take his winter sports party this year to the Manoir Richelieu, Murray Bay, Quebec, for their merry making over the New Year's holidays. This is a radical departure from the parties of former years which have been spent in Quebec and Ottawa, since the Manoir Richelieu is in the country. The Tozier party, which generally numbers about 250, is leaving Boston on Dec. 31, arriving at Murray Bay early on the afternoon of New Year's Day. The party is looked to spend about a week up North.

All sorts of rumors were in the air yesterday about the results of the recent examination for the position of Sergeant on the Police Department. No official information on the matter could be secured, however.

Deputy Chief John J. Gorman of the Fire Department has been busy this week inspecting the cellars of the business houses in the square for possible fire hazard.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of Theodore Stevens late of Winchester in said County, deceased.

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for probate, by Anne Stevens who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her, the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, on the fifth day of January A. D. 1931 at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in The Winchester Star a newspaper published in Winchester the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing post-paid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, JOHN C. LEGGAT, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this ninth day of December in the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The next meeting of the Fortnightly will take place on next Monday, Dec. 15, instead of on the Fourth Monday of the month as is usual, on account of the nearness of the Christmas holidays. Our program is one of great interest to all those who are attracted by the scenes of the seafaring days of our country. Chester Scott Howland, himself the son of an old New Bedford Whaling Captain, will lecture on "The Voyages of the Early Whalemen." To accompany his lecture he will show motion pictures of ports, types of active whaling scenes and hand colored stereopticon slides displaying the beauty of ships and the sea.

The Glee Club is going to sing for us the Fortnightly's own song of which both the words and music were written by Mrs. Amy Bridgman, a member of the club.

The regular meeting of the Fortnightly was held in the Town Hall on Monday, Dec. 8, with the President, Mrs. Caroline E. Hayden, in the chair. Mrs. Anna C. Grosvenor kindly served as Recording Secretary pro tempore in the absence of Mrs. Beatrice M. Dabney, who was ill. In order to allow as much time as possible for the program, the meeting came early to the Flag were omitted and all formal business postponed until the next meeting. Mrs. Hayden introduced Mrs. Lillian A. R. Whitman, Chairman of the Dramatic Committee and coach of the play for the afternoon. Mrs. Whitman explained that "French Doors," a play in three acts, was written by Mrs. Carolyn D. Gilpatric, one of our talented members, who had greatly assisted in casting and coaching the play. The stage was then cleared for the drama.

Paul Morrison, an attractive young minister, is trying hard to finish his sermon for Sunday but is constantly interrupted by one thing or another, including an unexpected encounter with an old college chum whose family has settled nearby. The final interruption is the entrance through the french doors of the study of a highly excited young girl, who implores his protection. Unable to discover the peril she is in, or even her identity, Paul is finally forced to consider her a victim of amnesia, and as the girl faints in his arms he turns her over to the care of his housekeeper for the night. The following day the girl's presence in his home puts fair to start a scandal, and when "Slack" Coburn, his college chum and visitor of the night before, comes to him with the news of his sister's disappearance, Paul is horrified to discover that the girl he had befriended is "Slack's" sister. Realizing that he has been tracked by the girl in a spirit of mad adventure, he is deeply resentful, and when Mr. and Mrs. Coburn appear and demand reparation for the injury to Lola's reputation, his resentment is completed. Forced to offer Linda the protection of his name, and to see the announcement of the engagement immediately broadcast throughout the parish, Paul is still more disturbed by Linda's disappearance. He leaves desperately to evade the curiosity of his parishioners and quiet his own fears for the headstrong but lovable girl when she suddenly reappears with her brother "Slack," who is intent upon seeing that justice is done Lola's friend. In reply to this, Paul asks that the engagement be allowed to stand and his attitude toward Linda make "Slack" confident that she is safe between his sister and his friend, will eventually have a happy ending. The time is the present day, the scene Paul in Westmere, a New England town. The characters were played as follows:

The parts were all well taken and it was easy to lose one's self in the play so well did they live their impersonations. Seldom will an audience see an amateur production with a better chosen cast of characters. Two long hours of work on the part of the cast, the coach, the author, and the committee were well repaid in the perfection of the program.

On last Thursday, Dec. 4, Mrs. Valerie T. O'Connor and her committee on Co-operation with War Veterans held open house at Fortnightly Hall. Tea provided a most delightful entertainment of song, dance and story for their friends and supporters and consisted of the afternoon with tea. The artists of the afternoon were Mrs. Mollie Maguire, the Goodhue sisters, and Mrs. Frances Conlon. Many were the gifts of money and provisions for their good work, and if there should be any whose good intentions were a bit too late, Mrs. O'Connor can be reached by telephone at Winchester 0629-J.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

Winchester's best minds run in deep channels.

Economy is a word every new bride here in Winchester ought to get thoroughly familiar with.

We know a young woman right here in dear old Winchester whose dress is so short that she cannot sit down with out first looking to see who is looking.

When a Winchesterite is in love the skies seem bluer.

The birds sing sweeter, friends are truer, The clouds and rain may veil the sun, A Winchesterite dwells in sunlight of his own When he is in love.

All of us have known politicians who promised everything and did it then. We've even had 'em in Winchester.

A Winchesterite without any humor in his system is like a rare beefsteak without salt and pepper.

The expression "leading a dog's life" is often wrong. We know some Winchester dogs that lead a whale of an easy life.

It's not easy to get hard cider—even in Winchester.

OUR CUSTOMERS ARE OUR FRIENDS

Many of those who drive into the TYDOL STATION we have served during our entire 12 years in Winchester.

We believe their continued patronage is a reflection of our earnest endeavor to serve them to the best of our ability.

We have faith in our products. TYDOL GASOLINE and VEEDOL MOTOR OILS have been the choice of Byrd, Eckner, Yancey and Williams, and others who have staked their lives against TYDOL dependability.

The experienced driver appreciates our efforts to give his car what it needs for efficient operation. His wife or daughter can also drive into the TYDOL STATION with perfect confidence that when she leaves, her car will be as ready for the road as we can make it.

To our Friends and Patrons we extend the

FOOTBALL TEAM WON MAJORITY OF GAMES

With the disasterous game at Woburn on the holiday, the Winchester High School football team concluded its 1930 schedule with a record of 7 wins, 2 defeats and one tie game. The boys won 2, lost 2 and tied one in the Mystic Valley League race which was won by Melrose. The second team won 2 and lost one game, and the third team lost a single battle while winning three.

While the loss of the Woburn game and the 20—0 licking which the locals received from the championship Melrose team might lead the casual observer to declare the season a dismal failure, the close followers of football will have to conclude that the local boys on the whole did very well.

Winchester was not well off for material this fall, especially on the rushline, where only three letter boys were available to start the season. Coach Mansfield's chief problem was replacements for his linemen who were forced to play through almost the entire schedule without relief. The lack of competition for varsity jobs caused a gradual let-down which became pronounced after the Melrose game and proved disasterous when the locals met a fighting Woburn eleven on Turkey Day.

Capt. "Don" Emery was Winchester's bright star throughout the season and takes his place with the fine players developed at high school in recent years. Others who were outstanding during the season were Wilmer and "Dan" Smith, Bruce Colpas, "Bob" Lee, Oscar Lundblad and "Hal" Knowlton. The complete list of letter men follows with the season's record.

FIRST TEAM Donald Emery, Captain; Ralph Ambrose, Bruce Colpas, Carmino DeMinico, Andrew Drapella, Edward Hitchborn, William Flaherty, Captain-elect; William Hickey, "Hal" Knowlton, Robert Lee, Oscar Lundblad, Frank Procopio, Daniel Smith, Wilmer Smith, Pasqual Tofuri, Clifford O'Brien, Manager.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS HAD GOOD YEAR IN HOCKEY

While Winchester High School girls field hockey team failed to win the Interscholastic championship this fall, the local eleven, nevertheless had a good season, finishing in the runner-up position to Arlington, the circuit winner.

Coach Centervall lost several good players by graduation and was faced with a rebuilding problem which made the season's prospects none to bright during early fall.

Winchester, however, started like a real champion, winning its first six games, and giving promise of becoming one of the best teams the high school has produced.

A mid-season slump arrived with the Brookline game, and the local girls never did get back into their early season stride thereafter. Scoreless ties with Melrose and Winthrop proved that Winchester had lost much of its punch and in their playoff with Melrose for the Northern Division championship, the local girls were defeated. The ineligibility of a Melrose player, however, gave Winchester the right to play Arlington for the title, and though Coach Centervall's girls had beaten the Spy Ponders in early season, they failed to come through in their final game, losing, 1—0.

Janet Nichols with 13 goals was Winchester's high scorer and was selected to play on the mythical All-Boston public school eleven. The fact that the next highest Winchester scorer shot but 2 goals during the season, gives some idea of Janet's value to her team.

Her sister, Carolyn, as captain, was Winchester's best all around player and others who were outstanding were Mabel Tompkins and Loretta Carleton. The complete list of the letter players follows with the season's record:

FIRST TEAM—Carolyn Nichols, Captain; Loretta Carleton, Lucy Fowle, Harriet Keepers, Marjorie Kendrick, Jean King, Madeline Little, Janet Nichols, Margery Poland, Barbara Shaw, Captain-elect, Jean Thompson, Mabel Tompkins, Winifred Williams, Irene Moulton, Manager.

SECOND TEAM Carolyn Abbott, Katherine Boutwell, Priscilla Chamberlin, Grace Dunne, Edna Hanlon, Isabel Healey, Roberta Healey, Mary Hession, Katherine MacDonald, Barbara Raymond, Louise Rollins, Agatha Shinnick.

SALVATION ARMY DRIVE

On behalf of the local Salvation Army drive committee and its officers including Lieut-Col. Paul B. Moulton, chairman and Charles E. Barrett, treasurer and campaign organizer Leland H. Cady of Winchester, we deem it a pleasure to thank you all for your financial support in our effort to alleviate suffering among the less fortunate of our city, thus enabling us to prosecute our evangelistic work among the churchless masses.

Our work does not stop with Thanksgiving and Christmas for the poor, but goes right on through the year, supplying fuel, food, clothing, rent, medicine, outings, and best of all, that spiritual urge, which restores hope, ambition and the desire to work out one's own salvation without which material relief is but temporary value.

The fact that we have your moral support, has been a great help to us, proving that faith in human nature and the fellowship of man is still an active factor.

We want you to know your interest in the local Salvation Army appeal in Winchester for $2000 made manifest during this appeal for funds, is deeply appreciated.

"It is a great comfort and an inspiration to know that great as are the forces of evil, there is a power for good like the Salvation Army."

We certainly do appreciate your desire to help in an unselfish work among the unfortunate of society, and your contribution will help keep this "power for good," going in this city.

Anyone else desiring to give, send it to Mr. Charles E. Barrett, Winchester Trust Company, please. Two solicitors namely, bandsmen Allston R. Hudson, and Lealand H. Cady, have proper credentials signed by the local chairman, Lieut-Col. Paul B. Moulton, and are in full Salvation Army uniform, are doing a thorough house to house canvass.

Respectfully yours,
Advisory Board Committee,
Lieut.-Col. Paul B. Moulton, Chairman
Charles E. Barrett, Treasurer
Lealand H. Cady, Campaign Organizer

WINCHESTER POST HELD FIRST WRESTLING SHOW

With a delegation of wounded veterans from the Bedford Hospital as guests, Winchester Post, 97, A. L. held its first wrestling show of the indoor season in the Town Hall last Friday evening. Members of the Board of Selectmen occupied seats on the stage with the Chiefs of the Police and Fire Departments and representatives of the press. A crowd of about 800 attended the show which included both amateur and professional bouts.

In the first of the "pure" bouts, Harold Anderson of Winchester lost a nine minute decision to John Kerrenon of Norwood, the latter being too experienced a grappler for the courageous little local entrant. Karl Johnson of Wakefield took the second bout from Alfred DeKamp of New Sweden, Me., in 4 minutes, when DeKamp sustained a badly cut ear and could not continue. In the last amateur bout Louis Callahan of Somerville defeated "Joe" Smith of Quincey on decision after 9 minutes of grappling.

Stuart Spears of Albany, N. Y. and Frank Moran of Philadelphia staged a rugged, slam-bang battle in the first of the money bouts, the latter winning in 26 minutes with an inside crotch, half-nelson, body lift and slam. The men went to it in real earnest and twice the heavier Moran hurled Spears bodily from the ring. Once the men wrestled through the ropes to the floor and continued to mix it until pried apart by ushers and police. The crowd cheered Spears as he left the ring and heartily booed Moran.

Santos "Sailor" Arnold of Cleveland and "Nick" Scotus of Boston met in the second "pro" bout and wrestled to a 45 minute draw. This was the best bout of the night, the all around cleverness of Scotus offsetting a considerable weight advantage which Arnold possessed. The barefooted "Nick" was at once dubbed "Eagle-beak" by the crowd who rooted for him during most of the bout. The burly "Sailor" however, carried too much weight for his clever adversary and seemed seldom in any danger of being thrown. Both men got a great hand as they left the ring.

The final bout brought together the spectacular Count Zarynoff of Russia, at the top of the challengers for the title which the potent head of "Gus" Sonnenberg has held safely for the past two years, and "Jack" Albright of Chicago, known as the man of a thousand holds.

If Albright had a thousand holds, he had little chance to demonstrate them on the bounding, squirming Count, who was always on top of his heavier opponent. Albright appeared a bit fat, and was much too slow on his feet to cope with the speedy Zarynoff. Albright was game and the aggressor, keeping everlastingly after the Count. He tried several flying head-butts which Zarynoff easily avoided by sidestepping or by leaping completely over the lunging heavyweight from Chicago.

After 29 minutes of grappling Albright worked out of a double nelson and threw the Count with a flying mare. The Russian bounded up and with lightning speed rushed "Jack" to the ropes where he clamped on a flying head scissors and twist lock to gain the fall four seconds after the even minute had been tolled off.

The amateur bouts were handled by Gus Hakanson of Winchester, and the referee for the "pro" matches was Ralph Dixon of Woburn. The latter took a neat spill in the Scotus-Arnold bout when the big sailor "took him out" unintentionally while going after his opponent. Conrad Larson, Harry Bennett and Post Commander W. Allan Wilde were the legionnaires in charge of the show.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

On Dec. 19, at 2:30 the monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held at the home of Mrs. George Hamilton 1 Wedge Pond road. As this is the Christmas season, members and friends are asked to bring or send contributions for the Flower Mission and relief box, which will be sent to Boston, Dec. 20. Please bring contributions to 1 Wedge Pond road or send to the home of the director, Mrs. Harry Kempton, 40 Forest street.

At the recent national W. C. T. U. convention held in Houston Texas, Mrs. Ella A. Boole gave as the slogan for this year, "Observance and enforcement—not repeal." In her annual address she said, "Alcohol is a narcotic poison which, taken in small quantities, has the power to create the appetite for more alcohol. There [illegible] the [illegible] circumstances [illegible] fourth of his wages for drink [illegible] will be that [illegible] for the necessities and comforts of home. If he spends a larger share of his wages, the purchasing power of that home is correspondingly decreased. Multiply the [illegible] who thus spend [illegible] of business. There is no need of a [illegible] that [illegible] now than in the days of the open saloon. Refresh [illegible] with conditions in pre-prohibition days—an open bar in every hotel, a saloon on every corner, every paper advertising liquors of various kinds, billboards, extolling the virtues of particular brands, the saloon-keeper having first chance at the payroll of the wage-earners; then ask yourself the question, Would any other business, if it could not advertise, if it must transport its supplies by stealth and at night, if it must be carried on in back rooms, in cellars, and in constant danger of apprehension of Federal and State authorities, prosper under such conditions?"

Mr. W. L. Cummings of Winchester was a member of General Clarence R. Edwards' hunting party which recently returned from a few days' stay at The Duxbury Beach Gun Club with a goodly assortment of ducks and geese.

FALL SPORTS TEAMS AT HIGH SCHOOL DINED

Carolyn Nichols and Wilmer Smith Awarded Sportsmanship Cups

The annual Fall Sports' banquet, held in honor of the Winchester High School football, field hockey and cross country teams, took place last Saturday evening in the school gymnasium which was decorated in Red and Black, the high school colors.

One hundred and two members of the three fall teams with their coaches, faculty and school committee members and guests sat down to an appetizing dinner, prepared and served under the directors of Miss Gladys Niven of the Household Arts Department of the school. High school girls served as waitresses.

Raymond V. Hayward of the high school faculty served as toastmaster and those who responded to toasts were Chairman Edward B. Tucker of the School Committee, Superintendent of Schools James J. Quinn, Principal Wade L. Grindle, Coach Wendell D. Mansfield and Assistant Coach Dana J. Kelley of football, Coach Margareta Centervall of field hockey, Coach Meldon L. Wonner of cross country, Capt. Carolyn Nichols of field hockey, Capt. "Don" Emery of football, Capt. George McCormack of cross country, Manager Irene Moulton of field hockey, Manager Clifford O'Brien of football and Manager Winthrop Andrews of cross country.

The managers, as is the custom, announced the names of new captains in their respective sports as follows: field hockey, Barbara Shaw; football, Joseph Flaherty; second team football, Franklin Gurney; and cross country, Francis Corby. All were loudly cheered, and spoke briefly of their hopes for next year.

Capt. "Don" Emery presented his team's gift to Coach Mansfield, a handsome silver loving cup, and also a fine belt and buckle to assistant Coach Kelley. Capt. Carolyn Nichols presented Coach Centervall with a traveling clock, the gift of the field hockey players; and the cross country team's gift to Coach Wonner, a pen and pencil set, was presented by Captain McCormack.

Principal Grindle, in closing his remarks, presented the coveted Wheeler and Mansfield Sportsmanship Cups to Carolyn Nichols and Wilmer Smith, and the selections were very popular.

The speaker of the evening was Prof. Clarence P. Houston of the Department of Physical Education at Tufts who is also graduate treasurer of athletics at the Medford College. Professor Houston, an old Tufts football star, proved an able and very interesting speaker. His address being much enjoyed. An impromptu speaker at the banquet was Henry T. "Hennie" Knowlton, outstanding star of the Springfield College eleven and one of Winchester's greatest football stars. "Hennie" paid high tribute to his former Coach Mansfield, and others during the evening praised the latter's influence for the best in athletics at Winchester High. Coaches Centervall and Wonner also came in for hearty commendation upon their success with their field hockey and cross country teams.

After the banquet, dancing was enjoyed with Carol Abbott at the piano. Miss Margareta Centervall was faculty director of the entire affair.

MISS ELIZABETH STEVENS

Miss Elizabeth Stevens of 20 Winthrop street, died at the Winchester Hospital on Dec. 4 after a short illness. She was born in Brentwood, N. H., the daughter of John Sherburne and M. Anne (Kimball) Stevens, and for many years held an important clerical position with the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company in Boston, for the last three years she has lived in Winchester with her three sisters who survive her as does a sister in Brentwood. Love of the out-of-doors was an outstanding feature of her life. She was corresponding secretary of the Brookline Bird Club and was prominent in the activities of the club. She was devoted in her family relations, a good companion and a loyal friend.

The services at her late home on Sunday afternoon was conducted by Rev. H. T. Secrist, of Melrose. Mr. Secrist was formerly pastor of All Souls Church in Roxbury, of which Miss Stevens was a member.

CHILD STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE ON HIGHLAND AVENUE

Little Ruth Dodge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dodge of Grayson road, had a narrow escape from serious injury last Friday afternoon when she was struck by an automobile driven by Fred Coakley of 26 Aberdeen street, Cambridge.

The accident occurred on Highland avenue near the George Washington School. Mr. Coakley took the little girl to the Winchester Hospital where she was treated by Dr. Roger M. Burgoyne for bruises about the head. She was not found to be seriously injured and was later taken home.

PAID OUT $56,070 IN CHRISTMAS CLUBS

According to unofficial figures the Winchester Trust Company, National Bank and Savings Bank, have issued Christmas Club checks totaling $56,000 in round numbers. The checks were divided as follows: Savings Bank, $14,000; National Bank, $42,000 and Trust Company $10,000.

Mrs. Virginia L. Wilkinson of Winchester is one of the party of New Englanders who are members of the Canadian Pacific's annual cruise around the world. The party is aboard the S.S. Empress of Australia which is heading for Madeira en route for 137 cruising days during which it will visit 31 ports and places in 21 countries. Passengers will spend Christmas in the Holy Land and New Year's Eve in Cairo.

EVERYMAN'S CLASS BOWLING UNDER WAY

The bowling league of the Everyman's Class of the First Baptist Church got under way Monday evening at the Winchester Alleys with Team 1 taking a fall out of Team 2, and Team 4 winning the decision from Team 3.

Blaikie, of Worcester, in the County of Worcester and said Commonwealth; and to all whom it may concern:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court by Rachel S. Woodard, of Arlington, in said County of Middlesex, to register and confirm her title in the following described land:

A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon, situate in said Winchester, bounded and described as follows:

Easterly by Yale Street, 75.00 feet; Southerly by land now or formerly of Isaac E. Sexton et al, 139.00 feet; Westerly by land now or formerly of Marion H. Young, 75.00 feet; and Northerly by land now or formerly of Roger Billings et al, 139.00 feet.

Petitioner admits that the above described land is subject to certain restrictions and agreements as set forth in a deed from Herbert Nash et al to Eliza A. Martin, dated May 27, 1909, duly recorded Book 3415, Page 10.

The above described land is shown on a plan filed with said petition and all boundary lines are claimed to be located on the ground as shown on said plan.

If you desire to make any objection or defense to said petition you or your attorney must file a written appearance and an answer under oath, setting forth clearly and specifically your objections or defense to each part of said petition, in the office of the Recorder of said Court in Boston (at the Court House), on or before the twenty-second day of December next.

Unless an appearance is so filed by or for you, your default will be recorded, the said petition will be taken as confessed and you will be forever barred from contesting said petition or any decree entered thereon.

Witness, CHARLES THORNTON DAVIS, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this twenty-first day of November in the year nineteen hundred and thirty.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue and in execution of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage given by Max Gotz to Agnes E. Martin, dated December 12, 1927, and recorded in Middlesex South Registry District, and being Document No. [illegible], and noted on Certificate of Title No. 25,518, in Registration Book 171, at Page 381, of which mortgage the undersigned is the assignee and present holder by an assignment dated July 17, 1928, and being Document No. 92,[illegible]6, and noted on Certificate of Title No. 25,518, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same will be sold at public auction at 9:30 o'clock A. M. on the twenty-seventh day of December, 1930, on the premises below described all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage, said premises being therein described substantially as follows:

The land situated in Winchester, Middlesex County, Massachusetts, being bounded and described as follows:

Easterly by Main Street, one hundred fifty-two and 97/100 (152.97) feet, Northerly by Lot A as shown on a plan hereinafter referred to, seventy-five and 14/100 (75.14) feet, Easterly again by said Lot A, as shown on said plan, ninety (90) feet, Northerly again, by Water Street, one hundred nine and 27/100 (109.27) feet, Westerly by land now or formerly of John F. Cassidy, one hundred twenty and 73/100 (120.73) feet, and by land now or formerly of John Swymer, one hundred twenty (120) feet, Southerly by Richardson Street, two hundred four and 70/100 (204.70) feet; containing forty thousand, four hundred (40,400) square feet of land more or less, and being Lots B, C, D, E, F and G, as shown on a plan of "Subdivision of Lots, Winchester, Mass., March 30, 1926", drawn by Parker Holbrook, Engineer, and filed in the Land Registration Office, a copy of which is filed in the South Registry District of Middlesex County, and referred to as Plan No. 11,060 B.

Being the same premises conveyed to me by deed of even date of Agnes E. Martin, to be recorded in the South Registry District of Middlesex County.

The above described premises are conveyed subject to a building line on said Water Street, established by the Town of Winchester, shown as Document No. 66,203 on Certificate of Title numbered 20,681, and also subject to taxes assessed by the Town of Winchester for the year 1927. Said premises are also conveyed subject to the restriction that no stores shall be erected on said premises for a period of ten (10) years from August 20, 1927. This restriction, however, shall not apply to a garage, automobile salesroom, service or filling station.

There is excepted and excluded from the above-described parcel the following lots of land, which have heretofore been released from said mortgage, namely lots D, E and F, by partial releases duly recorded in said Middlesex South Registry District, and noted on Certificate of Title No. 25,518, in Registration Book 171 at page 381.

Said premises will be sold subject to any and all unpaid taxes, tax titles and municipal liens or assessments, if any there be.

Terms of sale, $200.00 will be required to be paid by the purchaser at the time and place of sale, and the balance in cash within ten days thereafter upon the delivery of the deed.

Important Michigan Lake

Higgins lake is one of the largest and deepest of our inland lakes. According to "Inland Lakes of Michigan" its greatest depth is about 125 feet; the lake is seven miles long and has an area of 15½ square miles. It was named for Sylvester W. Higgins, topographer with Dr. Douglass Houghton on the first survey of Michigan, about 1838 and following years.

Bit of Old Germany

Few cities with the trend of modern progress driving them so hard can have preserved so completely the ancient streets and buildings of their old beginnings as has Frankfurt in Germany. Frankfurt has kept almost intact the Fourteenth century houses, guild-houses, chapels and cloisters much as they were built.

UNIVERSITY THEATER

The versatile Dorothy Mackaill will be seen again in a role that is different from any of the others she has done. In "The Office Wife" which plays at the University for four days starting next Sunday, she portrays the secretary of a busy executive. You can imagine the drama! The secretary is engaged to a young reporter. Her employer's wife is carrying on a flirtation with another man. The busy executive does not know about his wife. Neither does he know that his secretary has fallen in love with him. This is an unusual story full of human interest, with Dorothy Mackaill and Lewis Stone in the leading roles.

"Heads Up" the companion feature, is the filmization of the musical comedy of the same name. It also has excitement, hilarious comedy and glamorous romance, provided by the delectable acting of Charles Rogers, Helen Kane, Victor Moore and Margaret Breen.

"He Knew Women" starts Thursday for three days. It is a smart society drama of love in the four hundred, with a number of amusing and effective twists which remove it far from the conventional. Lowell Sherman plays the part of the man. Opposite him, as a wealthy widow to whom he is engaged, is the lovely Alice Joyce. Frances Dade and David Manner provide the juvenile romantic interest. Although both are comparatively new to the talking screen, they give splendid performances.

"The Sante Fe Trail" the companion feature is a narrative of "God's Country," a Spanish oasis of love and mystery as fascinating as the title of the original story, "Spanish Acres." Richard Arlen and the new Spanish heart breaker of the screen, Rosita Moreno, have the leading roles, and you can depend on Eugene Pallette and Mitzi Green for the laughs.

Not Found in Bible

The familiar saying, "Spare the rod and spoil the child" is not in the Bible. The nearest thing to it is a verse in Proverbs which says, "He that spareth the rod hateth his son." "They spare the rod and spoil the child" occurs in an English book printed in 1639.

CRAWFORD MEMORIAL CHURCH

Christmas Sunday at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church will be a noteworthy day. Much interest has been shown in the newly organized junior choirs, which will make its first appearance at the morning service at 10:30. The senior and junior choruses will be augmented by two violins, trumpet, piano and vocal soloists. The following numbers will be rendered at the 10:30 service:

Junior Chorus
Anthem "While By My Sleep" Jungst

There will also be a reception of members and a brief sermon on "The Spirit of Christmas."

A general invitation is extended to attend the Christmas vesper service at 4:30 on Sunday afternoon at which the adult chorus will sing the "Christmas Oratorio," by the well known French composer Camille Saint-Saens. The assisting soloists are Mrs. Norman Hitchcock, soprano; Miss Eleanor Maynard, mezzo-soprano; Mrs. Charles Swain, contralto; Mr. Alan Munroe, tenor; Mr. James Booth, baritone and Mrs. Mary Ranton Witham, pianist. No effort has been spared to make this a noteworthy performance and the public is cordially invited.

The Men's Class has arranged a special Christmas program for its session at 9:30 which is expected to bring out a record attendance. Miss Hortense Sheldon, of Somerville, the national college visitor for the women's societies of the Methodist Church will give a monologue, "The Traveling Man," by Lady Gregory. Mrs. Helen Mahaney will play a violin solo.

On Monday evening the children of the church school will be served a Christmas supper. This will be followed by the Christmas tree and annual visit from Santa Claus.

A large group of young people from the Epworth League will sing carols in the different parts of the town on Christmas Eve.

GIRLS' FIELD HOCKEY LEAGUE STATUS CHANGES

Round Robin to Replace Old Divisional Competition—Play-Offs Banned

Principals of the high school represented in the Greater Boston Interscholastic Field Hockey League, at a meeting held Wednesday in the City Club in Boston, made drastic changes in the regulations under which the circuit will operate in the future.

The first and most sweeping change is that erasing the divsional playoffs and subsequent championship meeting of the two winning teams. Teams will be ranked by points won during the season, each victory counting 2, with 1 point for tie games. It will be possible under the new system to have two teams emerge with the same number of points after a season's play, but if so, there will be no play-off for the title.

Replacing the divsional scheme of things, in which teams played only these other teams in their division, is the round robin or rotating idea of competition. The new league is to consist of 10 teams, and each team will play six other teams in each season, there remaining three teams which it will not meet until the following year. The new system provides that each school shall meet each other school in the league once in three years, and will of course make it possible for the individual school to play more schools than was the case under the old divisional play-off system.

The changes were largely affected by suggestions made by the school coaches involved, following a meeting several weeks ago. Much objection has been made to the old league championship system by schools of physical education and by the State Department of Physical Education. The more radical of the objectors wanted all leagues and even interscholastic competition abolished, but this stand neither principals nor coaches cared to endorse. Under the new system in 1931 Winchester will play Winthrop, Wellesley, Swampscott, Lexington, Concord and Arlington; in 1932, Arlington, Lexington, Concord, Stoneham, Wellesley and Belmont; and in 1933, Arlington, Melrose, Stoneham, Winthrop, Belmont and Swampscott.

Fred Cameron, Jr. of Washington street, Arthur Hills of Euclid avenue, Lincoln Grindle of Lincoln street and Whitelaw Wright, Jr. of Sanborn street were among those who played Tuesday evening in the recital at the Faelten Pianoforte School in Boston. The four Winchester boys played simultaneously on four grand pianos, their last of three numbers being the accompaniment for singing by the class.

Ralph Bennell and "Eddie" McDonald of the Bennell Motors Company are leaving the day after Christmas for Miami, Fla., by motor.

Thursday, Jan. 15, has been selected as the date on which the next wrestling bouts will be staged in the Town Hall by Winchester Post, A. L. No announcement of the card can be made at this time except to state that it will be fully up to past standards and that is plenty.

EMBLEM CLUB NOTES

The Winchester Emblem Club will conduct a Christmas party on Monday evening, Dec. 22, in Lyceum Hall, for members and their friends, each member bringing a prize for the Christmas tree. There will be an entertainment after the presents have been distributed and refreshments will also be served, and a general good time will be had by all who attend.

CHRISTMAS VACATION

The Winchester schools will close at the usual hours on Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 23 for the Christmas vacation, reopening on Monday, Jan. 5.

The Board of Selectmen has voted to recommend the alteration of a portion of the northerly side of Nelson street from a point 304 feet from Washington street, westerly for about 130 feet.

CHRISTMAS comes this year during a period of financial depression and industrial unrest which will in many instances curtail the lavishness of holiday celebrations and in some instances cause them to be omitted entirely. And yet, if Christmas and the Christmas spirit are worth anything at all, they should not depend upon the amount of money we have at our disposal with which to buy presents, many of which are entirely unnecessary and not especially pleasing. Real happiness at Christmas, or any other time, is dependent, it is true, upon giving, but not necessarily upon the giving of presents. Many who can never give gifts experience more joy at Christmas than those who rate their holiday joy in terms of financial outlay. A thoughtful word or deed, a bit of sympathy, an expression of appreciation, or finally a cheery greeting, tendered in the spirit of good fellowship, can easily mean more than the costliest present, and return more in satisfaction to the one who offers it. We can all, rich and poor, wish our friends a "Merry Christmas," and if the wish is sincere, be the better for it, along with those to whom we extend our greeting. The Star, with real appreciation of its friends at this time offers its best wishes to all for the holiday season.

"MERRY CHRISTMAS"—We Mean It

WINCHESTER HIGH WITHDRAWS FROM MYSTIC VALLEY LEAGUE

At a meeting of the Mystic Valley League held yesterday afternoon at Watertown, Principal Wade L. Grindle, tendered Winchester High School's resignation from the organization, to take effect at the end of the present athletic year. Winchester will fulfill its league obligations in both baseball and track.

The resignation of the local school was accepted with regret and offered in the same spirit. The school committee formally voted leave to withdraw from the league at its meeting Monday evening and the announcement to this effect was made public by Superintendent James J. Quinn yesterday.

Winchester's action was prompted by the fact that it is no longer physically strong enough to meet big high schools like Arlington, Melrose and Watertown in championship competition on an equal basis. The School Committee's decision was not based on snap judgment. For some time the local authorities have felt that Winchester should play its league football with schools more nearly its own size. Withdrawing from the Mystic Valley League does not mean necessarily that the locals are not to meet schools in that organization in football. Winchester's rivalry with some Mystic Valley League teams is of too long standing to be broken off. But in the future Winchester's championship football competition will be with schools in its own athletic class, which is as it should be.

The local authorities are now at work with plans to have the Middlesex League, in which Winchester plays its basketball, foster competition in football, baseball and track, and a more definite announcement along this line will be forthcoming at an early date.

In the meantime some enrollment figures may prove of interest to the fan who believes Winchester should meet schools like Melrose, Arlington and Watertown on even terms. Arlington, a three-year high school, has an enrollment of 1099; Melrose, a four-year school, has 1137; Wakefield a four year school, has 944; Watertown, three years, 816; Woburn, three years, 563; Winchester, four years 578. The four year phase of Winchester's status is misleading since the afternoon sessions for freshmen automatically remove them from competition, making the local school in an athletic sense, a three-year school with an enrollment of 399.

APPRECIATED WINCHESTER'S HELP

The American Red Cross
U. S. Veterans' Hospital
Rutland Heights, Mass.
Dec. 10, 1930

Mrs. May R. Hoey,
2 Shattuck Street,
Natick, Mass.

My dear Mrs. Hoey:

The wonderful box from Winchester arrived in good shape and yesterday we took great pleasure in listing the many and very useful gifts, which covered one entire ward and about two dozen extra men. We were most careful to list the shirts and splendid sweaters for men with no means and in much need.

Your committee have certainly done a faithful and splendid job and we can assure you that anyone of your beautiful gifts will give much pleasure on this holiday.

With many thanks and all best wishes.

Sincerely yours,
Nina F. Knott,
Director, Red Cross Service

Marriage intentions have been filed with the Town Clerk by Vincent Ciarfella of 35 Irving street and Stella Gilda Caterino of 31 Sweetser street, Wakefield.

ROTARY CLUB OF WINCHESTER

Twenty-seven members out of a possible 28 were present at the meeting of Dec. 18, which shows that Rotary is a live issue in Winchester. Visitors and guests brought our total attendance to 40. Our head table was graced by the presence of Herman Peterson, newly elected Mayor of Woburn, and past president of the Rotary Club of Woburn, also John Bates, past president and Frank Deacon, president of the Woburn Club.

Due to the fact that this was the last meeting of the year to be held at home quarters, there was a decided tinge of Christmas in the air. A letter with Christmas greetings from District Governor Bruce McCullough was read by President Loring Gleason. And surely Fred's dinner would have done credit to any Christmas board.

Our Club has received an invitation from the Rotary Club of Cambridge to participate in an inter-city meeting as guests of the Cambridge Club on Dec. 31, 1930. This invitation, if accepted, would relieve us of the embarrassment of arranging for a meeting to replace that regularly scheduled for the holiday, Jan. 1. Accordingly the Club unanimously voted to accept the generous invitation of the Cambridge Club.

Therefore all members should bear in mind that our next meeting will be held at Riverbank Court, Cambridge (near Harvard Bridge) at 12:15 p. m. Wednesday, Dec. 31. If you require transportation service, please notify the Secretary at once. The Melrose and Medford Clubs will also attend and the New Year will undoubtedly receive a rousing welcome.

The entertainment at our meeting of the 18th consisted of a group of songs rendered by the boy soprano, Arnold Morse. The selections were "Little Boy Blue," by Nevin; "A China Tragedy," by Nevin. Mrs. Churchill Hindes accompanied at the piano.

Arnold Morse has a voice of wide range and remarkable sweetness. Under the competent instruction of E. E. Gorham, he has already made long strides toward the goal of vocal excellence. We believe that he is at the threshold of a highly successful career. His offerings were received with marked enthusiasm by an appreciative audience.

Adjournment to Dec. 31, 1931 at Riverbank Court, Cambridge.

The Rotary Club of Winchester takes this occasion to extend its hearty wishes for A Merry Christmas to all Sundry citizens of our wide, wide world.

Attendance for Dec. 11—96.43 per cent.

SPEAKS SUNDAY AT BAPTIST CHURCH EVERYMAN'S CLASS

Rev. Edward A. Estaver, director of religious education of the Massachusetts Baptist Convention, and formerly pastor at the First Baptist Church at Northampton, will speak at 9:30 a. m. Sunday, at the Everyman's Bible Class of the First Baptist Church of Winchester.

President Leonard O. Waters announces that Dr. Estaver's subject will be "The Advent Season—The Life Abundant."

The new director is only 28 years of age and was selected from among many of the most able and most efficient for the task. His training and experience among the students at Northampton, the well known religious educational center, amply fitted him for this work.

The service opens promptly at 9:30.

MASONS TO HOLD OPEN HOUSE

The Masonic Lodges of Winchester will continue their custom of holding open house in the Masonic apartments in the Brown & Stanton block on New Year's Day. William Parkman Lodge and Winchester Royal Arch Chapter invite all their members, together with all visiting Masons, to attend this function, which will be held from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. on New Year's Day.

The Fire Department has received from the State Fire Marshall certain definite information governing pits for use in greasing and oiling automobiles, and has also been notified that the Department of Public Safety has fixed the contents of a barrel of inflamable material at 42 gallons.

INTERESTING CHRISTMAS MODEL ON DISPLAY

A bit of old world patience and reverence for the Christmas season is exemplified in the interesting model of the manger at Bethlehem which Joseph Rania has fashioned and placed in his home at 5 Emerson court.

The model is perhaps eight feet by four, and takes up one entire corner of the room in which it is displayed. The biblical story of the birth, the announcement to the shepherds, the coming of the wisemen, and the flight from Herod's soldiers is carefully followed in the model which Mr. Rania has been displaying each season for the past 20 years.

Adding to his collection of images yearly, Mr. Rania now has an especially complete model. Evergreen and colored electric light bulbs are used as a background and set up against the green are the houses of Bethlehem and the hills about the city.

All the characters of the familiar bible story are present in the model. There are the shepherds and their sheep, the Magii, the angels, Herod's soldiers, and a group depicting the flight of Joseph and Mary with the infant Jesus.

In the center of the model, flanked with incense burners and surmounted with a cherubim, is the stable housing the manger, with Mary and Joseph kneeling in adoration at either side of the resting place of the Child. At the rear is a sacred medallion, and a note of realism is struck with tiny models of cattle. At either side of the entrance to the stable are figures of angels. The little figure of the Christ is not placed in its manger until the night before Christmas.

Above the model of Bethlehem is a large and ornate star which is controlled by a mechanical device to move across the miniature sky, guiding the wise men, to stop above the stable which houses the Christ Child. The winter aspect is realistically attained by the use of artificial snow.

Mr. Rania, an employee of the highway department, is glad to explain the significance of his model and extends a cordial invitation to all interested to visit his home and inspect his work. It is well worth a trip to the Rania home to see.

YOUTHFUL AUTO THIEVES APPREHENDED AFTER ACCIDENT

Four Charlestown boys, of ages ranging from 11 to 16 years, were taken into custody by Patrolman John Hanlon of the Police Department after the car in which they were riding figured in collision with a second machine on Forest street at the end of the electric car line Wednesday night.

Police Headquarters was notified of the collision at 10:35 p. m. and Patrolman Hanlon hastened from Swanton street to the place mentioned in the telephone report of the affair. He found upon arrival that a Nash coupe driven by Milton E. Thomas of 110 Summer street, Stoneham, had been driven off the road by a Chrysler coach in which four boys were riding.

The boys attempted to escape, but were rounded up by Officer Hanlon. Sergt. Thomas F. Cassidy and Patrolmen Henry P. Dempsey and Archie T. O'Connell were also at the scene of the accident.

At Headquarters the boys gave their names as William Corcoran, Harold Greatorex, Cornelius Murphy and Emil Proulx, all of Charlestown. An investigation disclosed the fact that the machine in which they were riding had been stolen in Charlestown and was the property of P. J. Griffin of St. James street, Medford. The boys were turned over to the Charlestown police by the local authorities. No one was injured in the collision.

TRUCK AND TROLLEY COLLIDE

Reminiscent of a picture printed in the STAR last summer showing how our center streets are used for parking was the accident of Wednesday forenoon, when a big coal truck struck the front vestibule of a Woburn bound electric on almost the same spot where the picture was taken. The accident was reported as due to a parked automobile. The electric was badly wrecked, its front end being opened as though with a can opener.

According to the police the collision occurred as both vehicles were headed north. At the northern end of the trolley turnout at the Jenny Gas Station the street car conductor, seeing a collision imminent, stopped his car, while the operator of the truck attempted to squeeze the big vehicle between the trolley and the parked machine, mentioned above.

The big truck, a Brockway 5-ton affair, owned by Frank M. Gannon of Pollard street, North Billerica, and driven by George L. Grantz of 1599 Gorham street, East Cheltenham, caught the platform of the electric and ripped it almost off the car.

The passengers were more or less shaken up but none reported injuries. The operator of the street car was Martin C. Doherty of 4 Reid street, Woburn. The truck was not damaged.

TOWN MEETING CALLED

Special Session for Jan. 5th Acts on School, Movies and Sunday Sports

In addition to requested action on the new Junior High School and Motion Pictures, the special town meeting to be held on Monday, Jan. 5, will be called upon to decide the status of Sunday Sports and to change our method of electing the Town Finance Committee. It is also proposed to increase the number of Public Library Trustees from three to six.

With these five articles coming before the voters a lively session seems assured and a good opening paves the way for the annual meeting now but a few weeks distant.

The article calling for the new school building is sponsored by the School Committee. While no specific plan is stated, it is currently reported that the committee will again endeavor to secure the Main street site for the building. This is the site which was rejected by but one or two votes when it was last proposed.

Mr. George A. Daley again sponsors the article calling for movies. The Town has repeatedly turned Mr. Daley down on his proposition, but he evidently is working upon the supposition that while a man may be down, he is never out.

The Sunday Sports bill is introduced by Mrs. Elizabeth C. McDonald. According to report, Winchester is either going to have Sunday football and baseball or it must give up its golf and tennis. Truly an interesting situation.

Mrs. McDonald is also back of the effort to change the assembling of the Finance Committee. She desires that a certain number of this body be chosen equally from the several Precincts by the voters.

CALUMET NOTES

The best turn-out of the ladies thus far this season came on Tuesday afternoon when the regular weekly bowling tournament was held. The competition ran high and the scores were excellent. The prize winners were as follows:

First Prize. High Single, won by Mrs. Lincoln with 102.

Second Prize. High Single with handicap, won by Mrs. McGrath with 116.

Third Prize. High total, won by Mrs. Browning with 177.

The next afternoon bowling party for the ladies will not be held until Tuesday, Dec. 30. The party will open at 2:30 o'clock.

There is to be a dance at the club this Friday night. This is one of the series of dances sponsored by the Winchester Boat Club. It is open to members of both clubs and their friends.

The next match in the Mystic Valley League will be on Monday, Jan. 5, when the Central Club of Somerville will visit the local club for matches in bowling, cards, billiards and pool.

The entertainment committee has planned a number of interesting programs for Saturday night smokers for the ensuing year, the first of which will take place on Saturday, Jan. 10, at which time the members will have the pleasure of hearing one of the most interesting club speakers available in Boston in the person of Mr. James R. Wood, president of the James R. Wood Detective Agency. He has not only had a wide experiences in unraveling mysterious murder cases, but he has also an unusual ability in telling of his experiences in a very gripping, interesting way.

Preparations are now underway for the grand New Year's Eve jubilee party. The party is to start at 9 o'clock on Wednesday evening, Dec. 31, and promises to far eclipse anything of a like nature held at the Club. There will be dancing to the tempting music of Lou Lewis' syncopating saxophone dance band, a high class cabaret entertainment from a well known Boston night club review, many novelties, a confetti shower and jubilee at midnight and last, but not least, a collation.

Members are urged to make up their parties for the evening and send in their reservations at once. Dec. 29 has been set as the dead line, and all attending must notify the Steward on or before that date.

The regular Christmas turkey roll will be held on the club alleys this Saturday evening commencing at 7 o'clock. Come down and try your luck. Everyone has a good show for a bird and they will be well worth winning.

Shortly after midnight Saturday morning Patrolman Charles J. Harrold of the Police Department found a mail bag which had evidently been thrown from a train at Winchester Station by mistake. Patrolman Harrold took the sack to headquarters and it was started on the right road once more.

WHY?

Why is it that the Town of Winchester cannot vote upon its schools without voting upon moving pictures? Why is it that, although Winchester has repeatedly turned moving pictures down, it must still be compelled to vote upon this question? Why is it that, although the voters have no power in the matter other than to express their opinion, they are constantly called upon to vote whether or not they shall have moving pictures? Why is it that, although the Selectmen were upheld in court in a test case over a refusal to include a vote upon moving pictures in a town meeting warrant, they still give such an article a place in the warrant? Why is it that motion pictures are so eagerly sought here when other places are turning movie houses into indoor golf courses? Why is it that moving pictures are so eagerly and persistently sought here when other places of greater population and with nowhere near the advantages in closely located theaters find it hard to support their own movies? Is it that someone in power says we shall not have a school unless we have movies? If a motion picture permit were granted, who would get it? There is something wrong with this "movie" business.

Along with the movie article in the warrant comes the calm assertion of Mr. Daley that a referendum will be held upon this question if the Town turns down movies at the meeting. He has already given notice to the Town Clerk to prepare for this. Expense or trouble is no object worth consideration in this educational fight, and hard times do not enter into it. Someone seems well able to spend your money for you.

The STAR learns that the Legion Post is to continue its popular wrestling shows this winter at the Town Hall, and there is no likelihood that the bouts will be dropped in years to come. With this in mind we believe that something should be done about installing a shower in the basement of the Town Hall. It's a bit rough, even on wrestlers, to ask competitors to wash up piecemeal with cool water from a sink when reeking with perspiration after the most violent of exercise. The cost of installing a shower ought not to be too excessive to make the proposition one that the town can not consider.

The cold weather of the past few days has skimmed the ponds with ice and the young-sters have already had to be chased by the police from several place, considered dangerous by the authorities. The police have no desire to interfere with the kiddies' pleasure, and just as soon as the ice is safe to venture upon they will be just as glad as any one to see the youth of the town have a good time skating. Until such a time as the danger shall be removed we should all try to impress upon the youthful mind that it is not brave, but foolish for any one to risk his life on thin ice. Not only does the thoughtless one endanger himself, but he may also be the means of taking the life of some brave person who attempts a rescue.

OUR NEW STATE PRISON

The Hon. Lewis Parkhurst of Oak Knoll, formerly Senator from the 6th Middlesex District has written a preface to a most interesting pamphlet concerning the new prison now under construction at Norfolk, Mass. The pamphlet which he has prepared, contains the report of Superintendent Howard B. Gill of the new prison, to Commissioner of Correction, Dr. A. W. Stearns, recording the progress already made and stating what the plan contemplates in the future construction. A careful classification of prisoners is proposed and their division into small groups of not over 50 men each, each group to be housed and fed separately under the direction of a house officer and an assistant. "It proposes that for each man confined in this prison a definite program—physical, mental, social, vocational, avocational—shall be developed for the period of his incarceration, and carried out under the direction of his particular house-officer who shall act in the nature of a resident case-worker." "In general the plan is based on the principle that prisons are designed for treatment as well as for security; that it may be assumed that segregation in prison automatically protects society for the time being and is in itself punishment for offenses committed; but that the ultimate aim of prisons is to return the individual to society better fitted to meet the normal demands of that society." So the new prison will have the group system of housing and supervision. For years Mr. Parkhurst has been intensely interested in prison reform for Massachusetts and has labored untiringly and whole-heartedly for it in private, in the newspapers and in the Senate. In a foreword to the pamphlet Mr. Parkhurst writes:

"I am frequently asked: now is the New Prison coming along? I have prepared this pamphlet to answer that question.

I am also frequently asked: Why are you so interested in this New Prison?

Because while a member of the State Senate in 1921-2, I read in the annual report of the Commissioner of Correction for 1920 concerning the State Prison at Charlestown, that 'The present structure was built in 1805. It is antiquated, out of date and hard to keep clean. It is in a congested and dirty location. There are no adequate hospital facilities. There is no congregate dining room, with the result that men are obliged to eat all their meals in their cells. This is unhygienic, wasteful of food and conducive to unclean conditions. The absence from the cells of any kind of plumbing makes necessary the obnoxious and unhealthy 'bucket system,' and in general the cell block construction is not conducive to health.'

On looking into the matter I found to my great surprise that the statement was true and that much more might well be said, for in Official Reports on file at the State House I found the following:

Report of Commission on State Administration and Expenditures for 1921

'The State Prison at Charlestown is obsolete, and there appears to be no question but that it should be abandoned as soon as it is practicable to do so. The property on which the prison is located has a value for other purposes which has been estimated between $750,000 and $1,000,000.'

Report of Joint Special Committee on County Government for 1921

"In conclusion the committee wishes to say that no human being is bad enough to deserve confinement in such a place or dangerous enough to need it. Many of the conditions which continue to put the brand of the prison on the inmates are undoubtedly due to the survival of the Bastile type of prison architecture which is so well exemplified by the State Prison at Charlestown. No reforming influence, however humane and generous, would long survive in the atmosphere of such a place.

Hence the committee is a unit in recommending that the present prison site be immediately abandoned and that a modern prison be erected on a more suitable site.'

About 1880 the Charlestown Prison remained vacant for six years and was used for storage purposes only. The only power on earth that could change those conditions was the Legislature of Massachusetts. As a member of that body I deemed it my duty to at least try to make a change for the better."

Under the caption "The Norfolk Prison" an editorial in the Boston Herald of Dec. 15th concludes—

"That it is being hopefully carried forward is due in no small measure to the humanitarian interest of one citizen, Lewis Parkhurst of Winchester, who since his service in the State Senate has continuously worked to have a great public responsibility recognized."

Within two years the new prison should be completed, the obsolete, disgraceful State prison at Charlestown abandoned, and Mr. Parkhurst's humanitarian labors rewarded by a dream realized. A new era, a new prison, a new victory and a righteous one for a gallant warrior.

YESTERDAY while on the street I heard a cordial "Hello William."

It was the greeting of a friend for many years.

Of course I asked about his family.

His son is a sophomore in college.

I suggested an insurance policy would be a good thing to help the boy in his start in life.

The answer was "I think so, I placed a fifty thousand dollar policy on him at age FIFTEEN."

There are two lessons in that, one for me and maybe one for you.

AN ACT to provide for the Reconstructing of a Portion of Alewife Brook Parkway in the cities of Cambridge and Somerville.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

SECTION 1. The Metropolitan District Commission is hereby authorized to relocate, widen and reconstruct Alewife Brook Parkway from Massachusetts Avenue in the City of Cambridge to Mystic Valley Parkway in the City of Somerville and may expend therefor such sum not exceeding $100,000 as may hereafter be appropriated.

SECTION 2. One half of the expenditures made under authority of section 1 of this act shall be paid by the cities and towns of the metropolitan parks district in proportion to the respective taxable valuations of the property of said cities and towns as defined by section 59 of chapter 92 of the General Laws, and the remaining one half shall be paid from the highway fund.

The passage of this bill will provide a parkway of the same width and character as the new cut-off and will be a further improvement in the system of parkways which have done so much to make the Mystic Valley attractive for recreation and as a place of residence.

ANNUAL REPORT OF WINCHESTER CHAPTER AMERICAN RED CROSS

The secretary of the Winchester Chapter of A. R. C. offers to the chairman, the executive board and town members an annual report of activities.

During the past year the executive board of the Red Cross has held six meetings, including the annual meeting at the home of the chairman, Mrs. Bowen Tufts.

The work of the Home Service Department has most efficiently been carried on by Mr. William Hevey, as chairman, assisted by Mrs. Wilson, Red Cross investigator. This department has 25 families referred to them by the War Department, Veteran's Bureau, hospitals and other organizations: men requesting furloughs or wanting to be discharged from the service on account of dependency; extraordinary and social service investigations; follow up work on men discharged from hospitals, and family history of men admitted. Some of the families have taken considerable time, 85 home calls have been made, and many telephone calls, making arrangements for care.

Eighteen families representing 48 children have been given financial aid, food, milk, fuel, clothing, payment of gas and light bills, and medical care has been supplied. The home service work is to the disabled service man and family; but we have endeavored the past year to give emergency aid to the unemployed service man, helping to tide him over insurance problems, food and medical care.

Mrs. Alfred Bond was appointed production chairman late in the season to fill the vacancy of Mrs. Harper Blaisdell. The production this year has consisted in sending our annual quota of garments to Washington, supplying 100 non-compensated men at Bedford Hospital with underwear and clothing to local families.

Disaster Relief—This charter has answered the appeal of National headquarters twice this year for relief at Nashua, N. H. and Santo Domingo. Through publicity $285 was received by donations to which the charter added $215 making a total of $500 sent to Nashua, N. H. The charter sent $200 to Santo Domingo of which $15 was received from contributions.

The charter financed the expense of Mr. Guyette, life guard and instructor at Sandy Beach during July and August. Mr. Guyette held swimming and life saving classes each day, and awarded nine senior and 15 junior grade certificates to the successful swimmers.

In the Tercentenary parade the Red Cross was represented by the Metropolitan ambulance and six girls from the Junior Red Cross at High School who represented the various activities of the department.

The Junior Red Cross has 100 per cent enrollment in the schools. This department has been ably supervised by Miss Pratt, Miss Bronson and Miss Davis with monthly meetings and projects in the various schools conducted by the pupils. This year the chapter was fortunate in having Miss Janet Nichols with Miss Bronson attend the National Convention at Washington as junior delegates. Fifty Christmas bags were made by the Junior Red Cross group at High School and by the members of the board. These bags were filled by the girls under the supervision of Miss Bronson and were sent to soldiers and sailors at the Army and Navy stations. Other deeds of service by this group consist of collecting clothing and distributing same, making puzzles, scrap books, filling candy boxes, collecting food for the Thanksgiving baskets, etc.

The Public has been kept informed of local and National Red Cross through the splendid efforts of Mrs. Thomas Dreier, as chairman, aided by the generosity of Mr. T. Price Wilson who has given us unlimited space in the Winchester Star.

The Red Cross Roll Call has gone over the top, and too much credit cannot be given our chairman, Mrs. Bowen Tufts and her workers who have so capably conducted the recent campaign. The quota for the Winchester Chapter was 2000 memberships, and we are proud to report 2100 memberships. It is indeed gratifying to know that the residents of Winchester have so readily responded to the Red Cross appeal for members. It must be remembered that the able work carried on by executive committee members could not be accomplished without the splendid support of our townspeople. The Winchester Charter cordially thanks each and everyone who has added their bit to this worthy cause.

Respectfully submitted,
Ruth E. Hilton, Secretary

William H. Richardson of 22 Chester street was taken at 5:30 yesterday afternoon by Police Chief William H. Rogers and Patrolman James P. Donaghey to the Winchester Hospital where he was treated by Dr. Richard W. Sheehy for injuries sustained when the bicycle he was riding was in collision at Washington and Myrtle streets with a Chevrolet coach, owned and driven by Peter MacDonald of 35 Brookside road. The latter reported the accident to the police. Mr. Richardson was not badly injured.

President George F. Arnold of the Chamber of Commerce has written the Board of Selectmen, asking if a suitable adjustment can not be made to have the bell on the clock in the steeple of the First Congregational Church strike the hours.

SENATOR WARREN MOVES TO IMPROVE PARKWAY

The use of the new cut-off leading from Massachusetts avenue, near the Arlington and Cambridge line, to Concord avenue in Belmont has continued long enough to prove that it is a most important link in the system of new highway connections that are so rapidly being provided for the benefit of the motoring public, the people living in Arlington, Medford, Winchester and Woburn and those who come from points north are beginning to appreciate the desirability of avoiding the slow moving traffic on Massachusetts avenue in Cambridge and are taking advantage of the new cut-off so that travel on this piece of roadway is constantly increasing and will continue to do so as the benefit of this route becomes known.

It is now clear in view of the increased traffic over the cut-off that the Alewife Brook Parkway, which begins at Massachusetts avenue opposite the entrance to the cut-off should be widened and relocated as far as Dilboy Field and resurfaced from the Field to the Mystic Valley Parkway, in order to properly care for the traffic which this new highway has produced, and Senator Warren, Chairman of the Committee on Metropolitan affairs has filed with the Clerk of the Senate the following bill so that action may be taken by the Legislature at the next session.

"Hiawatha"

Under date of June 22, 1854, the poet Longfellow wrote in his diary: "I have at length hit upon a plan for a poem on the American Indian which seems to me to be the right one and the only. It is to weave together their beautiful traditions into a whole."

Poetic Qualification

Genius is mainly an affair of energy, and poetry is mainly an affair of genius; therefore, a nation whose spirit is characterized by energy may well be eminent in poetry—and we have Shakespeare. — Matthew Arnold, in "The Literary Influence of Academies."

Ancient Water Service

During street excavations in Boston, old pipes were dug up which were part of the "ancient conduit" laid in 1652, and said to be the first water service installed in the United States.

Mike Had the Last Word

Mulligan was proud of his newly granted American citizenship; but several of his friends liked to boast they were better Americans than he because they were native born. Mulligan couldn't see it, and one day became thoroughly exasperated with his friends.

"Th' divil take the lot o' yez!" he declared hotly. "O'im a betther American than any o' ye. At laste Oi had me pants on, and tin dollars in th' pocket o' thim whin Oi got here!"—Capper's Weekly.

Gorilla's Growth

A young male gorilla grows more slowly than a boy of the same age. So reports Dr. C. V. Noback, of the New York Etomological society, who has made a detailed study of a youthful gorilla received at the New York zoo some time ago. The rate of growth during the first three years of life was measured in terms of adult weight. Possibly correlated with this slower growth is the fact that the bones and teeth of the gorilla mature more rapidly than those of a human child. The animal reported in Doctor Noback's study had its full set of milk teeth at approximately eighteen months, and began to acquire permanent teeth at two and one-half years.

FROM RIO TO BUENOS AIRES BY AIR

Experiences during a swift air trip from Rio de Janeiro to Buenos Aires are recounted by Frederick Simpich in a communication to the National Geographic Society and released as a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the Society. This was the last long leg of a seaplane survey cruise from Washington to Cuba, over the West Indian Island bridge to Orinoco swamps, across amazing solitudes of the Amazon delta, and around the huge hump of Brazil to Argentina.

Ninety miles down the hill-tumbled coast below Rio, writes Mr. Simpich, we hit the fog. First it hung in league-long, twisted ropes—like great gray cables for some phantom suspension bridge across the Atlantic. Then, stirred by the faint breath of morning, the long fog ropes merged into solid, dirty waves. Barely could we see our wing tips.

Where the World Gets Its Coffee

Flying by instruments, we bored the fog bank through, and came to Santos—where the world gets most of its coffee—in bright sunshine. From the air, we saw the short railway that runs inland to the near-by, swiftly-growing city of Sao Paulo. In five minutes we landed a passenger, put off mail and took on more, and were in the air. You marvel at the speed and precision of the Nybra mail schedule. At Florinanopolis we met a Fleetster—fllown by a lone Yankee pilot named Stark—carrying north nothing but mail. On a tail wind, that morning, he had averaged 180 miles an hour!

Toward Porto Alegra, where scores of thousands of German colonists make local life more like Breslau than Brazil, we struck more fog. From May till October, between Rio and the River Plate, fogs are frequent. The banks are anywhere from 200 to 2500 feet high, or "thick" as pilots say. "If you come to a bank that lies flat on the sea, or has no holes in it," said Pilot Shea, "it's safest to set down on the water and wait for it to lift, or else turn around and go back. We never expose passengers to any risk. Most of the time here the fog ceiling is high enough so we can fly under it, low over the water. Or else it's Swiss cheese fog—with big holes in it through which we can see the ocean."

Weather Prophesy Difficult

"The weather prophet gets no breaks down here," said another pilot. "The winds run wild. They blow from anywhere. Rain comes from the north or northeast, usually; and cold clearing winds blow from the southwest. And the lightning is bad; it gets less, as you fly north towards the equator.

But it's the "Pampero," that Argentine wind with a speed record of 110 miles an hour, that makes the worst weather. The blows off the pampas. But we don't mind it much; pilots always get ample warning by the big clouds of dust that you can see coming ahead of these Pampero storms.

In pouring rain we took gas at Rio Grande do Sul, and hopped off with water fairly streaming from our wide wings. In heavy rain—not as in a fog—you can see land or water plainly at least 200 feet below you. The force and weight of heavy rainfall slows down a plane, as mud slows down a motor car. But it keeps going.

For 250 miles, along the lonely coast of Rio Grande do Sul—Brazil's southernmost state—we flew past a string of great lakes that lies parallel to the beach. Part of this stretch is known as the Lagoa dos Patos. It is a wild, forsaken region till you round the shoulder of Uruguay, with its vast, green sheep pastures. Swift transition from empty wilderness to civilization's refined works is almost astounding here. Magnificent summer hotels dot the beaches, as you near Montevideo—with well kept golf courses. Big stockyards remind you of Kansas City. On a packing plant you see the name "Swift" in big white letters. Ten minutes only we stop—in this great busy city of nearly half a million—for gas and mails; then up and off, over the wide muddy mouth of the great River Plate.

Ships on Parade

In the 300 miles from Rio we had seen hardly a ship. Only wrecks, the rusty bones of dead ships, strewn on rocks and ledges. But now came a great parade of merchant vessels, flying flags of all sea-trading nations; for a double line of buoys marks the channel, which hugs the south shore of the Plate—and forms a busy lane to the sea. Like the Rhine, the Plate carries a colossal tonnage.

We jumped a fog bank, and got another look at the long line of ships. It seemed like some big nation's navy, cruising in review past a king.

Then beyond—like a mirage in desert haze—we glimpsed the majestic sky line of Buenos Aires, metropolis of South America. Our goal, after nearly 10,000 miles of flying over strange lands, up hidden rivers, around volcanoes—across forests primeval and the jungle wastes of trackless tropics. Smoky, foggy, serrated with skyscrapers; tall chimneys, radio towers, masts, funnels, cranes, derricks, all emerged from the blurred etching as our plane sped closer at 100 miles an hour. Pilots always want to spurt, the last few leagues! Higher we climbed, for a better view, and saw a vast, solid far-flung prairie city—flat as Chicago—stretching miles and miles. And still farther away, in the red haze of foggy sunset, the everlasting pampas.

His "S" Dog

Not long ago, Junior, like the real boy he is, accumulated a stray dog. There was much discussion in the household as to the adopted orphan's permanency of residence. The neighbors observed the newcomer, and, naturally, inquired as to his pedigree.

"What kind of a dog is he?" one asked.

"I don't know," Junior replied, "but it begins with 'S.'"

"Setter?"

"No."

"Spaniel?"

"No."

"Sooner?"

"Yeah, sooner, that's it! Mother says he would sooner eat at our house than be bothered with robbin' garbage cans."

Record Eruption

The eruption of Mount Katmai in 1912 was one of the largest ever known. The haze caused by this eruption on the Alaskan peninsula was noted in the eastern United States. The Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes which came into being at this time has been set aside as the Katmai National monument.

HIGH SCHOOL BASKET SHOOTERS BUSY

A good sized squad is busy under Coach Wendell D. Mansfield preparing for the first game of the 1930 basketball season at Winchester High School tonight.

As in past seasons this first game will be played with an Alumni team and the graduates promise to give the schoolboys the same hard argument they have handed them in years gone by.

Winchester is not so well off for veteran players this season, only Capt. Wilmer Smith and Kenneth West being letter men. "Robbie" Robinson, the star of last year's club is in wrong with the office and can not play until a scholastic deficiency is erased.

From last year's second team there are available "Eddie" Hitchborn, "Stutz" DiMinico, "Oho" Lee, "Sandy" Newell and Daniel West, all more or less experienced and likely to enter strongly into the final reckoning for positions on this year's varsity. Another who will make a real bid for a regular job is Oscar Lundblad, football halfback, who has been showing well in practice. Dexter Mobbs and "Hal" Knowlton are other football players who have been looking good.

Winchester will again be represented in the Middlesex Basketball League, the other members of which are Reading, Belmont, Wakefield, Lexington and Stoneham.

The complete list of candidates and schedule follows:

GIRL SCOUTS

Merry Christmas to all and Happy New Year! [illegible] Saturday at the Arlington Gas Light store on Main street, Winchester. Through the courtesy of the Gas Company we are to have their store for our annual cookie sale, where we will bake all through the day. Plenty of Christmas cookies. Once more we [illegible] to add drums to our corps and [illegible] earn them ourselves.

We have two new troops this fall, two new captains, Mrs. Geoffrey Neiley and Mrs. T. Parker Clarke, making eight troops in all with 191 registered Scouts, and many recruits in each troop. Our two full Brownie packs, with 28 Brownies each have long waiting lists, many little tots waiting for their chance to be a Brownie just as soon as we find a new Brown Owl.

Our meeting places are the schools, and the churches and private homes. We are especially grateful to [illegible] School Committee and our [illegible] and to our Council members who open their homes to us.

Thanksgiving time the Scouts as usual provided their baskets for 11 families, with a turkey or chicken [illegible] each beside the vegetables and [illegible]. Christmas, the Brownie packs are providing the trees for the two children's room at the hospital, all decorated. The troops are caring for individual families who [illegible] have become interested in, with toys for the children, etc.

Mrs. John Joy is [illegible] her home on Jan. 7 for a luncheon [illegible] for the benefit of the Girl Scout budget.

COIFFURES THAT HAVE CHARMED THROUGH THE AGES

From Grecian queens to movie queens and from Broadway to far off Africa, women of all ages and colors have used ringlets, curls and plaits to heighten their charm. The made-to-order wave is by no means a modern beauty device according to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society, for even in ancient times curled hair was considered more attractive than straight and if Nature did not provide waves Art supplied them.

The fair Poppea Sabina Empress of Rome (A. D. 65), and dominating influence over the boy king Nero, had her hair made into a mass of small ringlets, plastered close to her head by the use of salves, unguents and often a kind of mud. Observe almost any statuary of women in the Greek style and you will find this stone-like wave predominant—and most notable of all, the familiar Statue of Liberty.

Combs and Hairpins Used Thousands of Years Ago

Crude curling irons, combs that resemble stiff paint brushes, crushed henna leaves and other herbs for dyeing, were the accessories used. Long hairpins and brilliantine in the form of oils and ointments usually completed the coiffure.

Hair and hairdressing is also "woman's crowning glory" among the uncivilized women of African tribes who subject themselves to endless suffering to perfect their headdresses. In the Belgian Congo a beauty spends several days arranging a coiffure which lasts six months or more. Literally hundreds of tight, small plaits resembling the everyday dust-mop fall from the center of the head.

Another tribe starts in infancy to change the shape of the skull by binding it with bands of giraffe hide and hair. These are tightened from year to year as the head grows larger and larger, enabling the women to make an unusual and striking headdress. A sort of wooden framework of circular bands is placed on the back of the head and the long woolly hair is closely woven and bound around the frame. The result is an inverted basket which flares at the edge.

Rabbit Ear Coiffures

Most picturesque of all is a black Psyche who combs her frizzes straight up, then parts them in the middle and works them into two horn-shaped projections. The effect is of long, stiff rabbit ears.

Decorating the hair with feathers, flowers and ribbons has been a custom followed through the centuries. In the French courts such favories as Isabella of Bavaria, Lalluthe and the Countess of Artois stripped the ostrich and killed the shellfish to supply plumes and pearls for their hair. It took a headful of ringlets and curls to anchor the large plume-decked cartwheel hat worn by Gainsborough's famous "Duchess of Devonshire." The celebrated queen of world tragedy, Marie Antoinette of France, wore a curled-all-over hairdress, with ingenue shoulder curls. And for originality the English poet and novelist, Letitia Landon parted her dark tresses and tied them in a bow for a topknot.

Fearful and wonderful were the coiffures of the gay nineties. They reached the extreme in their profusion of puffs and area of softly waving surface, made possible by concealed "rats."

Women have worn their hair long because they have always been taught to believe that the hair is the "crowning glory" of their appearance. In the past the bobbing fad was popular at the court of Louis the Fourteenth and the "Dutch Cut" at the court of James the First. But the bob of today which originated in war time is hardly a fad. American women declare they retained it as a custom of comfort and convenience and as a symbol of freedom. Masculine taste in Biblical times dictated the assertion: "If a woman have long hair, it is a glory to her." But twentieth century women defiantly established leaders of the bob with the shapely shingle; the difficult long bob; the free windblown style; and the still freer boyish bob.

Poetic Fancy

Sarojini Naidu refers to Damayanti, Sakuntala Savitri and Sita as being "the immortal women of Sanskrit legend and song whose poignant sorrows and radiant virtues still break the heart and inspire lives of Indian women."

Snake's Method of Hearing

Snakes have no organs for hearing which correspond to the ears of mammals. Snakes receive sense impressions by vibrations which are felt by the tongue. This explains the habit which snakes have of protruding their tongues, since this is the only method they have of hearing.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue and in execution of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage given by Myer Gotz to Agnes E. Martin, dated December 12, 1927, and recorded in Middlesex South Registry District, and being Document No. 82,893, and noted on Certificate of Title No. 25,518, in Registration Book 171, at Page 281, of which instrument the undersigned is the assignee and present holder by an assignment date July 17, 1928, and being Document No. 92,726, and noted on Certificate of Title No. 25,518, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same will be sold at public auction at 9:30 o'clock A. M. on the twenty-seventh day of December, 1930, on the premises below described, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage, said premises being therein described substantially as follows:

The land situated in Winchester, Middlesex County, Massachusetts, being bounded and described as follows:

Easterly by Main Street, one hundred fifty-two and 97 100 (152.97) feet; Southerly by Lot A as shown on a plan hereinafter referred to, seventy-five and 14 100 (75.44) feet; Easterly again by said Lot A as shown on said plan, ninety (90) feet; Northerly again, by Water Street, one hundred nine and 27 100 (109.27) feet; Westerly by land now or formerly of John L. Cassidy, one hundred twenty and 24 100 (120.24) feet, and by land now or formerly of John Sawyer, one hundred twenty (120) feet; Southerly by Richardson Street, two hundred four and 10 100 (204.10) feet; containing forty thousand four hundred (40,400) square feet of land more or less, and being Lots E, C, D, E and G, as shown on a plan of "Subdivision of Lots, Winchester, Mass., March 26, 1927", drawn by Parker Holbrook, Engineer, and filed in the Land Registration Office, a copy of which is filed in the South Registry District of Middlesex County, and referred to by Plan No. 11,060 H.

Being the same premises conveyed to me by deed of even date of Agnes E. Martin, to be recorded in the South Registry District of Middlesex County.

The above described premises are conveyed subject to a building line on said Water Street, established by the Town of Winchester, shown as Document No. 89,260 on Certificate of Title numbered 20,643, and also subject to taxes assessed by the Town of Winchester for the year 1927. Said premises are also conveyed subject to the restriction that no stores shall be erected on said premises for a period of ten (10) years from August 20, 1927. This restriction, however, shall not apply to a garage, automobile salesroom, service or filling station.

There is excepted and excluded from the above-described parcel the following lots of land, which have heretofore been released from said mortgage, namely Lots D, E and F, by partial releases duly recorded in said Middlesex South Registry District, and noted on Certificate of Title No. 25,518, in Registration Book 171, at page 281.

Said premises will be sold subject to any and all unpaid taxes, tax titles and municipal liens or assessments, if any there be.

Terms of sale: $2000.00 will be required to be paid by the purchaser at the time and place of sale, and the balance in cash within ten days thereafter upon the delivery of the deed.

Many Good Reasons for Use of Latin Mottoes

A writer has raised the question as to why the mottoes on coat armor and public schools, graduation diplomas, etc., are in Latin and not in English. There is something in the point so far as recent creations are concerned, and if modern private individuals or public bodies want to display some profound truth on a shield there are reasons why it should be done in English; sometimes it is. The reason for so many Latin mottoes goes back to the foundations of civic life in Great Britain. The elegance of the Latin tongue apart, it was up to three centuries ago, an instrument of government, the language, too, of affairs, and the recognized means of communication between the educated classes of Europe. It is not so now, but the vowel beauty of the Latin tongue dies hard. For example, "Ave Nunneratior Avorum" has both in sound and sight more of elegance than the English form—"I follow a long line of ancestry." Ancestry is, perhaps, the best of excuses for retaining the Latin. It is something which, although old, is not cold.—London Times.

Auto thieves visited Winchester Monday afternoon about dusk and took a Chrysler coupe, the property of J. Waldo Bond, from Mason street extension and a Buick roadster owned by E. B. Badger from Wedgemere avenue. The latter machine was subsequently recovered by the police in Charlestown. The local authorities believe that those who stole the cars from Mr. Bond and Mr. Badger were also responsible for abandoning a LaSalle coupe, which was stolen in Cambridge Saturday night and recovered on Symmes road early Wednesday morning by Patrolman Harfield. The LaSalle was the property of Brayant Prescott of Tucker road, North Dartmouth, and at the request of its owner was towed to the Central Garage.

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

George Bancroft in "Derelict" and "A Lady's Morals," with Reginald Denny, Grace Moore and Wallace Beery will make up the double feature program the big Granada Theater in Malden will offer for seven days starting Saturday. Stirring scenes of a rescue at sea, during a terrific tropical storm furnish some of the thrills in George Bancroft's new he-man drama "Derelict." But the thrills continue right through the picture, as Bancroft's rivalry with his fellow sea captain, William Boyd, rises to white heat. Rivals in seamanship, rivals in love, they battle each other ashore and afloat from Havana to Rio, first one winning, then the other, until the treacherous tropical elements take a hand in the fateful struggle and decide the issue. "Derelict" marks George Bancroft's first screen appearance in a long time and the picture broke all attendance records during its recent Broadway showing.

Grace Moore, famous Metropolitan Opera soprano, makes her debut on the talking screen as Jenny Lind in the production "A Lady's Morals" based on the life of the opera celebrity of the past. The picture deals with the career of the "Swedish Nightingale" and her sensational appearance in New York under the auspices of P. T. Barnum, pioneer of showmanship and the romance between the singer and a blind composer. Miss Moore sings two songs especially written for her by Carrie Jacobs Bond composer of "The End of a Perfect Day;" and other famous airs. Wallace Beery plays the role of P. T. Barnum, while Reginald Denny is cast as the lover of the singer who loses his sight and attempts to hide from the operatic star.

"Laughter," with dainty Nancy Carroll as the star, heads the program which closes its run at the Granada on Friday. "Remote Control," is the newest William Haines picture, is the second attraction on the current bill.

MALDEN MYSTIC THEATER

"The Dancers," with Lois Moran, Phillips Holmes and Walter Byron as the stars, will be the main attraction on the bill which opens a seven-day engagement at the Mystic Theater in Malden on Saturday. "Leather-necking," a comedy of Marine life in Honolulu, with a prize cast of fun makers including Benny Rubin, Louise Fazenda, Lilyan Tashman, Ned Sparks and Irene Dunn, will be the second feature on the bill for next Saturday. The story of "The Dancers" deals with a young couple who plight their love as children and vow to marry later in life. Then comes years of separation and Miss Moran as Diana, finds that she loves another man. Phillips Holmes plays the part of the youthful lover and he, too, finds the companionship of a cabaret entertainer preferable to that of his childhood sweetheart. Walter Byron and Ethel Mac Clark have important roles in this production which is as smart and sophisticated as anything to reach the stage this season.

"Leather-necking" is adapted from the stage success "Present Arms." "Leather-necking is all comedy with a musical background. It is full of wise cracks and presents Louise Fazenda and Ned Sparks in great comedy roles.

"The Sea Bat," with Charles Bickford and Raquel Torres as the featured players, heads the double feature program which closes its run at the Mystic on Friday.

"College Lovers" with Marion Nixon as the star, is the second attraction on the current bill.

WHEN FORMOSA "SKULL COLLECTORS" GO ON A RAMPAGE

Formosa, officially Taiwan, where Japanese police are suppressing another uprising of savages, is the source of about two-thirds of the camphor imported by the United States, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Formosa is a rugged, oval-shaped island about as large as Maryland and Rhode Island combined, lying off the Chinese coast at Hong Kong.

Camphor Hunting and Skull Hunting

Many of the natives are adept collectors of human skulls. They inhabit the eastern portion of the island where camphor trees now are sought to thwart American moths and fever blisters, and to make American movie films, continues the bulletin.

During the middle of the last century, Chinese farmers were too frequently decapitated by savages. The Chinese Government, which then controlled Formosa, built a hundred-mile fence between the wilderness and the civilized country in the western coastal zone. As the camphor trees within the fence were exhausted the barrier was moved farther into the wilderness. Natives protested by adding more skulls to their large collections which usually repose on shelves outside the doors of their huts. Sections of the fence were charged with electricity, but farmers living near the fence continued to lose their heads.

In 1895 Japan took over the islands and in 1910 organized a concerted campaign to subjugate the head hunters.

Camphor Hunters Guarded

The head collecting habit among the savages may be charged to the tribal women folk. A native girl will not listen to the pleading of a suitor until his skull shelf is graced by at least one skull, and the more skulls he can display the greater is his popularity among savage "flappers." Shelves with more than a hundred skulls have been found in the Formosan wilds.

Freshly severed heads must be displayed at festivals and religious rites. If the tribesman is unsuccessful in climbing the fence or digging his way under it, he brings in the head of a neighboring tribesman.

Guarded gates at frequent intervals along the barrier are opened to permit trading with the savages. Savages are not permitted to enter "foreign" territory and "foreigners" are permitted to enter the wilderness only by permission of the Japanese police and when accompanied by competent guards. And even the skulls of guarded camphor hunters stare at tribesmen as they enter their huts.

Western Coastal Zone is Civilized

Japanese order and efficiency mark the civilized western portion of the island. From the window of a railway train which runs from the northern tip of Formosa southward through the coastal zone, the traveler sees clean, quiet villages and towns, surrounded by miles of flooded rice fields, sugar and tea plantations. In recent years Formosa has produced 25,000,000 bushels of rice, 25,000 tons of sugar and 12,000 tons of tea.

Taihoku, near the northern terminus of the railroad, is the capital of Formosa. It is a city of 180,000 inhabitants, with wide, well-paved streets frequently flanked with spacious parks and handsome government buildings.

WINCHESTER GIRLS BUSY WITH BASKETBALL

With field hockey packed away in athletic moth-balls for another year the Winchester High School girls are now busy with basketball, a squad of 24 having reported for the varsity team.

Coach Margarita Centervall has five letter players available for duty this season with several sophomores of more or less promise, and altogether feels that she has the makings of a fair club.

Winchester in recent years has had few basketball teams to compare with its field hockey and tennis aggregations, and this despite the fact that the indoor game is the oldest by far at the local high school. In the dim and distant past Winchester's basketball teams reckoned with the best and in the days of the old triangular league with Melrose and Swampscott, the local girls were able to win their fair share of titles. For many years a Winchester girl, "Kay" Fairfield, held the girls' record of goals thrown from the floor in a basketball game.

Of late, however, Winchester's basketball showing has been only fair, and under present conditions this is not to be wondered at. An antiquated gymnasium, and too little time for practice have made it all but impossible to develop sextettes of championship caliber.

This year's prospects are rather better than usual. In addition to Capt Loretta Carleton, Marjorie Kendrick, Mabel Tompkins and the Nichols sisters, Janet and Carolyn, are veteran players who should form the nucleus of a good club.

Coach Centervall is particularly pleased with the showing of several sophomores who benefitted immensely from the special freshman practice sessions inaugurated last year. The same sessions are in order this year, and at the first one, held Monday afternoon, 29 freshmen girls reported.

Winchester's schedule is more or less up in the air at present, but it has been definitely decided not to play no Alumnae game during the vacation period. Coach Centervall and Manager Madeline Little are negotiating for a game with Melrose to be played Jan. 7 but nothing definitely has been decided on as yet.

MRS. WOODSIDE APPOINTED

Mrs. Lorenzo M. Woodside will head the committee and direct the 1931 Better Homes campaign in Winchester.

The local program is a part of the nation-wide campaign to bring about more attractive architecture, landscaping and furnishing and better construction for small homes. This program is sponsored by Better Homes in America, the organization which was initiated in 1922, with Herbert Hoover, then Secretary of Commerce, as chairman of its board of directors. Mr. Hoover continues his interest in this important work by serving as honorary president of the organization. Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, is its present, and Dr. James Ford, executive director.

The Better Homes movement is co-operating with the President's plan for the stimulation of home building and home ownership, as outlined in his statement to the planning committee of that conference, which met on Sept. 24, 1929. The purpose of that conference is a determination of the facts with relation to housing and home ownership in every important direction and the formulation of the collective judgment of leaders of the country. The Better Homes Movement is engaged in mobilizing men and women in every American community in an active program which will provide for families of small or modest means attractive, comfortable, convenient homes, and encourage a wholesome type of home and community life. Better Homes week for 1931 will be April 26 to May 2.

The central office of Better Homes in America in Washington, D. C., conducts research and acts as a clearing house for sources of information on all phases of home making. Instructions and materials for carrying on the campaign are supplied by that office. Mrs. James J. Storrow is chairman of the Massachusetts committee, located at 87 Beacon street, Boston.

HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS IN ANNUAL CLASS PLAY

What would you do if your partner in life were dumb (speechless)? Or if he or she were unpleasantly loquacious. Imagine the embarrassment of a gentleman confronted with both initating condition. Anatole France, noted author and dramatist, deals with this perplexing problem in his famous play which is a play entitled "The Man Who Married A Dumb Wife." This uproariously humorous play is full of delightfully droll situations done with all the characteristic French spice and flavor. In the picturesque setting of ancient Paris, the action races on with never a dull moment.

And best of all, this jolly comedy will be presented for your special enjoyment by the Junior and Senior Classes of the Winchester High School. Come down to the Town Hall Saturday, Jan. 17, at 8:15 p. m. and have an evening of rare pleasure.

Cured

His pockets bulging with money at the end of the cantaloupe season, an Imperial valley rancher came up to Los Angeles and presented himself at a rather ornate downtown office.

"Be this the woman's exchange?" he asked doubtfully.

"It is," replied the woman in charge.

"Be you the woman?"

"I am."

"Well, darned if I don't keep Sally," sputtered the rancher making a hasty exit.

DUTCH GUIANA TAKES UP FLYING

Dutch airplanes soon may soar over Dutch Guiana. The Dutch Government has dispatched two aviation experts to its South American colony to confer with Colonial officials regarding aerial routes.

Dutch Guiana and New York State are nearly equal in area, but there the comparison ends, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Five Rivers but Few Boats

Paramaribo, the capital, largest city and only port of any consequence on the colony's 240 mile sea coast, has 45,000 inhabitants. Improved roads radiate from the capital through the coastal lowlands but many square miles of the interior are unexplored.

One railroad, a single-tracked, narrow-gauge line 107 miles long, serves a small segment of the colony. Five rivers, some navigable for large boats 100 miles inland, form excellent transportation arteries, but few vessels ply the streams. Gold and other rich mineral deposits lie untouched in the mountains. Vast forests containing valuable woods have not echoed the hack of the lumberjack's axe.

Dutch and New England Influence

No one in Dutch Guiana seems hurried. The busiest place in the colony is the Paramaribo waterfront where black, kinky-headed stevedores in loin cloths lazily move about under sacks of sugar, coffee, and cases of balata, three of the colony's principal exports. Near-by other gangs of negroes are loading the hold of an American ship with bauxite destined for American factories where it is made into aluminum pistons, cooking utensils, airplane cockpits, and a host of other aluminum products.

The gabled Dutch houses, numerous Dutch flags flying over the city, and the presence of Dutch officials in Paramaribo remind the traveler that he is in Dutch territory. But the clapboard dwellings with green shutters flanking wide streets shaded by rows of trees; the corner grocery stores and here and there a building which the native guide tells you is built of brick from Glastonbury, Conn., recall a typical street in a New England village. Connecticut skippers who once plied between their home ports and the Guiana coast promoted the New England effect.

Street Parade of Many Races

Stand on a Paramaribo corner and watch the crowd, and the Dutch and New England comparisons fade. Black, brown, bronze, red, yellow and white men jostle one another. Natives in striped jackets and white overalls mingle with Javanese in gaudy sarongs. Lanky, Hindu men in turbans, and Hindu women, some in silks and some in tatters trip along to the tune of jingling anklets, bracelets, armlets, necklaces and ear lob ornaments. Sturdy Guiana Indians, Chinese in pajamas, mustached Asseyrians, unshaven, sharp-eyed Turks, bearded Jews, Dutch settlers in helmets and a sprinkling of Portuguese, French, British and Americans join the international parade.

Hollywood movies constitute a principal amusement in Paramaribo but equally as interesting to the traveler are Javanese women shuffling along Paramaribo streets in Dutch wooden shoes, ebony Rabbis ministering to their flocks of black and brown Jews, and negro girls dressed in Kotto Missies, the voluminous stiff national costumes of Dutch Guiana women.

Bush People Fear Cameras

Nearly one-half of Dutch Guiana's 125,000 inhabitants are negroes. These include the "bush negroes," who are descendants of slaves who fled to the bush before slavery was abolished in 1863. Fearing the jungles, bush negroes live in villages along the colony's five rivers. They neither reverted to African native customs, nor have they accepted the Guiana Indian customs. They think cameras have evil eyes; their huts are museums of things that shine and move. Shiny oil lamps without oil, sewing machines without needles or thread, pieces of patent leather and phonographs without needles are prized possessions.

A bush negro's attraction among the womenfolk depends upon the number of welts he can raise on his face by filling deep, new cuts with colored mud and adorning his kinky head with shiny safety pins and bits of metal. The women don many bracelets and anklets; cigarette and tobacco tins dangle from their numerous necklaces.

Indians live only in the coastal regions and the remote jungles in Dutch Guiana. Between these regions the negroes have driven them out because the red men allied themselves with the Dutch in their futile attempt to conquer the negroes. Treaties between the negroes and Dutch have brought peace between these races. If the traveler in Paramaribo gets a glimpse of a negro in a combination admiral's and general's uniform, accompanied by aides in top hats, it is not a Dutch military or naval officer, but the Grannaman, potentate of the Dutch Guiana negro population.

Frightful Catastrophe

One of the most devastating of all earthquakes, which occurred in China in 1556, is said to have taken the lives of 800,000 persons.

Pastime Traced to Italy

The game of dominoes originated in Italy. It was unknown until the Eighteenth century. The name domino is said to be derived from the ebony backing, which resembles the black cloak called the domino.

Canada's Northwest

The Canadian northwest is generally meant to include Saskatchewan, Alberta, British Columbia and Yukon. Vancouver is the western port for the Canadian northwest.

OUR CUSTOMERS ARE OUR FRIENDS

Many of those who drive into the TYDOL STATION we have served during our entire 12 years in Winchester.

We believe their continued patronage is a reflection of our earnest endeavor to serve them to the best of our ability.

We have faith in our products. TYDOL GASOLINE and VEEDOL MOTOR OILS have been the choice of Byrd, Eckner, Yancey and Williams, and others who have staked their lives against TYDOL dependability.

The experienced driver appreciates our efforts to give his car what it needs for efficient operation. His wife or daughter can also drive into the TYDOL STATION with perfect confidence that when she leaves, her car will be as ready for the road as we can make it.

To our Friends and Patrons we extend the
and our thanks for past favors. We intend to merit their continued confidence in 1931.

Buy Your Christmas Dinner AT Seller's Market

YOU WANT THE BEST—WE HAVE IT

One picture that the thought of Christmas brings before us is that of a number of happy people gathered around a table bountifully supplied with good things to eat. A good dinner with pleasant companionship helps wonderfully in making one feel in a right Christmas mood. In regard to the company we cannot help you—that is largely in the hands of the fates. But we feel sure that, if you buy it at SELLER'S MARKET, your Christmas dinner will do its part in making the day a happy one.

Our TURKEYS are fresh Northern A No. 1's. Our DUCKS, GEESE, CHICKENS and FOWL are all fresh killed and of the highest grade. We carry a full line of FRESH FRUITS and FRESH VEGETABLES; also canned Fruits and Vegetables. We have MINCE MEAT ready for Christmas Pies and PLUM PUDDINGS ready to serve. In fact we have everything needed for your Christmas Dinner.

AND THESE WE SELL AT THE LOWEST POSSIBLE PRICES

We wish you all a right Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

GUILD OF THE INFANT SAVIOUR

The work of the Guild is going forward rapidly under the direction of Mrs. Virgil Ghirardini, president. On Dec. 16, an enthusiastic group gathered in Fortnightly Hall for the regular meeting and sewing. Four members of the Guild, Mrs. Thomas F. Burke, Miss Josephine Brine, Mrs. James H. Carr, and Mrs. J. J. Costello, were hostesses for the afternoon and they succeeded in making the social hour most enjoyable.

The next meeting of the Guild will be held at 2 o'clock on Tuesday, Jan. 13, at Fortnightly Hall.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Harper Method hairdressing office wishes to extend their most cordial greetings to the many patrons for their generous support during the year past.

TO MARRY SATURDAY IN ST. LOUIS

There is Winchester interest in the announcement that the marriage of Miss Marianne Coleman of St. Louis, Mo., to Langley Carleton Keyes of Cambridge, formerly of this town, will take place on Saturday, Dec. 20 in the Union Avenue Christian Church in St. Louis.

Miss Coleman, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Coleman of St. Louis, was graduated from Vassar in 1922. Mr. Keyes is a Harvard man and is now an assistant dean at that University. Mr. Keyes and his bride are to live in Cambridge at 8 Chauncey street.

Nickname in Politics

Quids was the name given to the followers of John Randolph of Roanoke when he became an insurgent against Jefferson's administration in 1804. The name is derived from the Latin phrase "tertiam quid," a "third something," and alluded to the fact that the Randolph clique were neither Republicans nor Federalists.

STRAND ATTRACTIONS

"Tol'able David" the immortal classic by Joseph Hergesheimer, is now an all talking picture. It depicts the life of the Hill-Billys of Kentucky and Tennessee mountains.

Director John Blystone depicts in stark and vivid fashion what happens in the mountain country when the member of any family is wronged revealing the workings of the ensueing feud and the manner in which the family's men measure out justice without the aid of law courts. They are a law unto themselves.

A newcomer, a young artist named Richard Cromwell, depicts the role of "Tol'able David." Others in the cast are Joan Peers, Noah Beery, Henry B. Walthall and George Duryea.

Pointing up the spirit of good times, the desire for really enjoyable entertainment, Paramount unlooses a load of fast-stepping, high-and-low society action. It's "Fast and Loose" taken directly from the famous play on Broadway, "The Best People," tried and proved by a season of exceptional success. "Fast and Loose" is smart, funny, melodramatic, youthful, gay and frothy. Its moments of drama border closely on the ludicrous; its frowns are always over the borderland of laughter. "Fast and Loose" is a happiness special, and it is the second attraction on the Strand's program starting Saturday.

"Comedy" and "Tragedy"

Drama is a composition in prose or in poetry, usually intended to be acted upon the stage, presenting a story by means of characters, speaking and acting in situations contrived to develop a plot, with such accessories as scenery, etc. Tragedy is that form of drama or of dramatic composition in which the theme is solemn, lofty or pathetic, being a great action or series of acts. Comedy is that branch of dramatic art that portrays laughable incidents or characters, or the ludicrous, the satirical, or the gay, in a familiar or humorous style. It is opposed to tragedy or ceremonial drama.

Zones of the Earth

The division of the earth's surface into torrid, temperate and frigid zones is determined by the amount of the inclination of the earth's axis to the plane of the ecliptic. This inclination being 23 degrees 27 minutes, the torrid zone extends from the equator to latitude 23 degrees 27 minutes both north and south, while the two temperate zones extend from the torrid zone to within 23 degrees 27 minutes of either pole, the remaining regions lying about each pole forming the two frigid zones.

Ancient Egyptian Writings

The reeds of the Nile were the raw material from which the ancient Egyptians made their papyrus or paper, some of which preserved in mummy cases has come into modern hands, and its messages have been deciphered by our scientists. For modern wisdom, helped by the Rosetta stone and other inscriptions, has given us the key to the most ancient Egyptian writings. So that we are now able to complete our fathers' partial view of the history of Egypt as Manetho, a priest of the Delta (B. C. 285-247) wrote it in Greek, but bequeathed to our generations only fragments of his work.

Old and Young

In Australia civilization did not reach the city building stage until the arrival of European settlers. The first settlement was made at Botany bay in 1788 and moved the same year to the site of Sydney. The metropolis of Australia, therefore, is the oldest city on the continent, although it is the youngest of the world's great urban centers.—National Geographic Society Bulletin.

TREATED AT HOSPITAL AFTER COLLISION

Mrs. Angelina Orlando of 54 Swanton street was treated at the Winchester Hospital last Saturday afternoon for cuts about the face and head, sustained when the taxi in which she was riding was in collision at Fletcher and Wildwood streets with an Oldsmobile sedan, owned and driven by John G. Desmond of 7 Carter street, Woburn.

Mrs. Orlando was riding in the taxi with her daughter. She was taken to the hospital by John F. Kelleher of 42 Water street, Woburn. The machines involved in the accident were badly smashed.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Miss Mary Jean Henry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence S. Henry of Highland avenue, observed her 13th birthday Monday by entertaining a number of her friends at a bridge party in her home.

The Boston & Maine railroad police notified the local authorities last Saturday afternoon that boys were stoning trains on the main line at the Highlands. Chief William H. Rogers and Patrolman Edward W. O'Connell made a trip to the location mentioned and succeeded in rounding up a Woburn and a Winchester boy, both of whom were armed with slingshots. Both youths denied having shot at any trains.

UNIVERSITY THEATER

"Scotland Yard," a forceful drama of an importer's attempt to usurp another man's place in society, including the affections of his wife, will start Sunday for four days at the University Theater. Edmund Lowe is featured in a dual characterization in which he displays the full range of his celebrated acting ability. As "Dakin Barrolles," notorious thief, he brings to the screen a masterful portrayal of a smooth-working man of the underworld matching his wits with the cunning of Scotland Yard. As "Sir John Lasher," he is the personification of gentlemanly charm, culture and poise. To Joan Bennett, as "Xandra," wife of "Sir John Lasher" falls the honors of the feminine lead.

A humble waiter by day, a millionaire lothario by night, Maurice Chevalier's gay, laughing love-making occupies him 24 hours out of every 24 in his newest starring picture "Playboy of Paris" the companion feature.

"Laughter" starts Thursday for the last three days of the week. In this picture Nancy Carroll is seen as the ex-Follies girl who marries a very wealthy old man, her "second choice" after her young lover forsakes her in favor of an exciting trip to Paris. Upon his return to New York, her "first love" becomes a pal to Nancy's husband but slyly attempts to make advances to her. The dramatic and thrilling events which follow are the high points of interest in this powerful picture. The part of the philandering young lover is played by Fredric March, the capable young leading man who deserted the stage for the talkies.

"Tol'able David," the all-talking version of Joseph Hergesheimer's famous novel starring Richard Cromwell is the companion picture. Others in the cast are Joan Peers, Noah Beery, Henry B. Walthall and George Duryea.

A Ford truck, owned by the Golden Bell Cleaners of Malden and driven by Almon G. Ryam of 32 Bainbridge street, that city, was damaged last Saturday when it rolled down the hill and into a tree at Walcott road. The machine was parked on Walcott road and in some way the brake became released.

CHILD STRUCK BY CAR

Gertrude McNally, the 11-year-old daughter of Mrs. Gertrude E. McNally of 214 Washington street, was slightly injured last Saturday afternoon when she was knocked down in the center by a Packard sedan, owned by Vincent Farnsworth of 7 Copley street and driven by Carlton R. McCarthy of 31 Irving street.

According to the police McCarthy was driving south on Main street and was at the south side of Thompson street when the little girl came across the street in front of Piccolo's fruit store and was knocked down by the car. The child picked herself up and went to the side of the road.

She was taken to her home by Patrolman Edward W. O'Connell and attended by Dr. Milton J. Quinn. She complained of injuries to her side and leg.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Gertrude E. Kay of 40 Newton street, Brighton, reported to the police Saturday afternoon that as she was driving her Essex coach on Cambridge street the machine had caught fire. She left the machine at the side of the road and it was later towed away.

Diaries at the Star Office.

As the new State prison at Norfolk moves slowly on toward completion it is gratifying to the many friends of Hon. Lewis Parkhurst to read the many nice things which the metropolitan papers are saying about the part Winchester's distinguished citizen played in bringing about the construction of this new institution which is to replace the old prison at Charlestown, built in 1805. Mr. Parkhurst became aware of conditions at Charlestown during his term in the Senate, and since that time has labored incessantly to have a bad situation remedied.

Those who like a bit of nonsense on their Christmas cards will be pleased with the McEvoy box at the Star Office.

At 1:45 Saturday afternoon Carl B. Sayward of 183 Lakeview avenue, Cambridge, reported at headquarters that his Oldsmobile sedan had struck and killed a dog on Highland avenue at Hancock street. The animal was the property of Nora Holland of 12 Hancock street.

MISS AVERY LECTURED

On Dec. 10 Miss Avery lectured on Germany and the British Empire's trade question. All the world Miss Avery said was concerned about Germany, for Europe can have no peace until there is peace there. Economically too Germany interests everyone for we have loaned her $3,000,000 since the war.

Miss Avery said that she felt that the average American had progressed to the point where he is interested in Germany in the same way as in the other countries and therefore she was going to talk about her as she would about any other nation.

Of course the German Republic is still in the experimental stage for it is only 10 years old, and it is laboring under a handicap in that it was not adopted voluntarily but was forced on her by the 14 points of Mr. Wilson and by the knowledge that as a republic she would get better decisions than as an empire.

Germany excels in many lines but she is too individualistic to govern well. She came out of the war stripped of all her resources and had to build them up again from the beginning. For that she borrowed money from us and modernized her industry from beginning to end. She has an enormous reparation bill to pay and a great unemployment problem to face with the soldiers demobilized from the [illegible]. Germany was put through a reorganized budget that is very drastic [illegible] as an emergency effort and it [illegible] to be seen whether she can [illegible] through. If not we may have to [illegible] the debt arrangement.

The British Empire trade question Miss Avery said was an economic problem primarily. She must increase her market but of course she is met by the American tariff. The two main problems are economic and political.

Although the press generally considered the Imperial Conference a failure Miss Avery does not argue with them. In the conference it was decided that the governors general shall be chosen by the dominion and answered by the King. Several other important questions were settled but as the economic problem was not touched upon the conference was called a failure. Today England has to face the greatest problems in all her history.

Nobel's Good Work

One of the most wonderful wills in history was that of Alfred Nobel, the Swedish inventor, who left his enormous fortune in trust so that each year five prizes valued at rather more than $35,000 each should be given to the persons who have made the most important inventions or discoveries in physics, chemistry, physiology or medicine, or have done most for literature or the cause of peace. Many of these awards have been made to poor men who have been enabled to carry on good work by their aid.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The regular meeting of the Fortnightly was held in the Town Hall Monday, Dec. 15 with the President, Mrs. Christine E. Hayden, in the chair. The meeting was opened by the singing of the club song by the Glee Club, followed by the salute to the Flag. In such a time of doubt and depression as the present, it is a very pleasant thing to hear such a group of voices rallying one to greater efforts for the community and the nation. Reports were given from various standing committees, and at the close of the business meeting, Mrs. Hayden delightfully introduced Mr. Chester Scott Howland, who gave his interesting and informing lecture on "The Voyages of the Early Whalemen." Mr. Howland explained his great interest in this subject rested on two reasons. The industry itself was one of great commercial value and moreover provided opportunities for the display of all the rugged virtues which played so vivid a part in the early history of the country. The personal side of Mr. Howland's enthusiasm is due to the fact that his father was one of New Bedford's Whaling Captains.

The golden period of this industry was from 1825 to 1860. In 1834 there were about 900 vessels engaged in this trade from all over the world, of these, 700 were from America. At the height of the best period there were over 70,000 people engaged in whaling. These figures will give some idea of the value of the industry to the nation. Whaling is still carried on, but in steadily diminishing amounts and the modern version has lost all sportsmanship to the extent of resembling hunting lions in a zoo. In the days of the old square rigged ships, with none of the modern mechanics that make whaling safe and stupid, life was daily wagered against the difficulties and dangers. Voyages commonly lasted from four to eleven years, during which one might not receive news from home more than once or twice a year. A voyage of only two years or less was hardly worth while, being called a "plum-pudding voyage."

The industry was forced to be exciting when one thinks of the enormous size of the prize. Whales may be as long as 85 or 90 feet without being unusual, may weigh from 75 to 80 tons and their tail, or flukes as they are always called, may be from 18 to 24 feet in width. Small wonder that they found no difficulty in upsetting and completely wrecking the small open boats in which the chase was made. The equipment consisted of the harpoon, the lance for killing, cutting-in-gear, boarding knife, blubber hook, and the bailing bucket for oil.

Moving pictures were shown of the whole practice of taking and cutting a whale form the "raising" by the look-out to the "trying-out" process. These were preceded and followed by many beautiful views of sailing vessels and the fascinating, ever-changing sea.

It may be interesting to Fortnightly radio listeners to tune in on the weekly Federation broadcast from WBZA in Boston at 1:30 p. m. on Thursdays. These will help us keep in touch with the best and latest aspects of club work.

EUROPE-TO-INDIA in 5 DAYS—AND 315

Five days from England to India was the new aerial record recently set by Wing Comdr. Kingsford-Smith. Vasco da Gama made a record trip to India too; his was the first all-water trip from Europe to the East, and it took him 315 days to sail from Lisbon to Calicut, according to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Da Gama Was a Pioneer

It took months for da Gama to plan his voyage in search of "Christians and spices," says the bulletin. Four ships were chartered; large crews were stowed for the trip of unknown duration. With great ceremony the mariner paraded toward the Tagus River bank amid the plaudits of Portuguese crowds.

Bands played, priests chanted, wives and children of sailors wept, for such a voyage was a fateful undertaking. Maps of the 15th century showed the waters of West Africa infested with strange, mythical monsters, large enough to capsize the Portuguese ships.

Kingsford-Smith went to a London flying field early one morning with a few friends. Without ceremony except a few hand-shakes he stepped into the cockpit of his plane alone and zoomed off into space. He needed no food supplies. His tanks were filled with dependable power—gasoline; da Gama's power was the inconstant wind.

Spit Over Bow to Reckon Speed

Imagine for a moment that Vasco da Gama and Kingsford-Smith left Europe at the same instant. The aviator was looking down on Paris before da Gama got under way and, perhaps, the Portuguese mariner's fleet had scarcely disappeared over the horizon when Kingsford-Smith was dining in Rome. Da Gama's first stop was the Canary Islands, but before he dropped anchor, the aviator had landed at Karachi, India.

Da Gama had the best instrument his era afforded. With a clumsy makeshift for a sextant called the astrolabe, he reckoned latitude. Longitude was estimated by variations of the compass needle and guesswork. When the sea was calm he spit over the bow and estimated the speed of his craft by the time it took to pass the comparatively fixed spot. His maps were almost useless; he was his own weather forecaster. The only available information about his proposed route was derived from the Diaz expedition but Diaz had merely doubled the Cape of Good Hope so that the East African coast was still unknown.

Kingsford-Smith faced a panel clustered with delicate, modern instruments. When he sought to learn how high he was flying, he consulted an altimeter. He reckoned latitude by a sextant and chronometer. A climb and turn indicator showed whether he was flying straight and on an even keel. There were gas and oil gauges and a thermometer to register the temperature of the water-cooling system of his engine. Wireless apparatus kept weather men at his instant call.

Hottentots Greeted da Gama

Geographically, da Gama's voyage was immortal. His "landing fields" were quiet bays. He was greeted by natives who had never seen white men. Among them were Hottentots who carried long spears in one hand, fanned themselves with foxtails tied to a stick with the other hand, and their ears were adorned by as many shells and pieces of copper as the lobes would support. Da Gama's next stop was always a hazard. One time he was 96 days out of sight of land.

Tendency to Drop Use of Solemn Word "Death"

The word "translation," in its sense of the removal of a person to heaven, concerns such removal of a mortal body in life, as the "translation" of Enoch. "Transition" is passage from one place, or condition, or action to another; as in biology, the change of a tadpole to a frog; or in geology, of one formation into another; or a change from heat to cold. Neither the word "transition" nor the word "translation" ought to be used in a letter of condolence. The correct word to use is unquestionably "passing," which is defined as "a going away; departing; hence dying"; from the verb to pass, "to go beyond recognition by the senses; to depart from life," in which case the verb is followed by away, as in the sentence," "All earthly things must pass away," or "She passed away last night."

But what word is there that is more solemn than the word "death" itself, and why should not one make use of it? Among other words are, decease, demise, departure, and desolation.—Literary Digest.

No Contrast

The Ritzup hotel was chosen by the Van Wolff's for their second honeymoon trip to New York. Thirty years before they had stopped at the Astor, and ever since had been discoursing on the meals served there.

Two days of Ritzup dining prompted this remark from Mrs. Van Wolff:

"Henry, the meals at this hotel are just simply awful."

"Yes," answered the lesser half, "and we left [illegible] ge, too."

Trade of Long Ago

Italian pottery and jewelry unearthed among ruins at Colchester, England, show that the early Britons imported goods from Italy half a century before the Romans came to conquer their northern customers.

Deflated

His favorite aunt long had been possessed of that meaty accumulation so personally adverse to the wishes of all womankind—avoirdupois. But the youngster liked it—he chose her to be fat!

One day announcement was made that auntie had gone to the hospital for an operation, all of which was very mystifying to the youngster. In due time she returned and to his horror the rotund relative had become as slender as Anita Page.

"Aw, I don't like her that way," the youngster proclaimed in aggrieved tone.

"Why, what's the matter?" he was asked.

"Now she won't bounce so good!"

WINCHESTER'S POSSIBLE INCREASE WATER SUPPLY

To the Editor of the Star:

Please find enclosed information which speaks for itself.

As this is a very important question for our town to consider, as water is one of the greatest necessities of life next to the air we breathe let us reason together.

We are a favored people to be in possession of a domestic water system of such a pure and soft nature and to have been so well supplied while other towns and cities were in distress on account of the horrible severe drought we have passed through.

Our middle reservoir covers a surface of 58 acres as per Engineer Sears' statement and by raising the dam between that separates the middle from the south reservoir, three feet we can store an increased depth of water of four feet on this 58 acres of water surface. As one inch in depth on an acre of ground will yield 27,000 gallons of water, four feet in depth equals 75,000,000 gallons which, plus the ordinary contents of 180,000,000 gallons, equals 263,000,000 gallons that this reservoir would hold. This reservoir is not connected with our distribution system as of the south and north reservoirs. The water shed is a large one and the reservoir fills rapidly and can be made of great value for storage purposes. When this reservoir is full the waste water may be run into the north or south or both reservoirs as desired.

Since the reforestation work began the quality of the water in this reservoir has improved very materially, for there were many years, as stated by Mr. William Dotten, in which the water was not fit to use on account of the decaying vegetation in the bottom of the reservoir, for the town did not have the money to use in cleaning this reservoir when constructed and so the dam or causeway was built to separate the bad from the good water of the south reservoir. The quality of water is now of the best as shown by state analysis.

The financial cost of this work would be small compared with the value of this large reserve of water for several years to come. The material for raising this dam or causeway is in abundance at either end of this dam. All that our town may need for several years to come is an auxiliary supply of water for a short time in case of a severe drought. There is a possibility of pumping water for a limited supply from the ground in two or three locations in town as a last resort.

The next move that our town could make would be to purchase the Lyman Dyke Farm now owned by the Fallons consisting of 42½ acres of level meadow land which receives the water which runs off of several acres of high adjoining land and would yield 65,000,000 gallons of water. This property was once a part of our North Reservoir water shed.

The level of this 42½ acres is six feet above the outlet at the North Reservoir which insures a good run-off of the water from this territory. This land was once a part of our North Reservoir water shed but on account of the residential construction and no sanitary sewerage system in that part of Stoneham, the State Board of Health requested our town to shut off the water from that part of our water shed by filling in a brook that let the water run into the North Reservoir. Stoneham now has sewers to serve this territory.

Several years ago a street 40 feet wide was constructed from Marble street, Stoneham to connect with the Main street near Spot Pond, separating the surface water so that the objectional water was made to flow into a ditch by itself and passes under Forest street into the Aberjona River.

If the town should purchase this property and remove the buildings we could still say that our water shed is without a human habitation.

Our town, by taking advantage of these possibilities, can have an increased supply of water for some years to come. We need not be out of water at any time for our distribution system is in connection with that of Stoneham, Arlington and a 12 inch with Woburn on our Main street.

The one factor that would be beneficial to our town is to disconnect the political connection with outside detrimental influences as to our domestic water supply system.

The only real power that the state has in relation to our domestic water supply system is to approve or disapprove of the quality of the water and that is a most wise and protective advantage to all of the 250 different water systems located in our State, otherwise, we as a town have rights of our own in keeping the shore line of our reservoirs neat and clean. The shore line of our North Reservoir next to the Bear Hill reservation needs to have the accumulation of 56 years removed. Upon this mud the grass and weeds make a vigorous growth. When the reservoir fills growth decays and when the ice forms a reaction ceases. The ice makes an air-tight receptacle of this reservoir, causing a disagreeable taste to the water. This reservoir has been shut off several times during the last 25 years.

By the removal of this filth the storage capacity could be very materially increased and would give us a better grade of water.

Is it not good judgment to save all of the water possible which falls upon these water sheds?

Charles E. Kendall,
Water Commissioner

THE WINCHESTER WELLESLEY CLUB

The Winchester Wellesley Club held its first meeting of the season on Friday, Dec. 5. Mrs. Kenneth Young, of 27 Wedgemere avenue, was the hostess. After an informal business meeting in which plans for the winter were discussed, members and guests were privileged to hear Miss Emma Hawkridge, Wellesley, '10, tell of her recent year in Persia and the Orient. She accompanied her story with motion pictures of her travels which she had taken herself. After the entertainment, a delicious tea and pleasant social hour concluded the afternoon.

Pygmy Tribes of High Order of Intelligence

The pygmies of Africa are friendly, clean, intelligent and, in medical matters, wise beyond the wisdom of white men.

I saw one pigmy tribe perform a trepanning operation that was one of the most remarkable things I have seen on my travels. The operation was performed on a child. They used no anesthetic, of course. For a surgical instrument they used a sharp arrow head, with which they punctured the child's skull, using a stone to drive in the arrow head. The child screamed lustily, of course, but the operation was successful and the patient recovered.

The pygmies also know a remedy for leprosy, but they are wily enough not to reveal their medicine to the white men. White men, therefore, have been unable to learn whether the medicine they use is a permanent cure or only a check. Whatever it is, however, it will be valuable to science when scientists can induce the pygmies to reveal it.

Occasionally now the pygmies intermarry with the normal-sized natives, and it is not unusual to see a short, little black man going through the jungle with a wife towering over him, who lifts him over the jungle undergrowth as though he were her child. —Delia Akeley, quoted in the Brooklyn Eagle.

Witchcraft Still in Wales

In spite of recent educational campaigns belief in magic and witchcraft persists in Wales to an amazing degree, according to Prof. T. Gwynn Jones. In the Clamorgan district, he reported, "black magic" is still practiced, an instance of this being by a woman who wanted to bewitch an enemy. Belief in ghosts and fairies is still quite common in Midwales and in Cardiganshire ghosts of the dead are believed to appear either to perform a neglected duty or to do a kindness to a relative or friend. Ghosts are declared there to have given information of hidden treasure.

HANKOW: CHINA'S BUSIEST INTERIOR CITY

Hankow, an armed camp because of the constant recent threat of invasion by armies of Chinese communists, is one of China's most important cities, ranking commercially as the busiest of the interior trade centers of the Republic, according to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

While Shanghai can be identified as "China's New York," Hankow can, with good cause, be considered the Celestial Republic's New Orleans, Pittsburgh, and Chicago rolled into one, continues the bulletin. Although 600 miles inland the city, thanks to the great Yangtze Kiang, is, like New Orleans, a port for ocean steamers. China's greatest steel and iron mills are located there; and the city is the assembling point and shipping center for tremendous quantities of produce from the farms and gardens and groves of China, and of ores from her mines.

"Greater Hankow" Three Cities in One

In its purely local geography, Hankow can be compared to New York. It consists of three cities grouped across the water from each other like New York, Brooklyn and Jersey City. The group is situated where the narrow Han River meets the broad Yangtze, which is two miles across at this point. Hankow proper, by far the largest of the three communities lies in a triangle between the left bank of the Han and the left bank of the Yangtze. Across the Han is Hanyang, where the tall chimneys of great steel mills pour out an incessant stream of smoke. Across the Yangtze from both is Wuchang, capital of Hupeh Province, and for ages an important political center. Together the three closely associated cities have a population of one-and-a-half million people, with a close to a million of the total in Hankow. The group is often referred to as "the Wu-Han Cities."

Hankow's best aspect is presented to the traveler who approaches the city by river steamer from down stream. For more than two miles the international Bund stretches along the north bank of the river. It is a broad boulevard, paved, shaded by rows of trees, and faced on the land side by group after group of imposing buildings. In the distance can be seen the extensive concrete "godowns" (warehouses) in which hundreds or thousands of dollars worth of cotton silk, tea, wood-oil, beans, and dozens of other commodities are stored for shipment.

Concessions Make Up International City

Farthest up stream, adjoining the native city, is the British Concession which was the first unit of the "international city." It was established in 1861 when Hankow was first opened to foreign trade. It extends for half a mile along the river and is joined by the Russian Concession which dates from 1896. Next lies the French Concession established the same year, and beyond it the former German Concession, now taken over by the Chinese. Farthest down stream is the Japanese Concession set apart in 1898. There is no separate American settlement. The Consulate of the United States and that of Denmark are in the French Concession. In the British area are the Spanish, Dutch and Belgian Consulates. The Italian, Swedish and Norwegian Consulates are in the former German territory. The concessions are marked by relatively broad well-kept streets and by the handsome buildings that house the legation offices, hotels, banks and shops. Modern water and sewer systems and electric lighting have been installed. These improved conditions have attracted tens of thousands of well-to-do Chinese families to take up their residences in the concessions.

The native city of Hankow presents a marked contrast to the concessions. Houses and hovels are crowded along narrow streets devoid of sanitation, and the populace are dependent on water from the Yangtze, much of it carried in pails by coolies. The city was practically destroyed by fire in 1911 during the revolution which overthrew the empire and established the republic. It was hoped that the city could be rebuilt along modern lines with wide streets but instead the old tangle of alleys and crooked streets lined by haphazard structures sprang up, so that congestion is even worse than before.

China's dependence on man-power can be seen in striking fashion when ships are being loaded and unloaded at one of the many "hulks" (floating piers) along the river. An unbroken string of men under bales and bags and packages trails back and forth, swarming over streets for perhaps two or three blocks to and from warehouses. They remind one of labor armies of ants carrying leaves and bits of food.

In normal times the wharves and streets of Hankow's concessions afford little room for recreation or sport of the most simple clothes to be found in the Orient. Known as "The Race Club," it provides facilities for horse racing, riding, shooting, golf, swimming, tennis, baseball, cricket, bowling and dancing.

Bridges Over River Jordan

Although generally it has a swift current with many rapids, the River Jordan is shallow in parts and fordable, while at its lowest reaches its valley widens out into the once luxuriant plain of Jordan, where stood the famous city of Jericho, and south of it the destroyed cities of Sodom and Gomorrah.

Just below the sea of Galilee the Romans built a stone bridge, the ruins of which are still in existence. Further south is a substantial bridge called the Jisr-Mejamia, probably also of Roman foundation repaired by the Saracens some centuries later. Where the Jabbok flows into the Jordan are traces of another bridge, long since allowed by Turkish indifference to fall in ruins. This or another bridge lower down was destroyed by the Turks in the World war and replaced by the substantial stone and iron Allenby bridge.

Possible Origin of Golf

The Romans had a game called pagonica, played with a crooked stick and a ball of leather, and in England during the reign of Edward III the game was called bandy ball. The Dutch game differs greatly from the Scottish, and it is believed that golf is a direct descendant of the game of shinty, but is probably a combination of both. Golf was extensively played in Scotland in 1457.

Musical Bohemians

The peasants of the mountains of northern Bohemia are expert in the manufacture of musical instruments, and the export of string, reed and brass instruments, accordions and other keyboard instruments amounts to about $6,000,000 annually.

FUNERAL RITES FOR DANIEL T. LEAHY

Full military honors were accorded Daniel T. Leahy of Grove street, whose funeral took place Monday morning at the home of his sister, Mrs. George Doherty, 100 Damon road, Medford. Solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated in St. Mary's Church at 9 o'clock by Rev. Fr. Conrad J. Quirbach, with Rev. Fr. William J. Clarke, deacon; and Rev. Fr. Hugh Maguire of the House of the Angel Guardian, sub-deacon. The church was filled, delegations being present from Winchester Post, 97, A. L.; Woburn Lodge of Elks and Winchester Council, K. of C. A. squad of blue-jackets from the Charlestown Navy Yard acted as escort to the flag draped casket. Flags on the common and public buildings were at half staff.

The honorary pallbearers were Robert Fitzpatrick of Malden, John H. Bates of Woburn, Hugh Tobin of Woburn, Thomas A. Mawn of New Jersey, Coleman Hopkins of Great Barrington and James Wall of Woburn. Active bearers were William F. Lacey, Jr. and Frank Williams of Medford, Thomas O'Donnell, Thomas Feeney and Edward Kenny of Woburn and James Healey of Brookline.

Interment was in Oak Grove Cemetery, Medford, where three volleys were fired over the grave by the naval firing squad and taps, sounded by a naval bugler.

Mr. Leahy died early last Friday morning in the Massachusetts Memorial Hospital after a two-week's illness, following a serious operation. He was 34 years old and a native of Medford.

For 30 years he had made his home in Winchester, attending the public schools and winning for himself a wide circle of friends. He enlisted in the aviation branch of the navy during the World War, and for the past few years was associated as salesman with John H. Bates, Inc., of Woburn. He was a member of Winchester Post, A. L.; Woburn Lodge of Elks, Winchester Council, K. of C.; and of the Passionist Laymen's Retreat.

He is survived by his father, Timothy Leahy of Winchester; by three sisters, Miss Mary Leahy and Mrs. Charles R. Reardon, both of Winchester, Mrs. George Doherty of Medford; and by a brother, Edward Leahy of Woburn.

MRS. KATE WYMAN BALDWIN

Mrs. Kate Wyman Baldwin, widow of Laommi F. Baldwin and a former resident of Winchester, died Saturday, Dec. 13, at her home, 12 Elm street, North Woburn, after a long illness. She was 75 years old.

Mrs. Baldwin was born in Danvers, the daughter of Wyman B. and Mary A. (McIntire) Richardson. Her Winchester home was on what was then Walnut street, now Mystic Valley Parkway, and she will be remembered by older residents of the town. Thirty years ago she left Winchester and had since made her home at North Woburn in the old Count Rumford house at Baldwin's Crossing. Her husband, Laommi Baldwin, who died 10 years ago, was a direct descendent of William Baldwin, better known as Count Rumford, famous as a patron of science and as the discoverer of the Baldwin apple.

Mrs. Baldwin is survived by two daughters, Miss Clara R. and Miss Mary B. Baldwin of Woburn, and by one son, James R. Baldwin of North Andover.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at the late residence, with the Rev. Luther L. Weller of Somerville, former pastor of Trinity Episcopal Church, Woburn, officiating. Interment was in Woodbrook Cemetery, Woburn.

MRS. SARAH CATHERINE CURRELL

Mrs. Sarah Catherine Currell, widow of Joseph Porter Currell, died Sunday afternoon, Dec. 14, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John F. Webber, 49 Brookside avenue, after a week's illness.

Mrs. Currell was 90 years old and a native of Waldoboro, Me., the daughter of Calvin and Charlotte (Cotten) Castner. For many years she made her home in Woburn, coming to Winchester in 1916. Her daughter, Mrs. Webber, with whom she made her home, is her only survivor.

Private funeral services were conducted at 10:30 Tuesday morning at the late residence by the Rev. John H. Whitley, pastor of the Second Congregational Church. Interment was in Woodbrook Cemetery, Woburn.

Course of Gulf Stream

The Gulf Stream issues between the coasts of Florida and Cuba and flows to the north along the North American coast as far north as latitude 40 degrees and west longitude 50 degrees, widening somewhat as it tends to the north. At about 41 degrees north it impinges on the southerly flowing Labrador stream. The Gulf stream's main axis cuts the forty-fifth parallel at a small angle. This point is along the coast of Halifax.

Work's Great Value

NATIVITY PLAY

At First Congregational Church, Draws Large Congregation

Laurence Houseman's Nativity play "Bethlehem," presented in the chancel of the First Congregational Church last Sunday afternoon, drew again this year a capacity congregation. An hour before the play was presented the congregation began to assemble and many were turned away. This is the fifth successive season that the play has been presented and each year it has drawn increasing numbers.

The play is presented against the background of a golden tryptic, between two massive spruce trees 30 feet high at the back of the chancel. The choir, clad in red cottas and figured stoles, sang carols from the balcony of the church for 20 minutes before the play and then marched double processional down the two aisles of the church, picked out by spot lights from the balcony, singing "Oh, Come All Ye Faithful," and massed in the chancel as in some dim cathedral, to sing a prelude for the play.

From then on, the various characters of the play, including Gabriel, Joseph, and Mary, shepherds, and Wise Men, made their appearance beneath the soft golden light, and amidst appropriate selections by the choir.

A breathless silence held the large congregation throughout the entire play. Perhaps this play is the greatest Nativity play ever written. It was presented with a finish that would have done credit to a professional cast and yet with deep reverence on the part of all who presented it and those who witnessed it.

USED STAR AS COPY

Over in Paris the radio dealers apparently like to check up on what United States dealers are doing in the way of advertising their sets and service. It so happened that the Paris Atwater-Kent dealer was given a fine opportunity to see just what his brother Winchester dealer, "Sam" McNeilley, is doing along advertising lines through the medium of the STAR.

About three months ago a Winchester boy, "Jimmy" Donlan, who carries on for Uncle Sam's Navy, was in Paris, and had been sent a copy of the STAR by his family here. It seems that "Jimmy" was contemplating the purchase of a new radio for the folks and in the STAR "Sam" was advertising just the set his family thought was right.

"Jimmy" was browsing about the Atwater-Kent dealers in Paris while on shore leave, and while chatting with the proprietor showed the latter "Sam's" attractive advertisement in the STAR which had been sent him from home. The dealer was pleased with "Sam's" ideas and kept "Jimmy's" STAR as a working model for some of his own advertisements. It just goes to show that "Sam" knows his advertising as well as his radios, and of course we at the STAR like to learn that our display work is considered attractive so far from home. And just to make it unanimous Seaman Donlan bought a set off "Sam" which is proof positive of the pulling power of STAR ads.

CHRISTMAS MYSTERY AT EPIPHANY

The Virgin Mary . . . Mrs. John Phelps
Joseph . . . Lewis Best
Angels: Virginia Smalley, Henrietta Garner, Gene MacDonald, Margaret Best, Virginia Stratton, Ruth Aseltine, Nancy Jackson, Rebecca Jackson, Eleanor Sharon, Anne Kimball, Elizabeth Raycroft, William Wilde, Louise Kelley
Shepherds: Robert Colten, Robert Thornton, Richard Lexhorn
Wise Men: Mr. Kidder, Mr. Story, Mr. Thornton

MUSICAL VESPER WITH HARPIST AT CRAWFORD MEMORIAL METHODIST CHURCH

A reading from Henry Van Dyke's story, "The Mansion" will be given at the vesper service next Sunday afternoon at 4:30 at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. On the program will be musical numbers interpreting the reading by Miss Ruth Spencer, harpist, in solo numbers, Mrs. Glennys Pollard Thompson, violinist, Mrs. Dorothy S. Perry, 'cellist and Mrs. Mary Ranton Witham, pianist, in instrumental trio, with Mrs. Norman Hitchcock, soprano. The public is cordially invited.

ENTERTAINED ON FOURTEENTH BIRTHDAY

Lester Gustin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Gustin of Lakeview road, entertained a group of his young friends last Saturday evening on the anniversary of his 14th birthday.

With Mr. and Mrs. Gustin as chaperons, the party motored to Barbecue Inn in Sudbury for dinner and dancing, favors and noisemakers helping to make the evening memorable. Among those who attended were the Misses Esther Loftus, Ruth Aseltine, Frances Cove, Virginia Cutter of Arlington, June Pettingell and George Davidson, Robert Cushman, Charles Reed, Kenneth Nason and Lester Gustin.

One motor accident was reported to the police the night before Christmas. A Dodge truck, owned and driven by Jacob Polack of 524 Cross street, Malden, while going north on Main street at the junction of the Parkway skidded and crashed against the curbing at the side of the road, breaking off its right rear wheel. The machine was towed to Pike's Garage.

WINCHESTER ENTERS NEW LEAGUE

Preliminary Meeting Last Friday at Lexington

At a meeting, held last Friday afternoon at Lexington High School, representatives of Lexington, Concord, Belmont, Stoneham, Maynard and Winchester voted to form a new high school league to foster football, baseball, track and basketball. While no name for the new circuit has as yet been chosen it is likely that the combination will be known as the Middlesex League, taking the name of the body in which Lexington, Belmont Stoneham and Winchester now play their basketball with Reading. There is a possibility that Reading will swing into line with the other schools in the new grouping for all sports but just at present things are pretty much undecided in that town, with the feeling seeming to be that Reading is not yet ready for league competition, at least in football.

Principal Wade L. Grindle of Winchester was named temporary chairman of the new circuit with Principal Watson of Stoneham, temporary secretary-treasurer. The principals of the schools represented are now working upon the draft of by-laws for the new organization, and the athletic directors are busy with the football schedule which will formally open the new league next fall.

There is a chance that the new league will operate in track this spring, for Winchester would be able to do so, and still fulfill its obligations in baseball with the Mystic League combination. At present things are more or less unsettled, but there is unquestionably a real enthusiasm for the new organization which augars well for its popularity.

The teams thus far listed are all pretty much of the same athletic strength, and a natural and very healthy rivalry should be the result of their getting together regularly. A league, in which each member has a chance to knock each other member out of the race for the championship, is the ideal situation, and such a league the new combination promises to be.

WELFARE COMMITTEE SPREAD CHRISTMAS CHEER

Some 597 men, women and children of Winchester, for one reason or another unable to provide their own holiday cheer at Christmas, were helped by the Citizens' Community Welfare Committee to find a bit of brightness among the clouds of misfortune.

Six hundred dollars worth of orders in $1 denominations were given out by the committee to 108 families or individuals. A few baskets were distributed, but not many, the committee feeling that it was preferable so far as possible to give those assisted an opportunity to choose what they most wanted.

The youngsters were by no means forgotten, a goodly number of toys and other things dear to the childish heart, donated by the Mothers' Association and schools, being assembled at the office of the Superintendent of Schools for distribution. Members of the Mothers' Association, Red Cross and Welfare Committee worked hard sorting and wrapping these gifts, and there were in all more than 400 articles in the lot.

The Rotary, through its Welfare Committee, comprising George Welch, Price Wilson, Nathaniel M. Nichols and Edwin Nelson, presented 45 children on Christmas Day with a useful gift, a top and candy, independent of what was done by the town.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT OF MISS BOND

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred M. Bond of Salisbury street announce the engagement of their daughter, Gertrude, to Mr. D. Joseph DeMasi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DeMasi of New Haven, Conn.

Miss Bond is a senior at Syracuse University, and Mr. DeMasi graduated from Syracuse in 1928. He is affiliated with the Phi Kappa fraternity.

THREE FIRES FRIDAY

The Fire Department was called three times last Friday afternoon for grass fires. At 1:15, Box 57 was sounded for a fire on a vacant lot at High street and at 1:55 there was a fire on Woodside road. The last call was for burning grass at 2:45 at the rear of White street.

Saturday afternoon at 1:43 the department was called by telephone to put out a chimney fire at 15 Wildwood street.

MRS. ELLEN LOUISE LITTLEHALE

Mrs. Ellen Louise Littlehale, widow of James L. Littlehale and mother of Mrs. Herman Dudley Murphy, died Sunday, Dec. 21, at her home on Summit road in Lexington. Mrs. Littlehale was 89 years old and a native of Nantucket. Funeral services were held at the late residence Wednesday afternoon. Interment was at Mt. Auburn.

MASONS HOLD OPEN HOUSE

The three Masonic Lodges of Winchester, William Parkman, Mystic Valley and Winchester Royal Arch Chapter, will hold their customary open house and reception on New Year's Day at the Masonic Rooms in the Brown & Stanton block. All visiting Masons are cordially invited to attend and participate from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m.

WEEK-END ACCIDENTS

Last Friday afternoon shortly after 5 o'clock Harold A. Tarbox of 70 High street, Stoneham reported to the police that as he was driving a Ford coupe, the property of E. C. Sanderson of 2 Dix street, from Converse place to go south on Main street the machine was in collision with a Ford coupe, the property of the Ballard Oil Service Company of Boston and operated by Anthony J. Weld of 3 Silloway street, Dorchester. Both cars were damaged but no one was injured.

At 1 o'clock Saturday morning a Hupmobile sedan, in charge of Charles H. C. Hayes of 20 Poplar street, Belmont, was in collision at the junction of the Parkway and Washington street with a Nash touring car, driven by Michael J. Quinno of 32 Union street, Woburn. Both machines were damaged but again no one was injured.

Stephen S. Bean of 9 Ingalls street, Woburn, reported to the police that as he was driving an Erskine cabriolet south on Washington street at 8 o'clock last Saturday morning at a point near the entrance to the Watch Hand Factory his machine was in collision with a Ford truck, driven by Daniel O'Callahan of 700 Washington street, who was headed north. Both machines were slightly damaged and O'Callahan claimed that he was injured in the smashup. According to Bean the road was very slippery where the accident occurred.

The police were notified of an accident which occurred at the junction of Fletcher and Church streets at 4:15 last Saturday by Kenneth M. Pratt. Mr. Pratt stated that as he was driving his Dodge touring car from Fletcher street across Church street to enter Bacon street, his machine was in collision with a Ford sedan, owned and operated by William H. Gilliland of 8 Pinckney place, East Somerville, the latter making a left turn from Bacon street to go west on Church street. Both machines were damaged but no one was injured.

MRS. LYDIA MAUDE FERGUSON

Mrs. Lydia Maude Ferguson, wife of George R. Ferguson, died Friday night, Dec. 19, at her home on Highland avenue, following a long illness.

Mrs. Ferguson was born 54 years ago in Saginaw, Mich., the daughter of Clark Sherman and Francina L. (Eastwood) McMillan. She was educated in the Saginaw schools and at the Detroit School of Music. Previous to her marriage her parents moved to Detroit, and it was in that city on June 11, 1902, that she married Mr. Ferguson, coming east directly afterward.

For four months she made her home in Brookline, but then came to Winchester, living first on Maxwell road and since 1906 on Highland avenue. She was an accomplished singer, and for a time after coming east she sang with a church quartette in Florence. Always primarily interested in her home and its activities she was also, before her health became impaired, a member of the Fortnightly Club and of the Ladies' Friendly Society of the Unitarian Church. She is survived by her husband, and by one son, Rupert Ferguson, both of Winchester.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the late residence with Rev. Dr. Thomas H. Billings, pastor of the First Church, Unitarian, in Salem, officiating. Interment was in the Ferguson family lot in Woodbrook Cemetery, Woburn.

CALUMET CLUB NOTES

Preparations are now underway for the grand New Year's Eve jubilee party. The party is to start at 9 o'clock on Wednesday evening, Dec. 31, and promises to far eclipse anything of a like nature held at the club. There will be dancing to the tempting music of Lou Lewis' syncopating saxophone dance band, a high class cabaret entertainment from a well known Boston night club review, many novelties, a confetti shower and jubilee at midnight and last, but not least, a collation.

Members are urged to make up their parties for the evening and send in their reservations at once. Dec. 29 has been set as the dead line, and all attending must notify the steward on or before that date.

ENTERTAINED J. F. C. CLUB

Mrs. Roger V. Pettingell entertained the J. F. C. Club at her home on Rangeley ridge Tuesday evening, the event being the annual Christmas party of the organization which has been in existence since the school days of its members.

A feature of the party was the Christmas tree on which were presents for everyone, furnished by the members and selected by lot. Bridge was enjoyed by the gentlemen of the party and refreshments were served.

HOLIDAY QUIET

Winchester was on the whole a quiet place during the holiday. The police were called upon to quell three disturbances, but no arrests were made. A boy trying out his Christmas sled ran into a Ford coupe on Cross street at Loring avenue, but was not injured, and another youngster was lost during the day. The worst casualty reported was that of Officer Charles J. Harrold, who sprained a foot on Winthrop street and was obliged to go home. At 1:15 this morning a Chevrolet sedan, owned and operated by Frank E. Lownbury of 10 Plainsfield street, Jamaica Plain, while going south on Cross street skidded and struck the bridge at the Highland Station. A danger sign was broken off and the Chevrolet was badly damaged.

UNITARIAN NEWS

Annual Musical Treat of the Unitarian Men's Club

Rehearsals are progressing finely by members of the Men's Club of the Unitarian Church and already an excellent idea of the form of entertainment which this popular organization is to give on Friday, Jan. 9, can be outlined.

The production has been specially written by George F. Madden who has supplied the vehicle for both parts and the music will be under the direction of Alma A. Madden, both of whom gave such a delightful performance last spring.

The two parts will open with a musical banquet in which all the members take part and many novel surprises will be introduced from the moment the curtain is opened to the finale which allows of a very spectacular ending.

The second part is entitled "The Song Shop Revue," a novel way of presenting all the latest songs and the stage setting will be one of the most unique ever seen in any local presentation. Among the many numbers to be introduced are two quartet arrangements and a "double quartet" of some of the most beautiful of Winchester's fair damsels who will give their interpretation of the song "I Remember You From Somewhere," "a la Floradora" and a college song with its football huddle and signals.

Snappy dancing numbers and wonderful effects are to be used and a rare treat is promised.

Following are the names of those who will take part in both of these two novel musical programs:

"Ed" Merrill	Herbert Miller
Arthur Hollins	Kenneth McCleod
George Byford	Charles Carter
Ralph Hale	H. Arthur Hall
T. von Rosenvinge	Robert Livingstone
George Cummings	James Joslin
Harry Goddard	A. W. Hall
Henry Hildreth	D. Earle Osgood
Jesse Wilson	K. S. Hall
D. Townely-Tilson	Hall Gamage
Kenneth Pratt	William Miller

The Men's Club held a supper last week in the Winsor Room. Mr. Bernard M. Sheridan, Superintendent of Schools of Lawrence gave a very instructive talk on schools. Mr. Sheridan formerly taught school on Cape Cod and was Superintendent of Schools there before going to Lawrence. He has been at the latter place for a number of years and has made a study of school problems. It is regretted that the ladies were not invited and that there was not a larger audience to hear the talk. Coming as it did on the eve of the special town meeting, it might have helped to straighten out our school tangle. Mr. Sheridan's was a scholarly address, based on facts and figures. Comparing the amounts of money spent in this country on various things such as cosmetics, tobacco, amusements, etc., with the cost of school buildings, preparing a teacher for her work and pupil for graduation, it was the belief of the audience that the latter suffered considerably.

"Bill" Wood and his trained assistants prepared a fine supper. There were quite a few late comers who might have gone hungry had not "Bill" gauged the supper to a nicety.

"Ed" Merrill led the singing with congenial "Jim" McGrath at the piano.

MANY HOME FROM SCHOOL AND COLLEGE FOR HOLIDAYS

As usual the Christmas holidays find many young men and women at home from school and college. Among the many are Clifton McNeill, James Haley and Lawrence Gray from New Hampton Prep; Deborah Gilbert, Helen Wild and Alice Bigley from Smith; Elizabeth Adriance, Mt. Holyoke; Ruth Tompkins, Wheaton; Frank Barnes, Wesleyan; Van Cunningham, Ohio Wesleyan; Frank Parsons, Rollins College, Winter Park, Florida; John Murphy, Exeter; Henry Knowlton, Springfield; Richard Murphy, Grinnell; Russell Franklin, Roger Derby and Paul Kendrick, Bates; Mary Reed, Pine Manor; William Allen, Williams; Mary Armstrong, Priscilla Bodman and Florence Watters, Skidmore; John Ghirardini, Worcester Academy; Gordon Gillettte, Bartlett Godfrey, Gordon Bennett and Donald Bates, Bowdoin; Bradford Hill, Francis Hooper, Russell Davis, Henry Newman, Henry Brown, Frank Carleton, Gordon Hindes, Thad Smith, Dartmouth; George Dennison, Harvard; Elizabeth Linscott, Wisconsin University; Dorothy Linscott, Duke; Wellington Stevens, St. John's College, Annapolis, Md.; Earl Waters and Utley Smith, Brown; Mary Louise Carpenter and Katherine Nowell, Vassar; William Morton, Williams; Marjorie Grant, Rowe Junior College; Helen Sexton, National Park, Washington, D. C.; Elizabeth Berry, Jackson and Edward Berry, Norwich.

PRISCILLA ISABEL QUEEN

Priscilla Isabel Queen, 10-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Queen of Center street, Woburn, who has been making her home in this town with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Cady of 846 Main street, died Wednesday, Dec. 24 at noon in the Massachusetts General Hospital, after a two weeks' illness. The funeral will be from the Cady home Saturday morning and the mass of the Angels will be sung in St. Mary's Church at 9 o'clock. Interment will be in Calvary Cemetery.

The Fire Department was called twice on Christmas Day, both times to put out chimney fires. The first call came at 11:22 a. m. for a chimney fire in a house on Everell road, and the second, at 12:08 p. m., was for a similar blaze in a house on Park road.

COMMUNITY CAROLS WELCOMED HOLIDAY

Crowd at Tree on Common in Festive Mood—Snow Made Beautiful Picture

Standing in the snow about the Christmas tree on the common, a good sized group of carolers extended a most pleasing welcome to the night before the Christmas holiday by singing many of the old tunes which years and years of singing have made familiar to all.

It was a beautiful picture. The brilliantly lighted tree with its tiny electric bulbs, gleaming in gay colors through the heavy snow upon its branches and the crowd of carolers, old and young, standing in a circle under the huge new arc light whose rays glinted upon the instrument of the trumpeter. Men and women, boys and girls were in the group, young and old and rich and poor, all singing and enjoying the community spirit which was most prevalent.

Many Girl Scouts were in the group, some in uniform, with their Commissioner, Mrs. Clifton S. Hall, Chairman Cora Corthell Phelps of the Troop Committee of Troop 4, and Captains Annette Symmes Hughes, Marien Symmes and Christine Clarke.

The singing was under the direction of Jean MacLellan, and Guido Talone, well known to members of the Music Garden, was the trumpeter.

Citizens on their way to and from the center paused to listen and to enjoy the pleasing spectacle, and many joined in the singing. As the carol singing ceased a splendid program of carols and classical music was played upon the Downes Memorial chime of bells by Miss Marjorie Hayden. The Chimes at the Baptist Church also rang out with Christmas music during the evening.

It was one of the most beautiful "nights before" Winchester has had for years. The thick blanket of snow made a lovely background for the lights and decorations of the holiday season, and everywhere people seemed in high spirits.

Leaving the tree, a little group of Scouts with Commissioner Hall paid a surprise visit to the hospital where Elizabeth Edmunds of Troop 5 is bed ridden with rheumatic fever. The "Brownies," under the direction of Mrs. Mabel Tapley of Pack II and Mrs. Ethel Goodwin of Pack 1, furnished and decorated two Christmas trees for the children in the children's ward at the hospital. There were many other little individual acts of kindness performed by the Scouts which aided greatly in making Christmas happier for some of the less fortunate about town.

FOUND DEAD IN ROOM CHRISTMAS EVE

Anthony Natile Long a Resident of Winchester

Anthony Natile, 70, was found dead in his room at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Benjamin Todesca, 45 Tremont street, Wednesday afternoon shortly after 4:30 by Patrolmen John J. Regan and James P. Donaghey of the Police Department. He had been dead for some time when discovered by the police.

Mr. Natile had not been in good health for some years, and it had been his custom to spend much of his time in his room. He had been given his breakfast about 10:30 in the morning by his daughter who became alarmed when she was unable to get into the room to take her father a lunch during the afternoon. Her repeated calls brought no response and the police were notified, Patrolmen Regan and Donaghey being dispatched to the Todesca home by Chief Rogers.

Breaking down the door to Mr. Natile's room they found the old man, sitting in a chair, dead. Medical Examiner Stewart of Woburn viewed the body and stated that Mr. Natile had died from natural causes and that he had been dead for about five or six hours. Undertaker E. P. Sullivan was notified and took charge of the body.

Mr. Natile was a native of Italy, but had made his home in Winchester for many years. He was retired and for the past 10 or 15 years had not been in good health. Besides Mrs. Todesca he leaves a son, living in Stoneham.

The funeral was held from the Todesca residence this Friday morning with a solemn high mass of requiem in St. Mary's Church. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery.

TWO ACCIDENTS WEDNESDAY

A Buick sedan, owned and operated by William H. Scherferan of 187 Banks street, Cambridge, was in collision at 9:30 Tuesday evening on Cambridge street at Pond street with a Ford touring car, owned and driven by George H. Midgley of 21 Forbes street, Jamaica Plain.

According to the police Scherferan's car was going south on Cambridge street and when a car ahead of him slowed down to make a left turn into Pond street, swung to the left and collided with the Ford. Both machines were badly damaged and Constance Woolhouse of the Franklin Square House, who was riding with Midgley complained of injuries. She was taken to the office of Dr. Milton J. Quinn and treated for a bruised nose, and eye and cuts on both legs. Another passenger, Arthur Barlow of 1 Perkins street, Jamaica Plain, was treated for a cut over the right ear.

Thomas E. O'Neil of 83 Pleasant street, Woburn reported to the police that as he was driving a Pontiac sedan north on Woodside road at 10 p. m. his machine was in collision with an Essex coach, going south and driven by Arthur Cail of Woburn. Both cars were damaged but no one was reported injured.

ENTERTAINED AT COUNTRY CLUB

Mrs. Philip Nichols of Newton and Mrs. Louis Page of Winchester entertained in honor of their respective daughters, Miss Katharine Nichols and Miss Charlotte Page, at a dance given at the Winchester Country Club this week. Miss Nichols and Miss Page are graduates of the Buckingham School in Cambridge. Preceding the dance, there was a dinner given at the club for about 50 friends and ushers. Mr. Lincoln O'Brien headed the ushers' list, which included two brothers of Miss Page, Mr. Allen Page and Mr. John Page; Mr. Philip Nichols, Jr., brother of Miss Nichols; Messrs. Charles Campbell, Malcolm Bancroft, Henry Winslow, Robert Blake, Leonard Snyder, Saville Davis, Elliot Noyes, Henry Van de Boeert, Nathaniel Porter, Patterson Hale, Charles Sweetser, George Kakas, Lovett Morse, Loren Tarleton, Stowell Johnson, Henry David, Robert Hurlburt, William Morton, Robert Davis and Theodore Roberts. Several dinners were given before the dance in both Winchester and Newton. Mrs. Lucius S. Tyler of Kenwood avenue, Newton Centre, entertained for her daughter Miss Josephine Tyler. Mrs. Frank P. Scofield of Vernon street, Newton entertained for her daughters, Miss Elizabeth Scofield and Miss Anne Scofield.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

The police were notified of a woman who has been passing worthless checks in Winchester to local merchants. She told one shop-keeper who cashed a check that she lived in Winchester and that her husband teaches school in Newton. Apparently the same woman had been busy in Arlington where she gave her Winchester address as 68 Main street which is an uninhabited lodge. The woman, is of refined appearance gave the local merchant a check made out to Annie M. Wright and signed J. Dudley Wright.

Winchester had its first real snowstorm of the year Tuesday and the town was snowbound after the fall which began about 1 o'clock in the morning and continued steadily until late afternoon. The town men were busy all day with many extra helpers who were put to work shoveling in place of the mechanical snow remover used last winter. The roads were pretty well broken out by nightfall, and though driving was "tricky" there were plenty of cars about. The snow was wet and very heavy, few storms in the past year or so having precipitated so much in so short a time.

Mr. Charles A. Burn is reported as quite ill at his home on Lawson road.

The telephone operators at the Winchester Exchange had their usual tree the day before Christmas. This is an annual event at the exchange and is always much enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick F. Ritchie of Wedgemere avenue with Miss Barbara Ritchie and Master David Ritchie, leave today to spend the Christmas and New Year's holidays at Toy Town Tavern.

Mr. Guy Kinsley of New York City was in town to spend the Christmas holidays with his brother, Mr. Wilbert Kinsley and Mrs. Kinsley of Cambridge street.

Ships of the Pacific and Atlantic fleet which will proceed to Panama early next month for an annual cruise to the Tropics, will have on board a local boy who is serving aboard the battleship Arkansas—William Donlon, yeoman 3c, who makes his home at 814 Main street. The Pacific fleet will leave San Pedro, Calif., on Jan 15, engage in target practice enroute along the coast of Mexico and base in Central American waters in company with the Atlantic fleet during the remaining winter months, returning to San Pedro, on May 1. The Atlantic fleet will arrive in Panama Feb 1 and remain there until May 15. The mailing address of all vessels during the concentration period will be: c/o Postmaster, New York, N. Y.

The Building Commissioner has granted a permit for the week ending Dec. 24 to William H. Irwin to repair barn building after fire, at 18 Ridge street.

While the brilliant illumination which has characterized the town in former seasons is missing this Christmas there are nevertheless many residences about town attractively lighted up. The Common and community tree are in holiday attire as usual.

Mr. and Mrs. James Halwartz and family are spending the Christmas holidays in Freeport, N. Y., with Mr. Halwartz's mother.

Donald W. Ash, son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace W. Ash of Fairview terrace, has been elected a member of the ode committee of the senior class at Mercersburg Academy.

ANNUAL CHRISTMAS PARTY

The dancing classes of the National Associated Studios of Music, under the direction of Constance Berry Page, held their annual Christmas party at Waterfield Hall, Dec. 22.

A short demonstration of class routine was given for the benefit of the guests after which several solo dances were given by Patricia Cole, Barbara Fifield, Jeanne Mornn, Jane Morton, Beatrice Page and Miriam Snow.

After the solo dances games were enjoyed by all of the children. The children then formed in line and each child as she marched around was given a box of Christmas candy.

During this time mothers and their guests were served coffee in the studio of Pearl Bates Morton, Miss Bertha Barnes and Mrs. Samael D. Cole, pouring.

R. R. Barron of this town, University of Vermont, 1924, has received his numerals for class football.

VAUGHAN—SCHRAFFT

Recent news dispatches state that Mrs. George F. Schrafft, widow of a millionaire Boston candy manufacturer, and F. Gilbert Vaughan of 44 Swan road, were quietly married in the Town Hall at Milan, Italy, on Thanksgiving Day, and are now at the bride's home at 885 Center street, Newton.

Mrs. Vaughan has a home in Milan in addition to the one at Newton, and spends some time each year in the Italian city with her daughter, Miss Kathryn Schrafft, who is studying singing. There are three other children who live with their mother in the Newton home.

Mr. Vaughan was for several years manager of the Chicago office of the Forbes Lithograph Company of Boston and Revere. He retired from business three or four years ago, and since has lived at the home of his brother-in-law, Dr. Harold Adams Gale, in Winchester.

YOUNG PEOPLE IN UNITARIAN CHURCH PRESENT A CHRISTMAS PAGEANT

The Meyer Chapel was filled to overflowing last Sunday evening when the young people in the Metcalf Union of the Unitarian Church presented a Christmas pageant, depicting the Nativity. Miss Eleanor Hollins was the soloist, and sang two very lovely solos, "Ave Maria" and "O Little Town of Bethlehem." Miss Hollins and Miss Chella Perkins assisted the choir of girls in the Union, who sang many of the old Christmas carols, "Gloria In Excelsis," and "Seven Fold Amen." The chorus was seated behind trees which filled the rear of the platform, and represented the angels singing their joy to the world at the birth of the Savior. The parts were all taken by members of the Union, and consisted of the following:

Mary ..... Elizabeth Proctor
Joseph ..... Roger Newell
Gabriel ..... Allan Wood
Three Kings, David Kenerson, Robert Goddard, Eugene Cooper
Shepherds, Robert Cushman, Andrew Young, Henry LeRoyer

The chorus consisted of Ruth Wadleigh, Harriet Cooper, Virginia Smith, Eugenia Smith, Marjorie Dutch, Margaret Kenerson, Louisa Williams, Marjorie Kidder and Dorothy Twombly. Dean John P. Marshall was at the organ.

The chapel was decorated with wreaths tied with large red bows and streamers, tall red candles, and a beautiful bouquet of white calla lilies. A star which gradually grew brighter as the kings and the shepherds neared the manger, was hidden among the trees on the platform and gave a very effective background for the players, who played each part exceptionally well. The tableau at the very end was perhaps the most impressive part of the entire pageant. The chorus sang the "Seven Fold Amen" while the shepherds and the wise men stood before the manger with Mary seated beside it and Joseph leaning on his staff, watching Mary and the infant. As the chorus sang the last "Amen," the star gradually dimmed and the gift bearers slowly walked away.

Popular Nickname

"Paddy" is a common nickname for Patrick and is applied to Irishmen in general because Patrick is a common name among them. It is supposed that "Paddy" is not derived directly from "Patrick," but from its precursor, "Palladius."

HIGH SCHOOL WON FROM ALUMNI

In one of the fastest opening games seen on the gymnasium floor for some years, Winchester High School won from a good Alumni basketball team last Friday evening, 35—22. The graduates with the Amico boys, "Livin" McNeil and "Johnnie" Murphy in the lineup were favored to win, but the schoolboys carried the game right to the older group and gradually forged into a commanding lead.

Not yet very far along, the schoolboys showed only a couple of simple formations which nevertheless were very effective against the Alumni, all of whom had seen plenty of actual service.

The best part of the high school's showing was the ability of every member of the group to score. West and Lundblad, playing back court, were very much in the tallying, tossing between them six goals from the floor and a couple from free tries.

Little Dexter Mobbs, who replaced "Stutz" DiMinico, was the sparkplug of the schoolboys, being literally all over the floor. "Johnnie" Murphy, last year's high school captain, and the veteran "Livin" McNeil starred for the Alumni.

Between the halves of the first team game, the high school second team won from the Alumni seconds by a close score.

The summary of the main game follows:

WINCHESTER REPRESENTED IN NATIONAL TENNIS PLAY

Several of Winchester's youthful tennis players are participating in the Boys' and Girls' National Indoor Championships, to be played on the Longwood Covered Courts and in the 5th Regiment Armory in New York City, commencing today for the boys, with the girls getting under way Monday. The girls are to decide their championship at the Longwood Cricket Club, the boys in New York.

So far as is known "Billy" Gilpatrie is Winchester's sole entry in the latter tournament, and "Billy" is a worthy representative. In his class he has never been beaten except by Sumner Rodman, one of the very best of the younger competitors. "Billy" is entered for both singles and doubles in New York, being paired with Eugene Sullivan of Brookline, a Brown & Nichols boy.

Though claiming Greenwich, Conn., as his home, Daniel Bradford Badger of Andover, who is also entered in the boys' play, is another who might well be listed as a Winchester standard bearer. He is the son of Paul B. Badger, ex-Winchester High, Andover and Yale baseball star, and the grandson of Daniel B. Badger of Prospect street. His progress will be watched by many who admired his father's athletic prowess in the good old days.

On the girls' side of the tourney the local list is headed by Mary Cutter, ex-high school player, now at Sargent, who is expected to have plenty to say about the final winner of the title. Mary is playing both singles and doubles, her partner being Helen Fulton of Winnetka, Ill., reputed to be a good performer.

Lucy Fowle, now a sophomore at high school, is another Winchester girl entered for both singles and doubles, playing in the latter instance with Sally Jones, No. 1 on the Brookline High team. Frances Poinier, Betty Proctor and Barbara Chidley round out the local entry list, and all are capable players, apt at any time to upset a championship prospect.

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

"Abraham Lincoln" which comes to the University Theater for four days starting Sunday is pictorial drama at its greatest. Though the picture possesses all of the ingredients of an historical spectacle—big sets, battle scenes and mobs—its greatness is founded on the simplicity of its direction and the sympathetic treatment of its romantic and tragic scenes. The whole of Lincoln's life is portrayed on the screen, from the time of his birth to his assassination at Ford's Theater in Washington just as he had realized a successful conclusion to the Civil War. Walter Huston makes Lincoln a human being who loves and reacts to disappointments as any other man might.

"Top Speed" the companion picture, starring Joe E. Brown, is a comedy drama with music; side-splitting funfest that combines a thrilling speed boat race with a wonderful romance.

"The Big Trail" which starts Thursday for three days features John Wayne, Marguerite Churchill, El Brendel, Tully Marshal, Tyrone Power and David Rollins. It depicts the history of the major movement westward; the bravery, the faith and the fortitude of those liberty-hungry, home-hungry pioneers, facing the dangers, the obstacles and the meanaces of that virgin and unexplored country without the flinching of an eye or the entertainment of the slightest thought of turning back.

"East Is West," featuring Lupe Velez, Lewis Ayres and Edward G. Robinson is the other picture. The story deals with the love affair of Ming Toy and Billy Benson, son of a wealthy San Francisean, who rescues the little Chinese girl from a "love boat" in China.

CHILDREN'S SOCIETY FORMED

On Monday afternoon, Dec. 22, the Griffins Wharf Society, Children of the American Revolution met at the home Mrs. Kingman P. Cass, 52 Yale street. After the business meeting, Mrs. Archibald Campbell Jordan of the State Board, D. A. R., gave a short talk explaining how she was forming a new Society here in Winchester. She is very anxious to get in touch with anyone eligible to the C. A. R. and would like them to notify her as soon as possible, tel. Win. 0377. After the meeting, moving pictures were shown followed by refreshments.

Success Due to Blunder

The successful theatrical career of Sir Arthur Pinero, English playwright, is said to have been based on a blunder, not his own, but that of another. He began his stage career in a small Scottish theater at a very trivial compensation. He was playing in Liverpool many years ago in one of Wilkie Collins' plays, and the author himself sat watching the performance in a box. In the dim light he was working off on a program the names of those artists whose performances he admired —and he marked the name of young Pinero in mistake for another man.

REGISTRAR PARKER TO SPEAK AT LEGION

Capt. George A. Parker, Registrar of Motor Vehicles for Massachusetts, is to be the guest speaker at the next meeting of Winchester Post, 97, American Legion, to be held in the Post headquarters on Thursday evening, Jan. 8.

Comdr. Wade L. Grindle, in announcing Captain Parker as the speaker, was emphatically of the opinion that the Post is in for a real treat. The Registrar is known to be a capable and interesting speaker who always has something vital to say. His background is one which furnishes a wealth of experiences from which to draw interesting annecdotes and his straight forward style is one which men find especially pleasing.

Captain Parker saw about two years service over seas during the World War as battery commander of the 101st Field Artillery. His post war activities have been varied and equally interesting. He served for a time as commander of the State Constabulary under General Foote and was also Director of Prohibition for the New England District. His latest job, and a big one, is that of Registrar of Motor Vehicles, and as such he has the reputation of being a square shooter, playing no favorites and giving every one an even break. He is law trained himself and grew up in a legal atmosphere, his father having been State Attorney General. It is expected that his address will be along the lines of his present job, but whatever the subject, his remarks promise to be interesting.

In addition to the opportunity it affords of hearing Captain Parker, the meeting promises to be important in that it will witness the report of the committee which is busy with arrangements to produce the great World War play, "Journey's End" in Winchester. The wrestling committee will also report, and promises some interesting announcements relative to the next bouts to be staged in the Town Hall Jan. 15. Refreshments will be served and Commander Grindle hopes that all Legionnaires will make a special effort to be present.

LADIES' FRIENDLY SOCIETY

On Tuesday, Jan 6, at 2:30 p. m. the Social Service Committee of the Ladies' Friendly Society will meet at the home of the chairman, Mrs. Bertram Bernnard, Curtis street, near Pine street. At the Round Table discussion, Mrs. Arthur G. Robbins, presiding, the State Social Welfare program will be considered. All members of the Society are invited to attend this meeting, at the close of which tea will be served.

MARIBEL VINSON TO COMPETE ABROAD

Miss Maribel Vinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Vinson of High street and one of the world's top flight fancy skaters, sailed last Sunday on the S.S. Baltic from Boston for Queenstown and Liverpool, enroute for Berlin. Maribel is entered in the world's figure skating championship competition which is being staged in Berlin Feb. 28 and Mar. 1.

It will be a short stay in the German Capitol for the Winchester girl who plans to be back in this country in time for the national skating championship to be decided in the Boston Garden Mar. 20. Maribel, a student at Radcliffe and a fine tennis player, was a skating winner at the last Olympic games, and with the improved form she has shown in the past two years should enter into the final reckoning at Berlin.

Palestine

Excluding Transjordania, the area of Palestine is slightly over 9,000 square miles.

KEYES—COLEMAN

A wedding of interest to many in Winchester took place in St. Louis last Saturday evening when Miss Marianne Coleman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Coleman of 5042 Washington Boulevard, St. Louis, became the bride of Langley Carleton Keyes of Cambridge, formerly of this town. The ceremony was performed in the Union Avenue Christian Church by Rev. George A. Campbell. Decorations were all in keeping with the Christmas season.

Miss Coleman was given in marriage by her father and attended by her sister, Miss Dorothy Coleman, as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Marion Davis, Miss Elizabeth Harris and Miss Virginia McVey, all of St. Louis, and Miss Margaret Morrey of New York City.

Mr. Keyes had for his best man Powell Fordyce of St. Louis and the corps of ushers included Bernard Coleman, McMillan Lewis, James Wilson, all of St. Louis; John Trout of Jacksonville, Tex., and Henry Chauncey of Boston.

The bride's gown was of ivory satin and her tulle veil had a cap of rose point. Her flowers were calla lilies. The maid of honor was gowned in flame velvet and her bouquet was of Johanna Hill roses. The bridesmaids were in deep eggshell velvet and their slippers matched the Pierson roses they carried.

A small reception was held after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. Upon their return from a wedding journey in the South, Mr. Keyes and his bride will be at home after Feb. 1 at 8 Chauncey street, Cambridge.

The bride was graduated from Mary Institute in 1924 and from Vassar in 1928. She was in the daisy chain at Vassar in 1926, and made her debut in 1928. The bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Keyes of 5 Cambridge street, is an assistant dean at Harvard, from which he was graduated in 1924. He prepared for college at Andover, graduating with the class of 1920. At Harvard he was a member of the Phœnix Club, D. U., Speakers, Institute of 1770, D. K. E. and Hasty Pudding. He is also a member of the Harvard Club of Boston.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL SQUAD CHOSEN

Coach Margaretta Centervall has chosen 21 girls to form the basketball squad, from which will be picked the varsity group who will represent Winchester High this winter. Five letter girls are available with several sophomores who show much promise, and the outlook for a winning team is fairly bright.

This year is to mark the resumption of the alumnae which previous to last season was a regular feature of the schedule. The high school is to meet the graduates this Friday afternoon in the high school gymnasium in a game which is to be more or less in the nature of a private workout. Margaret Newman is looking after the alumni group and has several ex-high school stars lined up to play. The game is really the result of a challenge flung by the undergraduates at the "old timers," and some good basketball should result from the meeting. The time is 2:30.

After the Christmas vacation the school team will swing into action, taking on Belmont, Melrose, Malden, Arlington and other teams, yet to be signed for games. This year's club is captained by Loretta Carleton and managed by Madeline Little. The complete varsity squad follows: L. Carleton, capt. (W); C. Abbott, B. Barnard, K. Boutwell, R. Brown, P. Chamberlin, G. Cutter, L. Fowle, R. Healey, H. Keepers, M. Kendrick (W), R. Luongo, K. MacDonald, M. Mountain, C. Nichols (W), J. Nichols (W), M. Poland, B. Ritchie, B. Ross, T. Tompkins (W), J. Thompson, L. Waters, W. William and M. Young. (W) signifies letter player.

THE BARTA CAMP REUNION

On Saturday, Dec. 20, the Barta Camp held its annual gay and festive mid-season Christmas reunion at the Winchester Country Club.

The occasion brought together some of the parents and many of the campers and councillors who seemed bubbling over with a mixture of camp, Christmas, and holiday spirit which increased as the day and doings progressed.

In the morning before dinner, camp movies were shown bringing back happy memories of "the good old summer time."

After dinner where laughter and entertainment ran high Miss Barta told of her trip to Santa Fe, N. Mex. and her flight home from Albuquerque, N. Mex. to Columbus, Ohio.

Dancing from 3 to 5 to music furnished by Mrs. A. B. Corthell's tuneful and peppy orchestra concluded the day's jolly program.

WINCHESTER AT READING

Winchester High School will play its first interscholastic basketball game of the new season Friday evening, Jan. 2, with Reading High School at Reading, first game to start at 7:30.

The locals in their opening game against the Alumni looked very good and if they will play at Reading as they did against the graduates, will be a tough team to lick. The boys pack a real scoring punch, with every member of the team able to sink the ball when given the opportunity. Reading has always been a hard club for Winchester to lick and Coach Mansfield's charges have several old scores to settle when they take the floor next Friday.

"Case-Hardening"

The bureau of standards says that case-hardening is a process by which carbon is caused to penetrate the article, giving rise to an outside portion high in carbon, known as the case, the carbon content decreasing gradually toward the center.

EXPLORATIONS REVEAL NEW ALASKA WONDERLAND

Startling and magnificent scenic features that may make it another distinctive American wonderland were revealed recently by Dr. Thomas A. Jaggar in further advices to the National Geographic Society in Washington concerning the Society's expedition which he headed in the Mount Pavlof area of the Alaska Peninsula.

The area, in its own way, the reports indicate, may be as remarkable as are the now famous Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes, in Alaska, and the Carlsbad Caverns, New Mexico, both of which were set aside as National Monuments after National Geographic Society expeditions had revealed their natural marvels and scenic beauty.

Lake Region Found

Dr. Jaggar wired his report to the Society's headquarters in Washington from Seattle where the expedition has arrived in the States after a summer's adventurous exploration which disclosed huge volcano cones, a far northern lake country of amazing beauty, caribou, bears, foxes and hair seals in unexpected numbers, and yielded valuable collections of rocks, minerals, fossils, flowers, mosses and seaweed.

Through Pavlof Bay, at the tapering end of Alaska Peninsula, which looks so slender and small on maps of North America, the party sailed 75 miles to the head of Canoe Bay, an almost landlocked body of water, hitherto unexplored, which Dr. Jaggar describes as a veritable "baby Mediterranean." North of that Bay to the Bering Sea, and west of Port Moller, the explorers entered an area which disclosed hundreds of lakes scattered among treeless wastes and low ridges of great geologic interest.

Extensive Area Mapped

The expedition mapped 2500 square miles of United States domain which hitherto has been unsurveyed, recorded scores of physical features hitherto unnoted, and also corrected many details placed on older maps from tradition and hearsay.

Old small scale Russian maps of this interior are quite erroneous, Dr. Jaggar says. On the Bering Sea side several bays marked and named do not exist; the long glacier extending west from Pavlof is a great field of clinker lava. Mountains are misplaced and six lakes shown south of Nelson's Lagoon amount to a vast flat containing 500 lakes and ponds. The so-called Otter Bay mentioned on some pilot charts, is in reality a valley.

By boat, foot and horse the party traveled some 1300 miles. Often they pressed on amid gales, fogs and driving snows; sometimes they came upon valleys carpeted with the gorgeous flowers of the Far North—violets, daisies and lupines, and across miles and miles of tundra were the rounded "pin cushions" of moss, made pink, white, blue and yellow by clusters of tiny flowers.

Bears and Caribou Plentiful

Animal life was far more profuse than had been expected. The party had been in camp at Canoe Bay only an hour when members saw tracks of the red fox and brown bear. On a short trip out of camp the explorers counted 42 caribou and three bears. Crossing a mountain north of the bay the brown bears were so numerous, Dr. Jaggar noted, that "I began to wonder whether we could get back to the boat without stepping on a bear."

But it was on a volcano that a dramatic capture was made of a remarkable specimen. The bear was skinned for mounting, and will be presented to the Cleveland Museum of Natural History. It measures 9 feet, 10 inches, from nose to tail. Skull and leg bones were preserved.

The hair seals were in small bands, usually from three to nine, and it was near the inner narrows of Canoe Bay that a colony of hair seals appeared and splashed about the boat with great unconcern.

On Canoe Bay the party encamped on a site where there was fine clamming and on islets were scores of huge olive-drab gulls' eggs, flecked with brown.

Along hundreds of miles of shore line Dr. Jaggar employed the amphibian boat, especially built by the expedition, which could run along stony beach, penetrate the grass flats and tundra, and take to the water when headlands impeded its course.

Boat That Runs on Beach

The boat was steel, equipped with an automobile engine and twin screw propellers, having an enclosed body with water-tight compartments fore and aft. It carried freight, it made inland trips it conveyed fuel, it was used in trolling and hauling a beach seine, and by night it was drawn up beside the tents where it served as a sleeping cabin for the expedition's leader. It needed no harbor; it could run ashore in a surf and continue on its way.

Canoe Bay is a glorious place, Dr. Jaggar wires. North is a fine, snowy volcano with its cup crater in full view, rugged encircling outliers and sweeping "wash fans" leading down to the water's edge, covered with dark purple tundra.

Then again no one can accurately describe the panorama that spread itself when the clouds lifted before our camp at Divide Lake. Close at hand were the exquisite, pencilled cones of Pavlof Sister and Pavlof both glistening with ice. In the north face of Pavlof, the side toward us, a mighty gash or split, where the whole north side of a former circular crater had fallen away.

Now we look to the right. Here is something unbelievable, so fantastic, so marvelous in sculpture, so delicate in outline that nothing in scenery elsewhere remotely resembles it—the Aghileen Pinnacles. Jutting black minarets, spires, columns in clusters, towers, domes, snowdrifts in the crannies. Individual steeples rise from the great square tower in the middle of the cathedral mass so slender, so utterly straight sided, like the Campanile, only thinner that it seems incredible they do not fall with the first breath of wind. Yet they have withstood centuries of Arctic gales from the Bering Sea.

TIN CAN ISLAND NAMED FOR ONE-MAN POWER MAIL BAGS

Niuafou, alias Tin Can Island, to which astronomers recently traveled 7300 miles to take sun eclipse snapshots for 140 seconds is peculiar in many other respects than its name, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Like a vast angel cake in shape, Tin Can Island was formed when a volcanic peak, protruding from the blue waters of the Pacific, violently blew off its head and left only a hollow outer shell. On the shores of a peaceful tropic lake which now replaces the molten lava and suffocating gasses of its crater, a wise bird, the malau, lays large eggs in Nature's incubator, the hot volcanic sand.

Water Everywhere, Only Rain to Drink

No springs or streams are found on the isle, so the natives must depend on rainwater for their drinking supply. Neither are there harbors, for foam-flecked lava cliffs, rising abruptly from the ocean, surround the island with hardly a break. A tin can, bobbing in the water offshore, pushed by a swimming native, to be picked up by a passing steamer, is the islanders' mail bag.

Niuafou is one of the Tonga, or Friendly Islands, situated halfway between Samoa and Fiji in one of the most restless geological areas in the world. Stretching across the South Pacific, from Samoa to North Island, New Zealand, there is a huge fissure in the earth's crust. Volcanic islands, such as Niuafou, strewn along this gigantic crack, act as vents for the molten mass within the earth. The Jack-in-the-Box Island of Falcon ha popped up from the ocean's bottom at least twice, only to be washed and blown away each time by sea and wind. Only recently it has made its reappearance again in larger size, acting as one of these famous safety valves for the earth's mighty internal furnace.

To passengers of steamers passing close, the island looks like any other tropic isle, green with vegetation and coconut palms. Clean white houses and thatched native churches set in grassy lawns dot the hillsides. When wind and sea are quiet, landings are made in small open boats which are guided skillfully into a nook partly sheltered by fingers of lava flow. Such landings are dangerous and exciting, because the boats bob up and down with the incoming rollers and scrape against the steep, jagged cliffs.

Famed for Size of Coconuts

Narrow paths winding through the island are lined with citron trees and tropic vegetation. Native gardens of taro, bananas and vegetables cover every tillable spot of land. Everywhere are tall, waving coconut palms, which produce the chief export crop, copra. Niuafou is famed for the size of its coconuts.

No sale of land property is permitted in the Island Kingdom of Tonga, of which Niuafou is a most distant unit. All lands belong to the state and nobles. When a young Tongan comes of taxable age at 16, upon payment of a nominal tax and annual rental fee he may apply to his local noble for the allotted 8¼ acres of tillable land and a home site. This plot of land must be planted immediately with coconut palms. It can never be sold, but must be handed down to a succeeding generation on the death of the owner, or be turned back to the government.

Native Queen in Regal Regalia

Tonga is the last independent kingdom in the South Pacific and enjoys a free government, under the protection of Great Britain. At present Queen Salote, proud of her court regalia, is the ruler. Wearing a crown, a rich European dress, and a large ermine-fringed cloak, whose train is carried by medievally dressed Tongan pages, she makes a truly regal appearance when receiving state visitors.

The Queen is assisted in government by a prime minister, privy council and a parliament with a constitution patterned after Britain's. The chief difference between the British variety of parliament and the Tongan, however, is the fact that the latter consists of "nobles" whose ancestors originally were troublesome rival chiefs of a former king who won them over by granting estates and hereditary titles.

The Tongan natives are larger, have darker skins, are more intelligent and have a general superiority complex in their relations with neighboring Polynesians. Maidens have lovely voices and like to dance. State balls in full court costume are popular.

Prizes Are Pigs and Coconuts

It is said that there is no such thing as poverty in the Friendly Islands. Any man's relatives may come and live with him when he attains prosperity. Customs of the people forbid refusal of hospitality.

If one were a Tongan native, he would go regularly on religious days to an oval-shaped thatched church in which the congregation usually sit crosslegged on the floor, the men on one side, and the women on the other. Native ministers perform the services and have a great influence in the every-day lives of their flocks.

Games of all kinds are welcome. Many years ago a visiting British cruiser introduced cricket. The natives became so fond of it that the contests continued for weeks, until the government restricted the playing of the game to certain days. Prizes for the winners in these contests range from coconuts and spears to pigs.

Water Purification

The first kind of water purification was by sand filtration. In 1897 the mechanical process was introduced which is 40 times as fast and removes from 98 to 99 per cent of the bacteria.

WHY NOT SETTLE THIS MOVIE FARCE?

It appears to the STAR that our Board of Selectmen has ample power to settle this oft recurring nuisance of voting upon moving pictures here. Thus far the Town has repeatedly voted against the movies and expressed itself in no uncertain terms as opposing the granting of a license. As the power of granting such a license lies wholly within the hands of our Selectmen, why does not this Board come forth with a statement that it will refuse to grant such a license? The Board will then carry out the desires of the majority and give absolutely no ground for a continuance of voting upon this matter and the subsequent expensive referendum now flaunted in our faces.

VOTE THE MAIN STREET LOT

The citizens of Winchester are to be called upon Jan. 5 to vote once more upon the building of a new schoolhouse. Over a period of years this important and necessary addition has been discussed and fought out. The time is here for action. Private animosities and feelings should be subordinated by a desire to act for the best interests of all concerned. No better comment may be made upon the project than for the STAR to reprint a portion of the report just made by our School Committee, which may well express the sentiment of those who are working for the best interests of Winchester.

The School Committee is not interested in any one particular lot as an end in itself. It is obvious, however, that some lot must be chosen. Every lot can be found open to some objection. The School Committee is concerned only in acquiring a lot at a reasonable cost that will provide the necessary accommodations for the school building, allow for future additions, and furnish adequate playground facilities. The Main Street lot meets these basic requirements. It is the only proposed site that has ever received a majority vote of the Town. The School Committee, therefore, unanimously recommends that the Town acquire the Main Street lot and erect thereon a new school building for the 7th, 8th, and 9th grades, thus giving simultaneous relief to conditions in both the Wadleigh and the High School. This site, besides offering an attractive setting and allowing room for any additions to the building that may be necessary in the future, affords a two and a half acre level playground on the Parkway side.

The School Committee feels that the Main Street lot offers the following further advantages that make it the best site that has been proposed:

1. It is near the Senior High School, and it will therefore be practicable for the two schools to use some facilities in common. The School Committee recommends that common use be made of the cafeteria in the new building, and that the space now occupied by the cafeteria in the High School be utilized for extra lockers and showers. In future years, when it becomes necessary to add to the High School, the present assembly hall can be divided into classrooms and the assembly hall in the proposed building used by both groups.
2. It is near Manchester Field.
3. It is near the civic center and the new library.

Since this Main Street location was proposed by the Committee on Secondary School Accommodations last March, it has consistently won the support of the majority of the voters. In Town Meetings, it has twice secured more than the required two-thirds vote, and in two subsequent referenda has won a substantial majority as shown below:

Referendum May 2, 1930

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

The Town Highway Department has just completed the new steel and cement bridge over the Aberjona at Wedgemere Station which replaces the old structure, for many years kept in repair by Mr. Lewis Parkhurst at his own expense. Mr. Parkhurst no longer felt that he cared to assume the responsibility for the bridge, it looked for a time as if it would be discontinued. A strong agitation on the part of those for whom the bridge was a real convenience in reaching the railroad station led to the Town's voting to build a new bridge on the site of the old one.

John Conlon Winchester's popular gate tender in the square was proudly displaying this week a fine new briar pipe, the gift of a member of the Police Department. While no official name was signed to the gift John claims that he well knows the donor. As for Christmas cards—John has been busy opening them up for the past two weeks. There are few more popular men about the center than "big John."

President Harry E. Worcester of the Revere Sugar Company and Mrs. Worcester of this town were due to arrive in New York the first of the week, on the way home from an extended European trip.

STORY OF THE MACKINAW JACKET

With everybody slipping into comfortable mackinaws for winter sports just now the origin of this popular garment becomes doubly interesting, and the following, clipped from a Toronto news dispatch in the Boston Globe purports to give the history of this friend of the backwoods lumberjack.

To Great Britain's war with the United States in 1812 belong the credit for the creation of the most comfortable garment for winter sports wear—the mackinaw coat.

But the coat, which was perhaps the most useful product of the four-year struggle, did not originate on the island that bears its name and which now belongs to the United States.

Recent research work of St. Joseph Island historians has definitely shown that the gay garment was the accidental invention of a military officer stationed on that island. It was the invention of necessity.

The captain of the little force holding St. Joseph fort sent courier after courier to army headquarters to report the lack of greatcoats. But war gave headquarters other problems and the little outpost, the farthest north and west, was neglected.

Winter came, without overcoats. There were plenty of gaily colored blankets at the fort. Indian squaws were put to work. Full length blanket coats were the result.

A short coat was made for a scout. It proved so popular that it became the first of the long series of abbreviated mackinaws.

The fort at St. Joseph was abandoned and the detachment moved to Mackinaw. With them went their coats, and the coats acquired the name of the new post.

Now St. Joseph Island wants to win back the credit, and to do so a tablet was unveiled at the old fort last summer.

MALDEN MYSTIC THEATER

"The Bad Man" starring Walter Huston and "For the Love of Lil" a screen version adapted from the Liberty magazine covers with Jack Mulhall, Sally Starr and Eliott Nugent as the featured players will make up the special program which opens a seven day engagement at the Mystic Theater in Malden on Saturday. Seldom does a talking picture come to the screen with a laugh in every line yet that is what "The Bad Man" does. However, there is plenty of melodrama to balance the comedy. The story deals with a group at an Arizona ranch. A young man and his crippled uncle are about to lose the ranch to a local money lender because bandits have driven off many of their cattle. It is then that "The Bad Man" appears, a gay, witty but dangerous bandit. He had come to rob the ranch. Instead he stays to settle things and make everybody happy in his own direct way. Walter Huston is said to be great in the title role and receives excellent support from Dorothy Revier and James Rennie.

"For the Love o' Lil" brings to the screen the love, courtship and marriage of Sandy and Lil, already famous to thousands of readers of Liberty. Sandy, played by Eliott Nugent, is a hard working young lawyer who wins the fair Lil, portrayed by Sally Starr, away from a crowd of admirers, chief of which is Wyn, played by Jack Mulhall. "For the Love o' Lil" is a story of modern daily life and for this reason is tremendously popular.

"The Dancers" with Lois Moran, Phillips Holmes and Walter Byron as the stars, heads the double bill which closes its run at the Mystic on Friday. This is an adaption of the stage play by Sir Gerald De Maurier and shows life among the titled English. "Leathernecking" with Benny Rubin heading an all-comedy cast, is the second feature on the current program.

Ancient Roman Racketeer

Dr. William Stearns Davis, the late historian, dug up from the records of ancient Rome a man whose ideas were dozens of centuries ahead of his time. He was Crassus, a wealthy real estate operator. His racket was this:

He drilled a score or so of his slaves as fire fighters. Then, picking out a handsome villa, he would have one of his mob set fire to it. As the flames mounted Crassus would appear and make a small offer for what looked like a total loss. At the owner's word "Sold," Crassus' visiting firemen would rush out of the shrubbery and save the property.—New York Herald Tribune.

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

Harold Lloyd's new comedy "Feet First" and the "Office Wife" with Dorothy Mackaill and Lewis Stone as the stars, will make up the double feature program which opens a seven day engagement at the big Granada Theater in Malden on Saturday. "Feet First" is joyous romance filled with convulsing Lloyd gags. Lloyd, as an ambitious but blundering shoe clerk, falls in love with Barbara Kent, social secretary to his wealthy employer's wife, and, mistaking her for a fashionable heiress, he turns himself inside out to reach a social plane which will permit him to make love to her. His ambitious social climb carries him to the top of an unfinished skyscraper, projects him from a lofty window, makes him a stowaway on an ocean liner, and generally, provides him with enough dare-devil comedy situations to keep young and old laughing continuously during the progress of the story. Of all the present day pictures, "The Office Wife" is the most frank in presenting a situation that occurs constantly in modern society. It deals with the secretary who takes care of the husband's needs during the day—works for him—gives him advice and takes care of personal matters he would otherwise have neglected, and who eventually falls in love with him. How does the wife stand in this triangle? What is the husband's choice? All these matters are handled in the most effective manner in the "Office Wife."

George Bancroft in "Derelict" heads the program which concludes its run at the Granada on Friday. This is Bancroft's first screen appearance in months and the picture presents him as a fighting, he-man, sea-captain. William Boyd plays the part of his rival in seamanship and also for the hand of a lady. Their rivalry comes to a climax during a terrific tropical storm that is a thrill not easily forgotten. "A Lady's Morals" with Grace Moore, Reginald Denny and Wallace Beery as the featured players, is the second attraction on the program ending Friday.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Daniel Lizotte, son of George Lizotte of Harvard street, had a narrow escape from drowning last Saturday when he broke through the ice in the rear of the Puffer Manufacturing Company. His cries for help were heard by "Buddy" Carroll, an older boy, who ran to the youngster's assistance, dragged him from the water and took him home. The little fellow suffered no ill effects from his ducking but the incident should serve as a warning to all venturesome kiddies to keep off the ice until it is safer.

ITALY'S LATEST EARTHQUAKE ZONE

The region of the most recent Italian earthquake along the upper Adriatic, on the east coast of the peninsula, is the subject of the following bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

If the homely but familiar simile of the "Italian boot" is kept in mind, says the bulletin, the comparative situations of the earthquake of early July and the most recent seismic disturbance can be quickly grapsed. The July quake was on the lower "shin" the most recent one was on the upper "calf." But here the anatomical similes become badly mixed: Ancona, the town from which most of the news of the disaster has come, means "elbow" and is so named because of a sharp bend in the coast line at the site of the city.

Heaviest Shocks Along Coast

Unlike the earthquake of last summer when the greatest damage occurred inland, the force of the present disturbance was concentrated along the coast, the greatest destruction being experienced in the group of towns that are strung along the shore of the Adriatic from Ravenna in the north to a point about 30 miles south of Ancona.

Ravenna, which originated in a broad lagoon like Venice, now, thanks to the silt carried down by Italian torrents, lies near the seaward edge of a plain that extends inland 35 miles before it reaches the foothills of the Apennine Mountains. South of Ravenna this coastal plain rapidly narrows, and at Rimini, also in the edge of the earthquake region, is barely ten miles wide. A few miles south of Rimini spurs of the Apennines reach the sea. This physical structure—mountain spurs reaching the sea with relatively narrow valleys between the spurs—continues on down the east coast of Italy for more than 200 miles. It is the outstanding feature of the region in which the earthquake was most severe.

Monuments Sketch History

Ancona, largest city in the shaken region, is situated between two promontories. This location, with the help of engineering works begun by the Romans before the Christian era, gives the city an excellent harbor. It is the busiest Italian east-coast port between Venice on the north and Brindisi, near the "Heel" of the peninsula. Ancona's two principal monuments sketch two important chapters in its history. At the land end of one of its piers is a triumphal arch to Trajan, his wife, and his sister erected by the Roman Senate in A. D. 115 in gratitude for the improvement of the harbor. Not far away is a second triumphal arch marking similar work by Pope Clement XII, 16 centuries later. The port had become Papal territory in 1532 and except for an interim under French and Austrian control between 1795 and 1815, remained in the hands of the Popes until 1860. The city now has a population approximately 54,000.

Most of the towns hardest hit by the earth tremors are sea bathing resorts in the summer, and it was to the bath houses in several of the communities that the injured were first taken. These wooden structures were less likely to be injured by subsequent quakes than the dwellings and hospitals built of masonry. Rimini is probably the most popular bathing resort in Italy next to Venice, but even at Pesaro and Fano, sea bathing can be classed as a local industry during the summer months.

Fishing Town Center of Quake

Senigallia, where most of the deaths occurred, is also on the sea coast and is primarily a fishing town. The center of the earthquake disturbance is believed to have been closer to this community of 12,400 inhabitants than to any of the other sizable towns.

Toward the northern edge of the earthquake area, but not included among the places listed as suffering destruction to buildings or loss of life, is the world's smallest republic, San Marino. It lies only 40 miles from Senigallia, and ten miles from the coast near Rimini. The little republic, only 38 square miles in extent, has its capital and chief town (also named San Marino) perched on Monte Titano, 2000 feet above the Adriatic. The tiny state is entirely surrounded by Italian territory.

Thirsty Gathering

A record extant of the marriage of a German prince in 1561 discloses the fact that 3,600 pails of wine and 1,600 barrels of beer were consumed.

Satan's Ideas of Having Punishment Fit Crime

Satan was showing some tourists about the place.

"This is the first level," he said. "The temperature averages 200 degrees Fahrenheit. Down here you'll find practical jokers, bridge kibitzers and ticket speculators."

The party descended another thousand feet in the new steam elevators recently installed in hades.

Satan smiled proudly. "Second level," he announced. "Temperature is about 400 degrees. A charming spot, isn't it? Among the residents are motor car drivers who honk their horns in traffic jams, back seat drivers, people who say "that's that," and other miserable miscreants."

Down another 8,000 feet dropped the elevators to Gehenna's torrid zone. "My hottest level," grinned Mephistopheles. "Two thousand degrees Fahrenheit. Reserved exclusively for morons who send you chain letters warning you to send copies to nine friends or suffer a spell of bad luck."—Kansas City Star.

MUNICH'S MAMMOTH TOY SHOP OF INDUSTRY

Models to show what makes the wheels of a popular American car go around have been recently promised by its manufacturer to the German Museum of science and industry at Munich (Munchen).

The American automobile will join in the museum a large number of American exhibits: one of Bell's telephones; an Edison phonograph; an early Wright flying machine; a model McCormick reaper; scale reproductions of the Brooklyn Bridge, the Panama Canal; a Pullman car, and even an old-fashioned American cistern with real water in it, all of which have been given a place in this most notable of all industrial museums, says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Chicago Adopts Plan

Munich's museum revealing with reproductions, pictures, and moving models, man's rise from barbarism, has been such a success that Chicago's new industrial museum will be built largely on the German plan.

Six thousand visitors each week day and 12,000 on an average Sunday throng the long halls of the museum building which dominates a small island in the River Isar. Nine miles of exhibits survey all the major lines of science and industry.

A Miniature Solar System

In one planetarium a sightseer stands and watches the sun, moon and planets glide through a darkened imitation heaven. In another he stands on a moving platform which gives him the feeling of being a giant observer riding on our solar system as it runs like a pack of hounds through the universe of stars that shine in the artificial museum sky.

One can walk into almost any past age in the German museum. Here is a German scythe-making shop of the 17th century brought down from the Black Forest; walls, roof, forge, tools, furnishings and all, even life-size workmen in costume. Open another door and one finds oneself in a 16th century alchemist's shop surrounded by curious old bottles and retorts used in the vain attempt to make gold. The 18th century druggist shop is there too, with not the slightest suggestion of a soda fountain, or sandwich, or best seller; just shelf on shelf of pungent drugs.

Some Classics of Science

At another point the visitor enters a rock-lined shaft where he can step in and operate a rude tread mill that Georg Agricola trod in the Dark Ages to pump water out of his shallow mine.

"Hertz" wave apparatus that opened the doors to radio, Ohm's Ampere's and Galvani's electrical apparatus, an early Morse telegraph, Lilienthal's glider, Rontgen's tubes, and Bunsen's original devices that revolutionized science, industry and civilization, are on view. Wherever possible managers of the Munich Museum have placed duplicate materials near the original apparatus of a famous inventor, inviting the guest to repeat for himself the experiments which are classics of science.

Out in the garden "Puffing Billy," an early English steam engine, travels a brief route under its own steam while the awkward arms of an old windmill, moved to Munich, turn in the wind. On a high tower a huge hand turns over a dial that tells, not time, but the barometer reading. So every Munich resident can be his own weather forecaster by glancing at the museum.

In one room, bent like racers toeing the mark, a line of model plowmen stand, their plows pointing into real soil. At one end is a sorry-looking old fellow pulling a crooked stick; next, a skin-clad peasant who has hitched two buffaloes to his stick; then a Roman who has mounted his rude plow on wheels; next, farmers with the first iron-tipped plows; and so on down to the latest tractor-drawn gang plows. Other rooms are devoted solely to certain subjects; clocks from sun dials to electric timepieces; thermometers, microscopes, early and late, paper mills, distilleries, dairies, spinning and weaving devices, bridges, roads, vehicles, mines, canals, scales, adding machines, etc.

Germany's flair for making devices, already shown in her manufacture of Christmas playthings and cuckoo clocks, reaches a zenith in the Munich Museum which is one vast toy circus where both grown-ups and children come to see their whirring, boiling, steaming, clattering industrial civilization in action all under one roof.

Large Rattlesnakes

The largest rattlesnakes, some of those of the diamond-back species, attain a length of more than 8 feet and a circumference of 12 inches.

"Perpetual Motion"

Soon after the Civil war there was great public interest in perpetual motion, that is, a machine which would keep perpetually in motion without outside energy. Scientific bodies took up the question and pointed out for the benefit of investors and others that such motion was an impossibility. It was likened to a man lifting himself by his own bootstraps. Judging the interest of the people by the number of patent applications on such machines, the conclusion that none of them will work, or can work, seems not to be generally accepted.

Persian Poet Laureate Kept Reasonably Busy

Persia appears to be the only other country which has maintained a poet laureate in recent years. Until Muzaffer-ed-Din abolished the post in 1893, the court of Teheran had for centuries possessed a poet laureate, whose duties were far more onerous than those of his British equivalent.

According to Narcisse Persin, who spent some years in Persia at the beginning of the last century, court etiquet prescribed that whenever the shah traveled outside the capital his suite should include a dwarf, a giant, a jester, a historiographer and the poet laureate—these five being treated on an equal footing among the lesser ministrants to his majesty's pleasure and diversion.

The historiographer had to record for the benefit of posterity all the doings and sayings of his master, and the laureate was called upon to celebrate a large proportion of these in verse. M. Persin highly approved of the custom, which he found rigidly followed, "for the shah, knowing that many of his utterances and deeds would be crystalized in an ode, felt bound on these royal progresses to speak and behave majestically."—Manchester (England) Guardian.

Odd Methods Employed to Bring Needed Rain

Examples of what is known as sympathetic magic to bring about rain are recorded by Sir James J. Frazer. In a village of Russia, three men used to climb up the fir trees of a sacred grove. One beat a kettle with a hammer to imitate thunder, the second beat two fire-brands together to imitate lightning, and the third, who was the rainmaker, sprinkled water from a vessel with a bunch of twigs.

In the Caucasus, says Frazer, there is a ceremony observed in times of drought called "plowing the rain," in which girls yoke themselves to a plow and drag it through a river against the stream. Sometimes marriageable girls are yoked in couples with an ox yoke on their shoulders, a holy man holds the reins, and they wade through rivers and marshes, praying, screaming and laughing. In some parts of India naked women drag a plow across a field at night, and in Transylvania girls strip themselves, and, led by an older woman, steal a harrow and take it to a brook, where they sit upon it, keeping a tiny flame burning on each corner.

Claimed Right to Smoke

When a ban on smoking was placed recently in a pressed steel mill at Cowley, England, 100 night shift workers struck, claiming that smoking on night work and overtime is a recognized practice in the engineering world.

Irony Proved Boomerang

Lord Bowen, in his early days at the bar, prosecuted a prisoner who had been caught in a house at midnight crawling downstairs with his boots off, laden with plunder, relates a columnist in the Manchester (England) Guardian. The evidence was so overwhelming that Bowen indulged in a little irony, remarking on the thoughtfulness of the prisoner in removing his boots, so as not to disturb the slumbers of the family. The jury was so impressed with this extenuating circumstance that they returned a verdict of not guilty.

Great Buddhist Temple Deserted and in Ruins

It is the Chandi Borobudur, at Djokjakarta, the ancient temple ruin 325 miles up the hills west of Batavia. Its carved, gray, volcanic rocks tell the story of Gautama Siddhartha the Enlightened, or the Buddha, for whom the temple bells tinkle in Ceylon and Burma and the bronze gongs clash in 10,000 lamaseries in Tibet, China and Mongolia, writes Allan T. Holcomb, in the New York Herald Tribune.

Vast in size, magnificent in architectural conception and unbelievable in its wealth of fantastic bas-relief, the Borobudur now stands desolate and solitary in the midst of one of the world's most teemingly fertile plains.

A bit of the ashes of the All Wise and Enlightened One rests under the mighty stupa with only an occasional pilgrim to do reverence as he struggles up the terraces on the eightfold path of perfection. Priests of the yellow robe and the shaven head no longer flit through the stupendous galleries.

Dutch guards keep vigilant watch on all visitors, especially enterprising American tourists, who have been more than suspected of knocking off and pocketing small heads of the Buddha and his more interesting disciples.

All Happiness Ended for Betrayer of Trust

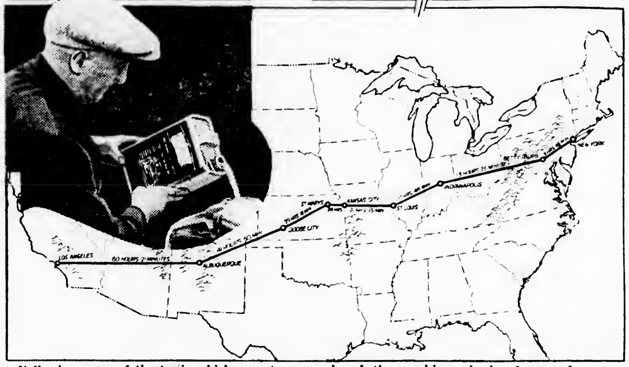
One of the most beautiful things in the world is the trust that some one places in us. Of course, there are varying kinds of trust.

If we are trusted in our business affairs, how we thrill at the opportunity of proving that the trust is entirely justified! Perhaps there steals into us, at some untoward moment, the still, small, and cunning voice of evil—and we forget. Then our world tumbles around us. We have failed; and the iron of disappointment enters into our soul.

It happens, too, sometimes, in our private life. We are loved, dearly, and with sacrifice. We feel that we shall never fall before the specious temptations that jostle us as we go a-wandering. Alas! It is the pride in us that lets down the drawbridge for the tempter to enter our castle.

We must watch our trust valiantly; aye, and ruthlessly, or else . . . !—G. H. G., in London Tit-Bits.

Cannon Ball Baker Smashes Coast to Coast Auto Speed Record by Six Hours



Following some of the trails which a century ago heard the creaking wheels of covered wagons, Cannon Ball Baker has chopped more than six hours off the transcontinental speed record. This map shows his route and elapsed time at several points. Insert shows Baker putting in anti-freeze just before his start from Manhattan Island.

Cannon Ball Baker, meteor of the automobile world and holder of more speed and endurance records than he can remember, has done it again.

Using a Stutz automobile he has lowered the transcontinental speed record by hurling his car across the country in the almost unbelievable time of 60 hours and 21 minutes. The previous record was 67 hours, 8 minutes.

Baker is one of the most interesting and colorful personalities in the automobile world. For 24 years he has been living a life of thrills, with death close on his trail more than once as he roared through mud, fog, cloudbursts, desert heat, and zero weather to hang up new records. He has taken part in more than 500 motor contests on track and road, has raced across the continent 101 times, and has driven more than twenty times the distance around the world in every conceivable type of contest.

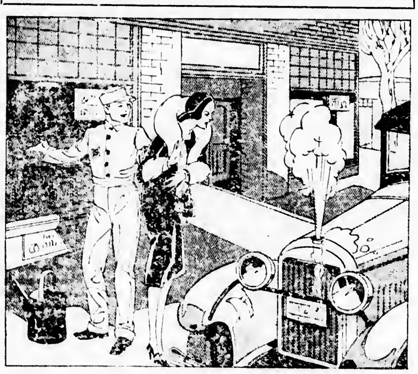
When Baker is hot on the trail of a new record, he subjects his own body to a strain commensurate with that of his machine. In his latest record breaking run from New York to Los Angeles he snatched a total of thirty minutes sleep on the entire trip. Yet so great is his physical endurance that after a turkish bath and three hours sleep he said he felt "fit as a fiddle."

"Lady Luck," says Baker, "is a much maligned woman. There is an element of luck in everything, but most of our failures and successes can be traced to the degree of care and forethought we exercise.

"No detail is unimportant. I exercise as much care in the choice of an anti-freeze solution for my radiator as I do in the selection of the automobile. On this trip I used a permanent one-shot solution, with the result that this was the first run across the continent in which the radiator cap was not removed.

"Yes, I've had my share of what we call tough luck, but generally it is the result of neglecting what we wrongly consider the unimportant details. In this game there isn't any such animal."

A Sudden Freeze—and Trouble



A SUDDEN drop in temperature—frozen radiator—car in the garage for repairs! That story will be told over and over again for the many thousands of motorists who neglect to put their cars in proper condition for winter driving.

Automobile authorities, the United States Weather Bureau and the United States Bureau of Standards have come to the assistance of the motorist in an effort to reduce the enormous damages done the automobiles of the country during winter freezes.

Warnings are now being issued detailing the necessary steps toward preparing cars for freezing temperatures, the Weather Bureau announcing approximate dates when the first freezes may be expected, the Bureau of Standards fixing the essential qualities of the perfect anti-freeze solution, and automobile experts giving specific directions as to the proper care of the automobile cooling system.

It is pointed out that there must be a thorough cleansing of the cooling system and a tightening up of all parts before even the best of anti-freeze solutions will function properly and give adequate protection.

As to the choice of an anti-freeze, the Bureau of Standards, after long research, advises that the solution should meet these nine tests: (1) must give complete protection, (2) should not boil away, (3) must do no damage to the cooling system, (4) should not heat up the motor, (5) shouldn't affect the paint or varnish of the car, (6) should be odorless, (7) must be non-inflammable, (8) should not be viscous at low temperatures nor decrease at high temperatures, (9) should not deteriorate.

ARGENTINA: BIG BUSINESS REPUBLIC OF SOUTH AMERICA

Three thousand Americans, approximately, make up the United States colony in Argentina, the big business republic of South America, scene of a recent change of government.

But Americans are only a drop in Argentina's bulging bucketful of outlanders, says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its headquarters in Washington, D. C. One quarter of the entire population, 2,280,000 individuals are foreign born.

Greater Melting Pot Than United States

Argentina's melting pot has been diluted with Europeans more freely than the United States' ever was; and yet more come. Immigration bars erected in North America deflect the immigrant stream to South America, particularly to Argentina.

Italians vie with Spaniards for numerical superiority; Belgians, Swiss, English, French, Germans, Jews, Russo-Germans, and Russo-Jews season the Argentine scene as the races of Europe blend in the blood of North America. Because the old North American colonial war cry, "All good Indians are dead Indians," echoed also over the pampas, the Argentine Republic is more strongly European than any other state of South America.

Spanish in language and outlook, Italian in its wine-drinking habits, taking Paris for its model in cities, and the United States for its model in business management, Argentina tries to live up to the fact that A comes first in the ABC group of South American leaders: Argentina, Brazil, Chile.

World's Leading Cow Country

Cow country extraordinary, Argentina has made cattle raising her principal industry by a long range triple trade play; U. S. to B. A. to G. B. Capital and scientific skill in meat packing has been thrown into Buenos Aires by the United States; Buenos Aires completes the play by tossing shiploads of beef and mutton into Great Britain's kitchens. All three participants score: Britishers satisfy their hunger; Argentinians roll up fortunes to spend in Paris; Americans cash dividend checks.

Argentina has more cattle per capita than any other country in the world. Its record of three cattle per person is much higher than the United States and even higher than the ratio in our western cattle-raising States. Horses that escaped from the Spaniards multiplied on North American plains; both wild horses and wild cattle multiplied on Argentina's pampas. The Argentine gaucho became a hunter of free-roaming cattle and horses while his Kansas cowboy cousin became a herder. Cattle stealing was never the serious crime on the pampas that it was in the North American Wild West because in Argentina cattle were free for the taking. No great ranch owner objected if a gaucho killed and ate a cow out of his herd; but it was bad form not to turn in the hide. Only the hides were valuable.

Cattle was king and bids fair to continue a reign in the Argentine that never could last in the United States. The natural evolution in the use of good rich land from cattle to sheep to wheat to corn and pigs and diversified farming has been checked on the pampas temporarily, at least, not by any force of Nature, but by the good old Spanish custom of landlording on a large scale.

Landlords Hold on to Land

Early colonists collected flat pampa land in bulk; blocks hundreds of square miles in area have been held with remarkable tenacity. Division among the children of ranch owners has cut the great holdings down, yet estancias as large as the District of Columbia are not uncommon. Unlike the American farmer the Argentine ranch owner seldom lives on his land. Buenos Aires or Paris for him, while a manager runs the "farm." Pure blood cattle, now popular, demand better food than pampa grass, so he grows alfalfa. But the land will not support successive crops of alfalfa indefinitely so he rents out—never sells—acreage to an Italian immigrant on 50-50 shares, specifying that the Italian must grow wheat. Five years of wheat, the Italian renter is dismissed; back to alfalfa again and more cattle. High prices for land cannot lure an Argentinian to part with his acres; he has a sure thing and he knows it.

Richest Land Devoted to Livestock

The fertile pampa, as a result, is populated by cattle instead of people. Immigrants pouring into Buenos Aires are forced to try their fortunes in less productive regions where the chances of success are slim, where drought sears the crops, cattle die of fever, and the locusts eat everything in sight. Except for a few colonies established for the land hungry immigrant, there is no opportunity for him to introduce intensive agriculture in the richest acreage of the country.

It is this set of cirumstances which keep meat products the leader of Argentine's billion dollar export trade. Wheat, virtually a by-product of cattle raising, comes second. Italians have carried their skill in wine making to the semi-arid regions around Mendoza, irrigating their vineyards with ice fed streams from the Andes. Tucuman forges ahead with Virginia tobacco, while the far north of Argentina strives to cut down the country's dependence on Paraguay for yerba.

Yerba is to Argentines and some other South Americans what tea is to an Englishman, coffee to a Brazilian, chocolate to a Frenchman, and oatmeal gruel to a Scotchman. Among the upper classes in Buenos Aires, where European customs are in vogue, the mate, or gourd, from which yerba is drunk does not appear in public. Yet figures on consumption show that Buenos Aires consumes its share of the 80,000 tons of yerba mate annually required to supply the national demand.

Although it goes under the term yerba mate, yerba is the leaf of the shrub, Paraguayan tea, which is put into the gourd or mate. Hot water poured into the mate makes the infusion which the drinker sucks through a tube, often a silver tube. The end of the tube is capped by a perforated ball which prevents particles of the leaf entering the mouth. Yerba mate is best after the fifth addition of hot water, say connoisseurs. Various attempts to introduce yerba mate to North America have failed, partly, it is believed, because Americans have not been won over to gourds.

SUGGESTED FIELD HOCKEY SCHEDULE FOR 1931

Under the new order of things in the girls' interscholastic field hockey league of Greater Boston, the following round robin schedule has been submitted for 1931. Each team will play six other teams in each season, and three seasons will be necessary to complete the circuit. There will be no playoffs nor championship game, the title being determined each year on the points won basis.

Long Controversy Over Death of Mind-Reader

Washington Irving Bishop died in a coma following a cataleptic trance soon after giving a strenuous demonstration of mind-reading at the Lambs' club, New York, May 13, 1889. An autopsy was performed by several doctors less than four hours after the death had been pronounced and without the consent of relatives. His relatives stated that on his person he carried papers at all times prohibiting an autopsy or the use of electricity to revive him should he be thrown into a trance. Electricity was used. A second autopsy was ordered and later an inquest was held, due to the statement of his mother and others that the first autopsy had been performed while he was still alive. The jury's verdict, however, was that the death was due to coma and had occurred before the autopsy. Later the grand jury indicted the doctors for violation of the sanitary code. A book was published by his mother, giving his biography, and also her view of the case.

SKYSCRAPERS PIERCE ORIENTAL AND SPANISH SKIES

Twenty-one stories in Shanghai, 15 stories in Madrid, 16 stories for Athens, 29 stories for Toronto. Building news from the world's great cities reveals that the American skyscraper is spreading.

New highs in office structures in New York set the pace for new highs in London, Montreal, Berlin, Rio de Janeiro, and Singapore.

In cities where the height of buildings is restricted by ordinance the battle rages at the cornice line with one body of citizens striving to keep the municipal lid on while another group labors to make the sky the limit, says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its headquarters in Washington, D. C.

All Australia took sides in the recent Melbourne controversy over a petition to build a 40-story building. Melbourne, like Washington, has, thus far, kept within the 13-story limit. Toronto, therefore, can claim that its new 29-story hotel is the tallest building in the British Empire.

Madrid's New "Highest"

Madrid's new highest, a telephone building with a Spanish tower, overtops the former record holder of the Spanish capital, which was a structure built and occupied by an American automobile company.

New York, although it sees skyscraper architecture carried to new triumphs yearly, is neither the mother of skyscrapers nor was it, for 40 years, the possessor of the world's tallest structure. The Chrysler Building's lead-pencil tower, recently pushed into place, surpasses, although only by 46 feet, the 984-foot peak of the Eiffel Tower which was erected in Paris in 1889.

Even today Manhattan does not have the world's largest building, although one under construction may set that record. The new Furniture Mart in Chicago claims the world's largest area under one roof. Its total rentable floor space of 1,514,000 square feet is equivalent to a farm of 35 acres.

Towers to Religion, War and Family

Since history began man has striven to express his chief interest in life with the largest possible structure he could build. When religion was uppermost in his mind he built the Tower of Babel, in what now is Iraq, Sancta Sophia in Constantinople, the petal-roofed pagodas of China, the pointed stupas of Burma, St. Peter's in Rome, St. Paul's in London, and 512 feet of astonishing beauty in the Cathedral of Cologne. When immortality swayed his thoughts he built the Great Pyramid at Giza. When military strength became the essential the walls and towers of Carcassonne and the Tower of London rose and when the preservation of the family was the prime necessity men built their own castles with high watch towers that still survive in San Gimignano and other hill towns of Italy.

400 U. S. Buildings Exceed 20 Stories

Overtopping churches, overtopping State capitol domes, overtopping the Washington Monument, modern office buildings and hotels have soared skyward in rapid succession. Today there are nearly 400 buildings more than 20 stories high in the United States. Half of these stand in New York City.

The first skyscraper, if that term is limited to a building with a steel frame veneered with stone, brick or other material, was the Home Insurance Building constructed in Chicago in 1883. Modern skyscrapers could not have been built without the development of structural steel and they could not be used without elevators, the first of which was invented in New York about 1850. Newest, high-speed elevators travel about 900 feet per minute, or about 10 miles an hour.

The bulletin lists some of history's tallest structures:

	Feet High	*Stories

TARIFFS THROUGH THE CENTURIES

Australia has recently enacted a new tariff law which has unique features. It raises duties on many products shipped from the United States and it prohibits the importion of numerous articles except by written consent. The objects of the new legislation are stated to be reduction of unemployment, stimulation of manufacture in Australia by branch factories under foreign ownership, and stabilization of the exchange rates.

Origin of Imposts Unknown

Australia's new tariff law, coming at the time of a revision of tariffs at home, arouses interest in the origin of tariff systems and their development in various countries, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

No one knows when or where the first tariff was imposed or the first customs duties collected. The collection of a toll or duty from goods brought into a city or a country became important with the development of trade to a considerable volume. Although Babylon, one of the earliest civilizations of which we have a record, had a highly organized social system with a minute code of laws relating to deeds, leases, mortgages, taxation, and the like, it is not known what part customs played in the affairs of the government. A country's revenue in those days was chiefly from a tithe of the livestock and crops of its citizens.

Greece Had Both Import and Export Duties

When Greece held the most important place in the world, duties on commodities moving in trade had come to be an accepted tax. Export prohibitions had also come into use, chiefly as defense measures in time of war or as protective means to prepare against war. Thus at times wheat could not be exported from Attica, and Greek ships that brought wheat from Black Sea ports for re-export were compelled to leave one-third their cargoes in Greece. Another feature of the Greek system was the establishment of foreign trading stations by certain cities which monopolized their trade. Both export and import duties were charged by Athens; and this taxation alike of outbound and inbound commerce was common among all the early tariff systems.

Rome had little commerce in its early days and allowed commodities to come and go freely. When expansion set in and trade grew, the government began to mold economic currents, often by direct methods. Some commercial rivals, such as Carthage and Corinth were destroyed. Other conquered countries were divided into districts and customs houses were set up at the dividing lines. Both exports and imports were taxed.

Rome's tariff system was probably closer to those in use today than any previous ones. The types of duties were the same that enter into current taric discussions: specific and ad valorem. A specific duty is a charge per unit, as 20 cents for each yard or pound or dozen of the commodity taxed. An ad valorem duty is a percentage of the value of the commodity. In the early days of the Roman Empire the most common and valorem rate was 5 per cent. Later it was raised to 12½ per cent.

Venice, the great trading republic of the Middle Ages, carried on the Roman tariff theories and went further. Her object was to obtain a monopoly in the handling of Eastern goods and to regulate by duties the trade with the west and north.

Tariffs Changed Trade Route to Asia

The Mameluke rulers of Egypt held a strategic position in regard to Eastern trade during the Middle Ages, and put on as heavy duties as the traffic would bear. As a result of the tolls imposed by them and by tribal chiefs in Arabia, Indian goods increased 300 per cent in price between India and Europe. In the end the Mamelukes defeated their purpose. The Mongols, who gained control of an overland route farther north, charged lesser duties, and the trade flowed over the new route. After Vasco da Gama found the ocean path to the East, both the Egyptian and the overland route gave way to the cheaper, duty-free water route.

About this time Marco Polo, traveling in China, found that duties were charged there in the realm of the Great Khan. He found duties collected at city boundaries as well as at provincial frontiers. These duties ranged from 3 1/3 to 10 per cent.

In medieval Europe, tariffs became a nightmare to struggling traders. Every petty prince and feudal lord set up his toll gates and customs houses and took a share of the merchant's wares. After the feudal kings took over the barons' privileges there was a movement away from the collection of duties in every small area; but progress was slow, and in some countries, such as France and Germany, provincial customs continued to be levied. Even cities took toll from entering goods. The local taxes of Paris are survivals of this custom.

It is almost universally recognized now that tariffs should be imposed by national units, and that they should apply to imports, not exports. The Constitution of the United States prohibits all export taxes, and the charging of import duties between the States. In early ages tariffs constituted a minor factor in national taxation. Today they are the most universally important source of national income.
